U.S. ASK FOR REPARATION

Also That Canadian Soldiers be Punished

WARRANTS ISSUED

Hunter Was Shot Dead and Companion Wounded

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Washington, Jan. 7. — State department officials today began preparing a note to Great Britain, asking reparation for the families of Charles Dorsch and Walter Smith, fired upon by Canadian troops while duck-hunting in Niagara River and also it is understood, asking that Canadian soldiers be punished.

Toronto, Jan. 7.—It is understood warrants are to be issued for the arrest of Thos. Delaney, the provincial officer who called on soldiers to fire on Charles Dorsch and Walter Smith at Fort Erie, December twenty-eighth and of Corp. Achie Kaye, Privates McIntosh and Kinsman and their trial on the charge of either manslaughter or murder.

Dorsch and Smith, who were poaching duck, refused to come ashore when the soldiers fired killing Dorsch and wounding Smith.

TREASURY OF HEALTH ASS'N AT LOW MARK

Funds Urgently Needed to Carry on the Work

NO SUMMER FAIR

Heavy drains have been made on the treasury of the Peterborough Health Association and at the meeting in the city council chamber Friday night, the important matter of finances will be considered, together with ways and means of securing further funds.

The proposition to establish a sanatorium is at a complete standstill. Money is urgently needed to carry on the work of nursing. It was expected that a fair would be held this summer but it has been decided that no action along this line be taken.

A big effort will be made to increase the membership.

TRADE LOSSES

London, Jan. 7.—As a result of the war, English exports fell off four hundred and seventy-five million dollars for nineteen hundred and fourteen, compared with nineteen hundred and thirteen and imports fell off three hundred and fifty-five million.

Trenches Lost are Retaken Field Works of the Enemy are Demolished — Germans Bombard Thann Hospital

HOW LONDON SIZES UP SITUATION

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Jan. 7. — The official afternoon announcement says: "From the sea to the Lys, fighting was confined to artillery exchanges, generaly favorable to the Allies.

"Elsewhere on the line German attacks were invariably repulsed.

"Near Lille, Germans took some trenches, but they were immediately retaken, and a portion of the German field works were demolished by mines.

"The French have made important progress in the Woevre district, and in Alsace towards Altkirch.

"All day yesterday, Germans bombarded the hospital at Thann.

"Continued rain and muddy ground have made operations difficult."

LONDON. Jan. 7. — Neither Turkey nor Germany has conceded a defeat of Turkish arms in the Caucasus, as claimed officially in Petrograd.

As further details of the fighting are received in London, it would appear that this reported Turkish disaster has been as complete as that suffered by any forces since the outbreak of war. In spite of this, the latest official communication from Turkey altogether ignores the fighting in the Caucasus and dwells upon the struggle which has spread over the Persian frontier to Urumaih, an important town where, the Turks say, aided by Persians, they have defeated the Russians.

In Poland, the Germans apparently are no nearer Warsaw, and there is litle alteration in the battle front, extending from the Baltic to the Carpathians. Russians seem to be still concentrating their main effort in the Carpathian passes. At the same time they are continuing a vigorous offensive in Bukowina.

In the western arena, the Allies have varied their flank attacks, which recently brought them success in the sand dunes of Flanders, and in Alsace, by intensifying pressure from Rheims to Lower Lorraine frontier, where some ground has been gained. The Germans, meanwhile, have sought to repair damage done to their wings. This has resulted in recovering of some ground for them near Steinbach, in Upper Alsace, but their attacks in Flanders were repulsed.

London, Jan. 7. — The German military governor of Belgium has issued an official denial of the reported arrest of Cardinal Mercier.

LONDON, Jan. 7. — Reuter's Amsterdam correspondent says:

"The arrest of Cardinal Mercier has created a profound sensation throughout Belgium. According to reports received here the Germans also arrested the printer of the cardinal's pastoral letter, who until recently was the burgomaster of Malines, but released him on bail.

"It is stated that the reading of the pastoral letter had been prohibited. Fugitives from Antwerp say that all the rectories around Malines and Antwerp are guarded by sentries."

DEPUTATION TO OTTAWA

To Ask Department to Continue Mobilization in Peterborough

A very large deputation composed of His Worship Mayor Buller, Ald. Duffus, Ald. Green, Ald. Johnston, Ald. Stratton, ex-Ald. Duncan, E. G. Patterson, W. H. Bradburn, W. H. Denham and R. Denne left last night for Ottawa to wait on the Department of Militia and Defence in regard to the rescinding of the order to mobilize troops in Peterborough. Why the department changed its plans cannot be stated but the cause must have been a necessary one as Lindsay, Major-General Hughes' home town, was also affected. If it will not interfere with plans, the Government has to enable more efficient mobilization, the local deputation will urge that the matter be re-considered and Peterborough be made one of the centres.

The Member's Statement.

Mr. Burnham makes the following statement regarding the rumor of mobilization of troops here which has been the source of much confusion and disappointment. "Some days ago it was decided as I understood from military authorities here to mobilize troops here. Various officers were sent here who made measurements and observations and approved of the accommodation. Nothing appears however ever to have been decided upon to that effect at Ottawa. It may be that they were merely investigating and collecting information. However a day or so ago a report greatly agitated Lindsay, Peterborough, Cobourg, etc., to the effect that mobilization was to take place at Ottawa and Belleville only. Recruiting alone was to be conducted at the other towns and this in the face of orders issued and bills posted calling for tenders for all sorts of supplies for the camp at Peterboro and at the other towns. We failed therefore to understand what the report meant. I wired the minister asking for information. He wired back this message: "Have not heard of any change in our original plan re

PILLAGE, RAVISHING, BURNING AND MURDER ORDINARY PRACTICES

Claims of Germans That Killing of Civilians Was Due to Firing on Troops by Population Are Unfounded Says Report of Paris Commissioner

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Jan. 7. — The commissioner appointed on Sept. 23 to inquire into the accusations that German officers had acted savagely and inhumanely against French civilians and soldiers, published its report today. It covers twenty newspaper columns and is published only after insistent demands, having been withheld in order that public feeling should not be further excited.

"We must conclude," the report says, "that there never has been war between civilized nations of so savage and ferocious a character as that waged upon our soil by our implacable adversary.

"Pillage, ravishing, burning, murder, are ordinary practices of our enemies, and claims that the killing of civilians was due to firing on troops by the population are unfounded. Ravishings of women and girls were so frequent that the number of cases established was only a small part of those which might have been investigated had not the victims generally shrunk from testifying."

The report also says that it has proof that incendiarism with the object of intimidation is the deliberate plan of the German army, and that tools and materials for this purpose are part of the army equipment.

ANOTHER BIG ORDER COMES THIS WAY

Messrs. B. F. Ackerman, Son & Co. have been successful in securing another big order from the Dominion Government. It consists of 1,400 sets of saddles and saddlery, part of the order for twenty thousand sets that was recently divided among twenty Canadian firms.

Mr. Ackerman was down to Ottawa yesterday in connection with the contract.

PRACTICAL HELP TO THE DAIRYMEN

Are Addresses and Discussions at the Convention ---Dr. Creelman to Speak

PUBLIC IS INVITED

DR. G. C. CREELMAN,

President, Ontario Agricultural College, who will give an address at this evening's meeting to the Dairymen's Association.

This is cheese and butter makers' day at the Eastern Dairymen's Convention, which closes tonight its two day session in the city. The convention, while not very largely attended by dairymen, has awakened a keen appreciation among those present of the possibilities contained in their occupation, and stimulated them with renewed zeal in putting into effect many of the lessons gleaned from the speeches and discussions by those who have spoken.

The session was billed to start this mornig at nine-thirty, but some of the delegates apparently overslept, it being after ten before the meeting was called.

Mr. G. C. Publow presented his 12th annual report as chief dairy instructor for Eastern Ontario.

Mr. Frank Herns, chief dairy instructor for Western Ontario, addressed the convention on "The Milk Sediment Test as a Means of Improving the Cheese Factory Supply." Mr. Herns stated that it was doubtful if Ontario would sell much butter in the West hereafter, for the reason that they were increasing their production of butter there and improving its quality.

George H. Barr, chief of the Dairy Department, Ottawa, led a general discussion, assisted by L. A. Zufelt, superintendent of the Dairy School, Kingston.

Mr. Barr wondered whether the factory owners were able to get as good men in their factories to manage them as they were ten or fifteen years ago. He asked how cheese and butter makers could do something to improve the quality of the milk in the cheese and butter. A factory owner should first be able to secure competent help. What were managers doing to make it more worth while for patrons to send their cream? He believed that 90 per cent. of factory owners were doing nothing. Patrons should be paid more money if they were to send in better cream. Pay the man giving good milk more money, and better quality of milk and cream would be the result.

Mr. Barr said there were men coming to Finch cheese factory asking how they could increase the percentage of butterfat in their milk, who two years ago pooh-poohed the idea. More than that they were weeding out the cows which produced 2.6 and 2.8 per cent., and were devoting attention to the cows with 3 per cent. butterfat.

By means of a chart, Mr. Barr showed three methods of dividing the proceeds of cheese factories, all of which he thought good methods. He hoped, however, that some one method would be definitely accepted for use among the patrons all through the country. Mr. Barr also spoke very strongly in favor of the sedimentation test as a means of purifying the milk supply.

Mr. Zufelt said that the big trouble today was that patrons did not want to stand alone; they all wanted to get the same price as their neighbor. He knew from personal knowledge that some inferior cheese was sold from some factories at the same price as best cheese. That had to be abolished if quality of cheese was to be improved.

Mr. Zufelt said the butter industry was now in a critical condition. It had got to the point where most of our butter had to be consumed locally. There was no foreign market for Ontario butter. If it was placed on sale in the British Columbia market, it had to be sold at a discount.

He was an earnest believer in the grading of butter, as it brought home to the producer that his profits depended on the quality of his butter.

TAKEN BACK TO KINGSTON CAMP

Member of Second Contingent Was Arrested

Patrick Tobin, a resident of this city who had enlisted with the second contingent encamped at Kingston came home on leave of absence and the domestic bonds became so strong that he decided not to return. His wife shipped his uniform back to the military authorities and tore up his pass it is said. Patrick did not long enjoy wearing civilian garb. Police Chief Thompson received a wire from Kingston yesterday ordering him to arrest Tobin as a deserter. The order was obeyed and the result was that Sergt. Thomas brought two privates to this city today and the trio escorted Tobin back to the camp.

RECRUITING CONTINUES.

Contrary to the belief of some, recruiting for infantry for the third contingent continues at the Armouries. The medical examiner may be seen at the Armouries from 3 to 6 p.m. and 8 to 10 p.m. daily.

Cobourg voted to raise $50,000, by debentures, to be used in assisting the Federal Steel and Foundry Company to establish an extensive plant in the town.

WHITE HOLLAND TURKEYS SHOWN

Exhibit of T. J. Cole, Bowmanville, a Chief Attraction

One of the chief attractions at the Poultry Show is the exhibit of fifteen White Holland Turkeys, by Mr. T. J. Cole, of Maple Grove Poultry Yards, Bowmanville. The massive frames and brilliant plumage of the birds far surpasses anything ever seen in this district. Sensation, the king of bronze, heads this flock. In competition with five thousand birds at the Ontario (Guelph), Show, he was awarded the grand championship. The Review understands this is the only turkey that ever won this most coveted prize.

PETERBOROUGH, THURSDAY, JANUARY 7, 1915

BORDEN GOVERNMENT KEEPS ITS WORD.

THE LETTING of the contract for the new Government-owned elevator at Vancouver is a proof that the Borden Government fulfills its promises. Sir Robert Borden promised, in 1911, if elected, that a system of Government-owned elevators would be established in the West. The Government has rapidly carried out this policy.

Today there is the big Port Arthur elevator to handle the eastbound traffic, and the Vancouver elevator will handle the Pacific-bound traffic, while plans are being prepared for the Port Nelson elevator. In the interior are magnificent elevators at Moosejaw and Saskatoon completed and in operation, while a third is under construction at Calgary. In addition, this system will be added to as the business develops.

The contract price of the new elevator is $600,000, and it will have a capacity of a million and a quarter bushels.

The western farmer, if he so desires, can now have complete Government ownership and control of his wheat from the time it leaves the farm until it reaches the seaboard. When the Hudson's Bay route is open, the Government interior storage elevators will give the producer and dealer the advantage of four routes to the markets of the world without any back haul, three of these entirely by Candian routes and under Government supervision, which will prevent the evils of mixing. These routes are: South in accordance with the demand; East via the Great Lakes; North via the Hudson's Bay route; West to the Orient and Europe via the Pacific Coast.

The object of the new interior elevators, two of which are in operation, is two-fold. The primary object is to supply interior storage for the producer in time of congestion in transportation, with facilities to treat damaged grain, and to place in the hands of the producer a commercial document in the shape of a warehouse receipt to enable him to realize money on his product at current rates of interest, and dispose of it as he sees fit. Again, these elevators are intended to operate in conjunction with the transfer elevators at the Pacific and Hudson's Bay coasts.

THE PRICE OF SUGAR.

A DECLINE of 35 cents in the wholesale price of sugar has caused another drop in the retail price in most cities and towns. Inquiries by the Review of two leading grocery stores brought out the information that at one, granulated sugar was selling at $6.70 (per hundred pounds), and brown sugar at $6.30; at the other store the prices were $7.00 and $6.60, respectively, or 8 and 7 cents per pound. The price in Ottawa is six and a half cents per pound, and there seems to be no reason why the price should be more than that in any of Peterborough's stores. There has been a decided drop in the wholesale price, and that should mean a reduction in the retail price. Apparently, all stores in Peterborough are not giving the householder the benefit of the decrease in the wholesale price. This looks like a subject for some good advertising.

A FUTURE DIFFICULTY.

"If women will be as men," says an eminent authority, "they must assume the responsibilities of men. They must earn, they must provide. They must be independent in fact as well as in mind." The future will decide, and it will not be long delayed, whether women are to take their places in the world as men do, with their work, their earnings, and their voices in public affairs. Some say it will all come by a peaceful revolution, and that some day we will wake up to find that Woman has arrived, as the French say. Others affirm that men and women are different in every way, and that their plans must soon lead to conflict if brought together in competition. Whichever it may be, and whatever the future may hold in store, the fact remains that the next step will soon be taken, and a new act in the human drama rung in.

CONSERVE THE BREEDING STOCK.

UNDER THE ABOVE HEADING the Dominion Live Stock Commissioner points out, in the Brantford Courier, that everyone knows that trade conditions and commercial enterprise have suffered a very serious and unexpected upheaval during the past year. To this situation the war has, of course, largely contributed; but other causes, including the general financial depression throughout the country, have been operative for some months past. The agricultural industry has, naturally, been very widely affected by these changing conditions and by the varying situation with respect to demand and supply. The rise in the price of grain, together with the corresponding fillip to grain production, represents, without doubt, the most outstanding feature of the direction which has been given to agricultural activity.

We need, perhaps, above all things else, sane, level judgment in the conduct of our agricultural affairs during the coming year. It is to be expected that grain production will be largely increased. The new products of the soil are, and will be, in demand at remunerative prices. What, then, is to be said, what course is to be followed, with respect to the breeding of live stock?

The high price of feed, on the one hand, and relatively low prices for market stock, on the other, have resulted in very heavy marketing throughout Canada, particularly in the Western Provinces, of the stock suitable for breeding purposes. Perhaps this was inevitable, but will these conditions continue? Feed grain will, without doubt, be high in price, but it must never be overlooked that the country can maintain very large numbers of live stock on the enormous quantity of rough fodder which it can produce. To waste this, for the sake of the grain which can be grown, would, under the present circumstance, be criminal neglect. It is clear, then, that the country should conserve its breeding stock. If grain is to be grown for sale, it is recommended that plans should be carefully thought out as to the manner in which the greatest quantity of rough fodder may become available for feeding purposes and as to the means by which the otherwise waste product, together with the screenings and unsaleable grain, may be utilized to the best possible advantage. In other words, eliminate waste. Do it by feeding live stock.

The present low prices for stock cannot last long. A careful review of the world situation makes it clear that there will be a shortage next year. Europe is becoming seriously depleted in both breeding and feeding stock. The United States, for the ten months of the current year, at its leading markets is short 746,045 cattle, 208,000 sheep, and 1,894,939 hogs. Canada has, as before stated, heavily liquidated her breeding animals, and, while it may possibly maintain its quota next year of cattle and sheep, it is doubtful if more than seventy-five per cent. of the number of hogs will find their way to market in 1915, as compared with the current year. It is, therefore, a time for live stock men to stay with their trade. The present tendency is, of course, all the other way. A safe harvest is likely to be reaped by those who have stock for sale next year. Even bankers and business men are of this opinion.

One word of advice is to be given. Avoid marketing so far as it is at all possible to do so during the period of October fifteenth to December fifteenth. This is a time of the year when everybody else has stock for sale. It is a period when packers know they can fill their cellars with cheap meat. These are the months when the surplus of the whole country finds its way to the packing centres. It is invariably the period of low prices, uncertain markets and disappointing returns to the producers. Breed, therefore to have your stock available for sale at some other time of the year. Take care to provide sufficient winter feed that you may not be forced to sell when the cold weather comes. Above all, conserve your breeding stock.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A REFERENDUM on the extension of the municipal franchise to all married women who can read and write, possessing the necessary property qualifications, resulted in a victory for the extension, in the town of North Bay. A large majority was rolled up favourable to the women's franchise. The experiment in North Bay will be watched with interest by cities and towns throughout Ontario.

PICTURES of the German cruiser Emden show that vessel to be a battered hulk, stranded on the shore, and give one a good idea of the terrific punishment a battleship is able to give. Likewise, the pictures of damaged buildings in Scarborough and Hartlepool, together with the finding of twelve-inch and six-inch German shells, prove that the German coast raiding ships were among the best in the German navy.

WE HAVE BEEN TOLD that it is just as well for Peterborough that soldiers are not to be stationed here, because it is hard enough for a young fellow to keep a couple of girls as it is, without having to compete with a regiment of warriors.

TORONTO has no doubt settled down by now to the dictation of its famous Telegram.

ANOTHER FIGHTING LINE.

(London Clarion.)

I dedicated these lines to those "patriots" who have ever been unmindful of the atrocities committed in this country during the years of the so-called Peace:

Thin, threadbare coats, buttoned across the breast,
  Thin, mended shoes, under the sombre skies,
Sharp shoulders hunched to reddened ears, lean hands
  Thrust deep in empty pockets, wolfish eyes,
Pale faces, stamped by hunger's seal and sign,
Flayed by a nagging wind, they form the line.

A vision shapes within the spectral mist,
  Where the lights blur and while the cold rain drips,
Her weeping children huddled to her skirts,
  An infant, fretting with small, moving lips
At her dry bosom; where the street lamps shine
The spirit of the woman breaks the line.

Splashed by defiling mud from silent wheels,
  Shunned by sweet women with averted gaze,
Brushed by the careless shoulders of the crowd,
  In sight of churches, where the priest gives praise,
In warm, dim aisles, o'er holy bread and wine,
Lifting white, trembling hands, they form the line.

—Harry Fowler.

The Demands of Genius.

(Our Dumb Animals.)

Almost anyone can find fault, criticise, denounce. To beat a horse, to kick a dog, an idiot can do this. To see the good and commend it; to make all living things around you, consciously or unconsciously glad because you are alive—this demands something in a man akin to genius.

Strictly Neutral.

NOT A QUESTION OF "PULL."

Editor, Review:

Sir,—Some people are unwise enough to maintain that Lindsay, Cobourg, Peterborough and Port Hope lost their chance of being mobilization centres through lack of pull, and that Belleville put one over on them. Is it likely that a sane government would offend four counties, three of which are close, to please one which has always been Conservative by a vary large majority? The Government has acted in the best interests of Canada, and not in the best interests of any one locality, although in the future it will be better if it keeps its own counsel and does not allow its agents to raise false hopes unnecessarily.

READER.

A Child's Instinct

A child frequently does something that annoys the parents, and the father or mother feels tempted to consider the annoying action bad or even to call the child bad. It also does things that please the mother or father, such as playing without creating a disturbance, or complies without protest or delay when requested or ordered to do so and so. Then the parent suffers temptation to say "good" of the doer or the deed or both.

There is need for discrimination in both cases. It is seldom that the child or its conduct is actually bad or good.

A child is an essentially non-moral being, an animal acting from instinct or habit and having only the rudiments of character or moral sense. It generally is incorrect to regard it and its behavior as bad or good.

The child reaches its first ideas of right and wrong through the judgment of its parents about its doings. Their disapproval or approval gives the child its idea of the badness or the goodness of its conduct and plays the larger part in the formation of its moral ideas or standard. It therefore is important and even indispensable that the parent or guardian should be careful and as accurate as possible in characterising the child and its conduct as bad or good.

Truth to tell, it is seldom that the child does anything essentially good or essentially evil. The healthy child that is doing something interesting to itself and that is unmolested will be happy and "good." It exemplifies on an enlarged scale the truth that "a healthy baby is a happy baby." The child's absorption in its own pleasures is comfortable to the parent, but it is not a virtue and the child does not deserve to be told that it has been "good." Its motives and purposes have been instinctive, and its doings have had no moral quality. It is unwise for the grown-ups to think of the little ones' doings in terms of goodness or badness. To do so confuses the child and handicaps the parent when the child has grown so that its conduct is intended or purposeful and so has become actually good or actually bad.

Science Helps Soldiers

Portable wireless telegraphy apparatus, with which it is possible to send and receive messages over a distance of from thirty-five to fifty miles, forms a valuable part of the equipment of the forces in the field at the present time.

Germany is equipped with an apparatus which is so light and portable that a motor cyclist with a side-car could easily transport one of the smaller outfits some 200 miles in a day.

The allies' immediate range stations as the portable wireless apparatus has been termed, have, according to information from the front, a range of fifty miles over flat country, and, as in the case of the German apparatus, can be transported quite easily without the aid of wagons or motor vehicles.

The Valuable Bat

It has been discovered that the bat, instead of being useless and worthless, as is generally thought, is really most valuable. He is the inveterate enemy of all insects that fly by night. In recent investigations bats shot in the evening, after flying for twenty minutes, were found with stomachs so gorged with mosquitoes, gnats, and small flies that it was difficult to see how they could eat any more.

Experience of a Detective

By ESTHER VANDEVEER

"Mr. Hawkins," said the chief of the —— detective bureau, "a robbery and murder have been committed during the night, and I have been called upon to send a man to make an examination of the premises with a view to picking up a clew. The murdered man is Mr. Charles Forsythe, a wealthy gentleman, whose address you will find on this card. I am assured that nothing in the room where the murder was committed has been touched. Go at once and see what you can make out of it."

Hawkins went to the address given, where he found a dwelling indicating that the inmates were people of considerable means. He was received at the door by the butler and shown into a room where lay the corpse of Mr Forsythe on the floor. There had evidently been a struggle, during which he had been stabbed to the heart. A bureau drawer stood open which had evidently been rifled. Several small pieces of jewelry were scattered on the floor.

Hawkins was informed that the victim had been fond of jewelry, though he wore very little of it on his own person. He had kept what he owned, consisting of studs, sleeve buttons, stickpins, rings, etc., in the drawer. The robber had taken all there was except the few articles dropped on the floor, either during the scuffle or in his haste of departure. Hawkins gathered up what he found and put it in his vest pocket. He was a silent man, as detectives should be, taking in what he heard and saw and giving out nothing. Indeed, after his examination of the room the only information he gave any one was a list of the articles of jewelry that he had picked up on the floor. This he handed in to a Mr. Withers, a relative of the family who had been given the care of the house. This list was given because the articles were retained by the detective. He kept some other articles, but since they were of no especial value he did not include them in the list.

Having finished his examination of the room in which the murder had been committed, Hawkins requested that every one in the house, including the servants, be assembled in the drawing room. Mrs. Forsythe and her children were excused until after the others had been inspected, and then the detective excused them altogether.

Those assembled consisted of the following persons: Miss Ashworth, a governess; a cook, a housemaid and the butler. Of the four Miss Ashworth showed the most agitation. They seemed to realize that they were brought before the stranger for a preliminary examination as to their possible complicity in the murder. The cook and housemaid were very ill at ease. The only person who seemed to be sufficiently conscious of innocence to be perfectly safe was the butler, an Englishman, whose name was Mosely. That he was of the lower class was evident not only from his position as a servant, but that he had the manner of speech of a low bred Englishman getting his h's in the wrong place. Nevertheless, he was a good looking man.

Hawkins soon set them all at ease by asking questions which pertained to possibilities of entrance and exit to and from the house, whether a door or a window had been left unfastened, what time Mr. Forsythe had gone to bed, whether any one of them had heard a sound in the night. While making these inquiries the detective indicated by his features and tone of voice that they were of vital importance to the case. They did not appear, however, to deceive Miss Ashworth, who continued to look at him as if he had his eye on her and was simply asking the questions to throw her off her guard while his steel gray eye was searching her for guilt.

While this examination was being made the door opened and Mr. Withers entered and said to the detective:

"Mr. Hawkins, it has just been discovered that some of Mrs. Forsythe's jewels have disappeared."

Hawkins turned those merciless eyes of his upon Miss Ashworth. She bore the glance for a few moments, then swayed and fell from the chair in which she sat. The housemaid picked her up, and with the assistance of the others she was laid on the sofa.

"Please all leave the room," said Hawkins in that well modulated voice of his.

Every one departed, and all those who had been under examination seemed well pleased at being dismissed. Mr. Hawkins closed the door after them, and they all returned to the servants' quarters, where they discussed what had occurred, all talking at once. Hawkins remained in the room with Miss Ashworth only a few minutes, when he came out, saying that the lady had recovered, and he directed the housemaid to get a vinaigrette and take it in to her. Then he departed.

Those who had witnessed the governess' collapse, when it was announced that Mrs. Forsythe's jewels had also been taken, expected her arrest at any time. The theory most popular with them was that she had been in collusion with some man; that it had been arranged between them, on her information, for him to enter the house and take Mr. Forsythe's jewels, while she stole those of Mrs. Forsythe. Her confederate had awakened the man he robbed and had been obliged to kill him in order to effect his escape.

The day passed without Miss Ashworth being arrested. She kept her room that and the next day. Then it was whispered among the servants that she was under arrest, that bail had been given and she was awaiting the action of the grand jury. The butler ventured to ask Mr. Withers if this were so, but Mr. Withers declined to talk about the case. The absence of a denial was considered a confirmation of the suspicion.

A week passed and there were no developments in the Forsythe murder case. The public accused the police of negligence, and the police gave out that they were hot on the murderer's heels and were gathering evidence that would insure his conviction. The truth was that they had not a scrap of evidence against any one.

Meanwhile Miss Ashworth returned to her duties. Mrs. Forsythe gave out that she needed occupation and the children needed to be returned to their studies. At any rate, the home school work began again, and Miss Ashworth seemed much improved at having something to do. There were various opinions as to the position in which she stood, but no one knew anything about it. Gradually it came to be doubted if, after all, she were guilty, though her collapse had indicated that she was. The servants, except the butler, sympathized with her. He differed from them concerning her, and when they called him hard hearted he became indignant and gave up his situation.

The Forsythe murder case gradually dropped from public notice and came to be considered one of the murder mysteries that would never be solved. If the widow had not been rich the loss of her jewels would have made a great difference to her, for, while her husband's had been of little value, hers were worth a fortune in themselves. But she made no complaint against the police for not hunting down her husband's murderer. But perhaps this was because she was assured that the detective bureau that had been given the case was still hopeful.

One morning a man passed out of the lobby of a London hotel and stood without the entrance as if not knowing what to do with himself. He was fine looking, well dressed, and the only indication that he was not to the manner born was that he was chewing a toothpick. Presently he strolled down the street. As he passed a window of the lobby a man arose from his seat, went out and followed him.

The first of these two persons turned into a stockbroker's office, walked to the tape, looked at the quotations and asked how "Americans" were selling. Being informed that they were higher, he gave an order to sell. While waiting for a report of the sale he took a seat, rested his elbows on the arms of his chair with his hands touching before him so as to display a handsome pair of sleeve buttons. They had been made in the east and were unique.

The man who had followed this speculator turned into the broker's office behind him and now took a position before him.

"You sport a handsome pair of sleeve buttons, sir."

The speculator looked up, started and turned pale.

"One of those buttons," continued the speaker, "was made in Persia, the other in London. But it is an imperfect match. This one is better."

He took from his vest pocket a sleeve button which to an eye unskilled in jewelry would have matched the other two and held it up before the other's face. But not for long. Returning it to his pocket, he pulled out a pair of handcuffs, and before the speculator could decide what to do they were on his wrists.

"These bracelets are of steel, but they will serve a useful purpose even if not ornamental."

Ten days after this episode the former butler of the Forsythes was lodged in jail in America. One of the sleeve buttons he had worn when arrested was proved to have belonged to the murdered man, the one produced by Hawkins, who had arrested him, was shown to be its mate, while the third was pronounced by experts an imperfect copy. Mosely had pawned Mrs. Forsythe's jewels and with the money had speculated, making a profit. Consequently there were sufficient funds with which to redeem the jewelry.

Hawkins' plan was this: As soon as he confronted the group of servants at the Forsythes the morning after the murder his experienced eye fixed upon the butler as the murderer. In order to deceive Mosely as to his suspicion he pretended to Miss Ashworth that he had fixed upon her and had arranged with Mr. Withers for his opportune announcement of the loss of Mrs. Forsythe's jewels, which resulted in the governess' collapse. As soon as she revived he relieved her of all suspicion, pledging her not to let it be known that she had been exonerated. He had tracked Mosely to London and learned before arresting him as to his circumstances and where the property was he had stolen.

Mrs. Forsythe had suffered so much from the tragedy that she would have preferred that Mosely go free, but in this the state differed from her, and he met his just deserts.

There is another story that grew out of this one which should be told separately. Mr. Hawkins never forgave himself for the strain he had put upon Miss Ashworth and did everything in his power to atone for it. Indeed, he decided to spend his life doing so.

HAGERSVILLE, ONT., AUG. 26th. 1913.

Their action was mild and the result all that could be expected.

My Kidneys resumed their normal action after I had taken upwards of a dozen boxes, and I regained my old-time vitality. Today, I am enjoying the best health I have ever had".

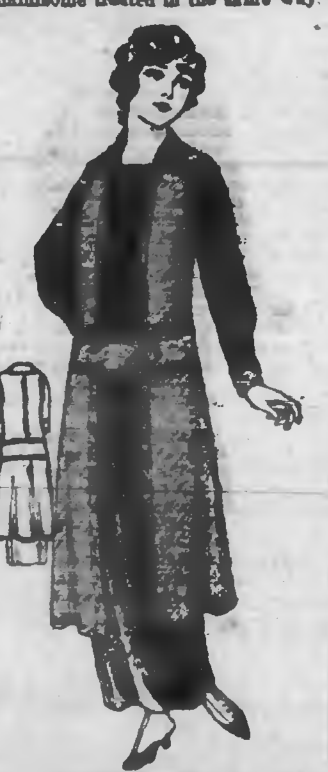
MOYEN AGE EFFECT.

A Youthful Frock Showing the Charming New Line In Dress.

Simplicity in style and cut in combination with the low waist line makes the essential feature of the moyen age idea, and this costume shows it.

The circular tunic flares most gracefully over the narrow two piece skirt, and the two materials are combined most successfully in the body portion.

The materials shown here are gabardine and velvet, but broadcloth would be handsome treated in the same way.



TUNIC DRESS.

The bound edges make an interesting feature, for bindings of silk braid are exceedingly smart this season.

For the sixteen year size the dress will require two and one-half yards of material twenty-seven inches wide, with three yards of velvet forty-four inches wide and ten yards of braid to make as illustrated.

Rich Bee-Tree Found.

A bee-tree has just been found by Edwin Cripps in the bush of James Black of Everton, a few miles from Guelph. The tree was cut down by Mr. Cripps and Mr. Black and sons, assisted by John Simons, of the Everton Apiary, a bee expert. The tree, a large maple, was opened some 25 feet from the stump and was found to contain over seven feet of beautiful honey in the comb, about 12 inches in diameter and nearly 150 pounds in weight. It is only a short time since Mr. Simons located and tapped a standing basswood tree in Erin township, with a good find of honey, the colony in this case being of thoroughbred Italian species.

The gabby man is sure a bore.
His mouth should have a clutch,
For he could say a whole lot more
And not talk half as much.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson II.—First Quarter, For Jan. 10, 1915.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Judg. iv, 4-16. Memory Verses, 14, 15—Golden Text, Ps. xxxiv, 17—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

The one great aim of God in His word is that we may know Him and let Him through us make Him known to others, those who will not read His word being able to read of Him in our lives. For that end He chose Israel and brought them unto Himself that they might be unto Him a kingdom of priests, ministering unto Him and finding in Him their inheritance (Ex. xix, 4-6; II Sam. vii, 23; Ps. cxlvii, 20). The end of the story, after centuries of failure on man's part, will be that Israel shall know Him as never before, and all nations shall know Him through Israel (Ezek. xxxvii, 21, 22, 28; xxxix, 7, 21, 22, 25, 28, 29; xliii, 7; Jer. iii, 17).

In all the past history of the world since Adam sinned, whether before the call of Abram or since the birth of Israel as a nation or during the present age of gathering a people for His name from all nations, those who have known Him have been comparatively few, the vast majority doing what seemed right in their own eyes, which is always evil in the eyes of the Lord (Judg. iii, 7, 12; iv, 1; xvii, 6; xxi, 25).

The Lord is always looking over the whole earth to find any one who is whole hearted for Him, who will walk before Him and be sincere, as He exhorted Abram to do (II Chron. xvi, 9; Gen. xvii, 1). To that end He is ever proving His people to see if they will turn to Him alone or to their own thoughts and ways (Deut. viii, 2, 3, 16; Judg. ii, 22; iii, 1, 4; Isa. lv, 8, 9), and His cry ever is, "Oh, that my people had hearkened unto me and Israel had walked in my ways!" (Ps. lxxxi, 13.) So full of compassion is He that when people are in trouble because of their sin if they turn to Him with the whole heart He hears them and sends deliverance (Judg. ii, 16; iii, 9, 15, 31). The rest which He gave Israel from time to time (chapter iii, 11, 30) might have been theirs all the time if they had not turned to their own ways.

Our lesson today shows us the Lord delivering by the hand of a woman, Deborah, the prophetess, and also using another woman who feared God more than man and preferred to stand with God at any cost, Jael, the wife of Heber, the Kenite (chapter iv, 4, 5, 17, 21). Let the sisters note for their encouragement the stories of Huldah, the prophetess; Priscilla, the teacher; the daughters of Philip, the host of women who publish the word of God and those women laborers in the gospel whose names are in the book of life (II Kings xxii, 14; Acts xviii, 26; xxi, 8, 9; Ps. lxviii, 11, R. V.; Phil. iv, 3). Let the brethren be better believers than Barak, who said that he would not go unless Deborah went with him (verses 8, 9). Yet Barak is mentioned among the men of faith in Heb. xi. Oh, how great is the grace of God, which uses such weak ones as we are and gives us credit for what He Himself does in and through us!

Note in lesson, verses 7, 14, 15, 23, that it was the Lord's victory and deliverance, and so they sang of it in chapter v, 2, 3. There was just one thing that Israel did that was worth mentioning—they willingly offered themselves (verses 2, 9), and this reminds us of I Chron. xxix, 9, 17; II Chron. xvii, 16; II Cor. viii, 12; Ex. xxv, 2; xxxv, 29, and of the question in I Chron. xxix, 5. There were some who came not at all to help, and a curse was pronounced upon them (verse 23). What about the many professing Christians today who do nothing whatever to help deliver the oppressed from the power of the enemy? May there be great searchings of heart (verses 15, 16) and a readiness to say, "Thy servants are ready to do whatsoever my Lord the king shall appoint," "For any manner of service * * * wholly at thy comandment" (II Sam. xv, 15; I Chron. xxviii, 21). Some jeoparded their lives unto the death, as did three of David's mighty men and as we are commanded to do (verse 18; II Sam. xxiii, 17; Rev. ii, 10).

The saying in chapter v, 12, "Lead thy captivity captive," makes us think of Ps. lxviii, 18; Eph. iv, 8, and of Him of whom all deliveries were the faintest foreshadowings. The desire that those who love Him should be as the sun when he goeth forth in his might (verse 31) makes us think of the great morning of victory, when He shall finally deliver Israel, make wars to cease and the righteous shall shine forth as the sun (II Sam. xxiii, 3, 4; Ps. xlvi, 5, margin, 9; Mal. iv, 2; Matt. xiii, 43). Then shall all the enemies of the Lord perish and the kingdoms of this world shall become the kingdom of the Lord Jesus Christ, and there shall be rest everywhere (Ps. cii, 15, 16; civ, 35; Rev. xi, 15, 18; xix, 1-6). Our Lord is still calling for followers, for such as will love Him more than all others, or even their own lives. He is saying, "Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?" and He will gladly welcome all who willingly say: "Here am I, Send me!" (Isa. vi, 8).

The present European conflict will probably lead to the recognition of Israel as a nation. We are seemingly at the beginning of the end of the times of the gentiles.

Thanksgiving In the Home.

Thanksgiving, our one truly American holiday, will soon be with us, and we will all be celebrating "turkey day."

It is indeed a long cry from that first day of Thanksgiving as spent by the Pilgrims to our modern festival, which to the casual observer seems to be a conglomeration of chrysanthemums and football!

But the great mass of homemakers are still true to the best traditions of the day and do make it a festival of reunion and true happiness.

In large cities there is the unfortunate tendency of many to eat their Thanksgiving dinners in hotels. Indeed, it is almost a fad, and people crowd the most luxurious restaurants on that day. This seems a deplorable tendency, but the custom is confined only to our larger cities, and in the great mass of our American homes we are still allowing the true home spirit to permeate our festival.

Jollity For the Kiddies.

All children, boys and girls alike, enjoy the fun of "dressing up;" hence they like a fancy dress frolic so much better than the average party. Then the costumes can be made up so inexpensively nowadays. Thanks to the inventor of crape paper and the low prices for pretty fabrics a children's fancy dress ball is now only a common occurrence, much to their delight. Any woman who knows how to sew can make the costumes once she has the ideas.

The Question of a Present.

When invited to a church wedding and not to the reception following it is not necessary to send a present to the bride, but a call is made on the bride on her at home day a month or two after the wedding.

Shower Gift.

Shirred ribbon elastic bands finished with big white satin poppies or roses and designed to keep the bride's "dozen of each" sets of lingerie in neat piles are acceptable gifts for showers or otherwise.

Embargo on Stock Modified.

OTTAWA, Jan. 7.— The embargo on live stock coming to Canada from the United States on account of the foot and mouth disease has been amended so as to allow the admission of horses for special use in breeding, racing or in exceptional circumstances. Permits must be obtained from the veterinary director-general.

Ten Per Cent. Cut Likely.

MONTREAL, Jan. 7.— Authoritative sources announce that the cut in wages on the Grand Trunk will likely amount to about ten or twelve per cent., though definite figures of earnings on which the cut can be based are lacking. Labor leaders say the men will resist the reduction and force the Lemieux Act into operation.

Saved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Swarthmore, Penn. — "For fifteen years I suffered untold agony, and for one period of nearly two years I had hemorrhages and the doctors told me I would have to undergo an operation, but I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am in good health now. I am all over the Change of Life and cannot praise your Vegetable Compound too highly. Every woman should take it at that time. I recommend it to both old and young for female troubles."—Mrs. EMILY SUMMERSGILL, Swarthmore, Pa.

Canadian Woman's Experience:

Fort William, Ont.—"I feel as if I could not tell others enough about the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was weak and tired and I could not rest nights. A friend recommended your Compound and I soon gained health and strength and could not wish to sleep better. I know other women who have taken it for the same purpose and they join me in praising it."—Mrs. WM. A. BUFFY, 631 South Vickar Street, Fort Williams, Ontario.

Since we guarantee that all testimonials which we publish are genuine, is it not fair to suppose that if Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has the virtue to help these women it will help any other woman who is suffering in a like manner?

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

FIERCEST STRUGGLE OF WAR IS RAGING

FIGHTING FOR ALSACE

Kaiser's Troops Are Offering Most Stubborn Resistance to the French Effort to Secure Control of the Roads to Cernay and Muhlhausen---No Reverses For Allies Along Entire Line.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—Interest in the war is again centred in the stubborn fight which the French and Germans are carrying on for the roads to Cernay and Muhlhausen in Upper Alsace.

The battle in that region, which has been raging for a week, is described in a Berlin despatch as the most violent of the war. This is borne out by the statement that the Kaiser has gone to Alsace to cheer his troops.

There is general fighting all along the French front from the Belgium line to the vicinity of Altkirch, and, from announcements given out by the War Office, the allied forces are more than holding their own. Nowhere are any reverses reported.

In Flanders the Germans are striving desperately to prevent further gains by the allies. They are bombarding the French positions with their heaviest available field artillery. King Albert of Belgium is personally directing the return fire of the allied artillery.

The cannonading is heaviest in the section about Zillebeke, which is near Ypres. Two attacks by the Germans southeast of St. Georges and in the region of the dunes were repulsed with a heavy loss to the attacking force.

There has been heavy fighting in the Argonne region also, and here again the French have proved their superiority. Not only have they maintained their positions at every disputed point, but they have regained some ground which they lost recently in the forest of La Grurie, recapturing from the Germans about 300 yards of trenches at a point having high strategic value. Two full German regiments delivered a spirited attack in the vicinity of Fontaine Madame, and each of these was thrown back, while the daring of the French mining and sapping corps enabled the allies to blow up 800 yards of German trenches near the ravine of Courte Chaussee. A charge on these trenches, following the explosion of the mine, revealed that about 400 yards of them were fit defences, and this section was accordingly occupied by the French.

Further down the line, extending into the province of Upper Alsace, the French troops engaged in a hot clash with the Germans in the woods of Shirtsbach, not far from Altkirch. The fighting was at close quarters, and the French charged repeatedly with the bayonet. After hours of fighting, in which losses on both sides were considerable, the Germans were forced to break ground, and the French ended the engagement with a substantial gain in territory to their credit.

The battle for the heights to the west of Cernay (Sennheim) continues.

Turkish Cruisers in Action.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 7.—(Via London.)—An official communication issued yesterday says:

"Two Turkish cruisers were in action Jan. 5 in the Black Sea against a Russian fleet of 17 units. Despite the Russian's numerical superiority our ships were not damaged."

French Control Alsatian Towns.

LONDON, Jan. 7. — The Morning Post's correspondent telegraphs from Berne: "Forty-one towns and villages in Alsace, which have been occupied by French troops since the outbreak of hostilities, are now administered by the French authorities."

The French War Office issued the following yesterday:

"The only notable incidents which have been reported this evening are:

"To the north a rather lively cannonading in the region of Zillebeke, the maintenance of our positions in the Argonne and slight progress by our troops in the wood of Hirsbach near Altkirck."

"In Belgium the enemy delivered, but without success, two attacks in the region of the dunes and to the southeast of St. Georges.

"On the east of the front, to the north of the Lys, and from the Lys to the Oise there has been nothing except artillery fighting.

"In the valley of the Aisne and in the sector of Rheims our batteries gained the upper hand over those of the enemy, reducing them to silence. At a point northwest of Rheims it is reported that certain of our troops have made an advance of about one hundred yards.

"In the Argonne there developed a very spirited action which permitted us to retake three hundred yards of trenches in the forest of La Grurie, at the same place where there was recently a slight giving way, as previously reported. From Bagatelle and from Fontaine Madame there were delivered two violent German attacks, each of which was repulsed. A complete German regiment was engaged in each movement.

"Near the ravine of Courte Chaussee, we blew up, by exploding a mine, 800 yards of German trenches, half of which we subsequently occupied.

"From the Argonne to the Vosges the bad weather has continued. There has been fog and mud. At different points along this front there have been fairly spirited artillery exchanges. In the forest of Le Pretre, near Pont-a-Mousson, we have continued to gain ground.

"In the region of Thann (in Upper Alsace) in spite of a violent cannonading we retained the gains achieved the night before at Steinbach as well as in the trenches to the southwest and to the northwest of this village. The enemy succeeded in reoccupying one of his former trenches on the eastern flank of a nearby height, the summit of which, however, remains in our possession."

Plans For Federal District.

OTTAWA, Jan. 7. — The commission which is preparing plans for the improvement of Ottawa and Hull and their environs as a federal district will be ready to report at the coming sessions of Parliament. The tentative plans are almost completed and most of the staff of engineers and draughtsmen have been engaged on surveys for the past 18 months are being paid off.

It is improbable that action will be taken on the report this year.

LIEUT. COLONEL STRANGE DIES

Kingston Officer Succumbs to Meningitis at Salisbury

KINGSTON, Jan. 7.—News of the death, of cerebro-spinal meningitis, in London, Eng., of Lt.-Col. Frank Strange, formerly staff ordnance officer of the 3rd Divisional Area, Kingston, who, on Sept. 21 last, left with the first Canadian contingent for England, where he was attached to the base of supplies, came with a great shock to his family. Word of his illness first came in a cable yesterday afternoon, but this morning another cable said he was improving. Yesterday afternoon word of his death arrived.

Deceased was born in Kingston in 1864. He had been connected with military life for the past thirty years. In 1902 he entered the permanent service with the ordnance corps, and in 1911 was made staff ordnance officer of this district.

Goeben Damaged By Mines.

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 7—(Via London.)—A special despatch to The National Tidende from Constantinople says the former German cruiser Goeben, which now flies the Turkish flag, struck two Russian mines in the neighborhood of the Bosphorus, and was seriously damaged. She has two big holes in her water line and it will take two or three months to repair her.

This fact, the despatch adds, has been kept secret from the people of Constantinople.

TO EXCHANGE DR. BELAND

Col. Hughes Has Asked That Release be Secured

HELD IN ANTWERP

OTTAWA, Jan. 7. — Hon. Dr. Beland, ex-Postmaster-General, who, according to the last advices received here from him, is a prisoner of war, held by the Germans in Antwerp, is likely to be among the list of British prisoners exchanged under the arrangement now pending between the allies and Germany. Maj.-Gen. Sam Hughes, on learning of the probable exchange of prisoners and of Hon. Dr. Beland's detention as a prisoner in Antwerp, promptly cabled Lord Kitchener, asking consideration for the Canadian member of Parliament. Lord Kitchener was also informed that Dr. Beland's wife is seriously ill in Holland.

According to a letter from Dr. Beland, received here a few days ago by an ex-Cabinet colleague, the former was at the time of writing assisting in looking after wounded Belgians in Antwerp, but was not allowed to leave the city. It was intimated that, in company with other captured belligerents, he might be taken shortly to one of the camps for prisoners of war in Germany.

Hon. Dr. Beland has the rank of Surgeon-Major in the Canadian Expeditionary Force.

FEARS RACE EXTINCTION

Americans Called on to Save the Belgians

SITUATION APPALLS

LONDON, Jan. 7. — Herbert C. Hoover, chairman of the American commission for relief in Belgium, returned to London yesterday from a tour of inspection of the work being done for the commission in Belgium. In a statement issued last evening, Mr. Hoover said:

"An appalling situation has been presented to the commission with regard to the French peasantry in the valley of the Meuse, just south of the Belgian frontier, where there are 10,000 persons absolutely without food. Our investigation showed that a large number of deaths already had occurred there from starvation.

"Despite the shortness of the rations in Belgium, our Belgian colleagues agreed that we must share the last crust with these people. We therefore sent them food out of our limited Belgian stores."

The report concludes as follows:

"Despite the columns of food which has been placed at our disposal, we can provision only until Feb. 15. Great as has been the generosity of the American people, it is well to bear in mind that if we fail after that date the world will be faced by the greatest tragedy it has yet witnessed in the possible extinction of an entire nation. Strenuous as the efforts that we, our countrymen and countrywomen have made, they cannot for one moment be relaxed if this gigantic catastrophe is to be prevented."

James Hussey, was re-elected president of the London Trades and Labor Council of London. Hussey was an unsuccessful candidate for the Board of Education at the recent elections.

SAYS MIND OF KAISER WILHELM IS AFFECTED

HUSBAND IN PICTURES.

During a moving picture show in Liverpool a Belgian woman refugee recognized her husband in a film depicting scenes in the Belgian trenches. The husband appeared in the picture to be in the best of health and spirits. As they had been separated early in the war, and the address of each was unknown to the other, the woman tried frantically to obtain information from the theatre, and even wrote to the film agent. But the name of the place where the husband was seen had been deleted by the censor. The film company, however, promised to try to trace the matter through the camera operator.

American Engineer Says Emperor Wants to Return to the Front.

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 7—The Kaiser is mentally impaired by the strain under which he has been suffering since the war began and constant friction exists between him and the German General Staff.

This statement is made by an American engineer who has just reached this city after a two and a half months residence in Berlin.

The Kaiser is now in Berlin, but he is restrained with difficulty from returning to the front. His physicians have advised him that an operation on his throat will be necessary and that he will have to rest and regain his strength before it can be undertaken.

This necessity for inaction has so irritated the Kaiser that he has quarreled with his military and medical advisers and has announced his intention of returning to his soldiers without an operation. It is feared that he may carry his intention into effect at any time and nothing short of physical restraint will prevent it.

RUSSIA USES ANOTHER ARMY AGAINST MIAWA

NEW FORCE IN THE FIELD

Capture of a Village Near East Prussian Frontier is First Victory of Fresh Troops—Less Vigor is Seen in German Attacks on Russian Line Before Warsaw—Austrians Are Still in Retreat.

LONDON, Jan. 7. — The Russians, with all their other fronts to cover, have found another army with which to take the offensive against the German position at Miawa, on the East Prussian frontier, and last night reported the capture of a village on the road to that town.

The Germans are still hammering at the Russian line drawn directly across the roads to Warsaw from the west, but it is reported with less force behind them. In western Galicia, however, where they have reinforced the Austrians, Berlin claims that they have held up the Russian advance near Gorlice.

In southern Poland wet weather has intervened and put a stop to the fighting. Neither side is able to move there owing to the high water and the mud.

The Russians continue to drive the Austrians through the snow-covered passes of the Carpathians and out of Bukowina, and simultaneously are dealing in detail with the remnants of the Turkish armies in Transcaucasia, which are reported either to have been routed or surrounded.

The Turkish dash into the far-off province of Russia is described by military men here as having been an unwise manoeuvre. Military operations in the winter in that part of the world would be difficult at any time, they say, but this year, with a particularly severe winter raging, there was little chance of the poorly-equipped Turkish troops succeeding in their efforts.

Altogether the Russians engaged the Turks in ten pitched battles, in many cases while knee-deep in snow, and at an altitude of from 6,000 to 10,000 feet.

It is felt in England that the reported rout of the Turks invading the Caucasus, with the defeat of their plan to seize the Russian fortress at Kars, gives the Ottoman forces such a setback that the much discussed invasion is now virtually out of the question; at the same time the pressure on the Russians at least has been so far relieved as to preclude any necessity of withdrawing Russian forces from the Polish and Galician fronts for service in the Caucasus.

ALLIED NATIONS GROWING IN STRENGTH SAYS KITCHENER

APPRECIATE CANADA'S AID

Kitchener Pays Tribute to Canadian Troops in Britain

ONE COMMON THOUGHT

LONDON, Jan. 7.—Lord Kitchener made a slight but highly interesting reference to the Canadian regiment already in the field in his speech in the House of Lords last night. His lordship read his speech, which summarized operations taking place since last he spoke in the Lords.

The following was his reference to Canadians in the field: "Although, as I said, there has been a continuous series of trench operations, the only important engagement between the British forces and the Germans was on the 20th of December, when the trenches held by the Indian troops were violently attacked at Givenchy. The Indians were to a certain extent surprised by the enemy and their trenches were captured, only to be retaken the following day with considerable loss to the enemy by the first army corps, which had been in reserve. The line thus reassumed has since been entirely maintained, and the Indian units have enjoyed a period of relief from the trenches. Sir John French's force has been increased by a number of territorial units and by another division, attached to which is a fine Canadian regiment."

It will be noticed that Lord Kitchener made no reference to these latest reinforcements having been under fire.

The final paragraph of Lord Kitchener's speech was as follows: "The training of the Canadian contingent and the new armies has been carried on lately under the worst weather conditions, but in spite of this a great deal of extremely good work has been done during the past months. Discomforts and hardships, due to the storm and wet mud, have been cheerfully met and both officers and men are imbued with the one common thought, that of preparing themselves as thoroughly and rapidly as possible to take their part in the field, where I am sure they will worthily support their comrades in arms."

ARMY POST FOR CANADIANS

Cadets Are Given Appointments in the British Forces.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—A supplement to The London Gazette, published yesterday, contains the names of several Canadian cadet appointments from the Royal Military College at Kingtson, as follows: Samuel Davis, to be second lieutenant of the 1st King's Dragoon Guards; Edward A. Forbes, Sydney Hale, F. Fiskin, Harry A. Roberts, Eric Dudley, Ernest Carruthers, John D. Townsend, R. E. White, Geoffrey Holmes and Henry George A. Giles, to be second lieutenants in the Royal Horse and Royal Field Artillery; George Swabey Ridout, Harry Genit, John F. Plunkett Gibson, to be second lieutenants in the Corps of Royal Engineers; R. A. S. Adair, to be second lieutenant Bedfordshire Regiment; George Evelyn Tinking, to be second lieutenant in the East Lancashire Regiment, and John Howard Scott to be second lieutenant in the Army Service Corps.

Capt. Ingles Buried.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—The late Capt. Ingles of Toronto, chaplain to the forces, who died recently at Netheravon Hospital of cerebro spinal meningitis, was buried at Bulford with full military honors. Majors Piper, Beattie and Scott and Capt. Warner officiated. The church was crowded with the hospital staff, and officers and men of the Third Battalion, who laid a beautiful wreath on the grave. The street around the hospitals is over a foot deep in water which has risen to within an inch of the floors. Some of the hospitals have been closed until further notice.

Troubled by Conscience.

Goaded by a troubled conscience evidently, some one up in the Niagara district has sent anonymously $250 to the Hon. Frank Cochrane, Minister of Railways and Canals. It is accompanied by a note with the one word "restitution." The letter was post-marked at St. Catharines.

It is apparent that the fraud was committed upon the Railways and Canals Department, possibly in the days of canal tolls. It will be credited to casual revenue. Receipts of conscience money are not unusual, but as a rule they come to hand in Lent.

RESOURCES INCREASING

Germans on the Other Hand is Experiencing Diminution of Advantages Enjoyed by Reason of Superior Numbers and Extensive Preparations---Lord Carzon Speaks For Opposition.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—The House of Lords met yesterday, a month earlier than the House of Commons, chiefly to hear from Lord Kitchener a review of the military operations for the six weeks since Parliament was prorogued. While the speech of the Secretary for War contained nothing of a sensational character and little not already known, it was listened to with rapt attention by a distinguished gathering of peers and peeresses, members of the House of Commons and public men.

The peers, as usual, were in their robes of office, but beyond this the scene was lacking in the usual color, for the long rows of peeresses in the gallery virtually every one was in mourning for some relative killed at the front.

Lord Kitchener read his speech from a typewritten document and referred briefly to the operations in every sphere, laying particular emphasis on the Turkish defeat in the Caucasus and on the defeat in Galicia and what he considered more important, "the severe check of German aspirations in Poland."

The War Secretary also spoke of "the noteworthy progress" made by the French east of Rheims and in southern Alsace, the "extraordinary achievement" of the Servians, which he characterized as "one of the brightest spots in the military operations during December"; Gen. Louis Botha's "masterly handling of the situation in South Africa"; the advance of the Indian army in Mesopotamia and the successful campaigns in East Africa and Kamerun, the German colony of West Africa.

He paid a tribute to the smallest of the allies, Montenegro, which, he said, "advanced into Bosnia and captured important positions in the face of considerable Austrian opposition."

Lord Kitchener, criticizing the recent German naval raid on the east coast remarked that "no military advantage can be gained by these wanton attacks." He continued:

"The great advantages which Germany enjoyed by reason of her superiority of numbers and extensive war preparations have certainly diminished, while the allies daily are increasing their resources in such a way as to enable them to prosecute the war to a triumphant end."

He expressed satisfaction with the progress of recruiting which, after the anticipated decrease at Christmas, has now been almost restored to its former satisfactory level.

Speaking of anxiety felt at the beginning of the war at the dearth of officers, Lord Kitchener declared that all vacancies had been filled and there was now a considerable surplus. Although the training of the men had been carried on under the worst weather conditions, a great deal of extremely good work had been done during the past month.

Lord Curzon, who spoke for the Opposition in the absence of the Marquis of Lansdowne, who is ill, described as amazing the number of men the War Office had been able to send to the front. He thought, however, that a more definite statement should have been made as to the progress of recruiting and as to the military operations in the remote parts of the Empire. It was his opinion that the best service which the War Office could render would be to concentrate its efforts on the equipment of men who have been sufficiently trained, and to send them to the front with as little delay as possible.

As to the number of men who would be wanted for the foreign service and home defence, Lord Curzon said that he imagined that the War Secretary would require considerably more than 2,000,000 and possibly nearer 3,000,000.

After eulogizing those who had fallen, Lord Curzon expressed unfaltering confidence in Gen. French, Admiral Jellicoe, and the forces under their command.

The Marquis of Crew, replying to the question raised by Lord Gurzon, said that every vacancy among the officers of the expeditionary force had been filled promptly. He asserted that there was no ground for saying that troops had been kept back because they were not equipped sufficiently.

BATHING IN A BREWERY

Germans Drain off Beer and Fill Vats With Water

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 7.—The German headquarters command has issued orders on the northwest front that on account of the heavy weather lately the soldiers must be given baths at every available opportunity. The first opportunity came a few days ago at Roulers, where the Germans seized a brewery, ran off the dregs of stale beer and refilled the vats with water, which they used as plunge baths and left the battlefield mud at the bottom. The troops have been sent long distances to Roulers especially for baths in the brewery vats. A whole division of one of the German army corps of reserves left Thielt and marched five miles to Lichtervelde, where they entrained for Roulers. They marched from the station in Roulers to the brewery, where the men waited two hours for a ten-minute bath.

U. S. Hopes Embargo is Lifted.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7. — Announcement that the Australian Government has raised the embargo on merino wool was gratifying to officials here, although without official confirmation at the State Department. It permits an American sailing ship Aryan to leave Sydney, N.S.W., with a cargo of from 8,000 to 10,000 bales of merino wool bought before the laying of the embarge.

Killed at Target Practice.

GALT, Jan. 7. — Lieut. Ross D. Briscoe, of the 111th Edmonton Regiment, with the first Canadian contingent, who was accidentally killed at Salisbury Plain, was formerly a member of the 29th Regiment, Galt, and was a son of R. A. Briscoe, a prominent dry goods merchant here.

Second Contingent For France?

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 7.—It is reported here that the full second Canadian contingent will go direct to France and complete its training there, instead of in England.

Bismarck on Heligoland.

The exchange of Heligoland for Zanzibar was a transaction which has met since with a good deal of criticism. It must be remembered, however, that Germany had not then developed the naval ambition which has given the little island its great strategic importance, and when the bargain was made it had no stronger critic than Bismarck. To barter Zanzibar for Heligoland, he protested, was "like exchanging a pair of trousers for a button."—London Chronicle.

DEPUTATION

mobilization." The minister is ill at the hospital in Ottawa. I tried to get him by telephone but could not. He cannot be interviewed. I was then informed here that Sir Robert Borden was acting-minister of militia. I telephoned him but he denied the statement emphatically and said that Gen. Hughes was in control of that department. I then telephoned twice to another minister of the first rank and he telephoned me this morning that the Minister of Militia was ill and could not be seen and that the deputy-minister was away but that the plans had all been fully considered and decided on some time ago and that mobilization was to be at Ottawa chiefly with some troops at Belleville. I then rang up the department of Militia which said the same thing and that the matter was not open for further discussion. In view of the minister's wire and the information received from other ministers including the Prime Minister, and from the departmental officials there is nothing more to be said. What was decided on I was informed over the telephone was what was considered to be in the best interests of organization of the cause and of the troops who were about to risk their lives in the service of their country. While naturally we may be disappointed that we get no pecuniary advantage out of being a mobilization station still we are not disposed to grumble at the government's decision to do what is strictly in the best interests of those most concerned, namely the Empire and the troops. I understand that Lindsay is furious but that is likely only another rumor. They are just as patriotic and sensible as we are. What further inducements the city may wish to present to the authorities I cannot say. I have wired making an appointment for the Mayor and aldermen with the Premier. I have left nothing undone so far as I know to do my duty in the best interests of all concerned."

FARMING IN THE ROCKY MOUNTAINS

Grand Trunk Pacific officials report that within thirty miles of Mt. Robson, amid the grandest scenery of the Rocky Mountains, homesteads are being taken up by experienced cultivators. Passing through the Yellowhead Pass the railway attains an altitude of 3,724 feet above the sea level, this being the summit of the line, and it is in this district that the latest settlement is taking place. There are already about thirty homesteads taken up at Dunster, B. C., about fifteen at Croyden, B. C., and twenty at Rush Valley, B. C., in this fertile but mountainous region. There is room for one hundred more homesteaders at these points, and the land, in addition to being suitable for agriculture, is near copper, gold and silver claims.

Mr. John Murray, of London, has received word that his brother, Lieut. James Murray, of the Coldstream Guards, has had his trigger finger cut off by the Germans, while lying wounded.

SOLDIERS AS TARGETS.

How the Troops Appear to the Enemy at Various Distances.

Army officers are chuckling over some of the thrilling stories being sent out by war correspondents abroad, who are at or near the front. One of the best, according to gossip here, was told of troops aiming rifles at the enemy a mile distant, and using the buttons of the coats of the enemy's troopers for targets.

An interesting statement of target distances in actual warfare, compiled from data of army experiments, is as follows: All parts of a man's body can be distinctly seen at 100 yards, including the general lines of his face, slight movements of the body and the minutest details of uniform. At 200 yards the outlines of the face become confused, and rows of buttons look like stripes. At 300 yards the buttons are invisible. At 400 yards the faces are pinhead dots, and movements of arms and legs are still visible. At 600 yards all details disappear, although with clear light the files may be counted. At 800 yards the men cannot be counted and individual movements become indistinguishable. At 1,000 yards a line of men resembles a broad line.—Kansas City Star.

Who Wants an Island?

Sunday island, a verdant tract of seven miles by five, in the Kermadec group of the south Pacific, is to be abandoned. The thirteen persons who have been living a Crusoe-like life there have been driven to desperation by loneliness, rats, volcanic rumblings and other afflictions, and the New Zealand government is to bring the party back to civilization. While oranges, bananas and tobacco thrive on the island, there are no cocoanuts, and the crops which the handful of islanders try to plant are often destroyed by the small Pacific rats which infest the place, and a surviving volcano frequently gives the whole island a shiver.

Every time a man falls in love he is just as sure that it is the first time as he is that it will be the last time.

DAIRYMEN'S CONVENTION

Afternoon Session.

Professor J. H. Grisdale urged the farmer to think more, and not restrict his thinking to merely local conditions. At the present time they had better reason and more inspiration for progress than ever before. The present great war demanded greater production. There were unbounded possibilities now open and farmers could easily increase their output fifty per cent. He then touched on some of the factors which influenced dairy profits. Good housing was essential, adequate light, room and ventilation, high ceilings and plenty of back space. It had been found by experiment that a two-ply board stable with paper could be built at a cost of $1.50 a cow.

The cost of stabling should not be a deterrent to any man in caring for his cows in a way that would bring him profit. The next consideration was cheap fodder. Expensive food was not a necessity. There were a few main feeds which must be considered and fortunately these were produced in Eastern Canada at a minimum of cost. Good feeding was such a factor that few people could overestimate it. It was quite possible to double returns of a cow by proper feeding.

By following a system cheap feeds could be readily producted.

Crop Rotation.

Crop production by means of rotation was an absolute necessity. He was convinced of it by the work of all the experimental farms. By crop rotation the yield of land could be doubled and the cost of production per unit lowered, also the cost of cultivation per acre.

A three year rotation of oat crop, grain and hay had been found by himself to be most successful. Traction machines on the farms had been tried out extensively and had been found unsatisfactory. The engine was a short lived animal as it was put on the market today, and until something better was brought out, horse power was the most satisfactory.

Prof. Grisdale said every farmer should at least have two hired men all the year round. If he had not it indicated that he was more or less of a novice or beginner. In Europe farmers hired half a dozen men and as a result they deposited more money in the bank yearly. He was working with his head and that was what the Canadian farmer had to learn to do.

T. R. Mallory.

T. R. Mallory of Frankfort, holder of the Canadian record for best producing Holstein cattle spoke on the building up of the dairy herd.

Mr. Mallory reviewed the record of his herd of cattle which had come down through three generations. His grandfather handed it down to his father, and his father to him. He described how the herd had been developed to record holding cattle in the matter of production, the herd having some cows in it that produced as high as one hundred and eighteen pounds a day, and many were were hundred pound producers.

If a cattle raiser wanted to be a breeder he would have to buy a pure bred sire. A sire should be selected which has a good ancestry and record generations back.

The usefulness of a cow seemed to depend upon her nervous machinery. He could milk two cows in his herd and one would produce ten pounds and another but five, although both would be almost identical in appearance. Many farmers sold their best breeders because they were offered a substantial price, when they would have been wise to have held on to them. Good breeders were bought in Eastern Ontario at $75 and taken to Western Ontario and sold for $125 and $150.

Dairying in Switzerland.

Mr. J. A. Ruddick, dairy commissioner, Ottawa, gave a most instructive talk on the dairying industry in Switzerland, illustrating it with lantern slides. He told of the big congress of dairying held in Switzerland he attended where 25 nationalities were represented, and of the interesting lectures that were delivered. He was given a most attentive hearing.

Evening Meeting.

At the evening session Hon. Senator Derbyshire, presided, his genial remarks being heartily received.

His Worship Mayor Buller delivered the short address of welcome, telling the dairymen present that it afforded him great pleasure to welcome them to the city. The dairying industry was a most important one and of the most profitable if properly conducted. On behalf of the city he extended to them the entire freedom of the city.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, M. P., said:

"I see that the Dairymen's Association has put me down for a number on the program, leaving to the Mayor the honour of giving you the official welcome on behalf of the municipality. Permit me also to extend to you the freedom of the city, provided of course that you do not make too free with the property of the citizens. But this is not an occasion for wasting time in platitudes. If a man has nothing to say he ought to sit down. I will deal for a moment, with your permission and by way of fulfilling the duty assigned to me on the program, with a brief comparison of life and the means of life as it exists amongst British people now and as it existed some centuries ago. It will no doubt seem strange to many people that in the early centuries agriculture was not a calling by itself, as it is now. Everybody raised his own food. Plots of ground belonged, on payment of a tax-rent, to the lord of the manor, to even the meanest serf or slave in the parish. The rights of common supplied pasturage. In England and in some parts of continental Europe there was a desire for and a knowledge of comfort that is not surpassed even at the present day. But there were no slums and no pauper classes then. An idle man was an object of suspicion, because there was no need of his being idle. There were no vast aggregations of crowded and horrible tenement houses. The people lived on land in the open and the children had all the benefits of sunlight and fresh air. When the blacksmith had no work at the smithy, or the carpenter or the mason or the woodcutter, he went on his plot of ground and cultivated it, securing to himself and family all that was necessary for life and even comfort. The sheep of those days were small, and yielded a pound of wool instead of nine or ten as at present. Cattle weighed from 700 to 800 pounds. Cows were poor things in comparison with our Ayrshires and Jerseys and the other selected breeds. Horses were not much better than Shetland ponies. Recognizing the supreme value of selective breeding, and centuries before Lamarck or Darwin thought of their doctrine of evolutionary development, the owners bred from those best suited to their needs, and today we have the Southdown and the Leicester, the Berkshire, splendid cattle and fine horses. There was then no unemployment in those days, nor would there be now if people could do as the mechanic did then—go to his plot of ground or farm and expend his energy and spare time in drawing from Nature what he could not get from Art. But modern unemployment is not only a curse, it is a nightmare. It is for us to learn the history of it, the history of the past, and to discover the possibilities of the immediate future. There is no need for unemployment. Then let us provide against it. Let it never be said again, at least in Canada, that, with all that has been provided for us in this magnificent country, we cannot find a living for a large number of willing people. It is a scandalous thing that we should devote our hearts and souls to finance, to speculation, to promoting, to subsidizing, while we virtually neglect this whole problem of unemployment. Science is not at fault. It is performing miracles. Trade is not at fault. It is overspreading the world. Transportation is not at fault, nor invention nor shrewdness. What is is it, then?

Humanity at Fault.

It is Humanity itself that is at fault in that, in all its wide expanse of learning and discovery, it has not found a way to help men to earn a living when they are willing and eager to do so. It will take a long time, perhaps, to work this great problem out, but, if I have health and intellect enough, I will do something towards it. Your experts are doing wonders. They are here today in force. Your big men in business know their business and its needs down to the smallest detail. They will tell us in this district what we need to do to catch up with the times. Such conventions as these are of vast importance and value. They may mean, and can mean, taken in conjunction with farmnig as a whole, the doubling of our productive efficiency. It is a lamentable thing to see the production of grains per acre falling off. We have a glorious country and must live up to our opportunities. We must have more of what the Englishman calls pride and the American ambition. Men without loftiness of purpose and nobility of spirit are not what the great stuff of the world is made of. They are only groundlings and parasites. We have inherited the pride in being great of our great ancestors, and we must live up to our heritage. We must beware of self-complacency, of letting well enough alone. Life is worth living only when we put our mental and physical energies into it. Even a willing horse is a source of pride to us. The sense of fair-play suggests that no man shall get what he does not earn. That is one thing. The next is to see that he gets what he does earn or is willing to earn. The crooks, the drunks and the no-goods may be left out of consideration. They are mere waste. They are the backwash of that splendid stream of human hopes, human kindness and human energy, which flows on, as the poet says, to the boundless sea of immortality. We never really learn except by object lessons. This dreadful war has taught this generation that the only safe calling is the food-producer's. We must pay the penalty whenever we lose sight of the pre-eminent importance of land as the basis of the people's welfare. The fresh-water sailor can never die of thirst, nor the food-producer starve. To cut loose from the basis of safety is no sign of an advancing civilization.

In Peterborough county, we are, so farmers say, in need of a demonstration farm. From what they tell me, local demonstration farms are worth all the lectures many times over. The minister of agriculture for Ontario is here, and the deputy minister for Canada is here, and I trust they will agree with the opinion of our farmers, and add to their local lectures and local school-fairs the cap sheaf of their usefulness, namely, a local demonstration farm.

C. E. James, deputy minister of agriculture, defined patriotism, quoting instances of Canadian loyalty and devotion to the mother land. He declared that there was another call besides the call for men and that was the call to be producers. It was easy enough to be loyal and patriotic when the band was playing, but it required real patriotism to be a producer out on the hundred acre farm. There was a responsibility placed upon those who remained at home. Never was there a time in the history of Canada when the responsibility was so unavoidable as right now. Those who stayed at home and produced were doing their duty just as thoroughly as the men in the trenches. Those who shirked their responsibilities were as much cowards as the man who dropped his rifles and fled from the firing line.

The final outcome was up to the farmers of this country. They were the ones who were to save Canada if she was to be saved. People were looking to the farmers to solve Canada's great financial problem. The more patriotic people were the more would be their production.

Hon. J. S. Duff.

Hon. James S. Duff, minister of agriculture, paid a high compliment to Mr. James, the deputy minister of agriculture. He touched upon the unemployment situation and considered that any attempt to place men on farms who were disinclined to go was misplaced effort. A man must be in love with the farm to make a success of it.

During the last three months however the Government had placed upon farms a great many unemployed where they now had comfortable homes and were fond of their work. The agricultural colleges he said were doing a great and successful work in training young men in improved methods of agriculture. He praised the efforts put forth to relieve the people affected by the war and hoped that in 1915 an effort would be put forth by farmers to produce more on their farms than ever before. There was an increase of from 20 to 25 of acreage in fall wheat over any previous acreage under cultivation in the history of this province.

He hoped nothing would be left undone to ensure a bountiful harvest in 1915. He had always entertained the idea that in this province, the men who would be most successful would be those who adopted the agricultural industry most suited to their locality.

In connection with the department's work he said they were endeavoring to keep in touch with all the farmers in the country, and endeavoring to encourage them to do their duty just as completely as though they were at the front. Mr. Duff reviewed the cause of the war and said he believed there had been a feeling engendered by it that would leave Canada better prepared to assist the mother land in giving of her agricultural products in future.

The evening session wound up with hearty singing of Tipperary, led by the orchestra.

Solos were contributed by Mr. F. Myles and Miss Hanson. Miss Ida Sanderson was accompanist.

Odors and Germs.

The odor of cloves has been known to destroy microbes in thirty-five minutes; cinnamon will kill some species in twelve minutes, thyme in thirty-five minutes. In forty-five minutes common wild herbena is found effective, while the odor of some geranium flowers has destroyed various forms of microbes in fifty minutes. The essence of cinnamon is said to destroy the typhoid fever microbe in twelve minutes and is recorded as the most effective of all odors as an antiseptic. It is now believed that flowers which are found in Egyptian mummies were placed there more for their antiseptic properties than for merely ornamental or sentimental purposes.

THE MARKETS

Latest Quotations in Grain, Dairy Products, Live Stock, Etc.

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—Belief prevailed today with a majority of wheat traders that at least a temporary reaction was due after the sudden big advance during the last few days. Accordingly, the market averaged decidedly lower than for the preceding session, and, altho unsettled at the finish, closed 1⅛c to 1¼c under last night. Other leading staples, too, all showed a setback—corn ⅛c to ⅝c, oats ⅜c, and provisions 7½c to 17½c.

WINNIPEG GRAIN MARKET.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 6.—Quite a reaction occurred in the wheat market this morning in prices, and only a fair business was being turned over. Lower Liverpool closing was an influence in lowering values here. The speculative element during the last day or so have got loaded up, and were disinclined to go short, which offset the decline to some extent. The existing cash demand grows daily more acute, terminal elevators, exporters and millers all wanting stuff, but few offers are being put out for sale. Only a few odd cars of each grain are being offered.

The export trade, while not so active as yesterday, reported a good enquiry, and sales by one firm of 70,000 bushels were made this morning, with expectations of further business later. The market was generally nervous, and futures at about noon were 1½c lower for May and 2c lower for July, than Tuesday's close.

Total inspections on Tuesday were 137 cars, as against 342 last year.

Winnipeg futures closed 1¼c to 1⅞c lower. Cash closed 1½c to 1⅜c lower for wheat, oats ¼c lower, and flax 1c lower.

MONTREAL GRAIN MARKET.

MONTREAL, Jan. 6.—There was less excitement in the export grain trade today, owing to the falling off in the demand from overseas buyers to some extent, as they were not disposed to meet exporters' views, and in addition to this there were re-sellers of wheat in the English markets at lower prices than local exporters would accept, therefore the volume of business done was comparatively small as compared with that of yesterday, as the sales only amounted to about 100,000 bushels. There was no further change in the condition of the local market for coarse grains, but prices for oats were firm at the advance, with a fair demand for car lots. The strength which has prevailed in the flour market for spring wheat grades for some days now resulted in a general advance in prices today of 50c per barrel. There was a fairly good enquiry from foreign buyers for supplies, and sales of export patent were made to Glasgow as high as 39s 3d per sack, which is the highest price made so far on this crop. The local trade was quiet, but more activity is expected in the near future. Millfeed prices were advanced $2 for mouillie and feed flour. The trade in butter was quiet, but the undertone was strong. Cheese was quiet and firm. New-laid eggs have declined, but other grades are firm, with a fair trade doing. Dressed hogs advanced 25c to 50c per cwt.

Stockers and Feeders.

Very little is doing on the stocker and feeder market and the highest price being paid for good steers is about $6 to $6.60; stockers, $4.50 to $5.50. One load of short-keep feeders, weighing 900 lbs., sold at $6.50 to $7.

Milkers and Springers.

A fairly good supply of milkers and springers sold at $50 to $85 each.

Veal Calves.

Receipts of calves were again light and prices steady at $4.75 to $9, with one or two choice at $10 to $10.50.

Sheep and Lambs.

Receipts were light. Ewes sold from $5 to $7; rams at $4 to $4.50; culls, $2.50 to $3; lambs, good quality, at $8 to $8.50; heavy lambs at $7 to $7.50; culls at $6.

Hogs.

Receipts moderately large. Selected hogs fed and watered sold at $7.65; $7.25 f.o.b. cars, and $7.90 to $8 weighed off cars.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

MONTREAL, Jan. 6.—At the C.P.R. live stock market, trade in cattle was rather quiet, this being a sort of half-holiday; but, as the offerings were not large, a firm feeling prevailed, and prices showed no further change. There were no choice steers for sale, but a few loads of good ones were offered, which sold at from $7.25 to $7.50; fair at $6.25 to $6.50, and medium at $5.75 to $6, while butcher cows brought from $5 to $6.75, and bulls from $5.75 to $7 per cwt.

The market for small meats was unchanged, the demand being fair, and sales of Ontario lambs were made at $8 to $8.25, and Quebec at $7.50 to $7.75, while sheep brought from $4.50 to $5.25 per cwt. The supply of calves was small, and sales were made at from $3 to $15 each, as to size and quality.

A Rat's Tail.

A rat's tail is a wonderful thing The great naturalist Cuvier says that there are more muscles in this curious appendage than are to be found in that part of the human anatomy which is most admired for its ingenious structure—namely, the hand. To the rat, in fact, its tail serves as a sort of hand, by means of which the animal is enabled to crawl along narrow ledges or other difficult passages, using it to balance with or to gain a hold. It is prehensile, like the tails of some monkeys. By means of it the little beast can jump up heights otherwise inaccessible, employing it as a projectile spring.

Aim of the Holy Alliance.

The Holy Alliance was a league created by Emperor Alexander I. of Russia, after the defeat of Napoleon at Waterloo, for the preservation of peace in Europe. Russia and Germany were enthusiastic about this compact, but Great Britain condemned it, so the death of Alexander and the French revolt of 1848 broke up the Holy Alliance.

Nature's Armor.

Lobsters and crabs are familiar examples of armor bearing creatures. The lobsters have wonderful coats of mail suggestive of those devised by human warriors in the age of chivalry. They combine perfect security with ease of movement, owing to their jointed structure. The manner in which crabs when at rest tuck their legs beneath them so as to bring them under the shelter of the hard carapace is interesting. The crab is doubly protected, for it resembles a water worn pebble, and thus looks to large fishes, which like to eat the crustacean—so long as it keeps still—very similar to the objects with which it is surrounded.

Most of the leading Christian nations seem to have mislaid the other cheek.

BIG THAMES TROUT

Trout fishing in the Thames, says London "Answers," might almost be called a thing apart, so far as fishing is concerned.

These fish, which grow to a great size, very rarely rise to a fly, but are usually caught by live bait or spinning bait. At the beginning of the season the angler's success depends in a large measure on knowing where to find individual fish, though later in the year the trout make their way to the weir pools.

The trout varies in color, according to whether it lives in large or small rivers or lakes. The soil over which it swims has also an effect on the general marking of the fish. A trout taken off a weedy, muddy bottom will often be found to be of a rich yellow shade on its sides and belly, while another fish caught even in the same lake, but on the opposite shore, which, say, is rocky and sandy, will be of a steely-blue color.

This, of course, is a provision of Nature to make it difficult for the fish to be seen by the herons and other keen-eyed birds who delight in a meal of trout.

FIRST LEAGUE GAMES TO-NIGHT

Rev. Jas. Rollins Will Face the Puck

For some time the readers have been learning of the Senior Church League, which was revived last year and though started late, had a very good season, the cup being won by St. Paul's. This year this league is being run on a more organized basis and the constitution of four rules of last year's has been increased to twelve to overcome difficulties and develop good clean play among the young men of the different churches. For the purpose of paying expenses, referee, etc., 350 season tickets are being sold and from this the league is able to obtain one night a week from eight to whatever time they are finished, thus playing three games.

Tonight at eight o'clock the league will open the following teams playing, St. John's drawing the bye this week.

St. Luke's vs. St. Andrews.
Charlotte St. vs. George St.
Murray St. vs. St. Paul's.

The puck will be faced by Rev. Jas. Rollins.

THE TRAP DRUMMER.

He's a Real Worker in His Way, but He is Also a Trust.

It is great to watch a trap player in a band. One who did not know would think that he kept a junk store and had gone crazy.

He has a bass drum and a snare drum and a cymbal and a triangle and some sleighbells and a sandpaper dinkus and heaven knows what all.

He plays all these at once or separately, as the case may be. And he does it as well as if he were a centipede. We always wonder as we watch him where he keeps his other hands.

"Forewarned is forearmed," but he must have been forewarned and spelled it wrong. He will watch the orchestra leader like a hawk, and at a given signal he will drop the pot lid he is beating and take a few pokes at an egg beater or a nutmeg grater.

A trap drummer's sheet of music must read funny. We firmly believe he could take a handsaw, an ice cream freezer, a jack plane, a tree hook, a wash boiler, bottle of ink and a curtain rod and play the "Star Spangled Banner" on them, carrying all four parts.

He will be tickling the ribs of the triangle when the expression of the leader's face changes or he gives his catatonic chair leg a wilder swing downward and "Blam, blam!" he swats the eternal daylights out of a bass drum.

Then, while he is taking a rest from the bass drum, he rolls on the kettledrum and stops it hurriedly to rub two pieces of sandpaper together briskly.

Nobody but himself ever knows what he will do next.

He is a noise trust, a combination in restraint of the musical trade.

If he were to play only one instrument instead of all the lot about eleven other willing members of the musicians' union would get jobs.

We love the trap drummer, but down with him! He is our worst industrial menace.—Indianapolis Star.

A Cynical Motorist.

"Some machinery seems to possess almost human intelligence."

"I'm not sure it isn't something better," replied Mr. Chuggins. "My automobile, for instance, would be perfectly quiet and peaceful if some of us human beings didn't jump in and put it up to tricks."—Washington Star.

PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. J. Chynewith and their daughter, Della, are in the city visiting his sister, Mrs. Geo. Tremain, and Mrs. Theo. Thornton.

A very fashionable "at home" was given on New Year's night by Miss Mina Loucks, at which about seventy-five guests were present. Among the out-of town guests were, the Misses O'Connell and Miss Briscoe of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Don Shook, Miss Case, Mr. Frank Linton, Mr. Keith Lech, and Mr. Jack McNabb, of Peterborough; Miss Kathleen Doak, Stirling, and Mrs. Sanders of Belleville.—Campbellford Herald.

THE GERMAN TRADE MARK.

Sergeant-Major H. S. Doe, 1st Royal West Kent Regiment, recently mentioned in dispatches, says:—

This country of Belgium has been overrun by an enemy which has left his "trade mark" behind him, and that "trade mark" will ever after be known.

No one can possibly imagine what these people have had to put up with. Let me tell you just two things seen in the last village we stayed at.

I entered a well-to-do farmhouse, and was greeted (in French, of course) by three good ladies. The whole place had been ransacked from top to bottom. Everything eatable had been taken, the bed-clothes and mattresses had been taken and were found in a gutter down the road, the remaining clothes had been wantonly destroyed, and nearly all the fowls and pigs had been destroyed. One of the poor women told me that the German captain—I was going to say officer, but we only associate the word with a gentleman—demanded the food to be cooked and the wine to be fetched with a revolver pointed at her the whole time.

What Happens to Them.

"I shall marry an orphan."

"No wonder."

"No wonder what?"

"That we say 'Poor Orphans.'"

THE PET OF PROVIDENCE

Sermon By the Kaiser's Chaplain Aroused Discussion.

We reprint the following which appeared in the daily press, a few years ago, and which seems very appropriate to-day in view of the terrible examples of German "culture" and "religion" which have been perpetrated in France and Belgium during the last two months.

A remarkable sermon was preached by Dr. Faber, the Court Chaplain, in the chapel of the Imperial Palace at the usual service held before the opening of the Reichstag by the Kaiser.

Dr. Faber said the Reichstag ought to consist entirely of loyal deputies who are willing to follow the Kaiser with perfect faith, without doubt, and without questionings. He continued: "If we had such a Reichstag we could safely leave the control of our destinies to God and the Kaiser.

"The victory of the Imperialist parties at the recent general election was a work of Divine Providence, and all the world heard the voice of God revealed in the result of the polls. God has taken Germany under His especial protection, and the German people are destined by Divine Providence to be the salt of the earth and the representatives of religion among mankind."

The Kaiser and most of the Protestant members of the Reichstag were present.

Dr. Naumann, a Radical deputy, has published vitriolic criticism of the sermon, and The Berliner Zeitung describes it as "a melancholy sign of the times." The journal adds: "The Court Chaplain undoubtedly gave utterance to views known to be pleasing to his royal listeners, so that we are bound to conclude that his opinions commended themselves to the Emperor.

"Even in the time of Louis XIV. there were courageous men who did not fear to tell the absolute monarch the truth and nothing but the truth. We do not exaggerate when we declare that religion has never been degraded to such an extent as on this occasion by the Court Chaplain's sermon."

Sharp Bombardment.

The first thing that strikes a landsman on a man-of-war is the rigid discipline observed everywhere. On some of the ships belonging to the tropical countries, however, discipline is very lax.

The Defence, a Haytian man-o'-war, was lying in the harbor of Port au Prince. One day a mess cook, for some reason, cleaned about a peck of knives and forks on the gun deck, and being suddenly called away and not wishing to spend time to go to the galley, he seized the mess-pail full of knives and forks and stuck it in the muzzle of the 10-in. gun, putting the tampion in after it. About an hour afterwards the admiral came aboard, and as the gun was loaded with blank cartridge they use it to fire a salute.

It happened that the gun was aimed toward the town, and almost pointblank to the Grand Hotel. The guests assembled on the porch to witness the ceremonies, when they were saluted with a rain of knives and forks, which stuck against the wooden walls like quills on a porcupine. Fortunately no one was hurt, although the "narrow escapes" were numerous.

Wear and Tear on Uniforms.

War plays havoc with soldiers' uniforms. Already reports are coming from the scenes of hostilities in Europe that the fighters' clothes are beginning to show wear and tear. In the Franco-Prussian war of 1870-71, German soldiers were seen plodding along the miry roads in the depth of winter barefoot, while many had only wooden shoes and linen trousers. When the Tenth Corps marched into Le Mans in January, 1871, scarcely a soldier was clothed in the regulation manner. Civilian garments, even French red breeches, were common.

As is well known, during the South African war the Boers stripped the dead for supplies, and the British soldiers developed quite a fancy for boots secured in this way. It was not callousness, but necessity developing a matter-of-fact habit of mind.

BAR ASSOCIATION IS ADDRESSED BY JUDGE HUYCKE

Toronto, Jan. 7.—The annual banquet of the Ontario Bar Association last night provided for the two hundred Judges and lawyers, distinguished representatives from other Provinces in the Dominion and from the United States, as well as from Ontario, who set down to the festive board a delightful mingling of "the quips, the quirks and the trifles" of the law with much eloquence and profound expression apropos of the present need for closer international relationship.

Mr. S. M. Field, K.C., of Cobourg, President of the Ontario Bar Association, presided over the banquet as toastmaster.

Those who sat at at guests' table were as follows: His Hon. Lieutenant-Governor Hendrie, Hon. W. H. Hearst, Prime Minister of Ontario; Hon. I. B. Lucas, Rev. Professor Law, Mr. Justice Bissell of Buffalo, N.Y.; F. A. Fenning of Washington, D.C.; Frank L. Lodge of Detroit, Mich.; Mr. Eugene Lafleur, K.C., of Montreal; Mr. Justice Britton, N. W. Rowell, K.C., G. Surveyor of Montreal, Mr. Justice Maclaren, Mr. Justice Kelly, Mr. Justice Lennox, Mr. Justice Ward of Port Hope, His Honor Judge Huycke of Peterborough, D. J. A. Macdonald, C. A. C. Jennings, Col. W. N. Ponton, K.C., of Belleville; William Shortt, K.C., of Edmonton; Judge Denton, Judge Coatsworth, Judge Widdifield of Owen Sound, Judge Fisher, Judge Vance, Judge Gunn.

Judge Huycke Spoke.

The County Court Bench was represented in the speech by His Honor Judge Huycke of Peterborough. The feeling of good-fellowship which will promote the interests of law and justice was urged by the speaker. "After tonight," he said, "we should go out as missionaries in that regard. Let there be no dissension between the members of the Bar in Ontario and Quebec, or between those of any parts of Canada and any of the States on the other side of the line."

On this mundane sphere it is not the woman alone who reserves the right to change her mind with or without provocation.

It appears that any tavern keeper who sells absinthe in Paris is to have his place closed while the war lasts. But why the limit?

JUDGING IS COMPLETED

Local Birds Among Prize Winners at Poultry Show

Taking conditions into consideration this year, the annual poultry show which will end tonight has been generally successful. Some fine specimens of poultry have been exhibited and Messrs. Joe Bennett and J. H. Minshall have found judging to be exceedingly difficult. Everything has been judged and the secretary is busy preparing a complete list of prize winners for publication.

Twenty-two silver cups, two gold pieces, cuff links and a bronze medal were competed for this year. The cup donated by the Peterborough police department was captured by George McClennan, a local exhibitor. The other large cup donated by J. T. C. Lang was carried off by Lawnview Poultry Yards of Oshawa.

In the matter of attendance the exhibition this year scarcely comes up to that of other years. This is a regrettable feature, but the judges and the association feel that the show was well worthy of better patronage. Breeders of fancy fowl who had exhibits are to be commended upon the excellent showing they made. Some of the local prize winners are Messrs. Luss, R. R. Robson, A. Everson, A. Gould and George McClennan.

Miss Yates gave three demonstrations last evening, one of killing a fowl and preparing it for market, another of trussing fowl and another of carving. She had an interested audience when this was in progress.

The show will close tonight at nine o'clock.

SAYS MURDERED BOY WAS FATHER'S FAVORITE SON

Whitby, Ont., Jan. 7.—The family of William Stone, who was murdered on December 11th, are much aroused over the evidence taken at the inquest here. The father is now in jail, and the daughter, Lillian Stone, thus defends him:

"Nightwatchman Patterson said at the inquest that father was not very much affected when he heard the news of Will's murder. As a matter of fact, Patterson only called in at the door that Will was not feeling very well, and it was only when they were near the station that he told father that Will had been killed. Poor father was so shocked that he could not speak. When he went into the station to see the body the chief ordered him away. Father was terribly upset about the murder, and was so excited he did not know what he was doing or saying. He ate nothing for days. He cried like a baby. Somebody tried to insinuate that father had a revolver, but that is absolutely untrue. My father is locked up now merely because he was so affected by the murder that he did not know what he was doing. Will was his favorite son."

FISKE O'HARA IN "JACK'S ROMANCE"

A New Play With Many Irish Melodies

Fisk O'Hara who is rated as one of the best tenors on the American stage, although he prefers to shine in dramatic work, will be seen at the Grand next Monday, Jan. 11, in a new romantic Irish play by Augustus Pitou, Sr., entitled "Jack's Romance." Of course, Mr. O'Hara will have his usual fine collection of Irish melodies to offer his admirers, in which his luscious tenor voice will be heard to excellent advantage. The part of Jack Connolly, the personage around which the story revolves, is one of the most rollicking and picturesque characters ever portrayed in an Irish play. He prevents a highwayman from robbing a coach, assists several worthy peasants to get back money of which they have been robbed, traps the dishonest secretary of his elder brother and then wins the beautiful Lady Constance in the most dashing manner. Mr. O'Hara carries a fine company and the piece is staged in a most lavish manner.

HYDRO RATES

Now in Force Where Houses are Equipped With Meter

All residences equipped with a meter have been, since January 1, enjoying the new Hydro-Electric rates. This fact was made known yesterday by their manager at the meeting of the Utilities Commission. The city has been divided off into twenty-five sections and each day the meters in one of these sections are read and the day following the bills sent out.

The average decrease in the new rates as compared with the old rates is thirty-eight per cent. This does not mean that every resident will have his light bill cut down thirty-eight per cent. It is the average decrease when the whole city is considered.

The meters are being installed as quickly as they arrive and Manager Fisk has asked the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission to secure 1,000 more. So far about 2,500 have been installed. By purchasing these meters through the Hydro-Electric Commission the local commission is saving about 50 per cent.

WITNESS SAYS HE LAID IN BIG SUPPLY

Blacklister Denies That he Had Drink in Hotel

Fred Blastorah, proprietor of the Palace Hotel, Hunter Street, appeared in police court this morning and pleaded not guilty to a charge of permitting Howard Innis, an inebriate, to loiter around his bar on December 31st. He was represented by Mr. Widdifield. Judgment in the case was reserved till Monday.

Innis was arrested on December 31st for being intoxicated while on the blacklist, the arrest being made alongside the bar in the Palace Hotel. Before the chief next morning he pleaded guilty and paid a $10 fine.

Innis was a good witness for the defence, and swore that he did not have a drink in the Palace Hotel that day. He said that he had bought seven quart bottles of whiskey in Port Hope, five weeks before and that the supply had lasted him till December 31st. He had procured no liquor in Blastorah's hotel. He admitted going to the hotel in the morning to collect 40 cents and in the afternoon to get a drink of water from the hotel pump. He did not see Mr. Blastorah at all until after his arrest that afternoon. Innis clung to this story and prosecutor G. W. Hatton was unable to obtain any different one.

FURNISH MONEY WITHOUT VOTE BY THE PEOPLE

For Construction of Steam Auxiliary Plant at Waterworks

The Utilities Commission has decided to ask the city council to apply for special legislation authorising the city to furnish money for the construction of the auxiliary steam plant and improvements to the system without submitting a by-law to the people. The amount required for the construction of the auxiliary plant will be in the neighborhood of $30,000.

The Commission will also ask the city council to guarantee the commission's account with the Bank of Montreal.

Solicitor Instructed.

At the meeting yesterday afternoon Solicitor E. H. D. Hall was instructed to take the necessary steps to have the Public Utilities Act amended so as to provide that the commission, with the approval of the city council, may arrange for advances by the bank to meet the cost of work undertaken by the commission under the provisions of the Act, pending the completion of such work and the issuing of debentures by the corporations to pay the cost of such work.

RETAIL MERCHANTS.

The Retail Merchants' Association will meet at the Y.M.C.A. tonight at eight o'clock to make arrangements for Dollar Day. All members are requested to be present.

TRUSTEES ASK FOR AN INVESTIGATION

SUGGESTION OF MISAPPROPRIATION HAS NO PART IN CHARGES SAYS MR. GORDON

Mr. Crane Moves That Pre-election Statements be Laid Before Minister of Education With Request That Commission be Appointed--- New Member Would Have County Judge Hold Investigation With D. O'Connell as Special Counsel

WHOLE MATTER LAID OVER ONE WEEK

By all appearances the affairs of the Board of Education have reached a crisis and an investigation into the way things have been conducted during the last five years is to take place, if Mr. G. N. Gordon, newly-elected member has influence enough to bring it about. This course was agreed upon at a live meeting of the 1915 board that took place last night and which is designed to clear the air one way or another of implied charges of irregularities in board circles that have been freely circulated since Mr. Gordon came out as candidate for a seat on the board.

Just as the gathering was about to peacefully adjourn Mr. John Crane sprang the bomb that caused every member to remain in their places.

Carefully choosing his words he stated that in his opinion an unparalleled condition of things prevailed in regard to the Board of Education. There were members on the board representing great corporations and others of large business interests who were presumed to be eminently trustworthy in business and private life. But Mr. Gordon he said had gone out of his way to cast reflections on the manner things had been conducted on the school board and intimated that he intended to conduct an audit and investigation of all the accounts and transactions of the Board of Education during the past few years.

"I do not think that any member of this board has been guilty of any irregularity, but I am willing to lay my resignation on the table until this board is completely vindicated," said Mr. Crane.

"I would therefore move that the pre-election statements of Mr. G. N. Gordon be laid before the Minister of Education, and that he be asked to appoint a commission to look into the matter and say whether any monies of the $10,000 granted by the provincial government to the schools has been improperly spent."

Insurance on Schools.

As Mr. Crane finished his wholly unexpected motion there was a dramatic pause. The members looked at each other evidently at a loss. W. H. Hill, one of the oldest members in point of service on the board, broke the silence as he rose. Mr. Hill said it was true that the charges which were made, reflected upon every member of the board and if any member had been guilty of irregular conduct then he should not be on the board. Therefore Mr. Crane's motion was in perfect order. He went on to speak of the charge of irregularity with regard to the placing of insurance referred to by Mr. Gordon. He recalled the names of Hon. George A. Cox, and A. L. Davis who had something to do with the insurance in days gone by and therefore if there was any reflection upon the living it was also upon the dead. As far as he was concerned it wouldn't make a bit of difference if none of the school insurance was with companies which he represented. The insurance had always been placed with standard companies and standard companies all had the same rate. "I can honestly say that I have done nothing discreditable during my service on the Board of Education. I want to say however that the charge in connection with the window blinds for the west ward school was almost a direct charge of corruption. It should be either withdrawn or proven." Mr. Hill added that he could say something unique and that was that he had never spoken to or approached any teacher in the schools of the city on the matter of insurance, for the reason that people would say he was using his position for his own ends. He finished by seconding the motion of Mr. Crane.

Mr. Gordon's Reply.

Every one waited to hear what the new member would have to say. They had not long to wait.

"I want to move an amendment to that motion," said Mr. Gordon with great deliberation, "but first I want to say that the suggestion of misappropriation was not a part of any charge that has been made." He offered an objection to the motion advocating the appointment of a government commission and explained that when he had collected the proper material it should go before a qualified judicial officer who could order an investigation, issue subpoenas, and appoint an investigating counsel.

"I would move in amendment that the county judge be asked to hold an investigation into the dealings and transactions of the Board of Education of the city of Peterborough for a period of five years back; such investigation to include all dealings of the board with teachers, of any members of the board, and that Mr. D. O'Connell be named as special investigating counsel into such allegations as may be delivered to him." No one seconded the motion.

SIEGE WARFARE IN BOTH AREAS OF HOSTILITIES

No Appreciable Progress Toward Warsaw Made by Von Hindenburg May Make One More Supreme Effort --- Spectacular Developments From the East May be Expected

RUSSIANS HAVE HAD TIME TO REINFORCE

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Jan. 8. — Aside from the continued Russian pursuit of Turkish forces, defeated in the Caucasus, and a continuation of the Russian advance through the passes of the Carpathian Mountains, a siege warfare with intermittent artillery duels, seems for the moment to prevail almost everywhere in the area of hostilities, in the eastern arena as well as in the western.

Reports reaching London show General Von Hindenburg for some time past has made no appreciable progress toward Warsaw, the mud of Poland evidently having done for him what the broken dykes did for the Germans in West Flanders.

A despatch coming to London from Copenhagen declares Von Hindenburg is expecting heavy reinforcemnts, and that, with an army of one million men, he purposes to make one more supreme effort to break through to the Polish capital. The Russians would appear to have had ample time to reinforce themselves and to strengthen their positions around Warsaw, and it is the opinion of British observers that trench warfare for which the westren theatre has become famous will be waged in the region of the Polish rivers.

Austria again admits the retirement of her forces in Bukowinia, and it is from this Russian forward movement, before which the Austrians are giving way, that the most spectacular developments of the next fortnight may be expected to spring, according to opinion held today by some British observers. The argument is made that once Russia gets a good foothold beyond the mountain passes, something that may be accomplished in a fortnight, if the Russians are not checked, a big stride toward the over-running of Hungary would have been made. If this is accomplished, it will be the first considerable invasion of any territory of the Teutonic allies.

INCREASE IN REVENUE AT LOCAL POST OFFICE

Receipts From Sale of Stamps Increased in the Past Year By Good Margin

In the local post office the amount realized from the sale of stamps was $52,501.78 during 1914 as compared with $49,696.82 for 1913. In the month of December, 1914, the amount sold was $6,177 while during the same month of 1913 the amount was $6,713.04.

The complete figures for two years are:—

	1913.	1914.
January	$4,098.00	$4,344.00
February	3,328.31	3,206.00
March	3,970.69	4,814.00
April	3,976.00	4,277.95
May	3,765.00	4,234.25
June	3,755.00	4,391.00
July	3,824.00	4,178.21
August	[illegible]	4,236.22
September	4,274.26	4,118.65
October	4,144.01	4,206.30
November	4,082.60	4,318.60
December	6,713.04	6,177.00
	$49,696.82	$52,501.78

According to a statement issued by the post office authorities at Ottawa, the stamp issue of the present year is considerably in excess of the anticipated showing. Instead of decreasing as the result of the war, the issue increased considerably. This fact is partially explained by the presence of so many Canadians in the old country, and the excessive correspondence which has been carried on with them.

For December the issue amounted to $1,720,492.43. This is an increase of $58,492.54. Compared with the issue of ten years ago, there is an increase of over $1,000,000.

The above figures refer to statements of stamps given out to the postmasters throughout the country. This represents as accurately as possible the number of sales throughout the country. So far during the nine months of the fiscal year there is an increase of $66,074.65 over last year.

AN AUXILIARY STEAM PLANT

IN TODAY'S issue of The Review, page 2, is considered the question of an auxiliary steam plant for Peterborough. If such is undertaken it will mean a very large expenditure. The ratepayers should know something of what this problem means, for such an expenditure would not likely be undertaken without the submission of a by-law to the people.

HOME GUARD

Five Members Volunteer For Service Overseas

Five members of the home guard have heard the call of duty and responded by volunteering for active military service. They stepped from the ranks of the guard at the first gathering of the organization held this year last night at the local armouries. Their decision to enlist occurred following a patriotic speech delivered by Capt. Adjt. F. D. Kerr, who touched upon the country's cry for men, and of the duty of able bodied men at this crisis in the nation's life. Captain Kerr shook hands with the five volunteers afterwards, and congratulated them upon their loyalty and patriotism. The officers of the various company captains and executive also congratulated them upon their decision.

Two hundred and fifty members of the guard turned out last night, making a very capable showing.

Shooting Competition.

It was decided to commence the competition for the Federick Nicholls silver cup on February 1st. Twelve members from each company will shoot and from the best marksmen in each twelve the competing teams will be picked.

Announcement was made that one hundred and fifty rifles were available for next company drill.

A church parade will be held some Sunday in the near future, further particulars to be given later.

CHIMNEY FIRE

Startled by a chimney fire which broke out during last night's fierce windstorm, Mrs. M. J. Allan, 297 Townsend Street, who is very ill, was so overcome that she had to be carried by neighbors to a nearby house while the trouble was being controlled. Her husband, M. J. Allan, is at present with the soldiers on active service. The blaze in the chimney was not serious and was caused by accumulation of soot. No damage resulted. The alarm was turned in at 7.34 p.m.

BLUNDER WAS MADE

No Decision Was Made to Mobilize in Peterborough --- Belleville Selected as Centre Where Best Interests of Mobilization Would be Served

That Peterborough never was considered as a possible mobilization centre and further more, that there are practically no possibilities of it becoming one, was the information gained from Premier Borden and Major-General Sam Hughes, by the very representative deputation consisting of His Worship Mayor Buller, Ald. Johnston, Ald. Green, Ald. Duffus, Ald. Stratton, ex-Mayor Bradburn, ex-Ald. Duncan, Lieut. Col. Young, Major Eastwood, Messrs. W. H. Denham, E. G. Patterson and R. Denne which was at the Capital yesterday. The last named seven were present at the invitation of Mayor Buller.

Major-General Hughes was confined to the hospital with an injured knee and the deputation did not consider it at all likely that they would be privileged with seeing him. The chances would be better, it was thought, if the number who applied was smaller than the whole deputation. For that reason His Worship Mayor Buller, Lieut.-Col. Young and Major Eastwood comprised a committee of the deputation to wait on the hospital authorities and endeavor to secure an interview with the Minister. They sent up their card and were admitted. The Minister was reclining on his bed and gave them a very cordial welcome. Mayor Buller then explained the nature and cause of their visit and in his usual straightforward manner, Major-General Hughes told them that in the first place, Belleville was selected as the place for mobilization in this district and Peterborough never was mentioned as being one of the centres. If bills were issued calling for tenders for the equipping and supplying of the men at Peterborough's camp, it was the result of a blunder by some of the officials.

Belleville was selected in the interest of more perfect mobilization and for that reason only. Major-General Hughes said he was not thinking of "grafters" who would profit by soldiers being here. He was thinking only of the men in the trenches. Had Belleville not been selected the next choice would have been Lindsay, Major-General Hughes' home town. The whole trouble seemed to have originated in Kingston.

Further discussion with such an argument confronting them would be useless so the members of the deputation bade adieu to the Minister and left. Premier Borden was also interviewed but he stated that he had left the matter entirely in the hands of Major-General Hughes.

PETERBOROUGH, FRIDAY, JANUARY 8, 1915

THE QUESTION OF AN AUXILIARY STEAM PLANT.

IN DISCUSSING the problem facing the people of Peterborough in regard to their power and waterworks systems, brief reference has been made occasionally to the building of an auxiliary steam plant. This subject is one of the most important and intricate phases of the subject, involving such a question as the relative cost of developing electric power from coal by means of a steam turbine, and from water by means of a hydro-electric plant.

If the citizens here were facing a serious shortage of power, there would be no choice as to the building of a steam plant. In that case, a steam plant would be built, and the city would then be quite independent of any condition of Nature that might incapacitate an electrical generating plant. Peterborough is not in this position, and will not likely be so for many years.

In the first days of the Hydro-Electric development, the majority of those versed in electrical engineering thought the days of steam plants were numbered, and that there was no power that could be produced so cheaply as electric energy. This conclusion was based largely on the extremely low cost of operating an electrical generating plant. Once you get your plant built, they said, it costs a mere nothing to keep it going. It costs very little more to keep an electrical generating plant going for twenty-four hours than it does for one hour, since wear and tear and up-keep are so very small. These people were right so far as they went, but they did not go far enough.

What was overlooked was the first cost of a hydro plant, difficulties in operation, such as those due to frazil and anchor ice, and losses in transmission. The first cost of a hydro plant is very large, and the charges arising from interest on the investment, together with other items, have so raised the cost of Hydro power that there is now a difference of opinion among engineers as to which is the cheaper, but the main point is not so much one of cheapness as of reliance. That is, the opinion seems to be prevalent that it is not advisable to develop all the power to be used, by electric generators, but only a portion, and to develop the remainder by steam power.

Thus, suppose a municipality, a city like Peterborough, for example, uses a normal load of 10,000 horse-power, and a peak load of 15,000 or 20,000 horse-power. It is cheaper to develop the power used for the normal load by an electrical generating plant, because it is being used all the time, for factories in the day time and lighting at night. Then, for a peak load, that lasts a short time, usually for not more than a couple of hours, to develop the excess of power required by a steam plant. The reason given for this division is that fires can be banked so that the consumption of coal is almost at zero except when the peak load is on, that the difference in investment, and consequently in interest or bond charges, makes it profitable to use steam. Then there is no loss whatever from long transmission lines, the power is right in the city, where it is to be used, and the whole city is entirely free from delays due to such conditions as caused by frazil and anchor ice, floods, winds, or other troubles affecting an electric plant. The peak load is the excess of power required over the normal amount, and is occasioned in most cities by extra street car traffic between the hours of seven and nine in the morning and five and seven at night. Such were evidently the reasons that led the Dominion Power and Transmission Company of Hamilton to undertake the building of an 80,000 horse-power auxiliary steam plant, and, if Toronto builds such a plant, it will doubtless be for similar reasons.

We do not say that this reasoning is exact, for, in any event, it will depend on actual figures, on the estimates of architects and engineers of the actual cost of the respective modes of developing power. In reference to this subject, it is interesting to note what the city of Winnipeg did. Winnipeg gets its electric energy from Pointe du Bois Falls. The plans for electric power development there call for an ultimate capacity of 100,000 horse-power. At present, we understand that only about 20,000 horse-power are being used and developed, yet the dam has been built for the maximum capacity, and the power house for half the maximum. Thus, while the city has only use for a fifth of the power ultimately to be developed, it is paying heavy interest charges on a plant equipment it is not now using and will not use for many years. The cement contract alone called for an expenditure of $900,000.00. Thus, in figuring the relative cost of steam and electric power, the interest charge on what is done for the future and on the investment for peak loads, is a very important item. Wind storms frequently cause serious trouble to transmission lines, even when built of the most substantial materials. The Hydro-Electric found it necessary to provide against such a contingency by duplicating its transmission lines, so that in case one went down there would be another to continue the delivery of power. Winnipeg faced the same problem, and spent $750,000 for a new transmission line. An auxiliary steam plant of 20,000 horse-power would have cost the city from one million two hundred thousand to a million and a half dollars. Such a plant would have doubled the capacity of the present electrical generating plant; it would have provided for a peak load equal to its normal load, and rendered the city fairly independent of wind storms and frazil and anchor ice difficulties. As it is, the city is entirely dependent on one source of power, albeit rendered much more efficient by a second transmission line, and has nothing to fall back on in case of trouble or for peak load requirements. We understand steam power can be developed for from $30.00 to $40.00 per horse-power.

We have given some details to show what a big problem the building of an auxiliary steam plant is to any city. We have tried to show why such a plant has been built in other places, principally because we do not think that is the problem in Peterborough. An auxiliary steam plant does not appear to be the remedy required for this city.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

GREAT BRITAIN, which has been in the habit of purchasing $10,000,000 worth of aniline dyes from Germany, is about to undertake the production of her own requirements, says an exchange. The Government has just offered to subscribe £1,500,000 towards the establishment of a dyestuff industry there, provided a certain amount is also contributed by the dye users. The latter have enthusiastically rallied to the support of the Government, and the indications are that the German monopoly in dyestuffs will soon be at an end. The importance of this industry to Germany may be gathered from the fact that the value of the output was $1,000,000,000 per year, while the industry gave employment to 1,500,000 persons.

ENDING eleven years of litigation, the Supreme Court of the United States has decided that some two hundred Connecticut labour union members must pay $252,130.09 damages under the Sherman Anti-Trust Law for a nation-wide boycott of D. E. Loewe and Company, Danbury, Conn., hat manufacturers, who refused to unionize their shops. The bank accounts and homes of many of the men already are under attachment to pay the judgment, and the next step probably will be foreclosure.

NORMAN DRAPER, in an article in Boston Journal, says when war was declared every German warship in foreign waters steamed out to sea and each ship commander opened a package which he had had in his possession for five years. Contents contained instructions and maps marked with places to get supplies; where ships were to sail at once, and where warships were to mobilize if they were unable to go where instructed.

THE PUBLIC are warned that counterfeit notes of the Bank of Toronto $10 bills are being circulated. The face is a clever pen and water-colour reproduction, but the back is very poorly done. As most people around here haven't seen a ten-spot for some time, there is not much danger of meeting one of these bad bills.

THE KING'S HIGHWAY.

When moonlight flecks the cruiser's decks,
  And engines rumble slow,
When Drake's own star is bright above
  And Time has gone below,
They may hear who list the far-off sound
  Of a long-dead, never-dead mirth,
In the mid-watch still they may hear who will
  The song of the Larboard Berth.

In a dandy frigate or a well-found brig,
  In a sloop or a seventy-four,
In a great First-rate with an admiral's flag,
  And a hundred guns or more,
In a fair light air, in a deal foul wind,
  At midnight or midday,
Till the good ship sink her mids shall drink
  To the King and the King's Highway!

The mids they hear—No fear, no fear!
  They know their own ship's ghost:
Their young blood beats to the same old song
  And roars to the same old toast.
So long as the sea-wind blows unbound
  And the sea-wave breaks in spray,
For the island's sons the world still runs
  "The King, and the King's Highway!"

—Henry Newbolt, in the London Times.

Under the Partisan Handicap.

(Calgary Herald—Conservative.)

The minister of agriculture of Canada, no matter what party he belongs to, is the one man in the Dominion who has at present a greater chance to distinguish himself than any other. The organization of an agricultural market, the proper sustaining of the agricultural industry, the protection of agricultural prices, and the equitable and useful distribution of agricultural products afford between them a problem so vast, and capable of so great usefulness to Canada, as to merit the best brain of Canada that this country can produce. Somehow it does seem as though not only now, but in all the times past, Canada's ministers of agriculture have missed and continue to miss the finest opportunity of usefulness that has opened to any public man.

A Question for Germany.

(New York World.)

"England is choking Germany, and, under the circumstances, everything is permissible . . . Attack without discrimination warships, mercantile marine, troopships, transports—all are legitimate spoils." — Admiral Schleiper in the Lokal-Anzeiger.

We often wonder if Germans who talk that way have the slightest appreciation of the effect of such language upon the public opinion of the civilized world. Do they want Germany to be universally regarded as an outlaw among the nations?

CONVENTION CONCLUDES ALL OFFICERS RE-ELECTED

This is no Time for Discouragement Among the Farmers, the Claim of Prof. Dean

All the officers of the Dairymen's Association of Eastern Ontario were re-elected by acclamation and the concluding session was held last night, when in response to the chairman's request, the audience sang Tipperary.

The speakers were Professors Reynolds, Harper and Dean of all the Agricultural College, Guelph. J. R. Dargavel, M.L.A., Elgin, was chairman, and Mr. G. A. Gillespie, M.L.A., West Peterborough, also gave an address.

Mr. Dargavel referred to the importance of the dairying industry and of the necessity of the people of this district co-operating. He would be on the other side of the house, but he could assure Mr. Gillespie of every support. Money he said could not be expended for a more worthy cause than agriculture.

Mr. Gillespie expressed his keen disappointment at the meagre audience. He felt that the opera house should have been filled. He explained to the convention that the poultry show was in progress and also that the home guards, nearly one thousand strong, were undergoing instructions; otherwise a better attendance would have greeted the meeting. Then too the farmers were probably somewhat discouraged. For two seasons they had farmed under adverse conditions. He said butter making was practically shut down and there were probabilities that butter would have to be imported in the near future.

The speaker assured Mr. Dargavel that he too would work in the interests of agriculture and would give Mr. Dargavel every assistance in the house.

Prof Dean said he had heard some pessimistic remarks at the convention but said the farmers should not be discouraged. Dairying was the soundest business in the province of Ontario and this was no time to go back on the good old dairy cow.

Regarding dairy conventions he said the principles of dairying need repeating and re-repeating. There were certain first principles which must always be kept in view.

The first was the importance of good soil and then that soil must be treated properly. On a lean, hungry farm there were lean men, lean cattle and lean pocket books. Clay soils he claimed were best for dairying.

THE MYERS' CASE.

Editor Review.

Sir,—Elgin Myers who committed suicide at Penticton, B.C., was involved, the papers say, in the Dominion Trust collapse in B. C. It was like the Farmers' Bank. Mr. Myers was a Liberal agent here in Peterborough during the federal election of 1908. His headquarters were at the old Crown. He was here a month. How that fine old crowd is all going by violent deaths. Who will be next? The following appeared in The Globe:—

The famous Gamey-Stratton sensation of 1903 is recalled by the tragic end of Elgin C. Myers, who shot himself at Penticton, B.C., on Sunday. Myers was at that time private secretary to Hon. J. R. Stratton, Provincial Secretary in the Ross Cabinet. He was afterwards connected with the Dominion Permanent Loan & Mortgage Company, and later went to the Pacific Coast.

A few weeks ago he appeared for preliminary trial on a charge of firing into the Aquatic Building and wounding two men. His trial was to have been on January 13. He had not been in good health for some time.

Yours truly,

every village and in many towns where German troops passed. They were also used as stables and prisons and sacred vessels were stolen. In the diocese of Malines, twenty-six priests were killed without cause; in Liege diocese ten priests, and in Namur diocese, twenty.

Many specific instances are quoted. The priest of Spontin was hung up first by the feet, then by hands and then pierced with bayonets. The priest of Duechen an invalid aged eighty-seven, was accused by Germans of having fired upon them. He was arrested, hoisted on a cannon, tossed into a ditch, tortured and shot. The statement says it is significant that it was the announced policy of Germans to take priests before almost any others as hostages and this policy was carried out.

An outbreak of burglary is reported at Port Hope, many of the stores in the town having been broken into. Some of the merchants are sleeping in their stores, to be on the watch for the thieves.

SPRING FLOODS

They Are Full of Danger, but May Lead to a Steady Flowing Stream

By DONALD CHAMBERLIN

When Bob Elliot became engaged to Kate Winston society smiled. Bob was known to be in a chronic state of betrothal, and Kate was considered the queen of flirts. Everybody supposed the affair between them to be a game on both sides and wondered which would come out winner. It was not believed that anything very serious had resulted from the escapades of either, for both had the reputation of getting out of their entanglements without being very much blamed.

Just what was the real intent with reference to each other of Bob Elliot and Kate Winston they alone knew. There was the usual skirmishing, with a proposal and an acceptance. Quite naturally after her betrothal Kate thus addressed her fiance:

"I am much concerned, Bob, about this engagement between us. You see, it is a very serious matter for a girl like myself, who has not yet seen much of the world, to give her heart to a man. I have been told that you have been engaged many times, and if this is true you must have caused a great deal of distress to a number of innocent girls."

"How about the distress those innocent girls have caused me?"

"I thought you said I was the only girl you ever loved."

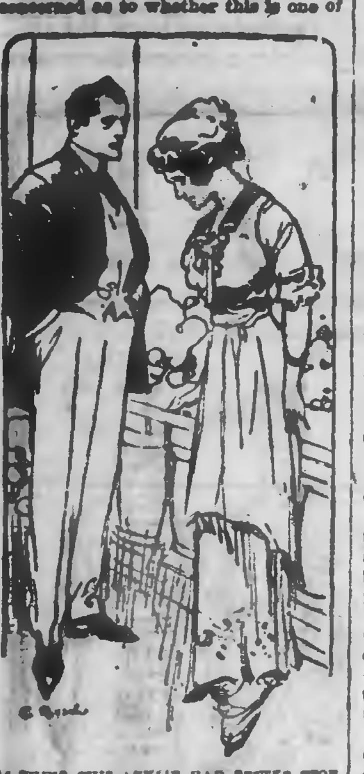
Mr. Elliot, being thus thrown on his beam ends, remained silent. He had nothing more to say in his defense.

"I don't think," continued Miss Winston, "that I should feel safe in announcing this engagement before sufficient time has passed to determine whether you are trifling or"—

"It's the real thing."

"Your flippant way of speaking of it is not encouraging."

"To tell the truth, Kit, I am as much concerned as to whether this is one of your butterfly flightings or whether you are going to stop where you are."



"I THINK THIS AFFAIR HAD BETTER STOP RIGHT HERE."

"What do you mean?" bristling.

"I mean that it's no use for the pot to call the kettle black."

"Am I to infer from that slangy expression that I have any such reputation as you?"

"Not at all; my reputation is all right."

There was a pause during which Miss Winston seemed to be turning the matter over in her mind. Finally she said:

"I think this affair had better stop right here."

"Come, come, sweetheart," taking her hand and putting an arm around her waist. "Suppose we stop fencing and speak the truth. We are neither of us supposed by the world to be immaculate in the matter of heart hunting. Doubtless the devil in this case is painted blacker than he is, but where there is so much smoke there must be some fire. I have told you that I love you, that you are the only girl I have ever loved, and I mean it. Nevertheless since you have heard things to my discredit you should be fortified against their being brought up against me in future. I confess I have heard the same of you."

"Falsehoods!"

"Certainly, all false from beginning to end. Now, in order to clear out the brambles from the path before us so that we may walk on—well, on roses"—

"That's much nicer than your other similes."

"Which one, for instance?"

"The pot calling the kettle black."

He kissed her and proceeded.

"In order to clear away this accumulation of falsehood on both sides suppose we confess all our escapades from start to finish."

"That's a splendid idea."

"Well, suppose you begin."

"I have nothing to confess."

"You have spoiled my plan."

"You would not have proposed such a plan if your conscience had been clean."

"Kate!"

"What?"

"Why don't you study law? You'd make a far better lawyer than nine-tenths of the men."

"We women don't need to study law. We are born with enough law in our heads to serve our own purposes, and we don't want any more."

"Then you decline to meet me halfway, confessing your past transgressions as well as I?"

"No; I'll confess all, but I warn you that my sins are so slight that they are not worth confessing."

"I must be the judge of that."

"Oh, go on."

"Well, to begin at the beginning, there was that Miss Fitzhugh from Virginia. She was engaged to an army officer in the Philippines. She undertook to make me believe that she had made a mistake, which she didn't find out till she met me."

"The horrid thing!"

"There was nothing in that, was there?"

"Of course not. Go on."

"Then followed Helen Blake, who had driven a country lad to drown himself. You wouldn't have had me hang myself for her, would you?"

"I wouldn't mind if you had driven her to commit suicide herself."

"That's two. A widow got hold of me with the intention of marrying me, whether I would or not. Not being in a marrying mood, I demurred. These are the only cases worth mentioning. It only remains for you to give me a 'clean bill' and proceed with your own record."

"I'm awfully glad to know that there is nothing in these reports after all, and I assure you there is no more in those about me. So you may feel perfectly satisfied."

"Just so, but I think I'd feel better if I had a detailed account of each one of them from your own sweet lips."

He kissed the aforesaid lips several times, which doubtless brought forth the confession that followed:

"Ned Bissell was the first. He played tennis with me. When we had played awhile we sat down on a bench. There was no one else there and—well, he did what he had no right to do—he kissed me."

"What did you let him do that for?"

"How could I help myself?"

"How many times did he kiss you?"

"How many? Why, several times."

"A dozen?"

"I suppose so."

"No matter, since you couldn't help it. Was that all there was to that affair?"

"Yes."

"Didn't he pursue you so that you were obliged to go away for a season?"

"Well, yes, he did cut up a good deal."

"Never mind any more about him. How about that young lawyer?"

"There was nothing in that to my discredit."

"Didn't you force him to go away for a postgraduate course?"

"I didn't do any such"—

"Hold on. I knew an intimate friend of his who told me the whole story."

"It seems that you are making my confession, not I."

"Well, go on and make the rest of it yourself."

"There's only one more of any importance."

"Who is that?"

"Dick Canfield."

"If what I have heard about his case is true it was a very important one."

"What did you hear?"

"Never mind that, sweetheart. He got over it in time and is engaged. But he came near putting a blight on you that would have stuck by you through life."

There was a solemn silence between them, during which she snuggled closer to him.

"Sometimes I think," she said at last, "that when we get older we will realize the dangers through which we have passed in youth and wonder how we could have acted so. Then we'll be very careful and not do so any more."

"But we won't have any fun."

"I think this is a good time for us to reform, don't you?"

"A splendid time; we won't be tempted any more."

"Of course we won't. We'll be wrapped up in each other and won't care enough for any one else to wish to flirt. I'm glad we have made these confessions. You see, it's an even thing between us. You have been as bad as I."

"I thought you exonerated me completely."

"Did I?"

This dialogue took place between 10 and 11 o'clock at night. At 2 in the morning Mr. Elliot, after a dozen kisses in the drawing room, a dozen in the hall and a dozen at the door, took his departure. He wondered then how he had been able to tear himself away. Ten years later he wondered how he could have spent seven hours with one girl and what they had been talking about.

After her confession Miss Winston went to bed feeling that she had thrown off the recklessness of youth, that her sins were forgiven and that she would never do any more flirting.

As for Mr. Elliot, he had known much more of his fiancee's record than she had confessed. It didn't trouble him a bit so long as he was not one of the sufferers. For them he had no sympathy whatever. It is a matter of happy record that these two sinners were blessed—far more blessed than they deserved. Their wedded life was happy, and they dearly loved each other and their children.

All of which goes to prove that those who safely pass the dangers of youth may do well later on.

Rheumatism

A Home Cure Given by One Who Had It.

In the spring of 1893 I was attacked by Muscular and Inflammatory Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who have it know, for over three years. I tried remedy after remedy, and doctor after doctor, but such relief as I received was only temporary. Finally, I found a remedy that cured me completely, and it has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted and even bedridden with Rheumatism, and it effected a cure in every case.

I want every sufferer from any form of rheumatic trouble to try this marvellous healing power. Don't send a cent; simply mail your name and address and I will send it free to try. After you have used it and it has proven itself to be that long-looked-for means of curing your Rheumatism, you may send the price of it, one dollar, but understand, I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer when positive relief is thus offered you free? Don't delay. Write today.

GENERAL AUGUST VON MACKENSEN.

The leader of the German forces against Russia, is credited with one of the most brilliant feats yet chronicled in the present war. When his army was almost entirely surrounded by the Russians, he succeeded in bringing it through, not unscathed, but still capable of carrying on the offensive. The Iron Cross of the first order was conferred upon him recently.

NOT A ROYAL COOK

Colored "Auntie" Would Not Desire Queen Mary For Mistress

Ambassador and Mrs. Walter H. Page have a negro mammy in North Carolina whose devotion to "her white folks" is very strong. They left her behind them when they went to represent the United States at the court of St. James, but "Aunt Mary," as she is called, was kept fully informed as to their movements, the fetes in their honor, and such momentous things. In one of the letters, Mrs. Page wrote that Queen Mary had been very kind to her, and Aunt Mary, in a glow of gratitude, decided that she ought to do something to show her appreciation of the Queen's consideration. After much thought, she decided that a ham, cured according to the choicest old Southern recipe, would be an appropriate gift to royalty; so she smoked the ham, rubbed it with spices, wrapped it in a local newspaper along with a picture post card labelled "To the Queen, from Aunt Mary," crated it, and sent it off. Of course, word of it reached the Queen, and she declared herself delighted to receive the gift, and sent her thanks to old Aunt Mary.

A few months after this someone asked the old mammy, half as a joke, what she would do if the Queen made her cook-extraordinary at the court. The old woman shook her head emphatically.

"Ah wouldn't do it; Ah wouldn't do it," she declared. "Ah wouldn't do it, not even fer dat Miss Queen. De first time Ah cooked somepun she didn't like, she'd up an' say, 'Take dat old nigger out an' chop her haid off!'"—Woman's Home Companion.

CLEARING UP A MYSTERY.

Intricacies of a Great War Are Simple When One Understands Them.

"What I don't understand," said the girl under the velvet bowl, "is why they went to war in the first place."

"Oh, that's easy," replied the girl under the goura spray. "It was caused by the assassination of the Austrian crown prince."

"Yes, I understand that, of course," said the velvet bowl, "and I suppose the Pan-Slavs just had to be put down, but I don't see why Belgium should be treated so dreadfully."

"Well, you see, my dear, that is only because Belgium was neutral."

"What a pity, isn't it? If Belgium had only not been neutral. I suppose that is what England tried to do. Hasn't England been superb?"

"Hasn't she? I love Sir Edward Grey."

"He was the one who did so much for Belgium, wasn't he? Still, I don't understand even now why they went to war in the first place."

"Well, you see, they couldn't help it, because Germany is so military."

"And I suppose Belgium being neutral made it all the harder."

"Of course, as I understand it, when a neutral country meets one intensely military country war must follow."

"Isn't it dreadful?"

"Terrible!"—Life.

GATHERED BASQUE.

The Favorite Bodice In One of its Latest and Smartest Forms.

This basque with seams that extend to the shoulders is one of the latest developments. It can be made with full or with plain side portions, but it is always closed down the front.

Chiffon velvet makes a beautiful basque to be worn over a skirt of charmeuse satin. One of the new soft faille silks would be lovely with a velvet skirt, and a simpler desirable combination will be found in a basque of charmeuse satin to be worn over a skirt of gabardine.

The sleeves can be made either in full or three-quarter length.

Here the basque with full side portions is made of charmeuse satin in the new purple known as aztec, and the collar and cuffs are of white.

For the medium size the basque with gathered sides will require four and three-eighths yards of material twenty-seven inches wide, with three-eighths yard twenty-seven inches wide for the collar and cuffs; the basque with plain sides three and three-eighths yards twenty-seven inches wide.

WINNIPEG GRAIN MARKET.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 7.—The wheat market opened ⅛c to ⅝c lower, oats ¼c lower and flax unchanged. Later a firmness developed on good demand and a gain of 1⅛c to 1½c over the opening was noted before noon, with a strong undertone. Only a light volume of trade was put thru. Export trading was dull and inactive, bids being out of line.

Cash grain unchanged, only odd cars being offered, and a keen demand for anything that comes on the market. Low grades of wheat are daily narrowing up in prices on the future.

Inspections on Wednesday were 112 cars, as against 151 last year, and in sight 90 cars.

Later the market closed strong for both wheat and flax. Sales in the south for export was the influence on wheat values. Futures closed 1⅝c to 1⅞c higher. Cash closed 1⅞c to 2c up, oats ½c up and flax 2⅝c advance.

MONTREAL GRAIN MARKET.

MONTREAL, Jan. 7.—Cables on Manitoba spring wheat came weaker with bids 6d lower this morning, which exporters would not accept and business in consequence was very quiet, but on the renewed strength in the Winnipeg market later in the day cables in the afternoon were stronger at an advance of 6d and sales of a few odd loads were made. The tone of the local market for coarse grains is firm with a steady demand for car lots. There was a slight improvement in the local and outside demand for spring wheat flour at the advance in prices. The outside demand continues good and a fair amount of business was done to South Africa, West Indies, and London. In sympathy with the advance in spring wheat grades a strong feeling developed in the market for winter wheat flour today and prices were advanced 40c to 50c per barrel with sales of straight rollers at $5.90 to $6 per barrel in wood. The demand for millfeed continues good and prices are firm. A stronger feeling has developed in the market for butter and prices have scored a further advance of ½c per pound with sales of car lots of finest September-October creamery at 29½c to 30c. Cheese is quiet. Eggs were in good demand.

Bullets "Explode" Blood.

WARSAW, Russia, Jan. 8.—A surgeon who has treated many wounded at Lodz says that the worst rifle bullets wounds are caused by normal, small-calibre bullets which agree perfectly with Hague Conference restrictions. These bullets, when they enter blood vessels at great speed—that is, at close range — send the blood flying around with great violence. The bullet itself makes a small hole, but the "exploding" blood produces rending effects far worse than any dum-dum.

A young man applies for assistance. Said he was a clerk. He stated that he had been out of employment, having been "left off" during last August. Said he had done nothing since. When asked why not, replied "that he had not been sent for." He had made no effort of any kind to secure work of any kind in the interval. He was given some help and told to go out and help himself. In the opposite view to this is the case of a boy or young man, hearing that there was a batch of wood to chop at Young's Point, borrowed an axe and walked to the village to secure the job and got it.

It may be stated that in the cases of men who have enlisted, and gone with either of the contingents, and whose people apply for assistance, investigation is rarely, if ever needed. The fact that the bread-winner is in the ranks is sufficient. The regulations state what is to be done, although these regulations are not within the purview of the local relief committee except this far. It takes some time to get the wheels of the Canadian Patriotic Fund moving. Certain returns and details must be drawn up and submitted to the Central Board. In the meantime those at home, and of the family, should not be allowed to suffer. In such cases the local relief fund will take care, in a measure, of the family until the regular remittances arrive.

No Red Tape.

Many of our people may know of cases that are deserving and which should be met. There may be extreme reluctance to ask and make circumstances known. In such cases the executive officer will supply cards to be filled up and on which information the committee can act. Either phone No. 261 or address to the city buildings and cards will be mailed at once. The office hours are from 8 a.m. to 12 p.m. The afternoon is given to other work and investigation. In case of necessity, and if so advised, the executive officer will be at the rooms in the evening by appointment. This that any urgent case shall have attention. There is no red tape, no doorkeepers, no austerity, but a real decent desire to do the very best and to do it now.

While not altogether pertinent to the matter several enquiries have come in with regard to the conditions of enlistment. These are given below for general information. While not of the local fund and its cares they stand alongside.

From time to time additional information will be given of the working and operation of the association, and presently a weekly statement of amounts expended, that all may know how things are progressing.

Canadian Expeditionary Force Enlistment and Pay.

For the information of all concerned the following extras from regulations are published. There is considerable enquiry in such regard.

1. Men are enlisted as privates, but may be granted high or rank in their respective units according to their qualifications, etc.

2. The pay of a private is $1.00 per day and 10 cents field allowance. This is payable from date of attestation.

3. The enlistment is for one year or duration of the war, and six months after the termination of the war if services are required.

4. In addition to pay all soldiers will be clothed, equipped and subsisted.

5. From the time volunteers leave their homes until they return, the wives of married men, and the widowed mothers of single men, if such sons are sole support, will receive a monthly allowance of $20.00.

6. In case a man is permanently injured a liberal pension will be granted to him, according to extent of the injury.

7. In case a man is killed or dies of injuries received on service his wife, and children under certain ages, will be given a substantial pension.

Arrangements are being made for the accommodation of 1250 men at Guelph, who will be trained for the front.

Rev. Dr. W. A. MacKenzie, of Westport, in the Brockville Presbytery, has been called to the Presbyterian Church at Colborne.

Annual Election Y.M.C.A. Directors

The annual election of the directors of the Y. M. C. A. will occur on Tuesday evening, January 19th, at 7.30 o'clock. The terms of the following directors expire: J. H. Connal, W. B. Warne, F. J. Might, J. T. C. Lang.

A nominating committee consisting of three members of the board of directors and three men from the active membership of the Association have been appointed, according to the provisions of the constitution, to nominate men to fill the vacancies. Any active member of the Association may submit names to the nominating committtee within one week of the said elections.

At the annual meeting the yearly report of the Association will be presented, and any business concerning the welfare of the Association will be presented.

A vacancy on the board of trustees is to be filled, caused by the removal of Judge G. M. Rogers from the county of Peterborough.

The war and the consequent financial stringency has affected the Association to a large extent, but as a good work is being done by this institution the officers are optimistic regarding the support that will be rendered by the Peterborough citizens this coming year.

FOUR SOLDIERS ARE ARRESTED

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Toronto, Jan. 8.—Warrants were issued at Bridgeburg this morning, by order of Attorney General Lucas for the arrest of Constable Delaney, Corporal Kaye, and Ptes. McIntosh and Kinsman. The arrests were effected this afternoon and bail was refused. The attorney general's department is acting without any suggestion from the federal or Imperial Government.

CONVENTION CONCLUDES

Next there must be economical feed.

But after all the dairying business depended on the man, and the man who is going to make strides must be a reader, thinker, worker, but most of all must be clean.

Afternoon Session.

Prof. H. H. Dean, of the Agricultural College, took up the first principles of dairying. He said the farmers had to be shown that clean milk was essential. He was a strong believer in the pasteurization of milk for the city trade and for the manufacture of butter. He did not think any other kind was safe for use. Prof. Dean emphasized the need of having men with plenty of gray matter on the farms and in eudcational institutions.

Regarding the use of salt, Mr. Dean thought a mistake was being made in using too much salt in the manufacture of cheese and butter. Cheese was found to be of best quality when ripened at a temperature of 40 degrees. Butter-milk and skim-milk were good foods, and now, when the cost of living was so high, some plan should be worked out to utilize all dairying byproducts.

The second afternoon address was an illustrated one by Dr. W. T. Connell, bacteriologist of Queen's College, Kingston, who threw on the screen pictures of various types of factory and farm wells.

Geo. A. Putnam.

The third address was by Geo. A. Putnam, director of dairying, Toronto. Mr. Putnam congratulated the dairymen on the marked increase in production, shown by reports that reached him. Great advance was being made from year to year. There was more uniformity shown in the brand of cheese and butter being manufactured. The closer one got to perfection, however, the harder it was to advance. There was a growing appreciation on the part of the average producer for thorougly scientific methods. Dairymen should use the milk sedimentation test more freely, and he thought every patron should have samples of his milk submitted to hi mafter the test had been applied.

Mr. Putnam thought it the duty of dairymen to make conditions for their fellow-dairymen a little more interesting. Dairymen could do this because they were men of money. They should secure the co-operation of the dwellers in their community. There were a hundred and one things that could be done to make communities more attractive to its young men and women. They could see that the public schools were more efficient. If a good teacher was employed, she should be retained, rather than another teacher hired who could be secured for less remuneration. Great attention should be paid to the sanitary conditions surrounding the schools. Cheese factories could be brightened and improved at little cost.

Mr. Putnam told of care that had been exercised to guard children's health by medical inspection. He said there existed just as much need for medical inspection in rural schools as in city schools. He said a larger number of travelling libraries should be introduced. They could be secured from the Department of Education. He also spoke at some length on the value and service of the women's institutes around the country and their liberal response to the call to equip a hospital ship. There was a different attitude now taken by the residents of rural communities to that of several years ago. Then a great many had their faces turned to the city. Now centralization of efficiency was being adopted in rural institutions in the endeavor to benefit the residents of rural comunities and keep them at home.

MAJORITY OF PRIZES AND TROPHIES REMAIN HERE

More than half of the prizes and trophies put up for competition among poultry breeders were carried away by local exhibitors at the Poultry Show, which ended last night. It is generally conceded by the judges from year to year that no city outside of Guelph and Ottawa puts on a more successful exhibition than Peterborough, but the unfortunate feature of the situation is that local people seem unaware of the fact. Some of the birds which received red ribbon awards at Guelph were shown at the local show and afforded people an opportunity to see what fancy poultry breeding was capable of producing. The attendance, however, was not up to the mark of other years, but in all other respects the show can be included in the list of successful and satisfactory years.

Some local men worked all night last night in preparing the birds for shipment, and at seven o'clock this morning the task was done without any confusion having occurred. When it is remembered that there were about 1,100 birds to be thus handled, the enormity of the task can be appreciated.

Mr. Frank Dobbin presented the twenty-two cups and other prizes last night at nine o'clock, performing the ceremony in his customary genial style. A fairly large number of the citizens dropped in last night.

$2400 SAVED

To City by Re-arranging Scale of Wages on the Hydro

Manager Fisk of the Utilities Commission reported to that body yesterday in regard to the progress he is making along the lines of organization. He stated that he has re-arranged the scale of wages and according to figures, his system will save the city some $2,400 per year. The caring of the street lights is also receiving special attention and during the past week only one was reported out. This is quite different from a couple of months ago when upwards of 300 were being reported out monthly.

A resolution was passed at yesterday's meeting giving the manager full control in the employing and discharging of employes.

TEMPLE BAND GAVE PROGRAM AT KEENE, MET WITH MISHAP

A large audience heard the Temple Band at the Keene town hall last night. The program consisted of musical and vocal selections and Adjutant McElhiney presided.

Afterwards, the ladies provided refreshments, an act which was much appreciated by the visitors and was acknowledged by Bandmaster Beer.

The band made the journey in two buses. On the outgoing journey, one of the buses overturned, throwing the bandsmen in the ditch but fortunately there was lots of snow, and all came out without a scratch. The return journey was made without mishap, the bandsmen reaching here at 2 o'clock this morning.

What the Chairman Thought.

Mr. B. F. Ackerman the newly-elected chairman of the board for 1915, before putting the motion and amendment to vote, remarked that the charges lay against himself fully as much as any member of the board. Personally if he had been looking for personal gain he could have obtained it by more attention to the business of his own. The only item he knew of that had not been bought by tender was the blinds which had been purchased to save money for the ratepayers. Personally he could recall no instance of personal gain.

Mr. Smith said that to keep peace and quietness in the family he would ask Mr. Crane if it would be satisfactory to him if the matter were left with the county judge instead of the Minister of Education.

Mr. Crane—"I think the Minister of Education the proper man to look into it."

Mr. Smith—"I don't feel inclined to support either motion or amendment because some of the pre-election statement were not charges; they were more what one could take out of them. I think the two motions could be framed into one very easily.

Mr. Crane then explained that speaking privately he could not afford to have his name connected with anything that looked wrong in view of his connection with a banking institution and he wished to see the matter cleared up.

Mr. Gordon endosed this attitude. He thought Mr. Crane was exactly right and had a perfect right to wish it cleared up. Commissions were notoriously unsatisfactory to both parties concerned as was demonstrated in the Proudfoot charges and the Trent Canal investigation. The right course was to let the matter stand for a month and give him time to lay on the table certain statements and material which had to be gathered.

Should be Settled at Once.

Colonel Miller rose to say that his view of the matter was that it should be settled right away. As far as the public was concerned there were charges against the board and he could not afford to stand for that. He had resided in Peterborough since 1864 and had never to his knowledge done anything unmanly and he did not wish to be told that he was in collusion with anything of that character. He couldn't stand for being called crooked. He jokingly wanted to know whether he would get three, six or twelve months. As far as any transaction by the Board of Education was concerned he wanted the fullest publicity given them in the press. He did not mind having the county judge called in by a commission, and of all county judges he would like to see Judge Huycke handle it.

It remained for Mr Crane to bring the matter to a temporary conclusion by stating that in view of the absence of two members, Mr. Denne and Mr. Eastwood, that the question be left over for one week so that the opinion of the whole board could be obtained. Adjournment was then made on the understanding that Mr. Gordon submit if possible in the intervening time a written statement of certain things he wished to have investigated.

Standing Committees.

Mr. B. F. Ackerman was elected to the position of chairman for 1915, acknowledging the honor in a few words of thanks. The following committees for the year were selected.

Finance — Vincent Eastwood, (chairman), Colonel Miller, Roland Denne, Dr. Burnham, and T. B. McGrath.

Property —T. Smith (chairman), Colonel Miller, G. N. Gordon, Vincent Eastwood.

Supervision—John Crane (chairman), W. H. Hill, Dr. Burnham and Colonel Miller.

Mr. W. H. Hill was re-elected chairman of the committee of appointments.

ELLIOT'S

SITUATION IS ALTERED BY DEFEAT OF TURKS

Military Men Say Advance of Russians Through Carpathians and Drive Towards Cracow Are Great Undertakings of the War—Attack in Warsaw Zone is Weakening—Russians Take Offensive.

LONDON, Jan. 8. — A complete change in the situation in the near east may be brought about by the Russian victory over the Turks in the Caucasus. If the Turkish defeat is as sweeping as has been officially reported — the virtual destruction of two and the repulse of a third Turkish army corps —the Turkish menace against the Russians in Transcaucasia has been removed.

Military men, however, are taking even greater interest in the Russian invasion of Hungary through Uzsok Pass, in the Carpathians, and their rapid advance on Transylvania, through Bukowina, simultaneously with their movement toward Cracow. These combined operations are the most gigantic undertaken in the war.

In the meantime the Russians are held by the Austro-Germans in western Galicia, and Field Marshal von Hindenburg, the German commander in northern Poland, can move but slowly, because of the mud, in his offensive operations against Warsaw.

Frederick Rennet, Petrograd correspondent of The London News says:

"The German attacks on the Bzura and Rawka rivers for the last fortnight have been steadily weakening, tremendous losses having reduced their strength.

"The Russians on Tuesday took the offensive in north Poland with brilliant success. There have been signs since the slackening of the German attack on the central position that the enemy was intending to move on the flanks of the Russians, but the latter advanced first and surprised the German leading column on the River Rozsrava and drove it back with heavy loss.

"Before they were able to prepare their resistance many prisoners were taken by the Russians, who are now pressing in force close on the heels of the German northern army.

"This victory has great value, since it has upset the first move in Gen. von Hindenburg's new scheme, which he conceived after the direct attack along the Warsaw roads was abandoned."

The following statement from the Russian General Staff was issued last night:

"On the left bank of the Vistula on Jan. 6 there was an almost general lull along the front of Sochaczew-Bolimow, where only desultory fighting took place.

"The Germans, with a view to approaching our positions, are endeavoring to apply the processes of siege warfare in certain places. They advanced by sapping, and are resorting for protecting themselves to steel shields.

"In the region of the village of Sochaczew the Germans, who on the night of the 6th captured part of our trenches, were forced out of them in the morning by bayonet attacks. In the course of this fighting we captured five quick-firers and a number of prisoners.

"In Galicia the situation is without important change.

"In Bukowina we continue our offensive."

A despatch from Bucharest says:

"The Russians advance in Bukowina continues with great success toward Dorna Vatro. Thousands of Austrian civilian refugees have passed over Roumanian territory in flight towards Vienna."

TURK ARMY IS SHATTERED

Forces Were Utterly Smashed by Russians

LONDON, Jan. 8.—A despatch to The Times from its Petrograd correspondent says:

"Telegrams from Tiflis state that the blow inflicted on the Turkish army involves all the corps engaged. Of these, the Ninth and Tenth were either completely shattered or taken prisoners. The Tenth began a disorderly flight, but the Russians cut off its retreat, and entire regiments are now surrendering.

"On Saturday the Turks moved up a new corps in the direction of Sari Kamysh, but recognizing the hopelessness of their position, they quickly withdrew it. The Russian regiment at Ardahan withstood the attack of two Turkish divisions until the arrival of the main Russian forces.

"Captured officers declare that Enver Pasha, the Turkish War Minister, was confident that the occupation of Tiflis was a question of only a few days. The idea of retreat never entered his calculations.

"The scenes in the battle zone were terrible. The ground was piled high with bodies of animals and men, smashed wagons and carts in large numbers. Many of the wounded are still lying on the ground, and many have been frozen.

"A majority of the captured mountain guns are of German make."

Other despatches say that the Turkish defeat has aroused a dangerous feeling among the people in Constantinople.

FORBID TRUCES

The German Officers Dislike Friendship in Trenches

BERLIN, Jan. 8.—(Via London.)—The German army authorities have issued a general order prohibiting in future troops in the field from fraternizing with forces of the enemy as they did at several points in the western theatre of the war at Christmas.

To such an extent was this fraternizing carried out that at one place where the Germans and British played football Christmas Day, they agreed to suspend hostilities for two days more.

LATEST NEWS PARAGRAPHED

Several hundred miners have resumed work four days a week in the coal mines in the Belgian Province of Wandre.

Donald Ross, a 13-year-old youth, residing near Innerkip, a village ten miles north of Woodstock, committed suicide yesterday by hanging.

Orders were issued yesterday to the troops at Salisbury that every man must be in camp every day until the Canadian division leaves for France.

The family of the late Lt.-Col. Frank Strange, who died in London, has asked the Canadian Government to make arrangements for bringing the body home.

Prince Franz of Bavaria, grandson of King Ludwig III., has been gazetted a major-general in the German army, and given command of the 3rd Infantry Brigade.

James Weir, an insurance agent, of Chatham, was found dead on the street near his home, yesterday morning, by a laborer on his way to work. Death was caused by a paralytic stroke.

The Central News correspondent in Belgium denies the German statement that railway traffic has been restored in Belgium. He says no trains are now running in the Province of Liege.

The German Military Government of Belgium has issued an official denial of the report that Cardinal Mercier, the Belgian member of the Sacred College, has been arrested by the German authorities.

GERMANS GROW ANXIOUS.

Easy Confidence of Early Days of War is Fast Disappearing.

LONDON, Jan. 8. — A remarkable change has come over the people of Berlin and all Germany, according to an American who reached London yesterday from the German capital.

"There is a tense, anxious look on the faces of the people, in marked contrast to their confidence at the beginning of the war," he said. "One feels that the impression is gaining that all is not well; that reported victories are not all victories, and that others are secured at an immense cost.

"There are thousands of widows and orphans in Germany whose sorrow will soon crystalize in a mighty wall of protest at continuing a struggle felt to be hopeless.

"Those in authority, unaccustomed to keeping their ears turned to popular clamor, begin to realize that the people are becoming restless. The recent raid on the east coast of England, devoid of strategic significance, was ordered simply to furnish a dramatic episode, in which the Germans appeared to advantage.

"Socialists are quietly doing their utmost to foster this feeling of unquiet. Criticism of the Kaiser and his advisers is becoming more open than was ever tolerated in times of peace."

To Permit M. P.'s To Serve.

OTTAWA, Jan. 8. — An amendment to the Independence of Parliament Act is contemplated by the Government to overcome the technicality created by five members of Parliament who have gone or who are to go to the front accepting office under the crown to which pay is attached. The sessional indemnities of the five members will be voted to them in their absence at the front.

BEGINNING OF FOURTH STAGE

Germans Must Now Steadily Retire Says Col. Swinton

LONDON, Jan. 8.—"The New Year has opened up on a more favorable situation for the allies than any they had known since the commencement of the campaign," says a report made by Col. Swinton, military observer attached to the British army headquarters at the front. The report is dated Jan. 4.

"So far as the British are concerned," says the report, "the small expeditionary force of four divisions which took the field in August has now been swelled into a great army, which is steadily increasing in numbers, has become inured to war and can look back on a record of hard fighting such as British troops seldom have sustained in the past. The struggle of the last four months has entered upon its fourth phase.

"A slow, but none the less marked, change which has taken place has resulted in the definite passing of the initiative to the hands of the allies. Our advantage lies in the fact that it is now the allies, who for the past few weeks have assumed and maintained the offensive role, while the enemy has been acting on the defensive.

"Really marked progress has been achieved by the allies.

"The German defensive is an active one. It is founded on the axiom of war that the weaker the force is and the more hardly it is pressed the more persistently should it attack. But it remains true that such action is none the less essentially defensive, even though here and there one of their counter-attacks may succeed in regaining possession of a trench or in driving back a small section of our front.

"If we retain the initiative it will mean that the German soldier gradually will become increasingly conscious that he is no longer marching on Calais or Paris; that instead of pressing forward his work is merely to maintain what already has been won, and that even this limited object has not been attained. Hitherto he has continually been told that reinforcements are about to arrive and that an advance in force is imminent, while reports of startling victories on land and sea are disseminated broadcast. But such fabrications can no longer carry conviction.

"The more thoroughly they are now deceived to the true position, the greater will be the disillusionment if they realize that ultimate victory is unattainable."

After referring to the ultimate consequences of repeated small successes, the British observer adds:

"It must not, however, be thought that this is other than very slow and laborious progress, or that the final result is within immediate reach. Yet every capture by the allies of a trench represents lost ground for which the enemy expended much blood and treasure, and is a step forward in the process of attrition which eventually will bring the war to an end."

The British observer states that he is able to confirm reports that there is considerable sickness in the German ranks. He says that for some time past there has been a good deal of typhoid, and that some German units have even been withdrawn temporarily on this account.

BRITAIN CONCILIATORY.

Reply to U. S. Note Shows Disposition to Accede to Requests.

LONDON, Jan. 8. — The reply of Great Britain to the American note regarding interference with its shipping, it is said in well-informed quarters, is wholly conciliatory and shows a disposition on the part of Britain to do everything within reason to avert delay to American shipping at a time when freight rates are high and consequently loss of time is so costly to shipowners.

England wishes to do everything in its power consistent with the proper safeguarding of the interests of the allies to facilitate world trade and stimulate commerce, paralyzed as it is by war conditions. Consequently, it is declared, there is no disposition on the part of Britain to protest against the purchase of German vessels by Americans, where the sales are genuine and the ships are not used so as to avoid what might reasonably be called the consequences of belligerency.

Dominion To Start Prison Farm.

OTTAWA, Jan. 8.—It is probable that the thousand acres of land to be cleared in Montcalm County, Quebec, by German and Austrian aliens will be employed by the Government as a prison farm after the war is over.

The success of the industrial farm at Guelph has impressed the Canadian Government with the desirability of adopting a similar treatment for criminals who come under the jurisdiction of the Dominion. The Quebec Government is expected to devote another farm adjacent to the same use.

Berlin Awaits News of Victory.

BERLIN, Jan. 8.—(By wireless to Sayville.)—The latest German official bulletin verifies the public expectation that a further advance in the direction of Warsaw would be announced this week.

The Austrian official statement is featureless, the bulletin only mentioning the efforts of the Russians to continue their advance in the Carpathian Mountains, and that artillery fighting is in progress on the front to the north and the south of the Vistula river.

While visiting his home over the Christmas holidays, Private W. Webster, of Lakefield, contracted blood-poisoning, and is unable to rejoin the troops at London.

ALLIES ARE NOW EXPECTED TO ADVANCE ON ALTKIRCH

Germans in Alsace Are Trying in Vain to Regain Lost Ground by Frontal Attacks—Fighting Between Arras and Lille Shows Gains For the Allies—British Patrols Enter Heule, Near Courtrai.

LONDON, Jan. 8. — Further progress in Alsace, this time towards Altkirch, is reported in the French official statement of the day's fighting. The allied artillery are now within dominating range of this point, and it is to be expected that a successful advance will be made here at any time. Nothing new has been reported from Steinbach, where desultory fighting, and German advances in force, have being going on in an attempt to win lost ground in frontal attacks, which the Germans do not seem to have realized are fruitless, while the French check to this sort of tactics is an offensive in another direction to straighten their line.

In the north, between Arras and Lille, hard fighting is reported, with allied gains on the whole. In the Woevre district the success of the allied offensive was followed up by the capture of a part of the German first line trenches in the district northwest of Flirey. This drive will play havoc with the enemy's triangular position, with its apex resting on the Meuse at St. Mihiel.

In Flanders the British have been confronted by flooded roads and fields, making progress of infantry slow and troublesome. The bulk of the fighting has been confined to long range artillery. An official despatch from Holland says that British patrols have entered Heule, two miles northeast of Courtrai and that the Germans in Courtrai have filled all the public buildings and most of the private houses with sick and wounded. Progress a few miles further may enable the British to surround Courtrai and establish themselves still more firmly in Belgium.

Yesterday's bulletins from the French War Office said:

"Reports were received this evening of violent German attacks in the region of Lassigny, in the Argonne, at the crossing of the roads from Le Four de Paris to Varennes, and that from La Haute Chevauchee, in the region of Verdun, and on the ridge which dominates Steinbach. All these attacks have been repulsed."

"During the day of Jan. 6 there occurred, from the sea to the Lys, nothing other than artillery fighting, in which we had almost always the advantage. Our batteries put to flight certain German aviators who were coming in the direction of Dunkirk, and they compelled a cessation of the fire of German mine-throwers in the region of Zillebeke.

"The enemy bombarded violently the head of the Belgian bridge to the south of Dixmude.

"In the region of Lille we repulsed with success a violent German attack on one of our trenches. This trench, in the beginning, lost by us, was recaptured with great brilliancy and by the exploding of mines we demolished a portion of the German field works. Between the Somme and the Aisne there has been nothing to report except artillery engagements.

"To the east of Rheims, on the Alger farm, we exploded some mines yesterday evening. This resulted in the stopping of the enemy's field works.

"In the Argonne, to the west, and to the north of Verdun, there were yesterday artillery engagements in which the enemy did not show much activity.

"In the Woevre district the advance made by us to the northwest of Flirey is more important than was at first taken to be the case. We made ourselves masters of a portion of the enemy's first line.

"At Steinbach and at the adjoining heights the enemy has not delivered a counter-attack. A persistent rain, together with the state of the ground, made any operations difficult. We have retained all the positions conquered by us in preceding days. There were two attacks on the part of the enemy, one to the west of Watwiller and the other near Kolschlag. Both were immediately repulsed. We have made progress in the direction of Altkirch by occupying the forests situated four kilometres (2 1-2 miles) to the west of this town. Our heavy artillery reduced to silence that of the enemy.

"During all the day of Jan. 6, the enemy bombarded the hospital at Thann."

FINE REGIMENTS OF CANADIANS

London Standard Discusses Kitchener's Reference to Canucks

LONDON, Eng., Jan. 8.—Alluding to Kitchener's reference to the "fine Canadian regiment now at the front" The Evening Standard says: "Everything goes to show that equally fine Canadian regiments will be poured into the scene of hostilities in a stream that will astonish the Germans. About 125,000 Canadians are now under arms, the Premier tells us.

"Ontario has become a province of drill companies, and many students of the University of Toronto are drilling, and so it is everywhere. Canada even furnishes a quota of Belgians to reinforce King Albert's army.

"It is not only in men and gifts that the Empire comes to our help, but it is providing, and as time goes on will increasingly provide us, with engines of war."

Williams was sentenced two years ago by Judge Dowlin. It was claimed that he was unsound mentally and a long fight for his release ensued.

AN INDEMNITY TO FAMILIES

Great Britain Will Consider Payment of Damages

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The U. S. Government yesterday sent a formal note to Great Britain through Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British Ambassador here, requesting the punishment of those guilty of the killing of Walter Smith and the wounding of Charles Dorsch, two American citizens, who were shot by Canadian militiamen at Fort Erie, Ont., while hunting ducks in alleged violations of the Canadian game laws.

The communication which was of a friendly character pointed out that not only did the U. S. Government desire that the offenders be duly punished, but that adequate compensation be given the families of the victims.

Coincidentally with the sending of the note, Secretary Bryan received a personal memorandum from the British Ambassador here, after which the Secretary said:

"The British Government without deciding the question of liability will consider the payment of damages to the injured man and the family of the deceased."

WHOLE FAMILY IS MURDERED

Murderer of Mother and Children Committed Suicide

MONTREAL, Jan. 8.—The police have begun a search for relatives of Mrs. Van Looy, wife of a Belgian reservist, who, with her three children, was found murdered yesterday in her apartments, 313A Beaudry street.

It was discovered by the police that the deed was committed by Jean Moons, a brother of Mrs. Van Looy, who lived with them, and that the murderer had committed suicide at Cartierville. Moons was a painter, who had come to Monteral from Antwerp a year ago. When the husband left town for the war Moons promised to care for the family.

The police doctors who examined the remains believe that the woman was strangled with a rope, and that the children were killed by the murderer's hands.

Within the little flat everything was in perfect order, not even a chair being displaced. Together in one large bed lay the mother and her three children, with the covers pulled up to their chins. There was no sign of a struggle.

Examination revealed blood on the woman's nightdress. The murderer had made an effort to clean this up and left a napkin, upon which he had wiped his hands, leaving finger prints upon it.

The police believe the murderer tidied up the room after committing the crime.

Mrs. Van Looy's hand-bag, with $1.50 in it, was found on a table. Van Looy was connected with the Montreal fire department.

A re-examination of the bodies indicated that the daughter, Martha, eight, had been assaulted.

HOCKEY CURLING ATHLETICS

PRESBYTERIANS LOST TO ANGLICANS AND BAPTISTS

St. Luke's and Murray Street Sevens, Winners in Senior Church Hockey League — George Street Won Exhibition Game

The Senior Church League opened last evening at the rink, and St. Luke's vanquished St. Andrews; Charlotte Street lost to George St., and Murray Street won from St. Paul's. At eight o'clock Rev. Jas. Rollins dropped the puck, and the league was formally opened. "Ack" Hunter of the intermediates carried the bell and gave entire satisfaction. The Petes' captain showed good judgment in not holding the players too closely to the minor rules. Any offences committed were more through poor hockey than ill-will. The attendance was rather small, but will no doubt increase as the season advances.

St. Luke's 4, St. Andrews 0.

Two minutes after St. Luke's and St. Andrews started, the seven from the East City church had two goals to their credit. Carter, who performed last year with the C. G. E. Test in the Mercantile Laegue, secured the first one, and A. Butcher, who wore a Boston Exploit uniform in the City League last season, was responsible for the second. From then till half-time both teams were about even, and had it not been for Hagermans' clever work on the defence and the way George Butcher kicked them out of the nets, the Scotch brigade might have tallied.

The defence of St. Andrews, McWilliams and Sharpe, made a determined effort after the resting period, but were unsuccessful. George Butcher was called upon to show his class for a few moments, and then Hagerman relieved by a beautiful rush which resulted in making St. Luke's total three. Checking grew very close, and the wing men mixed St. Luke's back-checked very well, and thus broke up several combined rushes of the St. Andrews forward line. About a minute before the final gong sounded, Hagerman broke away for a fast rush and registered. This made the final score St. Lukes' 4, St. Andrews 0.

George St. 1, Charlotte St., 0.

The game between George Street and Charlotte Street was not a league game, as Charlotte street had withdrawn from the league, but rather than interfere with the proposed program, they went on and played an exhibition game with the George Street team. It was not what one would call first-class hockey, as both aggregations lacked condition and team play, but it afforded an abundance of amusement. Stevenson was easily the most prominent of the Charlotte Street seven while Darling the goalier of George Street saved the day for his septette by his steady work. The only goal secured was by Doupe in the first half, after a combined rush.

Murray St. 5, St. Paul's 1.

Between ten and eleven the sevens from the Murray Street Baptist Church and St. Paul's Church battled, and when the smoke cleared the Baptists had won by 5-1. The hockey was much better than the other two games, and those who remained till the late hour were not disappointed. Panter of St. Paul's and Brown and Lapp for the winners were about the best men on the ice. The scoring was performed by Brown (2), Eastwood (2), and Lapp for Murray Street, and Loucks for St. Paul's.

The score at half-time was 2-0. The teams—

THE LEAGUE RULES.

1. No hockey player is eligible to play who is 17 years old, on or before December 1, 1914.

2. Each player must supply a birth certificate from his parents. If any doubt shall arise after this be submitted to the executive, some of the officers or members of the executive may investigate further.

NORWOOD CURLERS' ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the Norwood Curling Club was held in the club room on Monday evening, Jan. 4th. Officers were elected and skips appointed for the coming season, and it was agreed to commence the regular Union Bank cup series of games on Tuesday evening, Jan. 12th. The majority of the curlers have already joined the club, but it was decided not to complete the rinks until Monday evening (11th) to give everyone intending to curl, an opportunity to join by that date. There will be another meeting of the club at the rink on Monday evening when the rinks will be completed ready to commence the regular series the following evening.

The following are the officers appointed for this season:

Patron and Patroness — Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Finlay.

President—J. R. McKelvie.

Vice-President—A. B. Greenbank.

Sec.-Treas.—C. I. Puffer.

O.C.A. Representative — R. M. Waddell.

Skips—H. W. Nicoll, T. E. Finlay, C. I. Puffer, T. Watson, J. R. McKelvie.

The season this year has opened early and there is every indication of a "hot time in the old town" again this winter.

Last season the cup was won by Messrs. Doan, Brethen, Lawlor and Finlay, and the same rink is prepared to defend it this season.—Norwood Register.

PETERBOROUGH JUNIORS DEFEATED COBOURG 8-6

Locals Made up for Loss to Port Hope — Ice Very Heavy

Cobourg, Jan. 8.—In their first game of the season, Cobourg juniors were defeated by Peterborough here last night by the score of 8 to 6. The ice was very heavy and made fast going impossible. Although Peterborough won out, the Cobourg seven look good, and will no doubt give a good run for the district yet. Cobourg has a lot of good material, and are fast rounding into shape. The teams:—

Cobourg — Goal, Bugler; point, Thompson; cover, Horne; rover, Skitch; centre, Maher; wings, Climo, Ewart.

Peterborough — Goal, Legros; point, Long; cover, Morrow; rover, Knapman; centre, Jackson; wings, Smyth, Richardson.

Referee—Lou Marsh.

PETES' NEW MEN TO PLAY

Dwyer or Janes for Goal, Spratt at Rover and Moines or Halpin on Right Wing

BELLEVILLE STONG

PETERBOROUGH		BELLEVILLE
Janes Dwyer	goal	Erie
Hunter	r. def.	Finkle
Pethick	l. def.	Tuite
Spratt	rover	Bradley
Park	centre	Whelan
Kelly	l. wing	Symons
Halpin Moines	r. wing	Brant

The above are the two lineups for tonight's game between the Peterborough and Belleville Intermediates. Jones or Dwyer will work between the posts while either Halpin or Moines will rover right wing. Moines is from Cavan and is said to have performed in the west. His ability will be better known if he plays tonight. Belleville is sending up a strong team and Coach Lawson Whitehead is determined to win.

As will be noticed Peter Spratt is down for rover and it is a safe bet that the same Peter will open the eyes of some of the visitors with his speed. He should fit in very well with the rest of the forwards. The Peterborough Club has requested that Lou Marsh be sent down to handle the game.

Boomers' Arithmetic.

"You said this town had a population of 5,000."

"That is what we claim."

"I don't believe there are over fifty people here."

"The trouble with you is that you don't count right. You saw about fifty people?"

"Yes."

"Well, there is Doc Allaway and Sam Burk. They are two ciphers. Add them and see what you would have."

COMMENT

As You Like it

ORME CAVANAH, who played for Woodstock College against Brantford on Wednesday evening made quite a hit. The Woodstock Sentinel-Review remarked: "Cavannah, who hails from Peterborough was a tower of strength on the defence in addition to making some brilliant rushes." In the story of the play the same journal chronicled as follows:—

"Cavannah and Tracey brought the crowd to their feet by attempting to "mix it" in centre ice. Tracey deliberately held the College man while he was trying to get away with the disc and his persistency along this line caused the student defence player to swat the Brantford man "lightly" on the nose. Then the fun began. Referee Sproule put an end to the "bout" when he banished Tracey for two minutes and Cavannah for five."

THE CHURCH LEAGUE opened last evening before the admiring gaze of some seventy-five people. The hockey is not of O.H.A. calibre but deserved better patronage. The league will undoubtedly do a great deal of good along the lines of developing players and if only for that reason the fans should favor the infant organization by their attendance.

THE EXECUTIVE of the Senior Church League should put forth an extra effort to settle the trivial dispute between the league and the Charlotte St. team. We think the team was a little too hasty in withdrawing.

DON'T FORGET to "butt" the cigar on entering the rink tonight. Fans who are in the habit of "twisting dreams" unconsciously had better wake up before they light them. Getting fired out of the rink is the punishment.

JACK MARSHALL, manager of the Torontos was operated on for appendicitis last night and latest reports state that the old veteran is doing very well. His absence will be a big loss to Frank Robinson's team.

SOME ONE has stated that Moines the new aspirant to the Petes' forward line, is of Meilville, Sask. The rover of the Meilville Northerners signs his name Moynes and is still in the west.

THE JUNIORS won last night so it is up to the Intermediates to score a victory this evening. At that Belleville will put up quite an argument.

Condemns Slanting Desks.

Stiff criticism of the old style slanting school desk is made by Inspector J. W. Rogers in a report to the Toronto Board of Education. These slanting desks are gradually being replaced by the level desks in Toronto, but not fast enough to suit Mr. Rogers.

He says: "It is now many years since oral work was dominant in the schools, yet still we follow the old custom of the slanting desk, modified, it is true, yet in such a form that no business man of standing from Halifax to Vancouver, would tolerate it in his office for 24 hours. Then why do we inflict on the child who is learning to use the pen under the conditions which render it well nigh impossible for him to succeed?"

With Fiske O'Hara, in "Jack's Romance," at the Grand Opera House, Monday, Jan. 11.

In "Jack's Romance," which will be presented here on Monday next by Fiske O'Hara, there is a very pretty love story, which is intertwined with the adventures of a highwayman, cattle traders and other picturesque characters who lend a quaint air to the price. Of course, there is an abundance of Irish songs, sung in the unrivalled tenor of Fiske O'Hara, merry making, fun and wit, for what would an Irish play be without them. Augustus Pitou, Jr., is said to have fully sustained his reputation as a producer of high grade plays in the presentation of the piece. The seats are now on sale.

NO POWER FOR RESIDENTIALS NOT IN CITY

Commission do not Think Affirmative Action is Advisable

The Utilities Commission may possess the desire to enlarge their electrical distributing system but it is evident that the members are not desirous of giving the immediately surrounding municipalities, many privileges, for fear it would lessen the arguments of the city to have these municipalities annexed. At the meeting of the Commission yesterday afternoon, City Engineer Parsons requested the Commission to erect a temporary line to carry power to be used in the operation of a motor on the construction of the outfall sewer on King George Street. Manager Fisk reported that one of his foremen had gone over the ground and it would cost but little more to construct a permanent line with which several residences in that vicinity could be supplied current. Already numerous residents had announced their willingness to sign a contract.

Mr. Hicks claimed that it would hardly be right to provide power to that district unless it would become part of the city. If the Commission took such a step it would in his mind lessen the attractiveness of the city for newcomers. They would locate outside the city limits where they could enjoy the same privileges as citizens yet not pay nearly the same taxes. The other members of the Commission thought along the same line so the request of the engineer was allowed to stand over.

OPERATIONS OF PATRIOTIC FUND

(By an Executive Officer)

During the last week inquiries have been made as to the operations of the relief committee selected to go on with the distribution of the funds coming as the apportionment from the patriotic fund campaign. It will be recollected that it was promised that of the amount collected and subscribed, one-quarter would be retained for the purposes of relief for those in straightened circumstances, brought on by conditions arising out of those provoked by the war. So a considerable sum was set aside for the purpose.

Late in the last month the Peterborough Relief Association was organized, with Mr. H. Rush chairman, and Messrs. G. A. Gillespie, M.P.P., Rev. Jas. Rollins, W. Stocker, Adjt. McElhiney, R. Harstone, and D. O'Connell as an executive committee. After some consideration it was arranged that the services of an executive officer should be secured, and this was done. Some relief had been distributed from the funds by Mr. Miller, but the association committee began its work beginning of January, one week ago. During the interval every effort has been made to bring the distribution to a methodic and systematic form, and the arrears of work are being rapidly cleared up. In a short time things will be running smoothly, and it is hoped efficiently.

Much Under the Surface.

That the privation is widespread there is no doubt. All who are in the work are fully aware of this. There is much more than appears on the surface. There are many cases of real hardship among people, ordinarily comfortable so long as work is procurable, but who are now in most straightened and painful circumstances. For the first and only time in their lives, the combination of circumstances has worked havoc. They have hesitated to ask for assistance, as a matter of decent personal pride. The good mechanic involuntarily revolts at such an alternative. But what would you?

It will be observed that the fund is "for relief of people in straightened circumstances, brought about by the war." That, while broadly defining the purposes of the fund, is sufficiently elastic to allow of the comittee using some reasonable discretion in cases of real hardship and some necessity. The main thing is to relieve. There is no use splitting hairs while the women and children are cold, hungry and destitute. At the same time, the one thing to be avoided, so far as possible, is an indiscriminate giving away of the fund. This the committee recognizes and have set themselves out to guard against. And so to do it with as little of what may seem a holding back of assistance as possible. It amounts to this, that if all who come would honestly state all the circumstances, a conclusion could be quickly arrived at. Not to put off relief for the time being. That is given at once, but of that which will be done for the future. It is not so much misrepresentation as a holding back of facts that are material. When these facts are known, then the proposition can be sized up. We do not want penuriousness in the administration of the fund, but a wise economy, that it shall last as long as possible, or at any rate over the winter months.

System of Records.

A thorough system of reports, indexing, investigation, personal records, habits and circumstances of the applicants, together with a set of books of sufficient convenience to ensure accuracy, are being opened. It is a tedious job, but it must be done. The people who made the fund have a right to expect that it will be guarded while it is in trust. That if a fact is desired, it can be submitted for inspection.

It is well to remember that there will be two measures of relief. One, the city board, which administers the usual apportionment each winter. There are claims on this, and from this source that will be met out of the funds of the regular city grant. The other is the relief fund from the patriotic fund movement, and it is the dispensing of the latter that we are considering. So far as determined, the usage is to afford relief upon the application. Before so doing, a card is filled out, carrying, when fully entered, all needful particulars of the case. These need not be enumerated here, but they disclose the exact state of affairs. Immediately an investigation is made by some one competent to judge fairly of the state of affairs and to draw a reasonable conclusion. This is necessary to prevent imposition, and what is equally important, a duplication of relief. It is not intended that the relief given shall be ample for support. Once given support, there is the contingency that reasonable effort to find employment would cease. The relief must be supplementd, as far as possible, by what earnings can be secured.

After much consideration the committee made a schedule to meet the varying conditions that arise. Manifestly, the conditions are different between the needs of a man and wife, and, say, a man and wife and five children. The scale considers this and meets the situation. It is not material as to this scale, but it is as liberal as could be determined considering the number of applicants and the probability of the fund being made to last as long as possible. It need not be put in print, but can be seen by anyone who calls at the rooms.

Several good friends, the Quaker Oats Co., the Peterborough Cereal Co., the Campbell Milling Co., and others have given very large quantities of food stuffs, a most wise way of making contribution. These things are the very necessaries of life. While these gifts vary in money value from $300 down, it is a great satisfaction that the goods are put in at the very lowest wholesale prices. This is an advantage, as it affords a larger quantity for distribution. These firms are most helpful in the matter; put the goods up in convenient packages, and solicitous that is shall be quite fresh and of the very best, and are assisting in the distribution. As such things are a necessity in every family, portions are given instead of money, and the arrangement is working out nicely. In the case of male members of families coming, they are expected to carry the goods home. In the case of women, the goods are delivered.

No Publicity.

In the judgment of the committee, and no doubt citizens will agree, it is not desirable that any publicity be given to individual cases. No one should be at all humiliated. These are times that the world, the country and Peterborough never saw before, and most devoutedly hope never to see again. But it will be understood that all reasonable inquiry will be cheerfully met. Call at the rooms, or telephone, and any question, not an impertinent one—that is, impertinent to the recipient of the fund—will be frankly answered. The committee hopes, and is earnestly working to the end, that when the fund has been expended and closed out, that not one act done by it may be the subject of criticism on any ground, but that perhaps a warm heart has overruled a hard one.

It might be claimed that this inquiry into circumstances is going beyond the bounds of friendly decency. Indeed, this is not so. It is no breach of confidence to make a couple of illustrations. Here is one:

The mother of a family approaches the officer for assistance. Sees one or two of the committee to support her application, and for which course there is indeed no need. The personal opinions of the members do not count, only as a matter of seeing that justice is done. Relief was granted. The statement was made that the husband, (there was a family of husband, wife and several children) had had his wages so reduced where employed that he could bring home at the end of the week only $6.50. It was understood that the wife and mother was making what she believed to be a perfectly honest statement. Investigation showed, by following the case up, that the man was earning and getting $16.50 per week. He took home $6.50. Where the difference went to was not stated. Relief at once stopped.

The Peterborough Utilities Commission met yesterday afternoon and started the year right by deciding to pay the balance of the contract price $4,868 to John McDougal, Caledonia Iron Works Co., Montreal, for the pump furnished the commission by that firm and interest on that sum at 5 per cent. per annum from Dec. 15th, 1913, also the account of a representative of the firm who came to this city to look over the installing of the pump. FRENCH GAINS IMPORTANT

Three Lines of German Trenches Taken at one Point --- German Victory in Alsace is Recorded

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Jan. 9. — Successes of greater or less importance at various points along the battle line in France are claimed in the official report on the progress of fighting, given out by the French war office this afternoon. German victory is admitted in Alsace, where troops of Emperor William re-occupied Burnhaup-le-haut.

In one place, the French gain consisted of three lines of German trenches, and at another, they advanced 500 yards. Elsewhere lesser gains or retention of positions are recorded.

French artillery also has been active with results declared to be advantageous.

THE LIBRARY IS POPULAR

Increase of 2194 Books and Magazines Taken Out

692 TICKETS ISSUED

The annual report of F. M. Dela Fosse, librarian at the public library, shows the library to be steadily gaining in patronage and appreciation of the citizens. The increase in the number of books and magazines taken out during the year was 2194, the total being 53,479. The number of books taken out by juveniles was 5,514, an increase of 1,162. Books added to the library number 1,102, eighty-nine of which were presented. Volumes to the number of 437 were taken from circulation owing to having reached their limit of usefulness.

Good work has been accomplished by the assistants, Miss Aylmer and Miss Sullivan, and very satisfactory work has been done by Mr. Mathieson, the janitor.

The number of tickets issued throughout the year has been 692 of which 193 were issued to juveniles. The total number of tickets issued to date is 4,893.

ALL READY FOR WORK ON STREET RAILWAY LINE

W. H. Munro, manager of the Peterborough Radial Railway Co., informed the Review today that as soon as the weather this spring becomes mild enough, work will be commenced on the inserting of heavier rails on Charlotte street to permit the city going ahead with their paving contract, and also the work of extending the Charlotte street line to Boundary Road and down the Boundary Road to Patterson street.

LOCAL NURSES FOR THE FRONT

Although Peterborough has but one representative among the nursing profession caring for the wounded from the scene of battle, others are preparing to be called upon at a moment's notice. Miss Beatrice Blewett is the local young lady at the front, being connected with a military hospital at Boulogne, France. The Army Medical course which is given at Quebec to qualify for active service has already been taken by Miss Gertrude Reid of this city and she is awaiting orders to proceed to the front. Mrs. M. K. Douglas and Miss Frankie Smith, sister of the late Pte. Max Smith who passed away recently at Salisbury Plain, are now at Quebec taking the A. M. course. Mrs. Douglas who left the city this week, was the recipient of a purse of gold.

METHODIST CHURCH TAKES ACTION TO RECOVER $85, GARBAGE TAXES

A very interesting case came up at yesterday's sitting of the Division Court before His Honor Judge Huycke, when D. W. Dumble, acting for the George Street Methodist Church, sued the city of Peterborough for $85, the amount paid by the church during 1914 for garbage taxes. The city clerk and the city solicitor were present on behalf of the city, and the facts of the case taken up. Judge Huycke decided to let the matter stand over for argument.

The fact that George Street Methodist Church will have to be refunded $85 should the city lose the case, is not the most important point in the case. Should George Street Methodist Church win, all the churches will be exempt from garbage taxes.

ENGLAND WILL NEVER YIELD

Until Devil of Militarism Has Been Vanquished From the Earth

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 9. — "England is determined never to submit or yield; she never will make peace until the devil of militarism has been so vanquished, that it will never trouble earth again," said Joseph H. Choate, former United States ambassador to Britain, addressing the New York Genealogical Society yesterday.

"English courage, spirit and hope are magnificent," he continued. "Nothing could be more grand than their wives and mothers, in the attitude they take toward the war. I read the other day that a son of a friend of mine, a woman well known in London, had been killed in action. I wrote her, and shortly afterward received an answer. She has four sons, three in the army and one in the navy. One is dead, one wounded, one taken prisoner, and the fourth is still safe on a British battleship.

"In her letter, she speaks of her 'pride that we have been able to devote our sons to the cause.'"

DESPERATE FIGHTING

Russians and Germans in Deadly Conflict on Left Bank of the Vistula River

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Jan. 9. — The Russian official communication issued last night says that fighting on the left bank of the Vistula has assumed a character more and more desperate. Germans continue attacking, notwithstanding great losses.

The correspondent at Petrograd of the Paris Matin says Russians have entered Transylvania and Austrians have hastily evacuated the whole of Bukowinia.

Paris says Roumania's mobilization will commence the last week in Janaury with the calling out of three classes, totalling 135,000 men, and continue until 600,000 are in the field.

LAD HAS HAD ROUGH TIME

He is Now Enjoying the Shelter of the Lodging House

Ernest Connor is the name of a young English lad of thirteen summers, who landed in this city, poorly clad and hungry, with a hard luck story that would win the sympathy of the most callous. His story has worked on the heart strings of several kindly disposed people in Peterborough, who have befriended him, and he is now in charge of the Salvation Army officers, who are looking after him and investigating his story.

The boy repeated his story to four persons in the city, and it does not vary in the slightest, which lends support to the feeling that he is strictly truthful.

Ernest Connor says that he and his sister were placed on a steamship, sailing from England, by their widowed mother, who was a charwoman. On their arrival in this country, the two children became separated. The boy was knocked about from the time of his arrival, finally landing with a farmer near the town of Franklin, Ontario. The boy got one letter from his sister, telling him that his mother had died, this letter being received while he was working for the farmer. On Monday, December 28th, the boy left the employ of the farmer, with 25 cents in his pocket, and walked to the C.P.R. station, two and a half miles distant, in the coldest weather of the year. He says the farmer told him to go, but this statement is being investigated. However, the boy landed in Peterborough off the Port McNicoll train at 6 p.m., and wandered about until 8.30 p.m. He arrived at Mitchell's grocery store. Mr. W. Bradshaw was in charge of the store. The young lad asked for food and wanted to get warm. Mr. Bradshaw fed him from provisions out of the store, as Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell's living apartments were locked up, they being away. When the time came to close the shop, Mr. Bradshaw was in a quandary as to what to do with him. He telephoned the police department, but just at that time the chief and four constables were busy with the O'Brien inquest, and the matter was turned over to Fire Chief Howard. The chief was out at the time, attending a small fire behind the post office. On his return, Chief Howard drove to Mitchell's store, got the boy, and took him to police headquarters, where he had him relate his story to Sergeant Reid. He was then taken to the Salvyation lodging home, where he was taken in charge by Adjt. McElhiney, given a good bath, and put to bed.

Had No Underclothes.

When the child was being disrobed it was found he had no underclothes. He was wearing a pair of blue overalls for trousers. He had a coat and overcoat too small for him. He wore four pairs of socks, and a pair of rubbers, man's size, and a small cap. Adjt. McElhiney took the boy's story, and has written to the farmer asking particulars about the boy, how he came to leave him, and how the boy was turned loose in the world in such terrible weather, but as yet he has received no reply.

Next Morning Chief Howard took the lad to Ald. G. Walter Green's residence, where Mrs. Green rigged him out with new clothes, including sweater coat, toque cap and trousers, and now the little chap is a regular dude.

Young Ernest is a healthy, bright, normal boy. He says the farmer fed him well, didn't ill-treat him or whip him, but worked him hard.

Chief Howard reported the matter to J. E. L. Goodwill, solicitor for the Children's Aid Society, who is taking the matter up with the authorities in Toronto, with the idea of having the case investigated. Chief Howard volunteered to pay the boy's board for a few weeks, but Adjt. McElhiney would not permit it.

Mr. Walter Stocker has also interested himself in the lad and given him chores to do and [illegible] him to earn a little money.

His father died when he was [illegible]. He has several brothers and sisters in the old country.

MUST USE ONLY CLEAN BOTTLES

Magistrate Emphasizes the Necessity for This Action

For the first time in three years a milkman has been prosecuted by Sanitary Inspector Spence for violation of the city by-law which prohibits bottling milk in any place but a milkhouse. The inspector spotted E. Metcalfe, a milk vendor, changing milk from one bottle to another on the street and informed him that he would have to take action.

Metcalfe did not appear in court this morning but pleaded guilty out of court and paid a $2 fine. The charge read that he did keep milk for sale in bottles which was not put into bottles in the milkhouse. Magistrate Dumble requested the reporters to emphasize how important it was that milkmen should recognize the necessity of keeping milk that was for sale, in clean, newly washed bottles.

READING LAMP FROM BOY SCOUTS

Rev. F. J. Sawers, M.A., rector of St. Luke's Anglican Church, East City, was presented with a handsome adjustable reading lamp last night by the Boy Scouts with whom the rector has been actively identified, as Acting District Commissioner and Scoutmaster.

The gift was accompanied by an address which was as follows:

Rev. F. J. Sawers,
Scoutmaster,
City of Peterborough.

Dear Mr. Sawers. — It was with feelings of deep regret we learned of your intended departure from Peterborough to Cobourg. At the same time we rejoice to know your ability has been recognized by offering you a larger sphere of work, which no doubt will prosper and grow under your careful oversight and management.

Since you have been connected with the Boy Scout movement at Petborough it has progressed splendidly, having filled some important positions, such as participating in the reception to his Highness the Duke of Connaught on his recent visit to this city.

We felt we could not allow you to take your departure from our midst without voicing our appreciation for the military instructions imparted, which has added to the building of our bodies, strengthening of our character, assisting in making us good and faithful citizens of the community in which we live.

On behalf of the Boy Scouts we ask you to accept this small token of our appeciation and esteem, and wish Mrs. Sawyers and yourself many bright, happy, and prosperous New Years in your new field of labor.

Signed on behalf of the Boy Scouts.

Victor Sedgwick,
Horace Blake.
Assistant Scoutmasters

Rev. Mr. Sawers cordially thanked the boy scouts for their kind expressions of goodwill and thoughtful remembrance of him.

PETERBOROUGH, SATURDAY, JANUARY 9, 1915

WHAT THE LOCAL POWER SITUATION SEEMS TO DEMAND.

FOR SOME WEEKS the Review has been placing data before the citizens of Peterborough with a view to helping them understand the power and water situation in this city. We have written about twenty letters to various places where electric power plants are located, have published articles based on several books and publications, and given the reference, so that anyone could look up our authorities if they so desired If we receive any further information, the publication of which would be in the public interest, we will publish it. However, we think that we have advanced enough facts in the fourteen editorials already produced, to come to some conclusion in regard to the city of Peterborough.

In the first place, we think the Public Utilities Commissioners are to be commended for calling in the services of a consulting engineer, who is to furnish them a report on the local situation, with, doubtless, certain recommendations. The Commissioners have displayed much interest in studying the problem, and will no doubt have some plan to place before the ratepayers before another season ties up the whole city.

The situation in Peterborough does not appear to demand the expenditure necessary for an auxiliary steam plant, because we do not receive our power over long transmission lines, as the cities of Toronto, Hamilton and Winnipeg do. The power in Peterborough is developed almost at our own doors. Besides, Peterborough has no peak load to compare with cities like those just mentioned. The street car traffic here will not be excessive for many years, not until the city is at least double its present size, and even then it is not likely that there will be great demands on the street car system. This matter, however, is one that needs to be discussed with much reserve, because no one can tell what the conditions in Peterborough will be like when it is double its present size. Then, storms are not likely to have any effect on this city's electric power plants such as may affect places like Toronto and Winnipeg. There is no large lake to fill the Otonabee with surface ice during a storm, such as happened to the Hydro-Electric four or five years ago, nor are there long transmission lines to be blown down.

To build an auxiliary steam plant to overcome the difficulties arising from frazil and anchor ice, appears thus to be an unwarranted expenditure, in view of the tried and successful methods of meeting this particular difficulty in other places. It should be remembered that many high authorities refused to believe that frazil and anchor ice could be successfully overcome, save by some entirely independent means, like an auxiliary steam plant. Mr. Murphy was advised by a president of the Canadian Society of Civil Engineers to give up the problem, that it would drive him crazy, but Mr. Murphy has persisted, and much success has crowned his efforts. Due to this fact, many in charge of power plants are still skeptical of methods of overcoming the difficluty directly, but such an attitude does not alter the facts.

It seems possible for this city to take several preventive measures for insuring it against inconvenience due to ice troubles, although it is possible that all ice troubles here cannot be eradicated.

Protection of the fore-bay and racks seems to be feasible. A covering could be built over the fore-bay of the Seymour Power Company, as well as a small one over the fore-bay at the London Street Power House. These could be heated at very small cost, and, being protected from cold winds and outside air, the racks would not be subject to clogging by frazil ice. But a further measure of protection could be taken by providing a means of heating the rack bars, by any of the methods we have, at various times, suggested. One of the Commissioners has suggested a hollow bar through which steam, hot water or hot air could be circulated. This method we discussed in the Review of December 24th, having taken the suggestion from the "Canadian Engineer." There are other means of protection that we have discussed and that can be utilized in Peterborough, but which it is not necessary to repeat here.

For anchor ice difficulties, which are not so serious as those arising from frazil ice, sluiceways and booms could be built to deflect the ice from flowing into the power house.

As steam pipes that would be used for heating the rack bars would require considerable care being exercised, the method of sheltering the fore-bay and racks seems to be the best and most efficient, and this method has been adopted by the Ontario Power Company at Niagara Falls, which supplies the Hydro-Electric system.

The rack bars at local power houses have little or no protection from frazil and anchor ice. We have seen the iron rack bars exposed to the air, which, in a zero temperature, become chilled to the bottom, and form excellent magnets to attract frazil crystals. In a severe attack of frazil, this city, with its present equipment, is as helpless as a babe to cope with such a difficulty. All the scraping in the world could not keep the bars sufficiently clear of ice to allow half the normal volume of water to pass through to the wheels, and, unless some remedial measures are taken, the city of Peterborough has no insurance against an almost total cessation of industries depending on electric power.

There is also practically no protection from the cold winds, which are a chief factor in the production of frazil in the fore-bays or still reservoir sections of the Otonabee waterway.

The second point, where ice troubles need to be provided against, is in the turbines. This can be accomplished by a system of steam injection, such as that of Mr. John Murphy of Ottawa. This has already been described and need not be repeated again.

As for building an auxiliary steam pumping plant, such would be justified if the whole flow of the Otonabee is at times interrupted by ice, or if, say, in winter time, there is not enough water in the river to drive properly the waterwheels in the pump house. If we take the statement of those who said to us with much emphasis that this city had never been bothered seriously with ice troubles before, the Otonabee's flow has not been interrupted by ice, nor has its water been so low as to cause the water-wheels in the pump house to lose capacity. If their statement is correct, there is no cause to go to the expense of building an auxiliary steam pumping plant. This may not, however, be the case, because the Utilities Commission appears to think an auxiliary steam pumping plant is required. If they intend to expend $30,000 of the people's money for such a plant, the reasons for doing so should be placed before the public.

So far as we can see, there is only one valid reason for an auxiliary steam pumping plant, and that is to provide against a shortage of water in the Otonabee River. If such is the case, it warrants the expenditure, for the need of water is imperative, especially as protection in case of fire.

In view of the fact that the Hydro-Electric system is not bothered with frazil and anchor ice troubles; in view of the fact that the E. B. Eddy Company and the Ottawa and Hull Power and Manufacturing Company have overcome these difficulties, as well as other plants, there is no valid reason why Peterborough should be subject, as it is, to shutdowns in its power and waterworks plants. Auxiliary steam plants will cost this city thousands of dollars, whereas efficient remedial methods of dealing with the ice problem can be installed for a relatively small sum—a few hundred dollars. With these facts in view, the citizens of Peterborough will be more docile and long-suffering than we take them to be if they endure future shutdowns without vigorous protest.

THE PULL AND PUSH POLICY.

THE EXAMINER attacks Mr. Burnham for not going in heart and soul for its famous and childish Pull and Push Policy. It does not matter what a government says or thinks or does, if sufficient pull and push is applied the Examiner thinks the barn-door will fly open and the good things be enjoyed. This policy is degrading. It would degrade the government, which is elected to represent fairly all the people and the electors who are asked to entertain such a childish, not to say disreputable, idea. Mr. Burnham is to be congratulated that he will not stoop to such a policy nor lay before the rising generation of Canada's future men and women such an example of depravity and puerility. Such a policy is out-of-date. With the briber and the heeler it is passing away. It remains for the Examiner to champion it as its ideal way of doing business. A national movement in national interests must be treated in a broad, fair and national way, and any government that will stoop to consider the Pull and Push Policy of a section is beneath contempt. If, also, a government needs the counsel and assistance of the nation, a means is provided for it, the only legal and the only legitimate means, viz.: in Parliament assembled. The Examiner's theory, which, it may be said, it appears to support only half-heartedly, as if ashamed of it, is that the national treasury and national policies should be at the mercy of the first band of pullers and pushers that can get to the capital and, by smooth and wonderful counsel, open up new avenues of thought and advantage, for what?—the nation?—not by any means, but for the small section seeking it. This government will not tolerate this policy, and any member supporting such a policy will forfeit the good opinion of the Government and his influence at Ottawa. In matters affecting Peterborough only, this city has a right to be heard, and its opinion will always be welcome, but when it assumes to turn the whole national well-being of an army to its own private advantage —well, that's too plain a matter to need further reference. If the Government had decided to parcel out the units, then Peterborough would have got its share, but when the Government had decided otherwise, it is nothing but nerve to expect and ask it to change its policy for the private advantage of anybody. If the Government had done such a thing as the Examiner appears to advocate, it would lay itself open to the grave charge of tampering with national interests for party purposes. It is well to be enterprising, but we must not make ourselves ridiculous and worse.

A Business Parliament.

(Canadian Courier).

We are promised a session of Parliament without party politics. It seems to be assumed in some quarters that this means a session without business. To my benighted mind, it ought to mean the exact opposite. Eliminate party politics; and the business men whom we send to Parliament — for we do send quite a fair percentage of business men there — should immediately wake up and take advantage of the general quiet to transact a lot of public business. It is as if we had adopted the practice — no more mad than the Parliamentary practices we have adopted — of having an important rugby football match every market-day right in the midst of the market. It would tremendously interfere with business. All sorts of "apple carts" would be systematically upset; and even the sanest marketers would catch the infection and go "rooting," for their favourite teams when they ought to be attending strictly to busine

GERMANY IS DECLARED GUILTY

Some phases of the war are already complete, and historians need delay no longer in presenting them. For instance, Mr. Powell's book, "Fighting in Flanders," deals with the events following the invasion of Belgium up to the fall of Antwerp, a complete chapter. Similarly, Mr. James M. Beck's book, "The Evidence in the Case, deals exclusively with the diplomatic publications of the various warring nations. It is possible in the future, as Mr. Beck suggests, that Italy may publish the correspondence that very probably passed between her and Germany and Austria before the blow was struck. That there is very important evidence in Italy's possession is proved by the statement of an Italian statesman to the effect that Italy knew a year ago that Austria was determined to chastise, and perhaps annex, Servia. Austria had come to this conclusion long before the assassination at Sarajevo. Similarly Austria one day may publish the secret communications that passed between her and Germany.

Choate Supports Britain.

Nevertheless the public opinion of the world has been formed upon the official documents already issued and Mr. Beck's book deals with them exclusively. Mr. Beck was formerly assistant attorney-general of the United States, and his book has grown out of an article he contributed to the New York Times, which, it is no more than fair to say, has outstripped every paper on this continent in its effort to publish illuminating articles upon the war. Now that the book is issued, it is reviewed in the Times by no less an authority than Mr. Joseph H. Choate, one of the leading jurists of the United States, if indeed he has a peer, and formerly American Ambassador to Great Britain. Mr. Choate has long been known as a friend of Great Britain, and his survey of the documents contained in Mr. Beck's book, and the author's conclusions, furnish other proof of his staunch friendship for Great Britain, and his keen sympathy with the Allies.

Convinces Lover of Germany.

Mr. Choate says it is evident from a brief preface that Mr. Beck is an ardent lover of Germany; his name indicating at least a part German origin. He was at Weimar on the eve of the war, having paid a visit to a little German village where some of his ancestors had been born. A careful study of the diplomatic correspondence that preceded the war, however, firmly convinced Mr. Beck that Germany was to blame, and this view is powerfully set forth in his summing up of the evidence. Mr. Choate says that a forensic lawyer in the cases he presents is about half the time on the wrong side, or the side held by the court to be wrong; but it is easy for an expert, by carefully studying a lawyer in the presentation of his case, to decide whether the lawyer believes he is in the right or is merely using his ability to the utmost to argue a case that he feels to be weak. In the case of Mr. Beck it is plain that he believes absolutely in the arguments he presents.

German Evidence Suppressed.

Mr. Choate agrees with Mr. Beck that great stress should be laid upon the fact, made plain in the German official defence, that evidence has been supressed, and when one side suppresses evidence it needs no lawyer to prove that it must be damaging evidence. Mr. Choate says: "While England and France and Russia were pressing Germany to control Austria in the interests of peace, not a word is disclosed of what, if anything, the German foreign office said to Austria toward that end"; and Mr. Beck says: "Among the twenty-seven communications appended in the Germna White Paper it is most significant that not a single communication is given of the many that passed from the foreign office of Berlin to that of Vienna, and only two which passed from the German Ambassador in Vienna to the German Chancellor, and the suppression is even more clearly indicated by the complete failure of Austria to submit any of its diplomatic records to the scrutiny of a candid world."

A Verdict of Guilty.

Mr. Choate concludes his review of the book in these words:

"Mr. Beck's review of the case of Belgium is extremely interesting, and his conclusion that England, France, Russia and Belgium can await with confidence the world's final verdict that their quarrel was just rests safely upon the plea of 'Guilty' by Germany, a conclusion which seems to have been already plainly declared by most of the civilized nations of the world.

"We think Mr. Beck's opinion that England and France were taken unawares and were wholly unprepared for war is a little too strongy expressed. France, certainly, had been making ready for war with Germany ever since the great conflict of 1870 had resulted in her loss of Alsace and Lorraine, and had had a fixed and unalterable determination to get them back when she could, although it is evident that she did not expect her opportunity to come just when and as it did. That Great Britain had no present expectation of immediate war with Germany is clearly obvious. That she had long been apprehending the danger of it in the indefinite future is very clear, but that Sir Edward Grey and the Government and the people that he represented did all that they possibly could to prevent the war seems to be clearly established."—Mail and Empire.

A CLEVER RUSE

By JOHN TURNLEE

A gentleman boarded a North river boat at New York one afternoon, went to the purser's office and engaged a stateroom, giving his name, Edgar Rawlins. He was followed by a man who was given a room near him and whose name was entered as Thomas Brown. In the evening as Mr. Rawlins was coming out of his room he was met by Mr. Brown, who said:

"Beg pardon, sir! Have you a bunch of keys?"

"I have."

"I have left the key of my suit case at home. Would you kindly let me have your ring that I may see if there is one on it that will fit my lock?"

Mr. Rawlins produced his keys and handed them to Brown, who went into his stateroom. He remained there several minutes, then returned and thanked the man who had favored him, regretting that he had not found a key that would serve his purpose, but he was just as much obliged.

Mr. Rawlins forgot this seemingly unimportant episode, making a journey to Chicago and returning within a week. The day after his arrival at home he went to his private safe, opened it, put away some papers that he had taken with him on his journey and was about to close it when he noticed that a drawer in which his wife kept some valuable jewels was partly open. He pushed it back in place, then, he knew not why, pulled it out far enough to enable him to look within.

It was empty!

He examined every other drawer in the safe to see if the jewels had been placed elsewhere, then called his wife and asked her if she had removed them. She said she had not. A thorough search of the safe was made, but the jewels were not found. There had been no breaking into the house, so far as was known, and if there had been the safe could not have been opened and locked again without the key, which Mr. Rawlins always kept in his possession, and there was no duplicate.

The loss of the jewels was a mystery. If the lock had been picked it must have been done by some one who lived in the house. Yet there was no one there who had the mechanical skill requisite to pick a lock and no one suspected of having the slightest desire to perpetrate a theft. The inmates consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Rawlins, a son twenty-one years old, steady as a clock; a daughter eighteen and the servants, who had been with the family many years. Both the son and the daughter had their friends, who, with other guests, had been where the safe was kept in a hallway at the rear of the house on the second story. No person except a friend of the family was known to have been there during the limit of time when the jewels must have been taken.

No hope was entertained of regaining the lost jewels, but it was finally decided to employ a detective for the purpose of making an effort to solve the mystery. Edward Joyce was sent to the house by the agency applied to and, after a thorough examination of every one in the house, set about looking over the premises. He tested every lock of both door and window and found all in good order, though no one could vouch for the window on the second story having been locked.

In the rear of the house was a grape arbor not quite so high as the second story windows and about ten feet from the house. Any one, by climbing the arbor, could rest a twelve foot ladder on it and thus reach the window. The detective, by means of a magnifying glass, discovered footmarks on the side slats and one of the slats had been freshly broken. The widow near the arbor opened into the hall in which stood the safe.

The detective, after making an examination of this route to the safe, declared that the house must have been entered by it and the robbery committed at the same time. But he was no nearer to how the safe could have been unlocked and relocked than before. A theory was advanced that the thief had gone to Mr. Rawlins' clothes, stolen the safe key and replaced it after committing the theft. But Mr. Rawlins, when at home, slept with his bedroom door locked and was not at home when the jewels were taken.

Mr. Joyce's next step was to call for the safe key. On receiving it he slipped it through his fingers and noticed that it felt as if it had been waxed. Bringing a powerful pocket microscope to bear on it, he asked Mr. Rawlins if it had been out of his possession. The reply at first was "No," but presently remembering that he had loaned his keys for a few minutes to a man on the boat to try if any of the keys would fit his suit case lock Mr. Rawlins told the story of the loan. The detective handed him his key and said:

"The problem of how your safe was opened is very plain. As to your recovering the jewels, that is another matter. When the man who borrowed your keys carried them into his stateroom he took an impression with wax of your safe key. He doubtless knew or learned afterward who you were and where you lived. With a safe key made from the impression he had taken in wax he opened your safe and took the jewels."

The lost property was finally recovered and the detective's theory confirmed.

Must Be Pasteurized.

Milk and cream may now be imported into Canada providing it is accompanied by a certificate of pasteurization signed by an officer of the United States Bureau of Animal Industry or by a local health officer.

This action has been taken under the Animal Contagious Diseases Act, and in connection with the outbreak of the foot and mouth disease in the United States.

There has been some agitation because in the earlier working out of the precautionary measures taken it appeared that United States cattle or sheep would not be allowed to be shipped from point to point in the United States, but by Canadian lines, and therefore partly through Canadian territory. However, an amendment has been made allowing such shipments to go through Canada under bond, providing certain precautionary measures are taken.

CAREFUL EATING IS BEST COSMETIC

Complexions Are Made or Marred by Diet—Famous Actresses Know of the Beauty Secrets

A famous physician once said that the greatest cosmetics were red beef, golden butter, white bread and other meats, fruits and vegetables.

He could have gone further and said that our food not only affects the coloring of our skins but it changes our bony structures and our curving flesh.

The woman in one of the old-fashioned novels who insisted when her daughter went to boarding school she should only eat corn bread, milk and molasses for fear that anything else would ruin her complexion had the right theory but the wrong practice.

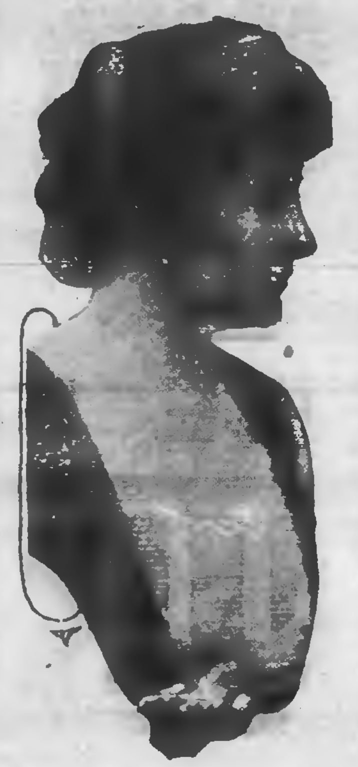
However, "what is one man's meat is another's poison," and we cannot all eat the same things.

There is no class of women that are more "faddy" in their eating than the women of the stage, and those society women who are called professional beauties. These women are as careful of what they eat as they are of every other act of their waking days.

You will find no pampered appetites among beautiful women who are over thirty.

"Did you ever stop to think what effect your food has upon you?" said Maxine Elliott once, during an interview on beauty. "You take drugs and expect that they will have immediate effect upon you, but you don't realize that everything you eat must have some effect as well.

"If we would regulate our diet we would have no use for drugs," said Florence Reed at another time. Miss Reed pins her faith to raw vegetables; a salad of thin slices of raw carrot, cabbage and green peppers is a daily dish with her in the spring.



MAXINE ELLIOTT

Maxine Elliott believes in the "grape cure" and each year she lives on the luscious fruit for at least ten days.

Beautiful Jane Cowl is fond of tomatoes for her spring diet each year.

All these women are dark-haired, dark-eyed beauties with complexions of Spanish hue.

They can eat and should eat things which are active upon the liver as dark-complexioned people are more apt to have sluggish livers than blondes.

It will be seen that each of these beauties has hit upon some one of the fruits or vegetables that is a splendid "liver twister."

If you are a dark beauty go and do likewise, for all the creams and powders in the world will not help your skin if your liver or stomach is out of order.

Sympathy With Sufferers.

Probably nothing is more stimulating and genuinely tonic to sufferers, especially those with chronic ailments, than the feeling that in spite of their own helplessness they themselves can still be helpful to others. The Shut-in society in this country has made life more bearable for many persons who are confined to their rooms or their houses. Nothing disturbs a certain class of patients so much as to be constantly in contact with those who are in good health and strength and whom they can scarcely help but envy. To be brought into touch with those for whom they themselves can feel is a precious source of consolation and uplift. Pity is a luxury to be enjoyed, but no human being likes to be pitied or to feel that he is an object of pity. To be conscious of some advantage in one's situation over that of others is of itself an alleviation for many sicknesses.—Journal American Medical Association.

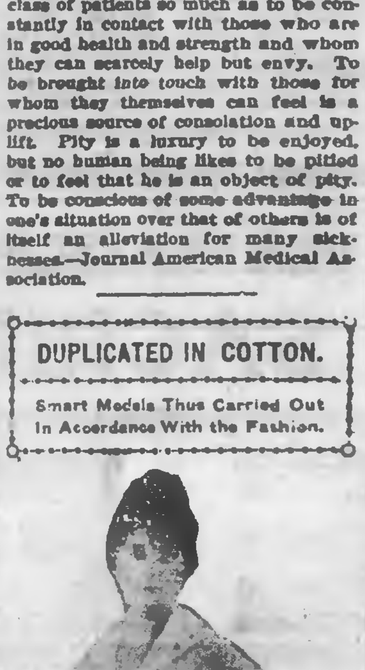
Smart Models Thus Carried Out In Accordance With the Fashion.



BLUE GABARDINE GOWN.

The woman who desires to adopt the fashionable fad of wearing a truly American gown, one built of cotton and fashioned by an American dressmaker, has a wide variety of models that she may copy. The one illustrated here is striking. Carried out in blue gabardine, it has a semifitting basque with a deep hip yoke and gathered tunic. Down the front runs a row of self covered buttons. A sailor collar and cuffs of hemstitched organdie are worn with the gown.

It is almost amusing to hear the cry that we are too extravagant when penury is the word to describe the condition of a majority of the people.

GREAT BRITAIN REMAINS FIRM

She Courteously Insists on Right to Search Ships

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The preliminary reply of Sir Edward Grey, British Minister for Foreign Affairs, to the United States note, which intimated unjustifiable detention by British cruisers of American vessels, objection to Great Britain's practice of stopping vessels merely to look for evidence, and the British denial of the right of American merchants to ship "to order," was received late yesterday afternoon by Secretary of State Bryan.

The British paper will be given out, Mr. Bryan says, on Sunday afternoon, by which time the President, who will return to-day, will have an opportunity of considering it, although it is said the tone and substance of it was telegraphed to him last night.

Owing to the fact that the document arrived late and had to be uncoded, very few of the higher officials know anything about the communication. This much is said, however, that it is very courteous. While not precisely responsive to the large questions, without specifications which were raised by Mr. Bryan, Great Britain is said to maintain in the note these conditions:

That she could not abandon the general right to search ships on the high seas which was admitted by all nations.

That she must also maintain the continuance of the right "to visitation" of commercial ships.

That the practice of detaining vessels whose cargoes or parts of cargoes are consigned "to order" may be modified but not abandoned on account of peculiar conditions of the existing war.

ROUMANIA TO STRIKE.

She Is Mobilizing 750,000 Men Preparatory to Hostilities.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The Morning Post's Bucharest correspondent says: "Roumania is mobilizing 750,000 men, of which number half a million forms the field army. Roumania will strike even should Italy decide not to enter the war."

Greeks Irritated.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The Daily Telegraph's Athens correspondent reports that the Greek Government is gravely concerned with the increased strained Graeco-Turkish relations. The Greek diplomatic and consular representatives in Turkey, the correspondent says, are receiving intolerant treatment, being shadowed by the police and spies, and the official protests by the Greek Minister are ignored.

Italy Firm With Austria.

MILAN, Jan. 9.—(Via London.)—The Secolo asserts that Count Leopold von Berchtold, Austrian Minister of Foreign Affairs, has sent a note to Italy protesting against the Italian occupation of Avlona, Albania. Baron Sidney Sonnino, Italian Minister of Foreign Affairs, has sent a firm reply, adds the paper.

Son of Premier Viviani Dead.

PARIS, Jan. 9.—Premier and Madame Viviani have received official confirmation of the reported death of their youngest son on the field of battle.

Young Viviani fell Aug. 22 at Cussigny. His body was found within a few yards of the German trenches. At the time he was shot down the young man was charging with his regiment, the 131st Infantry, in which he was a non-commissioned officer.

TO REPLACE COTTON WITH GRAINS

CALCUTTA, Jan. 9.—A communique issued in the district of Delhi notifies the people that in view of the probable smaller demand for cotton, Government officers in various localities have been instructed to discourage the growing of cotton during the coming year, and to encourage the planting and growing of cereals.

The residence banks in order to aide people over the trade crisis will make re-advances on cotton supported by Government paper; the currency reserve will be drawn upon to the extent of $20,000,000, and the Government will shortly be empowered to increase the invested portion of the reserve to this extent.

SOLDIER'S EXPERIENCES INTERESTINGLY TOLD

The Writer is Herbert J. Stuart, Who is a Former Norwood Boy

HAS BEEN PROMOTED

The following interesting letter which is given herewith, was written by Mr. Herbert J. Stuart, who is with the 12th battalion, 4th brigade of the first Canadian Contingent and was received by his father, Mr. R. J. Stuart, of Toronto. The writer is a former Norwood boy, and he has a number of acquaintances here.

Since the letter was received Mr. Stuart has been gazetted lieutenant-paymaster of the 12th battalion. He enlisted with the "Princess Pats" when that regiment recruited in Toronto, but on arrival at Quebec was transferrerd to the main Canadian contingent as pay sergeant for the 12th Battalion. He has previously served for five years with the 15th Light Horse, Alberta, and was before his enlistment private secretary to Hon. W. H. Hoyle, former Speaker of the Ontario Legislature.

The letter follows:—

It just occurred to me that probably a brief synopsis of my experiences since enlisting in the First Canadian Contingent would be of some interest to those at home. On August 12th last, I was in Montreal on business when the call came for recruits for the Princess Patricia Canadian Light Infantry. I had at that time my commission in the 15th Light Horse of Calgary. I took the train to Ottawa and had a personal interview with Colonel (now Major-General) Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia. We talked the whole matter over as to the likelihood of my receiving my commission in the first contingent. His words did not leave much hope, when he told me that even lieutenant-colonels were joining as lieutenants. I then resigned my commission, returned to Montreal and enlisted in the "Pats."

Amazed at Equipment.

After waiting for a few days we received word to proceed to Ottawa. We arrived there about noon, where we were met by Mr. Hamilton Gault, who was responsible for the raising of the regiment and paid for all the equipment. It was raining very hard, but he kept at the head of the company and splashed through the mud like the rest of us. We were marched to the Exhibition Buildings and assigned our respective quarters. Next morning we were all re-examined for the final time. I happened to be one of the fortunate ones. After the examinations we were attested and sworn in for one year or during the time of the war with Germany. Next came the distribution of our equipment and kit. We were given the new Webb equipment, three blankets, uniform, hat, extra fatigue sut, underwear, socks and boots, in fact everything to a "housewife" which contains bachelor buttons, needles, thread, safety pins, spare buttons and even a thimble. When I saw my pile I looked for a "helping hand," but all the men were in the same position. Fortunately, I managed to find a wheelbarrow and, with another chap, loaded up.

For the first week in Ottawa it was very interesting, with troops arriving from every part of the Dominion, some in scarlet, some in blue, cow boys in schapps, legion of frontiersmen in their yellow shirts and large handkerchiefs around necks and wearing wide Stetson hats. It did not take very long for them to get fully rigged out and I can assure you that the Jews and hawkers of Ottawa did a grand business buying cheap clothes.

In Camp Near Levis.

Unfortunately, I received a telegram that my brother was seriously ill in Toronto and I had to return home on furlough. In the interval the "Pats" left for Montreal and embarked on the White Star Liner Megantic. The following morning they disembarked at Quebec and took up camp at St. Joseph de Levis, about two miles from the City of Levis, where I again joined them the next week.

Our camp life there was about the usual kind of military camp life. We had fine manoeuvring grounds, splendid weather and lots to eat. We had reveille at six o'clock. It was played by the Pipers' band, all of whom were recruited in Edmonton. When they got through you didn't want to sleep. They were 21 strong, 16 pipers and 5 drummers. At seven o'clock we had what we termed a pipe opener, about a mile march with one-quarter of the distance on the double. On our return to camp, breakfast was ready. It consisted of bacon, with eggs if the hawkers got around early enough in the morning that they could be bought, bread, coffee and orange marmalade. Every man had then to shave and be ready for parade at nine o'clock, when we were inspected by the commanding officer of the company. Woe to anyone who came on parade who was not up to the mark, as he was paraded before the C. O. at one o'clock to answer for it, and usually received a sentence of extra guard or picket.

The Daily Routine.

The morning drill was usually musketry drill and double company drill. Dinner was ready at 12.30 o'clock. At 2 o'clock we had a fall in again in heavy marching order, which consisted of our full Webb equipment, haversack, pack which contained our overcoat, water bottle filled, bayonet and rifle a weight in all of about 45 pounds. When ammunition was carried, our full carrying weight was about 75 pounds over all. The drill consisted of manoeuvring, skirmishing, extended order and digging trenches. From 4.30 to 10 o'clock we had to ourselves but many nights when we were waiting for the first post, "Dress for Parade" was sounded, and, as 10.30 "Fall In" which meant that we were out for a night attack until one, or two o'clock in the morning. This was about the regular daily routine all the time.

Transferred to the 12th.

On Sunday, September 20th, I obtained permission to go over to Valcartier, having heard that two of my friends, Lieutenant-Colonel H. F. Macleod and Major Hamilton, had received appointments as the commanding officer and paymaster, respectively, of the 12th Battalion. I also received permission to go over in mufti. Having spent nine weeks on the continent with them, in the summer of 1913, I felt that it would not be right to appear in my uniform. They persuaded me to take a letter back with me which asked for by immediate transfer to the 12th Battalion. On the following Monday morning I was paraded before Colonel Farquhar, O. C., of the "Pats," who allowed my transfer to go through. Arriving at Valcartier again, I was appointed Battalion Pay-Sergeant.

My sojourn at Valcartier was very short, as we left for Quebec on September 28th, and were quartered for the night at the Immigration sheds on the docks. Fortunately, I obtained leave and stayed at the Chateau.

Departure from Gaspe.

We boarded the Allan Liner Scotian about 12 o'clock on September 29th, left the docks about 8 o'clock in the evening, and steamed down the river, arriving at Gaspe Basin about 7 o'clock the following morning. We were on one of the later boats to arrive, and we could see about thirty transports lying at anchor, awaiting all the boats to arrive before starting on the trip across the ocean. About four o'clock in the afternoon the three battleships moved away off, each of them followed by ten transports, one behind the other. We were just behind the flagship and on the right column. The lines were about one mile apart, and the boats in succession were about one-quarter of a mile behind each other. As far as the eye could see there was nothing but boats. Away off to the south just visible on the horizon was H. M. S. Glory. The lines of transports were headed, respectively, by the flagship Charybdis, H. M. S. Diana and H. M. S. Eclipse.

As for the Scotian, we have nothing but the best to say. We had first class apartments, first class meals and the ship's officers did all in their power to look after our comforts.

Our passage over was very slow and tedious towards the end of the voyage. All the boats travelled at the same rate of speed, as some of the boats were very slow, our speed being governed by that of the slowest boat.

Passed by the Monmouth.

On October 4th we had our first fire call, which meant that every officer, N. C. O. and man had to be in his position on the deck in so many minutes. This was done several nights in succession, when the order came out that there would not be any more except in case of emergency. When the men came on deck they had to lie down, and no talking was allowed until the call came to dismiss.

At nights, starting on October 11, every porthole had to be blanketed, and, except for one green light on every boat, and it a very faint one, no lights could be seen. On Oct. 12, H. M. S. Essex passed through the lines, on her way to Canada, we supposed. The warship passed very close to our boat. The band was playing "The Maple Leaf," and our band started "Rule, Britannia." The next day we passed H. M. S. Monmouth.

Arrival in England.

On Oct. 13 and 14 we had our stormiest days, when the waves rolled high, breaking over the boat. At 10 a.m. the next day we sighted the coast of England. The faster boats then started to open up at full speed and we did the same. Rumor had it that German submarines had been sighted and were after us, and I believe there was something in it, as we were supposed to go direct to Portsmouth, where elaborate preparations had been made for our arrival. Instead, we tore into Plymouth harbor at full speed and anchored. During the night we were towed into Devonport harbor. The troopship Casandra was tied alongside. I met Major Bennett and Lt.-Col. Rogers of Peterborough, Col. Howard, Brantford, also Lieut. Birdsall, of Birdsall's.

We stayed at anchor in Devonport Bay from Oct. 15 until Oct. 21, and pulled up to the dock in the morning of the 21st. We disembarked at 5 o'clock and marched through Devonport to the station en route to Salisbury. Our train was a special, and only stopped at large railway centres. At each place, women and girls met us and distributed apples, cigarettes, postal cards, souvenirs, etc. We got off our train at Lavington at about 1 o'clock in the morning and marched about eight miles to Pond Farm, arriving there atabout 2.30 o'clock in a pouring rain, wet through. The tents were up, but we had no blankets. I slept very well, but was a trifle stiff in the morning.

Five Weeks' Pay.

Our first view of Salisbury was very favorable, but it was two or three days before our supplies started to come in regular. We were reviewed by Lord Roberts on Oct. 25th and by the Chaplain Chief of the British army. Our first pay was on the 27th of October. The last one had been at Valcartier on Sept. 19th, and consequeently the men were very happy and contented with five weeks' pay in their pockets.

It rained nearly every day, the mud was very bad, but the men weathered it, and there was very little sickness. On Nov. 4th we were reviewed by the King and Queen, Lord Kitchener and Lord Roberts. It was the first time I had seen the first contingent en masse, and it was a very impressive sight.

Owing to the mud and continued rains we moved on Nov. 8 to this camp, 15 miles from Pond Farm, where we are now in huts. We are adjoining the New Zealanders and part of Kitchener's army. There are roughly speaking about 30,000 men right around us.

Looking After the Pay.

Regarding my work in the pay office, I have now eight men working under me, making out the eight company pay sheets. My work consists chiefly of auditing and overseeing generally the paying of the men, under the direction of the paymaster. You will no doubt wonder how we pay and balance up in sterling and Canadian currency. In the first place the sheets are made out in Canadian currency. A private draws $1.10 per day, or $33 per month of 30 days. We pay him at the rate of $5 per pound and 25c per shilling. In this way you can figure out that a private draws in English currency £6 12s. Of course, he is losing considerable in exchange, but the Canadian Government will adjust all this in time. This system makes it very much easier for us, and avoids much complication.

To Shift Hospital.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The headquarters of No. 2 Hospital, Canadian contingent, has been moved permanently. It is understood that the entire hospital will be moved as health of the patients improves. There have been several cases of spinal meningitis among the troops. The floods of Salisbury are now decreasing. The cathedral is being pumped out. The streets surrounding Bulford Hospital have been under a foot of water, but there seems promise of a spell of sharp weather, and things will doubtless improve shortly.

LONSDALE GETS NEW HEARING

Lord Mayor of Leeds Receives Notification

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The news that Private William Lonsdale, imprisoned and sentenced to death by the Germans at Dokritz, has been granted a new trial is contained in a statement by the Lord Mayor of Leeds. The news came by way of Copenhagen.

There was joy that had the elements of pathos in the home in Fraser street where Lonsdale's wife and two little children live when they heard the news.

The soldier was taken as a prisoner of war. He was sentenced to close confinement for striking one of his German guards. Later a tribunal of officers sentenced him to death, and against this he appealed to the Military High Court of Justice, with success.

HEALTH ASSOCIATION REPORTS SHOW MUCH GOOD WORK HAS BEEN ACCOMPLISHED

Statement for Three Years Gives Mortality from Tuberculosis as Double That From Pneumonia Fewer Deaths Recorded in Past Year

A gathering composed mostly of ladies met last night. It was the annual meeting of the Peterborough Health Association, for the reception of reports from various committees, discussion of financial matters, and other business of vital interest to the board. How to raise sufficient funds to continue the good work that the association is doing was the knottiest problem facing the association, and around it discussion centred most. This question, and the nurses' reports, were the main items of importance. An executive for 1915 were also elected, who will appoint officers very shortly. The executive is as follows:

Dr. Mann, Dr. Cameron, Dr. Neal, Dr. McNulty, Dr. McPherson, Dr. Halliday, Rev. Father Phelan, Messrs. E. A. Peck, W. H. Dunsford, G. W. Powell, F. D. Kerr, Mrs. Kendry, Mrs. V. Eastwood, Mrs. A. E. Coulthard, Mrs. J. G. Scott, Mrs. Gardner, Mrs. Travers, and Miss M. Dickson.

The financial statement of W. H. Dunsford showed receipts of $3,203.79, and expenditures of $2,138.06, the balance on hand being $1,065.73.

Secretary's Report.

The Peterborough Health Association has completed its third year of active work, with very satisfactory suits as may be seen by the reports. During the past twelve months, two nurses, Miss Hamilton and Miss Mercier, have been giving good and faithful service to cases of almost all kinds, while about 100 dozen of eggs (fresh) and 2,400 quarts of milk have been distributed to those patients who needed them, besides drugs and other comforts and necessaries. In the beginning of July a new branch of work was inaugurated, namely, the Summer Camp for children, which was carried on most successfully for six weeks, when it was found necessary to close it on account of the financial conditions caused by the war. During the time it was in operation there were over thirty children on the roll, though they did not all go every day, and a marked improvement was observable in them, owing to the outdoor life and good food. The camp was financed by special contributions given for that object, but owing to the sudden and unexpected falling-off of subscriptions, there was a deficit at the end of six weeks of nearly $100, which was paid by the association, the latter taking over the assets of the camp in the way of furnishings, which may be valued at from $125 to $150. The camp committee was indebted to many kind friends, who assisted in making it a success, particularly to the Peterorough Light, Power and Radial Company for the use of their building at Jackson Park, to Mr. W. H. Hamilton, who supplied the camp with groceries for the season at his own expense, to the Big Brothers' Club for the very fine tent used, to the Parks Committee for permission to place said tent in Jackson Park, and to all who contributed either in money, service or material benefits.

The outlook for the coming year is not as bright as might be wished for, as the shadow of war is still over us all and is preventing the association from preparing to hold the fair in the spring, by which it was expected to raise sufficient funds to run the work for another three years. However, it is hoped that the membership may be very much increased and that the association may be otherwise assisted to keep up its activity.

N.B. — The camp was run at a cost of $50 a week, with an initial expense of $150 for equipment.

EDW. A. TRAVES,
Secretary.

Made 1,580 Visits.

It was reported by Miss P. A. Mercier, association nurse, that in the last three years there had been eighty-two deaths from tuberculosis or just double the number of the next highest mortality figure of forty-one death from pneumonia. Miss Mercier included this in her report to illustrate how great was the work yet to be done. Her report was well presented and was applauded. It read as follows:

During the past year, I made 1,580 visits. These were made to 81 patients; but of this number 49 persons suffering from tuberculosis have passed under the care of the Association. It may be of interest to know that 9 of these cases were fathers of families, 17 were mothers, 15 were adults and 8 were children, representing 46 homes.

During the past year in connection with this work, the Association has supplied to the poor:—

656 Sputum Cups.
33 lbs. Absorbent Cotton.
67 yards Gauze.
2 Drinking Cups.
5 Thermometers.
15 oz. Carbolic Acid.
8 oz. Alcohol.
38 oz. Liquid Soap.
5 oz. Boracic Acid.
8 yards Adhesive Plaster.
1 Rubber Bandage.
5 Prescriptions.

Personal clothing and large amount of old linen.

Our work has been aided in these respects by a generous donation of simple tonics from Dr. Halliday; a hot water bag, a quantity of old silk and large amount of old linen from Miss Strickland; a rubber ring from Mrs. Laing; clothing from Mrs. Edwards; clothing and old linen from Mrs. Coughlin; clothing from Mrs. Dobbin, and old linen from Miss Lundy, Miss Dixon, Mrs. Davidson, Mrs. Sullivan, Mrs. Butcher and Mrs. Edwards. Also a supply of magazines for distribution among convalescents.

We are also grateful to Dr. Halliday for the donation of a tent which was put to good use during the summer months. The patient who occupied it is now able to return to his work.

Perhaps the point that impresses me most in my work is that of being able, through the Association, to distribute sanitary sputum cups to those who are unable to procure them. It seems to me that in this alone the Association is doing a very commendable work. Just what this means may be realized when you consider the sourse of infection in surroundings oft-times deplorable.

We have had 8 deaths during the year.

Very frequently, when the patient's death is imminent, there still remains so much to be done in protecting the other members of the family. Take as an illustration the 46 homes visited during the year. It is fair to assume that in each home there is a family larger or smaller. Each home, then, unless under supervision and instruction becomes a center of danger to others, especially to children.

Some idea of the work to be done can perhaps be realized by looking over Peterborough's death rate from tuberculosis for the past three years, comparing these with the death rate from other diseases:

	Scarlet Fever.	Measles.	Append'is.	Dipht'ia	Typhoid	Pneumonia	Tuberculosis
1912	0	1	1	0	2	11	26
1913	1	2	4	1	2	15	37
1914	0	0	2	7	5	15	19
Total	1	3	7	8	9	41	82

TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL

Notes by Official Scribe

There was a good attendance at this week's meeting, President J. J. Hartley calling the delegates to order promptly at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Burnham is Active.

Regarding the truth of the statement contained in the last report of the Trades and Labor Council, anent the payment of $1.00 per day to mail carriers' assistants, Mr. Burnham set himself the task of investigation. The Deputy-Postmaster's reply was that to help out the Christmas rush four additional inside men at $2.00 per day were secured, and fifteen youths or boys at $1.00 per day to assist the mail carriers in their deliveries were employed. (As one delegate remarked there were some good old fashioned youths to be seen on the job during the holiday). Mr. Burnham, though not officially labelled labor member yet possesses the necessary qualifications. He thanked the Trades and Labor Council for pointing out this apparent discrepancy and suggested that anything else of a similar nature coming under their notice, he would be pleased to have his attention drawn thereto.

Hamilton's Council on the Job.

That ever vigilant body, the Hamilton Trades and Labor Council are taking steps to remove a stumbling block from the path of the progressive and intelligent labor man. It is busy getting together a deputation to wait on the provincial authorities at Toronto, to argue away the supposed necessity of a property qualification for aspirants to municipal honors. The Peterborough delegate was not appointed this week as it was thought better to choose from the new officers at the next meeting.

The Free Labor Bureau.

A lengthy communication regarding the establishment of free labor bureaus had one very important section and that was that not enough noise was being made over this proposition by labor men. The council started its share of required noise by asking its energetic secretary, Wm. Stevens, to communicate with various members of the cabinet.

Hear Both Sides.

President Hartley announced that the manager of the Auburn Woollen Mills wished to speak to the council regarding the reported injustice to workmen at the factory. In view of the fact that no representative of the committee called on to investigate the abuses complained of was present, this was deferred to a future meeting.

Election of Officers.

The annual election of officers will take place on Wednesday, 20th inst., when it is hoped that all delegates will be present and ready to accept office.

Prize Winner Congratulated.

Delegate G. L. Myland was handed a bouquet over his winning second in a Made-in-Canada ad. contest held in connection with a labor newspaper. An essay had to be written on the reason why we should purchase Made-in-Canada goods, "because they are the best" had to be the essayist's peroration. undoubtedly, Mr. Myland's clever handling of same placing him second in a list of thirty.

Capt. Carruthers for the Third Contingent

Capt. G. C. Carruthers has been offered the position of quarter-master with the third Canadian contingent, and will take his place in His Majesty's Canadian forces for service overseas.

RECRUITING IN BRITAIN IS MOST SATISFACTORY

Viscount Haldane Replies in House of Lords to Criticisms of Opposition Members and Says That Compulsory Recruiting is Not Required.

LONDON, Jan. 9. — After a two days' session, during which its members heard statements from Earl Kitchener, Secretary of War; Viscount Haldane, Lord High Chancellor; the Marquis of Crewe, Government leader in the Lords, and Baron Lucas, on behalf of the Government, on the progress of the war, and Great Britain's preparations to carry it on, the House of Lords last evening adjourned until Feb. 2, when Parliament will re-assemble.

The Opposition was not very skillful in securing from the Government information on the growth of the army or on the operations of the navy, regarding which its members persistently questioned the Ministers; but generally speaking the Government expressed satisfaction at the rate at which recruiting was proceeding, and Viscount Haldane declared that the necessity for compulsory service had not arisen. The Lord Chancellor also announced that experts in England were producing a gun which at least was the equal of the German 42-centimetre gun.

The Unionists peers who criticized Ireland's reply to the call to arms were told that Ireland was doing her full share in the war.

A lighter vein was introduced into the discussion by some of the Scottish members, who complained of the kilts supplied to the Scottish regiments. Baron Moncrieff described these kilts as "abbreviated ladies' hobble skirts." Baron Lucas replied that the War Office had been unable to get a sufficient stock of the usual material used in the making of kilts.

Baron Lucas, dealing with criticism of the withholding of information on the extent of recruiting, said the publishing of the figures would be of enormous value to Germany.

The Earl of Selborne said he doubted if the Government had sufficiently impressed the nation with the immensity of the first task before the British army, that of expelling the Germans from Belgium.

A Weak, Nervous Sufferer Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Kasota, Minn. — "I am glad to say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done more for me than anything else, and I had the best physician here. I was so weak and nervous that I could not do my work and suffered with pains low down in my right side for a year or more. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now I feel like a different person. I believe there is nothing like Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weak women and young girls, and I would be glad if I could influence anyone to try the medicine, for I know it will do all and much more than it is claimed to do." — Mrs. CLARA FRANKS, R. F. D. No. 1, Maplecrest Farm, Kasota, Minn.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should be convinced of the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health by the many genuine and truthful testimonials we are constantly publishing in the newspapers.

TURKS READY FOR FLIGHT

They May Move Government Offices From Constantinople

LONDON, Jan. 9.—Constantinople, regarded by the allies as one of the greatest prizes of the war, should they win and Turkey be forced to give it up, may be abandoned soon as the seat of the Turkish Government.

It is asserted that preparations have been made to remove from the city the archives of state and the treasury should the necessity arrive, and that at Adrianople arrangements are under way to receive the Government officials.

An Anglo-French fleet is hammering at the Dardanelles, which, if passed, would give easy access to Constantinople. To the east of the city, on the Russo-Turkish frontier Russian forces, which are said to have defeated the Turks, are seeking to penetrate Asiatic Turkey in the direction of Constantinople.

WERE PLAYING WITH DYNAMITE

Children Found Two Cases of Explosive in Snow

TORONTO, Jan. 9.—About ninety sticks of sixty per cent. dynamite were found yesterday in a ravine north of Danforth avenue by a number of children. They were throwing the explosive around the streets.

George Harbitt, 73 Chatham avenue, yesterday 'phoned that children were playing with dynamite not knowing what they had. Officer Mumford was immediately sent to the scene. To a ravine just north of Danforth avenue the children led him. There the recent thaw had uncovered two boxes of the explosive. The children had carried away a number of sticks, but one box was full. There were about ninety sticks in the two boxes.

From the location of the boxes, it was evident that no care had been taken in hiding them. It is thought they were taken by foreign workmen and just covered with snow.

When Mumford examined the dynamite he came to the conclusion that it was frozen. This probably accounts for the fact that none of the children were injured when throwing the explosive about.

NO ASSIGNMENTS.

According to a statement given out by George J. Sherry, clerk of the County Court, there were no assignments for the benefit of creditors fyled at the local County Court office during 1914. This is a record that is without a precedent in this city, and speaks very well for the solid character of the various businesses in Peterborough.

ALLIES ARE SUCCESSFUL IN DESPERATE CHARGE

In Effort to Forestall German Attack in Force the French and British Forces Launch a Fierce Offensive—Allied Forces Evacuate Trench Near Arras When Water Gets Shoulder High.

PARIS, Jan. 9.—A terrific drive, rivalling in intensity the battle of the Yser and in spectacular daring of execution the brilliant attacks in Alsace, carried the French and British forces facing Gen. von Kluk's left over a redoubt and two lines of the German trenches and up to the third in the region to the north of Soissons yesterday.

Air scouts early in the day reported important concentrations of troops in the rear of the German lines from the direction of Laon. Strong bodies of reserves and Landwehr troops were being moved up through the labyrinthian system of trenches on the plateau on the north bank of the Aisne.

An attack in force to forestall the German effort was ordered, and the French "75's" got the range of the reserves and shelled the positions in the rear to disperse the forces which were assembling for the support, while the smaller guns and the quick-firers raked the first line of the enemy's trenches and hammered the earthworks from which the Germans were working their rapid-fire pieces.

A terrific cannonade was maintained for a fixed period, and when firing suddenly ceased the French infantry swarmed over the front of their trenches and struggled through the mud up to the redoubt. In the face of a deadly fire they fell upon these works, and bayoneted the occupants within. Halting only for a brief spell while the French guns again hammered the German lines in front they advanced again, and with only a brief pause at the wire entanglements, clambered up and over the first line of the invader's defensive works.

Here the attackers met their most stubborn resistance. The fighting was man to man, and the East Indian detachments did valiant service. Mud covered the clothing of the hostile hordes, so friend was not easily distinguished from foe, and the treacherous footing added new terrors to the bayonet fighting.

In the forest of Restbonval, near Arras, the French and British were compelled to evacuate a section of their trenches because the mud and water was up to the shoulders of the men.

Near Rheims a German blockhouse was mined and blown up, and the French advanced their trenches 200 yards.

Hundreds of German dead were left on the field as a result of heavy artillery combats between Betheny and Prunay, along the Aisne, and a number of German batteries have been repeatedly silenced in this section.

The fighting in Lower Alsace is daily growing in intensity around Steinbach, Cernay and Thann, according to advices from Geneva.

Villages, houses and trenches are taken and retaken at the point of the bayonet, and the casualties on both sides have been extremely heavy.

It is stated that about 250,000 in all are engaged, and that both sides are using heavy guns. The Germans are continuously hurrying reinforcements from the Rhine forts.

RUSSIAN ADVANCE THROUGH MOUNTAINS IS SWEEPING

Vienna Admits Seriousness of Slav Advance and Also Confirms Failure of German Movement on Warsaw—Von Hindenburg's Latest Great Attack Has Failed to do What He Intended.

LONDON, Jan. 9. — Despatches from Petrograd and Vienna agree in confirming the sweeping character of the Russian advance through Bukowina and the Carpathians and the continued retreat of the Austro-Hungarian forces in these regions, and the failure of the German advance on Warsaw. The last Russian advance across the Carpathians was a cavalry affair only, but this time the Russian has come to stay.

Regarding the advance through Bukowina, an official Austrian report from Vienna says:

"In the Carpathian forest lands and the southern part of the crown land of Bukowina, regard for the safety of our advance troops obliged us to fall back on the principal mountain passes before an enemy numerically superior to ourselves.

"On the Hungarian-Galician front everything is quiet; in the higher districts there is some frost and snow.

"On the Dunajec river and in Russian Poland there have here and there been some artillery exchanges."

The London Chronicle's Petrograd correspondent, Percival Gibbons, cables as follows:

"Once again Poland has seen a great German general attack along the whole line of the Bzura and Rawka positions from Gradow to Rawa. For 36 hours the battle shifted like a moving flame in a long line. Now that its intensity has abated, it is clear the German purpose has again failed of accomplishment, and at several points the Russian line has advanced. We have no key to the German mentality which inspires these attacks, so wasteful in lives of soldiers and so ineffectual in their general result.

"In the records of this struggle along the courses of two little rivers I have notes of upwards of 100 attacks in considerable force, of which not a single one resulted in shifting the imperturbable Russian infantry from a trench, but each of which has been accompanied by a ghastly loss to the Germans.

"A fight, characteristic of operations on this front, took place to the west of Gradow, where the German attack was exceptionally heavy throughout New Year's Day, culminating in an assault by the infantry. On the same night and throughout the day they shelled the Russian trenches, spending ammunition with their customary lavishness. Days of shelling justified the Russian opinion that of the German forces their artillery and cavalry are the weakest arm, and the infantry is the best.

Positions are not greatly disturbed by the day-long shrapnel fire, and the Russians are more than ready for the attack. On this front the infantry attack usually in line, but this night they came up in dense columns. The Russian guns were at work promptly, with the fuses of shells reduced so that they burst almost at the gun's mouth, and from trenches steady, schooled infantry fire tore gaps in the dense masses of the enemy.

"At Gradow the Russians were utterly outnumbered. To this extent the German concentration of forces was successful, but no further. They succeeded in reducing the Russian tactics from mere defence of trenches to delivering counter-attacks, but this was the limit of their success."

GERMAN SHIP IS INTERNED

PARIS, Jan. 9. — A Madrid despatch to L'Information states that the German auxiliary cruiser Otavi has been interned at Las Palmas, Canary Islands.

The German steamer Otavi arrived at Las Palmas on Jan. 5. She was previously reported, on Dec. 3, as being at Pernambuco, but it is probable that she was used by the German cruiser Karlsruhe as a supply ship.

Wooden Cars Must Go.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9. — Wooden cars in New York subway must go. The public service commission sent virtual notification to that effect yesterday to the Interboro Rapid Transit Co. with a request that the company inform the commission how soon and not later than May 1 next, all steel cars can be substituted for the 475 composite cars now in use.

POOR QUALITY OF BEEF THE INSPECTOR OPINES

An Unusually Large Offering Appeared at This Morning's Market

There was very poor quality to the beef that farmers hauled to market this morning. At least such was the case according to the verdict of Sanitary Inspector Spence who made a careful survey of all the bovine flesh offered.

"The poorest, most unhealthy looking lot I have ever seen," he said to a reporter.

The situation was rendered more unfortunate, because of the unusually large amount of beef that was put up for sale today. Lack of quality, however, did not bring the price down, 10 to 12 cents being the reigning figure. Lamb sold at 14 and 15 cents, and pork at 11 and 12 cents.

On the whole there was well attended market. Buyers were able to get butter for 32 and 33 cents, pretty good quality at that. Eggs, guaranteed, changed hands at 45 cents a dozen. The supply of either commodity was not conspicuous. Potatoes were not over plentiful and the price has advanced slightly as there were none under 70 cents. The commonest price was 75 cents. Of small vegetables and garden produce of all kinds there was an ample supply.

One could have counted the number of ducks which sold at 75 cents each. A nice brace of chickens could have been bought for $1.00. Turkeys sold on a sliding scale from $1.00 up to $3.00.

In the excitement near the close, May wheat sold at $1.41⅝ a bushel, an advance of 2⅛c from the summit of the day before. The market finished unsettled, 2⅛c to 2½c above last night.

WINNIPEG GRAIN MARKET.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 8.—The wheat market continues to boom, prices early advancing over Thursday night's close to the extent of 3⅛c for May and 3⅛c for July. The advance, however, was not maintained. May held fairly steady at $1.37½, while July went to $1.39. Exporters bought freely, both here and in the States.

Cash demand continues strong, and all offerings are taken up.

Inspections Thursday, 125 cars, as against 122 cars last year. In sight, 110 cars.

MONTREAL GRAIN MARKET.

MONTREAL, Jan. 8.—Business in Manitoba spring wheat for export account was quiet owing to the fact that prices bid by overseas buyers were irregular, but sales of a few loads were made to London of No. 1 northern at 55s 9d. No. 1 feed oats were sold to London at 30s 6d. Oats continue strong and prices scored a further advance of ½c to 1c per bushel locally, but the volume of business done was small. A steady business continues to be done in spring wheat flour for export account, but the local trade is still rather quiet and not up to expectations since the advance in prices. The demand for millfeed is fair and prices are firm. Butter is unchanged with trade fair. Cheese continues firm. Eggs are active.

TWO DOLLAR WHEAT?

It Will Drive People to Corn Bread, Say Chicago Dealers.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9. — Two dollar wheat will mean that Americans will eat corn, it was said here yesterday by prominent dealers in grain. A national agitation to induce congress to place an embargo on the export of wheat and flour, as well as on arms and ammunition, will be introduced at the next meeting of the Chicago Retail Grocers' and Butchers' Association, it was announced. S. Westerfeld, chairman of the trade relations committee of the National Association of Retailers, planned to begin in this manner a determined fight against the high cost of flour and incidentally of home-baked bread.

Leaders on 'change predicted yesterday in some instances that if the price of wheat went much higher there would be a general turning to corn in place of wheat bread, both in this country and in Europe. Other dealers declared that bakers' complaints were unwarranted — that a barrel of flour, costing $7, would make 275 loaves of bread, which the retailers sold for $13,75, at five cents a loaf.

Price of Bread Rises.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Department of Justice officials expressed interest last night in reports that the price of a loaf of bread was about to jump from five to six cents in New York, Chicago and possibly other large cities. No complaints have reached the department, however, and no action is in immediate prospect.

Attorney-General Gregory has kept a close watch upon any efforts to raise the cost of living through combinations of producers in any line, and it is considered certain that a rise in bread would be looked into at once. It is realized at the department that, with wheat far above normal figures, bakers undoubtedly have been forced to face the prospect of higher flour. Officials are interested, however, in learning whether there is any conspiracy among bakers over the country to effect a raise in price of their commodity. Concerted action that involved bakers in different states would allow prosecution under the anti-trust act.

THE HOME GUARD

By inadvertence in the report of the meeting of the Home Guards on Thursday evening, the impression was conveyed that the volunteering by several members of the Home Guard for active service occurred as the result of a patriotic address made by one of the officers.

The officer who made the address wishes to have this impression corrected, as the facts are that the men in question had already enlisted for active service and the address given was simply an expression of honour and respect to the men who had enlisted.

HOCKEY CURLING ATHLETICS

REJUVENATED PETES HAD EASY WIN OVER BELLEVILLE

Hunterites Scored at the Rate of One Goal Every Four Minutes, Their Speed Being Too Much for Visitors

The gang is all here so it's right to the Intermediate championship. Nothing short of a cyclone can alter the course the Petes are on toward cleaning up the John Ross Robertson Cup. They appeared last night in full strength for the first time this season and the way they walked over the Belleville aggregation was a shame. It took the Peterborough Hockey Club a little time to get the team bolstered up but the work has been accomplished. Give the Blue and White another week playing together and they will be capable of giving any of the Senior O.H.A. team a glorious old sixty minute battle. They played exceptionally well last evening and the only point that will stand any improvement is their team play.

As was announced the Petes' line-up was to be different last evening and despite the fact that the Petes had suffered defeat earlier in the week and that Belleville had not won a game this season, the largest crowd thus far this winter was present and it is easy guessing that none of the fans will miss another game. The locals played the style of hockey that pleases the crowd. They rushed well, back-checked well and kept going stronger as the game progressed. They worked harder the last five minutes than they did any time earlies in the fray. No one in particular was starring but everyone was working his head off and never let up.

Visitors Opened Strong.

Belleville showed more class in the first twenty minutes than they did at any other section of the conflict. They showed eagerness to combine and the forwards were everlastingly back-checking. Lawson Whitehead has a fair team gathered together but when they hit the rejuvenated Petes they were playing out of their class. Levitt in goal was hardly to be expected to block the shots he was given to handle. They were raining on him from all angles and while he let a large number in he also connected with a few. T. Brant and Marshall the defence was no difficult proposition. Marshall has a mighty big frame and could tip the beam to some 200 pounds but he was just as awkward as he was big. The Peterborough forward line skated around him as they would a post. Whalen at rover and Earle at centre played fairly good hockey while the wing men, Langman and B. Brant were about the best of the lot. The men on the sides gave the locals more trouble than the rest of the opposition. Brant, who is an Indian, played the rough and ready style of game which the fans always take to.

Janes' Great Work.

Bert Janes, the local net guardian, put up a grand game between the irons. It is true that his defence was strong but "Skid" was given opporounities to show his ability on more than one occasion and he did. Some of the fans had thought that Janes was not playing the hockey he did last season but all doubt should banish after last night's performance.

"Ack" Hunter and Jack Pethick played beautiful defensive hockey. They were steady as could be and rushed incessantly. Both showed willingness to unite with the forwards and the combined rushes which swooped down on Belleville's territory found great favor. Hunter had a little hard luck in the dying moments of the battle when he missed a couple of chances to score from close in but hockey has its peculiar breaks as well as baseball. The more the fans see of Pethick the better impression he makes. The brick top westerner has abundance of speed and also uses his weight to advantage.

The fans had come to see the new forward line in action and no one could have been disappointed. Peter Spratt was out in rover and the mentioning of that fact alone is sufficient. Anything along the line of speed and aggressiveness that Spratt has not got is foreign to most hockey players. He was a tower of strength and easily made good for the big ovation the fans gave him when he first stepped on the ice. He worked his scoop shot continually and it was always right on the nets. It is doubtful if Maurice Park ever played a better game than he put up last evening. The word "quit" might be dropped from the dictionary so far as the fair haired centre man is concerned. Pep? He has barrels of it and seemed never to let up. Fred Kelly although playing against Langman one of Belleville's best players, contributed a nice exhibition and broke away in several of his dazzling dashes. Kelly is playing better hockey at the present time than he did any time last season. Joe Moines the new man at right wing who hails from Cavan made quite a hit with the spectators. The boy is only as big as a minute but is a regular hornet. With a few more workouts with the rest of the team the kid should go well.

Our friend Lou E. Marsh handled the game and did so to the utmost satisfaction. Peterborough is indeed fortunate in securing the services of Marsh and we wish for nothing more than to have him officiate at the games the Petes will figure in for the rest of the season.

Petes Started the Scoring.

Before the fans recovered from the effects of the first gaze on the old gold and green uniforms of the Belleville team, Maurice Park had rushed up and tallied number one. The game was very fast at the opening moments and the checking close. Janes was given a hard one to handle from Whalen's stick which he did but a moment later the rover beat him with a shot from the side. The pace continued to grow even faster and the way the visitors were back-checking drew admiration from the sides. Their forward line broke away on a combined rush which Hunter and Pethick succeeded in breaking up. Kelly secured the rubber behind his own net and snaked right up the centre ice for a score. It was the best rush of the entire game. Two minutes after Kelly registered Spratt repeated the performance and scored. The score at the end of the first period was 3-1.

Just one minute after the rest "Ack" Hunter contributed a long rush and notched No. 4. Park made the total five two minutes later on another individual dash. B. Brant and Pethick both drew penalties for tripping but were on th ice four minutes later when Kelly, Hunter and Park broke away on a combined rush and Park scooped the rubber in. Marshall the big defence player of Belleville collided with Park and the "giant" went down for the count. He was forced to retire and Moines was dropped to even up. Both were on again when Kelly made the total seven with a pretty shot from the side. Moines and Hunter combined a few minutes later and the right wing man secured a shot. The goalei blocked but Hunter slammed in the rebound. This ended the scoring for the second period, the score remaining 8-1.

Pethick was banished for holding and Maurice Park broke away while the big defence man was absent and scored. Fred Kelly broke into the scoring again and a few seconds later when he worked a hole through the Belleville forwards and scored from outside the defence. Moines did a bit of clever stick handling around the visitors' net and passed to Kelly who sent the total up to 11. The Belleville team however was determined to add another to their solitary one and they did, B. Brant turning the trick on a nice rush. Hunter scored another for the Petes a minute later and Fred Kelly repeated in 30 seconds. Hunter, Pethick and Kelly combined for a nice rush and Hunter registered No. 14. Earle, Moines and Park drew penalties but were all on again before Kelly shot from the side and Pethick slammed in the rebound for the Petes' last score. The final figures were: Peterborough 15, Belleville 2.

Belgian Priests Fined.

French Alpine Troops Perform Sensational Feat

ST. DIE, Department of Vosges, Jan. 9.—A brilliant exploit by French Alpine troops, who charged on skis down the snow-covered mountain slopes at Bonhomme, a post on the Alsatian frontier, forced the Germans to retire on Orbey, five miles down the valley of the River Meuse toward Colmar.

A strong German detachment with quick-firers held a road. The French advanced on foot within range, while the Alpine troops began to climb the heights to attack the Germans on their flank. Many of the climbers rolled down the steep slopes, leaving crimson stains behind. The survivors pushed forward until they gained the shelter of the pines at the summit.

Then began an exciting charge. The Alpine soldiers on their skis slid down the mountainside at a dizzy pace, while the infantry in the road below opened fire on the Germans.

Caught between two fires, the Germans gave way.

New Jersey German-Americans Say Bryan Favors the Allied Powers.

ELIZABETH, N.J., Jan. 9. — The resignation of Secretary of State Bryan is demanded in a set of resolutions adopted by the German-American alliance, this city, on the ground that Bryan is favoring the allies against Germany. Exportation of arms and munitions to the powers of the triple entente is condemned in strong terms.

The resolutions say that the United States' national policy is "apt not only to make a laughing stock of our country but to bring us into discredit before the entire world and to stamp us as the vassal state of England, and make our best friends, Germany and Austria-Hungary, our enemies."

ETHEL VON WALDRON

With Fiske O'Hara, in "Jack's Romance," at the Grand Opera House Monday, Jan. 11.

Fiske O'Hara, who now ranks as the leading interpreter of Irish character parts on the American stage at the present day, is to appear at the Grand on Monday next, presenting a new romantic Irish play, "Jack's Romance." From the reports of the performance we can expect in this latest work of Augustus Pitou an excellent drama, completely devoid of ranting melodrama scene and impossible characterizations. Mr. Pitou, whose "In Old Dublin," "Sweet Iniscarra" and other plays are remembered with pleasure by theatregoers, has woven a story of love and intrigue that is full of the strongest dramatic situations and heart interest and in which Fiske O'Hara, for whom the play was written, has the best part of his career. The atmosphere of the piece is said to be exceptionally fascinating and Mr. O'Hara has an opportunity of introducing a number of splendid Irish melodies. The mountings of the play are unusually rich and there is one of the strongest companies ever seen in the support of an Irish star.

HEALTH ASSOCIATION REPORTS

A very interesting part of our work is that of prevention, and in this respect a great many visits have been made, which are not included in the 49 cases mentioned. These cases are largely among children, who have been exposed to tuberculosis through death and sickness in the families, also through ignorance, improper feeding and lax hygiene, and it is encouraging indeed to see these children improve. And what is still more encouraging is to see our tuberculous return to the ranks of health. We are happy to say that we have four such cases to report from one year's work and perhaps you can imagine what a comfort it was to one of us to receive greetings like these "Your well patient," and "Your happy little boy."

One of our patients has recently returned to her home in England and one has been deported.

I have collected $51.00 for paid visits during the year.

Alongside of the actual caring for the suffering, we look forward to the time when, through proper instruction, the danger of infection will be minimized and the exaggerated fear done away with. In a great many cases there is a good deal of fear where there is no occasion for fear, and there is no fear where there ought to be. The consequence is that because of this lack of understanding of the conditions, we encounter many cases which might be called "avoidable cases," and this brings the lesson home to us most forcibly that we need less fear and more intelligent understanding of the conditions which produce health and those which produce disease.

Supervision Committee.

Another interesting report was presented by Dr. Neal, chairman of the supervision committee, which was as follows:

As secretary of the supervision committee, I beg to submit the following report:

On the whole, taking into consideration the depression under which the country is laboring, we have had a very successful and encouraging year, and those interested in the work feel more than ever the necessity for continuing it.

During the past year the total number of calls made by the two nurses was 3,350, and the number of patients visited was 206, of which 157 were general cases. Of these general cases, 102 were adult medical cases, 23 obstetrical and 16 surgical cases, and the remainder children and infants, the latter suffering mailly from improper feeding, and mal-nutrition.

The surgical cases consisted of minor operations done at home, surgical dressings, and post-operative work.

The tuberculous cases numbered 49, of which 17 were new cases. During the year several have returned to work, and, as the result of proper training and care, have been enabled to remain at work.

Of these 49 cases, 45 were pulmonary and 4 surgical cases. During the year there have been eight deaths, and at such times instruction was given as to proper disinfection, etc., and where necessary, aid in carrying out such instructions.

As in other years, nourishment, such as milk and eggs was freely given where needed, also stoves, beds, blankets, linen, wearing apparel, soap-stones, thermometers, sputum cups, absorbent cotton, and medicines were given or loaned as required.

Early in July the children's camp was organized, and Miss Dickson, a graduate nurse, put in charge of the children while there.

For their zeal and patience in arranging the many perplexing details of this work, great praise is especially due to Mrs. G. Scott and Mrs. Travers, although many others helped in various ways.

Through the kindness of the Street Railway Company, we were allowed the use of their building at was given those coming and going in connection with the work.

Early in the morning the children were taken to the park in a large 'bus and given a light lunch on their arrival. Then at noon a good hot dinner, prepared by Mrs. Read, was given them, and another light lunch before returning home.

During the day the children played in the park, but were compelled to rest for a definite period each afternoon, on cots placed in a large tent, which was kindly donated by the Big Brothers' Club.

Instruction was given as to the sanitary care of the teeth, each child being provided with a tooth-brush by Dr. Middleton.

The total number of children at the camp was 43, their ages ranging from 5 to 14 years.

These children were taken largely from homes where some member was suffering from tuberculosis, or the children themselves were suffering from surgical tuberculosis, but no case with an open lesion was allowed, so that no child would be exposed to danger.

This branch of the work was very much appreciated by parents, as was shown by numerous requests to have their children taken, and since by letters of appreciation received.

All the children showed marked improvement, some gaining as much as five and eight pounds in weight

Unfortunately owing to the declaration of war, which caused a marked falling-off in donations, the camp had to be closed on August 15th. Since then nothing new has been undertaken, except the regular work.

The District Nurse.

Miss Edith Hamilton, district nurse for general work, submitted her report for 1914. She also described some of the work accomplished by the nurses during the year, and slides illustrating some wonderful restorations to health and happiness were shown. Several of these depicted infants suffering from malnutrition and other diseases whose weight had been increased in two months to almost double.

To Increase Membership.

The reports showed that the membership had dropped, and it was decided that some action must be immediately adopted to increase it and swell the treasury. Two suggestions were that a church canvass be made for members and financial assistance. Another was that a general subscription be instituted, as it was felt that there were many citizens who could readily subscribe $10 to $12 apiece. More money than last year would be needed if the association was to continue its good work.

The treasurer's report showed that there was $1,065.73 on hand. Dr. Cameron declared that $2,000 would be needed this year to carry on the work. One suggestion was that the city council be approached for assistance.

A BLUNDERING DEPUTATION.

Editor Review,

Dear Sir,—I was greatly surprised when I read in the press that "Hydro" Johnston and th Mayor had spent much effort in arranging an excursion to Ottawa under the pretence—for I am sure it could be only so—to wait on the Minister of Militia.

And how the "People's Willie" did spread himself—why not? when "Hydro Bill" the city's finance minister, carries the money chest.

It must have been an imposing sight to see the boys march up the main drags of Ottawa led by "Hydro Bill," "Square Deal" Duncan, and "The People's Candidate," and how they were struck with—terror at this hotel when they received the sad intelligence that General Hughes was in the hospital.

However, our worthy Mayor was equal to the occasion and "Hydro Bill" was ordered to have his lamps trimmed and he and Square Deal Duncan were given explicit instructions to look after Albert and Willie and see that no harm befell them while the large deputation of "three" went to the home for curables to see the General only to be told by him "that a blunder had been made."

Now, Mr Editor, what I want to know is why Albert Stratton, Dr. Young, Willie Bradburn, "Hydro Bill," "The People's Candidate," "Square Deal" Duncan," etc., do not read the press.

It has been published broadcast in almost every paper in Canada, that General Hughes was in the hospital with a sore knee. Yet the people's money is squandered on a large drummed up deputation that dwindles down to "three" when the capital city is reached and they learn that the General is in the hospital, and all the ratepayers of this city get for this wasteful expenditure of money is "that a blunder has been made."

MARY PICKFORD AT THE EMPIRE

One of the best shows we have yet seen in moving pictures is that being presented at the Empire Theatre, which depicts Mary Pickford, one of the "movie" stars. She is credited with receiving a salary of $50,000. Her acting looks like it. She instills a great deal of life into her acting, so that the pictures speak almost as if they were scenes from real life. The plot is very simple, but true to life, and has the usual moral purpose well brought out. The war pictures are also exceptionally good, and the music appropriate. The whoel program is on the whole above the average that appear in moving picture theatres.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE TO-NIGHT

The Grand Opera House this afternoon held a record crowd that was delighted with the performance of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch." The company is a good one, and the show is in every way a delightful relaxation from the ordinary theatrical travelling show. All who want to thoroughly enjoy themselves should attend the Grand tonight.

ROUMANIA NOW ABLE TO SECURE WAR SUPPLIES FROM THE ALLIES

INFANTRY ENGAGEMENTS GIVE TRENCHES TO FRENCH

Artillery Duels at Different Points Are Without Important Results — Foe's Attacks Near Beausejour are Repulsed

LOOKS LIKE EARLY ENTRY OF ROUMANIA INTO THE WAR

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Jan. 11. — The official afternoon announcement shows a condition at several points of intermittent cannonading, but these artillery duels do not appear to have brought any important results yesterday.

There have also been infantry engagements, and the French have taken possession of a small portion of German trenches to the north of Perthes, to the northeast of Soissons, and near Bosaclle.

Violent German attacks near Beausejour were repulsed.

LONDON, Jan. 11. — There are increasing indications of an early participation of Roumania in the war. Obstacles which hitherto blocked her full mobilization have been removed with the arrival of supplies and equipment for six hundred thousand men, which, the Allies, busy with their own war, have only now been able to furnish.

The British idea that operations up to the present are only preparations, accords with gossip to the effect that Lord Kitchener, when asked recently considering the probable duration of war, said: "I don't know when it will end, but it will begin in the month of May."

Russia continues sending a vast number of men towards the front. Levies of last year, numbering twelve hundred thousand men, are just leaving training camps to make room for levies of 1915.

Germany's newest levy consists of six hundred thousand men. Her masses of reserves already under arms have enabled her to rush heavy reinforcements wherever required without withdrawing troops already engaged at the front in either the eastern or western zones.

Report of the General Nurse

The report of Miss Hamilton, the general nurse, to the Health Association was as follows:

In district nursing the actual nursing of the patient is one of the least of the duties which the nurse is called upon to perform for the class of people with whom she meets. To this branch of our work no more appropriate name can be given than instructive nursing.

The most helpful of all forms of public life is the work of the visiting nurse in the reduction of infant mortality. In this work the nurse goes into the homes where there are poor, sick, weak babies. She opens the closed windows, removes superfluous clothes, prepares the babies' feeding, gives it a bath as an object lesson to the mother, and performs a hundred other services, which together means a difference between life and death.

In obstetric cases our daily visits are not relaxed until both mother and baby are all right. As for the babies, we see that they have a good start in life, at least. Where the mother is the patient, and housekeeping thus at a standstill, explains further the frequent necessity of the nurse instituting a clean-up of the patient's room at the outset. If there is a woman, perhaps a neighbor, or an older child to assist, the nurse enlists their services, but if, as is sometimes the case, there is only the patient and small children, the nurse, if she possesses the sincere desire to help, brings order out of chaos by her own hands. No doors are barred to the nurse, because the trained nurse does not come as a critic, a patroniser, or a faddist, but as a paid helper in urgent need.

I beg to submit the following report for the year 1914:

Number of patients, 125.
Number of visits, 1,770.
Number of paid visits, 300.
Number of free visits, 1,470.
Money collected for services, $90.75.
Called for night duty, nine times.

EDITH HAMILTON.

ARTHUR HATTON APPOINTED HEAD OF CAR SERVICE

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Montreal, Jan. 11.—Arthur Hatton has been appointed general superintendent of car service, for the C.P.R., with headquarters in Montreal, to succeed George S. Cantle, lieutenant-colonel commanding the Forty-Third Royal Highlanders in the third Canadian Contingent for overseas service. Mr. Hatton began his connection with the C.P.R. as a telegraph operator twenty-three years ago and has been associated with the company's car service in Winnipeg.

Appointments for Third Contingent

Major Walker was informed from Kingston today that Capt. Carruthers has been appointed quartermaster, and Lts. A. R. Cameron and W. B. Eastwood have been appointed provisionally to the 39th Battalion, 3rd Canadian Expeditionary Forces. Captain K. Lech volunteered, but has not yet been placed.

TWO KIDDIES WHO GREW UP TO DEFEND THE EMPIRE.

The above is a picture of a tableau called "The Defenders of the Empire," produced at an entertainment given in Peterborough by "The King's Daughters" on the occasion of the Diamond Jubilee, 1897, of the late Queen Victoria. The sailor lad on the right, then aged five, is now Lieut. Eric Greenwood of the Royal Engineers, a graduate of the R.M.C., who left it with the sword of honor and the silver medal. Lieut. Greenwood was recently wounded in France and his leg amputated. His father is Lt.-Col. H. S. Greenwood, who is also Canadian and served in Africa, and his grandfather was Sir Henri Joly, late Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia. The soldier lad, also aged five, the son of Mr. P. Campbell of the Bank of Toronto, Peterborough, is officially known as Gordon Campbell, but is better known to his friends as "Pete" Campbell of 'Varsity and the 48th Highlanders.

DIRECTED OPERATIONS OF ARMY IN FLANDERS FROM HOUSE IN LONDON

Sir John French Used Telegraph for Three Days and Took Part in Councils of War

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

London, Jan. 11.—For three days late in December, Sir John French directed by telegraph from his house in London, the operations of his army in Flanders. He crossed to Folkestone, wearing the overcoat and cap of a private soldier and escaped notice. He was met by Lord Kitchener and they proceeded to Walmer Castle, where a council of war was held, attended by the Prime Minister and the leaders of both political parties.

Sir John French then came to London where he attended councils for the next two days, King George being present on one occasion at night. Hourly telegraph messages from the front were received at his house.

Disguised as before he returned to France and both on train and steamer, nobody paid any attention to the "old soldier" but landing at Calais, he appeared in full uniform and was enthusiastically acclaimed by the crowds.

*General French is said to have re*marked this would be his last visit to London until the end of the war.

HEAVY PLATE FELL ON LEG

Foreman at Wm. Hamilton's is Seriously Hurt

While unloading boiler plate this morning at the Wm. Hamilton Co., Mr. Charles Baker, foreman of the boiler shop, had his left leg broken. One of the heavy plates slipped and struck his leg. Dr. J. R. Morgan was called to attend him. He was removed to his home, 573 Gilchrist Street.

Mr. Baker's escape from more serious injury, was remarkable. This is probably the first local case of importance to come under the Workmen's Compensation Act.

CHURCH WORSHIP

Discussed By Members of Ministerial Association

"Are the churches of today moulding and fashioning, sufficiently in reverence and worship, the mind of the Canadian people?" Rev. Canon Davidson, in a thoughtful paper on "Canada and the Worship of God," asked the question of the Ministerial Association, who met in regular session this morning in the Y. M. C. A. parlors. He discussed widely the ritualism form of worship and the extemporary form of worship prevailing in the churches of the land.

All the ministers entered into discussion on the paper.

Rev. James Rollins presided.

CHAIRMEN OF COMMITTEES

Ald. G. W. Green Gets Board of Works, While Ald. Duffus Takes Fire, Water and Light

Mayor Buller Wants Nothing Less Than 25 Cents an Hour for All Workmen in Contracts for City Work

The 1915 city council met this morning at eleven o'clock for the inaugural meeting and His Worship Mayor Buller opened with a few remarks "appropriate to the occasion." He welcomed the new members to the council, George Evans, John Edgar and A. A. McIntyre and was sure they would co-operate with the rest of the council and endeavor to do all in their power for the welfare of the city. His Worship noted with regret that Ald. Duncan's face was absent also Ald. Langford and Ald. M. McIntyre. The three were always careful and able representatives of the city.

Speaking of proposed work, His Worship intimated that it would depend upon how the conditions are, when spring opens up. However, he wished every department, particularly the Board of Works, to specify in all contracts that all the workingmen of Peterborough must get the first preference and not receive a wage less than 25 cents per hour. The workingmen are not in as good a condition today as they have been in former years and it was Mayor Buller's desire that the 1915 council help to better their condition as much as possible. If conditions are a little better in spring, civic work will be commenced again. Two big undertakings will be the construction of a drainage system for East City and for the section lying on this side of the Otonabee. This with the ordinary sewer construction will provide much work for the unemployed. Whether any further paving contracts will be let or not, will not be decided till the proper time arrives and the condition of the money market is known. If any street paving was started Mayor Buller desired that the request of the number of ratepayers in the west ward who wanted the pavement extended on Hunter Street, be gatified.

Mayor Buller touched upon the outfall sewer and disposal plant and stated that although the Provincial Board of Health has not given out a definite statement he was confident that there will be no change in the original plans. If there is any deviation it will be only small and will not make any material difference. His Worship's closing words expressed the wish that the cloud of depression would be passed before many months and that the 1915 council will give him their hearty support as the 1914 council have done and that the council itself would work in perfect harmony and concord.

The meeting then went into the committee of the whole and adjourned to the committee room where the committees were struck. The personnel of council and committees is as follows:—

Mayor—William Buller.

Aldermen—Jos. Saunders, John Edgar, A. H. Stratton, F. H. Dobbin, G. W. Green, J. J. Duffus, W. J. Johnston, A. A. McIntyre, A. Weir, G. Evans.

Board of Works—G. W. Green, chairman; W. J. Johnston, J. J. Duffus, A. H. Stratton, Jos. Saunders, A. Weir, G. Evans, A. McIntyre, F. H. Dobbin.

Fire, Water and Light—J. J. Duffus, chairman; G. W. Green, A. Weir, G. Evans, A. H. Stratton, F. H. Dobbin.

Manufacturers'—A. Weir, chairman; G. Evans, A. McIntyre, G. W. Green, J. Saunders, J. J. Duffus.

Finance—A. H. Stratton, chairman; G. W. Green, J. J. Duffus, A. McIntyre, W. J. Johnston.

Property—A. A. McIntyre, chairman; W. J. Johnston, G. W. Green, J. J. Duffus, J. Edgar, A. Weir, J. Saunders.

Legal—F. H. Dobbin, chairman; W. J. Johnston, J. Edgar, A. H. Stratton, Jos. Saunders.

It will be noticed that Ald. Johnston the oldest member of the council is without the chairmanship of a committee. He and Ald. Stratton were nominated to the chair of the Finance Committee but Ald. Stratton won by a vote of 6-4. Ald. Johnston was then offered the chairmanship of the Power Committee but he explained that the use of a power committee was over and that any matters which will arrive in the future should be cared for by the council. The matter of whether to drop the committee or not, was put to a vote. The vote was five to five and Mayor Buller cast his vote in favor of dropping the committee.

It was decided to recommend the following resolutions to the Council:

That the arrangement that the Board of Trade be represented on the Manufacturers' Committee by three members be continued.

That the Mayor be authorized to send deputations to other places on city business when he deems it advisable, and that the expenses of such deputations be paid by the city treasurer on the certificate of the Mayor.

That the usual grant of $500 be made to the Mayor, to be paid in even portions quarterly, at the beginning of each quarter.

The council meets again tonight at eight o'clock.

PLOWMEN TO MEET

The annual meeting of the county of Peterborough Plowmen's Association will be held in the office of Farm and Dairy, Peterborough, next Saturday, January 16th, at 2 p.m. Invitations are being sent not only to the members of the Association but to the winners in the plowing match held last fall. A general invitation is being extended also to all those who are interested in plowing, to attend.

The Association has received its share of the Government grant which means that its finances show a balance to the good. A large attendance is hoped for next Saturday.

AEROPLANE OF FOE IS BROUGHT DOWN

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Jan. 11. — A German aeroplane flying over Amiens has been brought to the ground by a French machine. French airmen went aloft the moment the German was seen approaching, and opened fire on their antagonist, with the result that the German machine fell within the French lines. One of the German pilots was killed.

LIVERY BARNS PREY TO FIRE

Horses Were Saved but Equipment Was Destroyed

Loss by fire amounting to between $2,500 and $3,000 was caused on Sunday morning about four-thirty when the livery barns of Mr. G. Innis on Simcoe Street were discovered in flames. The outbreak occurred so suddenly and spread with such rapidity that very little was saved of the contents. The horses being stabled in a brick building at the south end of the barns, were not alarmed or hurt in any way. Everything else of importance, however, belonging to Mr. Innes was lost. Four cutters, four light democrats, four buggies, and one hack, almost new were destroyed, besides a lot of valuable harness and six robes and other apparatus found in a livery barn. Mr. Innis does not know what started it. A cigarette stub seems to be the only theory that can be advanced as about one hour previous a cutter that had been hired was backed into the barns, and this might have contained a lighted cigarette stub. Mr. Innes' loss is partly covered by insurance.

A telephone call was turned in at four-thirty and the fire department responded in comparatively quick time. But by the time it arrived the whole row of barns were a mass of flames which mounted to a great height causing the scene to be really more dangerous in appearance than it turned out to be. Inflammable material such as hay which the barns contained and the fact that the buildings were all of frame construction caused the fire to spread with remarkable swiftness and although several lines of hose were soon deluging the outbreak it was too far gone for much to be saved of either buildings or contents. The building in which the fire originated was a long driving shed about 80 by 25 feet which was completely burned down. It adjoins the house occupied by Mr. Innes. Mr. E. N. McWilliam's house which is close by was threatened for a time but escaped untouched. About one hour was required before the outbreak was sudbued.

The property was owned by Garnet Innis, purchased from P. Grady about two years ago. Horses and stock and equipment was insured for $3,000 in the Anglo-American Fire Insurance Co., represented by Mr. T. Mark. Of this amount, $2,000 was on the rigs and other equipment.

PETERBOROUGH, MONDAY, JANUARY 11, 1915

THE HYDRO-ELECTRIC PLANT AT ELKHART, INDIANA.

ELKHART, INDIANA, is a small city of the United States, about ninety miles east of Chicago. In 1900 it had a population of 15,184, which had increased by 1910 to 19,282. It is a manufacturing city, and, besides various industries, large railroad car shops are located there.

In June, 1913, a hydro-electric development plant was completed on the St. Joseph River, in Elkhart. It replaced an old system with a twelve-foot head, the new one having a head of eighteen feet. This plant had some unusual or new features, and, since Elkhart is a city of almost the same population as Peterborough, the new plant ought to be of interest to the people of this city. This plant was described by Wm. G. Fargo, M. Am. Soc. C. E., and Lucius B. Andrus, M. Am. Inst. E E., in "Engineering and Contracting" for May, 1914.

The features of note are: (1) The spillway consists entirely of what are called Tainter gates, there being eleven gates 25 feet wide by 9 feet 6 inches high. Three of these gates are steam heated. (2) The head gates are of the Tainter type. (3) The plant is designed for the future building of a steam auxiliary of at least 7,500 kw. initial installation, in immediate connection with the present water-power generator house, so that the same crane can serve both generating rooms, and a reduction of operating forces can be effected. A portion of the steam generator room has been built for sixty feet, but no boiler room was built, although part of the foundation was constructed. There is no mention of ice troubles nor of plans to overcome them, unless the steam-heated gates are designed for this purpose. It should be remembered, however, that this place enjoys much milder winters than Peterborough does, being farther south.

What is of interest is that from the very beginning, plans have been made for the erection of a fairly large steam auxiliary plant for power purposes. It appears that the designers of this plant were of the opinion that it is better not to develop all the power required for a city by electric generators, but only a portion, and to develop the remainder from steam turbines. There is another reason, however, and that is that the river may not be able to give all the electric power required, and hence this would have to be supplemented by steam.

THE SKELETONS AND "OLD TIMER."

IT IS ALL VERY WELL for the Examiner to characterize "Old Timer" as a ghoul, for that newspaper, together with a number of interested parties, undoubtedly deeply wish the people to forget several things that once took place here under the stress of a political contest. Unfortunately for the Examiner, there are a good many "Old Timers" who have not cultivated the faculty of forgetting. To try to improve a very bad case under the guise of a special reportership only shows how ill-disguised were the campaign methods used at the time referred to, and how the real significance of a special reporter was common knowledge. The Examiner should be consistent and try to keep up in its policy with the "march of civilization" and "higher standards," Vide, the pull and push propaganda. We remember a well-known authority, doubtless familiar to the Examiner, who said, "The evil that men do lives after them." Even though our contemporary should revise Shakespeare, and perhaps turn him over in his grave in the process, the truth will out, just as murder will out, and that means that the march of civilization is not fast enough to run away from what are held to be discreditable things by "Old "Timers." If the "higher standards of decency in political warfare" had prevailed in 1908, and for some years previous to that late date, there would be fewer or no skeletons for "Old Timers" to talk about.

PETERBOROUGH'S PUBLIC LIBRARY.

THE REPORT of the librarian, Mr. F. M. Della Fosse regarding the year's work of the Public Library, and which was published in Saturday's issue, is very satisfactory. The increase in the amount of reading in nearly all the divisions shows that more people are making use of the library.

The paragraph dealing with the extension of library privileges to county residents is timely. We remember that the Hamilton Public Library (a Carnegie one) refused to allow a book to go to a county resident there on any consideration, even on the payment of a deposit. It is a praiseworthy object to make an effort to extend the privileges of the library, for, the object of such an institution should be to extend knowledge, and make its service to the public as wide and as great as possible. It would be well if the county authorities took up the matter, for the number of people living outside the city who come here every week to do business is quite large, and no doubt a number of these would use the library if some concession were granted them

A JOKE ON THE TOWER OF LONDON.

COMMENTING on the despatch which stated that two members of the Canadian Veterinary Corps, incarcerated in the Tower of London for disorderly conduct, broke the bars and escaped, Toronto Saturday Night has produced the following racy article:

> "This despatch causes us to smile. It is a great joke on the Tower of London, which has considered itself top-hole in the matter of prisons for the last thousand years. The place has a donjon keep in the shape of the White Tower, an Inner Ballium, an Outer Ballium, walls ten feet thick, and what used to be a moat. It has been regarded by every King of England, from William the Conqueror down, as the completest thing in jails that the British Empire could boast. Henry the Eighth thought so much of it that he shifted his wives there when he got through with them, and there they waited, poor creatures, until they were successfully beheaded, and King Henry lived happily ever afterwards.
>
> Although it is no great shakes as a dwelling place, being stuffy and full of drafts, English monarchs have been known to desert their palaces and take domicile there, particularly when they were having a little trouble with the burgesses of London. Their notion was that the Tower of London was a safe spot, and that they would argue it out with the citizens from the inside looking out. They had as little idea that the people could break in when they were shut out is that people could break out when they were shut in. A similar delusion has held many persons in durance vile within its walls, victims of tyranny, or apostles of it. Some of the names we recall are Dudley, Somerset, Sir Thomas More, Raleigh, Monmouth, Strafford. They all thought there was no breaking out of the Tower of London, and most of them hung around thinking that way until the headsman's axe left them nothing to think with.
>
> But along come our two Canadians. Being Canadians, they have no respect for tradition—they do not acquiesce in the general belief that the Tower is second only to the grave as a place of detention. They do not say, as your Englishman does, that a thing can't be done because it has never been done before, don't you know. Being members of the Veterinary Corps, they display a little horse sense on the subject of jail-breaking and snap their fingers at precedent. They defy the logic of the situation and get away with it. No doubt they were in an illogical frame of mind, having done London Town from the Marble Arch to the Monument. If two loyal subjects in the mere pursuit of historic associations, stop at all the pubs along Fleet Street rendered famous, say, by Dr. Samuel Johnson and his group, they will be steeped in something headier than logic. We can picture their jubilant course along that great white way, halting perhaps at Trafalgar Square, to throw their caps in the fountain and tell one of the Landseer lions "go fetch it," prodding the noble beast the while with their swagger sticks. The only bar they would pass up would be Temple Bar, and that for two good reasons—one because they never served drinks there, and the other because the bar has been removed to the country seat of a certain titled Englisman, who presumably likes to have a bar handy. By the time our heroes were run in by the watch they were probably trying to push the monument over or set the Thames on fire, or something else that nobody but a Colonial would attempt.
>
> In such a state of high spirits they would naturally regard the Tower of London as a brittle institution, about as strong as a piece of cheese, but no stronger. Perhaps they were Ontario men and had voted for Mr. Rowell in the last election. In that case their first thought would be to abolish the bars, and they would find them easier than they had expected. No bar, not even a Tower of London bar, stands up against the corrosion of a thousand years without danger of being opened during the prohibited hours. Our idea is that the two Canadians escaped from the Tower of London just to prove that it could be done. That they had no grudge against the Tower as a tower, they showed by hurrying back to Salisbury Camp and reporting for duty. What surprises us is their moderation. They were satisfied to escape. When they found the Tower of London that easy, why didn't they sneak a halberd or a pike-pole from the armoury, harpoon the Beefeaters, grab the crown jewels and bring them back to Canada to pay the national debt?

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THERE HAVE BEEN some serious allegations made regarding the Board of Education of Peterborough. If there is to be an investigation, it should be by a provincial commission from the Department of Education. Peterborough does not want a local commission, formed, as it has been intimated it might be, for party interests, to make any investigation into the affairs of the Board of Education. If an inquiry is deemed necessary, the people want to be sure that it is a fair inquiry.

The Ruling of a Local Magistrate.

(Hamilton Spectator.)

It is questionable if bank clerks will view with unmixed satisfaction the ruling of a Peterborough magistrate, that there is nothing in the Lord's Day Act to forbid them toiling on Sunday.

Patricias Made Good.

(Montreal Star.)

A veteran British soldier says the Patricias behaved with great gallantry and inflicted serious losses upon the enemy. We will all read this news with the saddened joy that must ever come to a patriotic people who learn that their representatives have fought bravely for their country and have paid the inevitable penalty. This first success for the Canadians will but presage another victory to be put down to our credit. We have begun well! We will end better—possibly we may end in Berlin,

A CHANCE TO SHINE.

Editor Review,

Sir,—Is it true that Lindsay is going to have eight cemeteries. Some of our people are raising cain and want the eight cemeteries located here.

We could put them at the old Baptist church very handy or in the old ash house behind the brewery.

Now is our chance! Git and git after it. Where is the Board of Trade and Hydro Bill.

Yours truly,

NEARLY AN ANGEL.

STEALING DOG COLLARS.

Editor, Review:

Sir,—I would like to draw the attention of the public to an act which is a mean, despicable one and which is being carried on by a few so-called "honourable citizens of Peterborough," and that is the carrying away of dogs from their original homes and stealing their collars. There have of late been quite a few complaints of this nature. In my own case, I purchased a collar which cost 65 cents, and this, as well as a new collar which had only been on the dog one day, disappeared in town. At this rate, one can hardly put a dog on the street looking as though they belonged to anybody, even though the license has been paid, without having either dog or collar taken. The law holds that you must actually see the act committed. This should never be, for how can one expect to have their rights recognized? Why, even the tag was taken from my dog's collar before the collar itself finally disappeared. What's the use of buying tags? If either dog or collar can be traced to any particular place, the people living there should be made to answer for it.

Trusting the likes of such will see this and avoid trouble in the future.

CONSTANT READER.

THE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

Editor, Review:

Dear Sir.—At a meeting of the Library Board held Thursday evening last it was unanimously resolved that the secretary be instructed to convey to the editors of the Review and the Examiner their warm appreciation of the consistent support that they have given to the work of the institution, and also of the manner in which such support has been rendered. The members of the Board feel that but for the ungrudging help accorded by editor and staff alike, much less good would have been accomplished in the Library.

I remain,

Yours very truly.

Librarian and Secretary.

Fifty Years a Cabby

John Barnes is an old Irishman who has driven a cab in Toronto for fifty years and during that long time he has driven many illustrious personages.

"There was a time when every notable that came to Toronto rode in my bus, and a great list of royal folks I have carried around," he told an interviewer. "I drove the Marquis of Lorne and his party round town without a footman, and they asked me a whole lot of questions. I drove Lord Dufferin up to open the first Exhibition in Toronto, and it was an awful ride out there in those days.

"Sir John A Macdonald was one of the best customers I ever had. Hundreds of times I drove him when he was in Toronto. One night he had been giving some campaign speeches in Stratford, I remember well. He arrived here about three in the morning. It wasn't so very long before he died, and he was looking pretty sick that night. A few days later I drove him down to the station, and when I handed him his grip he slapped me on the back and said good bye. That was the last time he was to be in Toronto, and I think he must have known it by the way he said that good-bye."

COOKING A TOUGH FOWL

The Oldest Bird Tender When Prepared as is Done in South

An old fowl makes a very nice dish prepared in this way:

Singe and joint a stewing chicken. Put into iron or granite kettle with just enough hot water to cover (four or five cups). Add one even tablespoonful of salt pork cut in small pieces, one stalk of celery cut in small pieces. Allow this to simmer for three or four hours, or until the chicken is very tender. When ready to serve add salt, if necessary. Have broth enough for gravy. For one chicken there should be four cups. Thicken with two tablespoons of flour blended with cream or milk. Boil ten minutes and serve hot with baked sweet potatoes

A CHAUFFEUR WITH A RECORD

Civic Employee of Montreal Used to Take the Sultan's Wives for Airings.

Michael Mairkovsky, former chauffeur of the Prince Selim Effendi, eldest son of the late Sultan Abdul Hamid of Turkey, now drives an automobile in the Montreal fire department.

Mairkovsky, who was the driver of the Prince's cars in Constantinople for three years is a Russian, and stands six feet high. He speaks but little French, but this did not trouble the Mayor of Montreal, who was quite impressed with the man's certificates of past service, signed by Prince Selim himself, as well as certificates from other high Turkish officials. Frequently, Mairkovsky took the Sultan's wives out automobiling, four at a time. How many wives the ex-ruler of the Turkish nation had Mairkovsky could not say, but he declared it took thousands of guards to look after the Sultan's harem, and his various palaces.

Mairkovsky tells how when he was married in Constantinople his employer, the Prince Selim told him to celebrate and send the bills to him. The wedding and attendant ceremonies Mairkovsky said cost over $1,000, every cent of which was paid for him. The big Russian left Turkey about eight years ago.

Balancing to Music

One of the most difficult trials that an equilibrist of any kind can undertake is to give an exhibition without the aid of an orchestra. Good stirring music is of immense assistance to the performer in more ways than one. In the first place, it encourages and gives confidence to an extent which would astound any one who had never before experienced it. By always performing to one tune the artist is able to take his cues from it, and he keeps time much as a step-dancer does. The music enables the performer to confine his attention to what he is doing by drowning any small noises among the audience which might distract him. Most equilibrists during what they consider their crowning feat dispense with the orchestra, and this adds considerably to the danger.

He who can suppress a moment's anger may prevent a day of sorrow.

A "SCRAP OF PAPER"

AT ten minutes past seven in the evening of the fourth of August, 1914, within the four grim walls of the Berlin Foreign Office, there transpired a twenty-minute interview, the most dramatic of which history holds record. * "Will Britain," queried the German Chancellor, "fight just for a scrap of paper?" The British Ambassador made terse reply, "That solemn compact simply has to be kept." For that "scrap of paper" ~~was the~~ public law of Europe guaranteeing the independence and neutrality of the Belgian nation. * Eighty-three years ago Britain had signed. And, whatever the consequences, the mightiest of empires was tossed into the melting-pot of a world-war. Belgium also had subscribed. Would she, too, risk all for honor? Her reply was sealed in blood on the ramparts of Liege; and, forthwith, Devastation laid waste her smiling fields and piled her cities in smoking ruins. An empire in arms, a country in ashes, a nation homeless—and all for a "scrap of paper!" * Magna Charta, too was but a "scrap of paper," but it was the earliest monument of Anglo-Saxon freedom. The Declaration was only a bit of parchment—but it heralded the birth of the American nation. Just such scraps of paper have marked the milestones in mankind's upward climb to freedom. * Mortgages, bonds, debentures, promissory notes—all are but scraps of paper. But no self-respecting man and no honest corporation can wantonly repudiate such commitments. * As it lies in your drawer or your safe, your life assurance policy measures but four inches by nine. It, too, is only a "scrap of paper." But the scrap of paper bears on its face the corporal seal of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada. It is backed by over Sixty Millions of Assets and nearly five decades of honorable dealing. In times like these it may easily spell the salvation of your business. Should you die, of all your scraps of paper it alone may be worth one hundred cents on the dollar. In years to come it alone may be left to buy bread for your mother, your wife, or your children. * That "scrap of paper" represents the most sacred of your obligations. Respect for it is the measure of your honor. * Keep it inviolate, whatever the cost!

THE WRONG MAN

By M. QUAD

I was at Stockholm simply as a tourist and sightseer, and I was all alone. I had no idea of meeting any one I knew, and a surprise awaited me on the first night of my arrival when a man whom I clearly saw was a Pelander edged along to me on the veranda of the hotel as I smoked my cigar and said:

"You are discretion itself, Mr. Grelling. You have registered under another name. How were matters in London when you left?"

"I don't exactly understand you," I replied as I looked him over and made sure that we had never met before.

"The others will be here inside of two days, and we will have a meeting. I have been here three days, and I find nothing to alarm me. I trust matters in London are all right?".

"As far as I know," I replied as I returned his card and wondered whether he was trying to cheek me or had really mistaken me for somebody else.

Three hours later as I retired to my room the stolid faced and wooden headed waiter who carried my light hung about in a queer way after setting the candle down, and I finally gave him a small coin and waved him out. Instead of going he whispered to me:

"I wish to warn you! Strange men have been here for a week. I think they are waiting for you!"

Next morning at breakfast the same man waited on me. I had a little table by myself, and while bringing my dishes the waiter whispered in my ear:

"The two strange men are at the fourth table. I am sure they are Russian spies and will watch you!"

Now I had the key to the mystery. There was some sort of conspiracy on foot, probably against the peace of the czar, and the conspirators were to meet at Stockholm.

For the next two days I was closely shadowed. After the first day of this spy business the same stolid faced waiter slipped into my room with pale face and whisperingly exclaimed:

"Those spies are following you everywhere! For God's sake be careful!"

"See here, Hans," I said as I put my hand on his shoulder, "you are evidently on the inside of this affair, and I wish you would tell me what the dickens it all means!"

He looked at me open mouthed for half a minute, and then a broad grin stole over his face. He thought I was playing off on him to test his prudence and loyalty.

"You will carry it through all right," he finally said, with many heavy nods of his head, and he went away looking very well pleased.

At the end of another twenty-four hours I got a further insight into the mystery. I had strolled into another hotel three or four blocks away to examine the register, as a globe trotter invariably does for no reason he can explain, when I saw a traveler who might have been my twin brother as far as outward appearance went. He was of my height and weight, had the same colored eyes, hair and mustache, and I believe our own mother would have wondered which was which. He stared at me, and I stared back, and I wandered back into my own hotel, knowing that the real man from London had arrived.

The Russian spies must have had a bad time of it trying to settle on the right man, but they finally decided in my favor. The Englishman was free from surveillance, while I was dogged closer than before.

At the end of a week, and while they were still dogging me and I was rather enjoying it, there was a fire aboard of a ship in the harbor. It was about 9 o'clock at night, and a great crowd gathered on the wharf to watch the conflagration. I made one of the number, and in my anxiety to secure a good view I mounted the bows of a smart looking brig lying at a wharf. I was hardly over the rail before two men followed and seized me and hustled me down into the cabin. I found the captain of the brig, the two spies and a Russian government official awaiting me.

I have told you that the Englishman and I looked to be twins, but I had not had time to look for little details. As I sat down opposite the Russian official he began comparing my description and appearance with a written description, and at the end of five minutes he rose up and thundered at the two spies:

"Dolts, idiots, blunderers! You have arrested the wrong man!"

"If not too much trouble," I said to the official as he got through storming, "would you kindly explain why an American citizen has been made prisoner in this fashion?"

I was told that it was a mistake, but got no other satisfaction. The brig was put about, but as the wind fell we did not make the harbor until after daylight. Then I was dumped on the wharf without apology. I walked straight to the American consul and told him the story, and his reply was:

"Why, man, you had best thank your stars instead of looking for an apology! When the Russian officials get hold of the wrong man by mistake he is generally sent to Siberia to cover up the blunder."

Later on I found that the Englishman and his party left Stockholm the same evening, but where they went and what sort of a conspiracy they had on hand I never ascertained.

WEIGHT OF AIR.

One Cubic Foot of Atmosphere Weighs More Than an Ounce.

The common belief that air weighs nothing or almost nothing, a belief which has given rise to the simile "light as air," needs correction.

A toy balloon filled with a cubic foot of air weighs 564 grains more than the same balloon collapsed. This shows that the weight of a cubic foot of air is 564 grains, which is a good deal more than an ounce. Accordingly a small room (15 by 15 by 10) containing 2,250 cubic feet of air would weigh 2,900 ounces, or 153.7 pounds avoirdupois, as much as a large man. Could you lift a room full of air?

The air in an automobile tire under pressure of 150 pounds a square inch weighs proportionally ten times as much, while air under the pressure of fifty atmospheres weighs fifty times as much as an equal volume of ordinary air. When air is liquefied its volume is reduced to one sixteen hundredth normal, so that the liquid is 1,000 times as heavy as gaseous air, or about as heavy as water.—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

Pointers For Housekeepers

Drops From a Bottle

It is difficult sometimes, when using essences for cakes or sweets, etc., to measure correctly the number of drops required. If a finger is dipped in water and the rim of the bottle wetted in one place, the essence will be found to drop quite easily.

Cleaning a Gold Chain

To clean a watch chain dissolve a little sal ammoniac in wine, and put the soiled gold into it. This thoroughly cleanses the gold and makes it quite bright.

The Single Bed Idea

If each member of the family wants to sleep in a single bed and there is room for but a double one, this is a good way out of the difficulty: Simply supply double beds with single sheets and blankets for each sleeper.

Washing Colored Handkerchiefs

Colored handkerchiefs should be soaked in cold salt water for a short time before they are washed. This will prevent the colors from running or fading.

Stains on the Fingers

Vegetable and fruit stains on the fingers can be removed by dipping the fingers in very strong tea for a few minutes and then washing them in clear, warm water.

Cleaning a Cauliflower

When soaking a cauliflower, prior to cooking it, place it in unsalted water. This draws out the insects. If the water is salted the insects are killed, but remain in the vegetable.

Household Information

Vinegar heated to the boiling point will soften paint brushes that have become dry and hard.

A good plan is to keep buttons in glass bottles. A glance tells you exactly what is inside, thus saving a good deal of time which would be taken up in turning over the buttons if put in a box.

When putting a stopper into a bottle always give it a half-turn round after it is in. This will prevent it from sticking.

It is a good plan to pepper a carpet thickly just where any heavy piece of furniture has to rest on it, as this helps to keep moths, etc., away.

When you undo a parcel fold the paper and tie the string around it. There will always be a string to fit a bundle without looking for one.

Use gasoline for cleaning the kitchen sink, bath tubs, toilets and bowls.

MARRIAGE SUPERSTITIONS

Some Things Which Are Supposed to Bring Good or Ill Luck

Should a bride happen to see a coffin while on her way to the railway station before departing on her wedding tour, she should turn back and start over again, or else she will surely meet with bad luck.

When the bride enters her new home it is a good practice to break a cake over her head. Care should be taken that it is not done over the head of anyone else, for it would be a singularly bad omen.

A ring used to be placed in the wedding bowl, and whoever's glass the ring was accidentally served in would be the next to be married. But this was too easy, for one could see or hear the ring in a liquid, so it was put in the cake, and later, a coin or a thimble was added, the girl who found the latter being destined to die unmarried.

The bride's garter will bring a husband to the girl who wears it for a year. It must be the left garter, and should be either blue or yellow.

The giving of gloves to their attendants by the bride and groom is a survival of a curious old custom. If some trifling service had been rendered, a pair of gloves was the proper acknowledgment. Sometimes they were lined with money or presents.

Don't Conceal Affection

Girls have always believed that it is a mistake to lay bare their whole hearts even when they feel they have the deepest love for a man; they have an idea that a man's serious interest is more firmly held, and endures the longer when he is kept in ignorance of how truly he is cared for.

This feeling teaches girls to play at indifference even when they are in love. They have been taught to believe that a man values most that of which he is not quite sure.

To the man who is worth loving, a complete abandonment of self possesses a charm supreme above all other charms that a girl can show.

To Dissolve Glue

To keep glue liquid, fill the bottle two-thirds with glue and fill up with alcohol. Cork tightly and let stand two or three days. The glue will dissolve without heat and keep in liquid form.

TAKE YOUR FRIENDS AS YOU FIND THEM

In an old, old book, written ever so many years ago, there is a recipe for happiness, and one of the chief ingredients is "Taking people as you find them." And those old-time folk who had such a quaint way of putting commonplace things, were quite right. Nobody will ever be happy in this busy workaday world unless they take their friends and acquaintances—and foes, too—on their own ground, and sum them up from actual observation. Oceans of tears and hours of grievous disappointment would be spared us if we could only realize once and for all that we are not all made of the same stuff, nor cast in the same mould, and that we should size up our friends by themselves and not expect them to conform exactly to our own particular standard of excellence.

ANNIE KENNEY

Annie Kenney, the principle organizer and chief lieutenant of the militant suffragettes, is a daughter of the people.

At ten years of age, little Annie was a half-timer in an Oldham Mill. At 12 she was earning fair wages, but much less than boys who did precisely the same work. And she wondered why.

At 15, when mill girls were agitating for better wages, Annie got them their rights. Immediately they chose her to represent them upon the district committee trade union. For this she received 15 cents a week.

Annie Kenney became a corresponding student of the Ruskin College, Oxford. Three years later the Lancashire mill worker went to London alone. Before the year was out she was arrested for trying to see the Prime Minister. Then followed a long series of arrests, hunger strikes, and releases under the Cat and Mouse Act.

"If I cannot change some of the laws affecting women I can at least die in the attempt," says Annie Kenney. "Of course the war interrupted our campaign but it did not end it. There are five and a half million working women in England who go out to earn their daily bread. Yet the 'antis' have the face to cry, 'Woman's place is in the home!'"

Milady's Mirror

Cultivating Plump Hands.

The appearance of the hands is an index to the general health, and a physician looks them over when he examines the pulse.

One of the best ways of retaining or acquiring fresh, plump looking hands is by means of oil baths.

Almond oil or, lacking this, olive oil is the best. This is warmed and applied after the hands have been thoroughly washed or scrubbed, rinsed in clear water and all the moisture removed.

A little cologne may be added to make the work somewhat more agreeable. Go over the hands and wrists and crevices around the nails, covering the entire surface. Take five minutes or longer for each hand. The more oil the pores absorb the more they need this nourishing food. This treatment continued every night or every other night for two weeks will certainly make a vast improvement in the hands.

Hollows gradually fill in, the skin becomes refined and soft, the nails cease to appear dry and crack off, and the cuticle is more easily pushed back to display the delicate half moon.

That unbecoming sallow, wrinkled appearance gives way to a firm, smooth white skin, which gives encouragement to the possessor.

Thin, anaemic women should always nourish their hands in this manner. Good fattening creams or cocoa butter may be substituted or alternated with the oils.

Astringents in the way of tonics should be used to further tighten the tissues, and for this purpose lemon juice may be employed, or the lotion containing honey, lemon juice and cologne, one ounce each.

Protruding Wrist Bones.

Ugly, protruding wrist bones often disfigure an otherwise rather pretty arm and hand. Where the bones are too large there can be no help except to make plump the flesh about them, and for this nothing is better than almond oil or cocoa butter.

Cocoa butter can be had at any drug store. It comes usually in square or oblong cakes, although some is put up in round stick shape in a neat tin case and covered with tin foil, easy to tuck into a hand bag or toilet case.

To use warm the end of the stick or cake by the flame of a candle, if nothing else is handy, or even by the slight heat of a couple of matches—anything to make it just soft enough to adhere to the palms of the hands. Have the skin ready—clean, soft and warm and dry—run in the cocoa butter thoroughly and leave it on to absorb, which it does very readily, more so than any skin food or cold cream.

An objection has been made that it causes a growth of superfluous hair. If this is feared finish with a spray of good cologne, well and thoroughly applied. An atomizer costing 50 cents will last a lifetime for the purpose. If the wrists are made plump it stands to reason that the joints cannot protrude in ugly fashion. It is usually lack of flesh that causes the thing in the first place. And the same may be said of the elbow. Where the joint is sharp, by increasing the plumpness of the flesh on the arm the bones will not appear so prominently.

Whitening the Neck.

Brown necks are not half so attractive as white ones. Try this way of whitening:

First wash well with hot water and good soap; then massage with cold cream.

While the cream is still on the skin rub with half a freshly cut lemon; then massage again. Afterward wipe quite dry with a soft rag or towel.

Repeat the treatment night and morning for some weeks and you will be surprised to find how much whiter your neck has become.

Care of the Mouth.

In the cleansing toilet the care of the mouth, throat and nostrils should not be neglected. Few educated people neglect to brush the teeth before going to bed, but they are less careful in regard to the mouth and throat. The gums, tongue and roof of the mouth should be washed daily with a roll of absorbent cotton and the throat well gargled. If this rule were always followed throat troubles would be rare in the opinion of throat and ear specialists.

Strengthening the Eyebrows.

The following ointment will strengthen the growth and improve the appearance of the eyebrows: Red vaseline two ounces, tincture of cantharides one-eighth of an ounce, oil of lavender fifteen drops and oil of rosemary fifteen drops. Mix thoroughly. Apply to the eyebrows with a small brush once a day. Be careful that none gets into the eyes, as it will inflame them, as all oils do.

MRS. HOUSEKEEPER:

Holiday time you will have a little extra money. Why not make the home a present of an EDDY WASHBOARD and an EDDY INDURATED FIBREWARE TUB!

YOU WILL FEEL THE BENEFIT every washday in the year, for the Indurated Tub keeps the water hot so long that it saves much lifting and carrying of water, and the Washboard has a special crimp which, without tearing the clothes, loosens the dirt very easily.

YOU WILL BE DOING SOMETHING PATRIOTIC, too, because EDDY'S make these, and many other articles, at their works at Hull, Canada, where from 1,600 to 1,800 men and women are employed constantly.

Buy yourself a New Year's present, MRS. HOUSEKEEPER.

BUT BE SURE THEY ARE EDDY'S.

Cats and Wildcats.

Wild cats are now rarities in Europe, though formerly they were comparatively common in most parts of the continent. The few survivors occur mostly in Hungary and occasionally in Spain and Greece. In Spain, by the way, the animals build nests in trees or among tall bamboos for the rearing of their young, though generally they prefer a crevice in a rocky country in which to make a lair. Our domesticated cat is not derived from the untamable European animal, but was introduced ready tamed from Egypt.—London Mail.

As to "Sights."

A RECORD AT SEA

Captain Carey Has Sailed a Million and a Half Miles.

With 1,500,000 miles of ocean navigation to his credit, and 600 safe voyages, Capt. Frank Carey, commodore of the Atlantic fleet of the C.P.R., was presented with a suitably engraved memorial of his half century at sea in Liverpool one day recently. Capt. Carey is one of the best known skippers on the Montreal service, having sailed the S.S. Tyrolia, formerly the Lake Erie, out of the port for many years. In every part of the world there are scores of people who have been the guests of the little Irish captain some time during the fifty years since he first went to sea.

From deck boy on a tiny little sailing craft to commodore of the Atlantic fleet of the Canadian Pacific Railway is a long way, but it is the climb that Frank Carey has made since he left his father's home in 1864 to begin his career on the ocean blue. That was in the days when the sailing craft was supreme and the steamship was only vaguely conceived. He was a deck boy then, and possibly dreamed of the time when he might be master of a craft. Little did he think, however, that the next fifty years would bring to him such a career of honor and adventure as has been his fate. When he steps off the bridge for the last time, it will be with great honor to himself and complete satisfaction to the shipping companies whose vessels he has guided safely to port on six hundred voyages.

Frank Carey was the first of his family to follow the sea, so when he sailed out of a British harbor fifty years ago last summer on the little old sailing barque Catherine, bound for Quebec, there was unusual excitement in the Carey home. Quebec was farther away in those days, the world was larger then, so his mother was fearful of the trip. No disaster occurred, however, on the voyage, so he went to sea again. From deck boy he rose rapidly until he became mate of a sailing vessel. Then he transferred to a steam craft sailing for several years in tramp ships trading in all parts of the world. For two years and a half he was in the Allan service, leaving it to enter the Beaver Line service. With the ships of that fleet he was taken over by the C.P.R. in 1880, and he stayed with the company until his fifty years was completed.

Few officers sailing the north Atlantic have figured in so many thrilling events as Capt. Carey—certainly there is no one in the Montreal fleet whose career has been so filled with stirring episodes—but the silent nature of Capt. Carey prevented most from knowing his story. He is a "bridge" captain. While he was the acme of courtesy towards his passengers, he believed it was more essential to bring the ship home safely than chat with his passengers. He was reserved always—so few got the stories that his wide experience had brought to him.

When the big liner Empress of Ireland was ready for sea, Capt. Carey was promoted to the command. He was an Irishman and he got the Ireland. Four trips he ran the big ship; then he went to the office of the superintendent and begged him to give him back his old Lake Erie. The Lake Erie changed her name to the Tyrolia later, but Capt. Carey stuck with her through all the years. It was his ship, full of tender memories and vivid experiences, and the lure of the biggest craft of the St. Lawrence-British Isles route would not take him from her. At the end of his first voyage with the Empress of Ireland he was presented with a loving cup, rose bowl and an album, all suitably inscribed, by the passengers.

During the last couple of seasons he has been sailing the Tyrolia on the Montreal, Trieste, Naples route.

QUEEN MARIE OF ROUMANIA.

Queen Marie, wife of King Ferdinand of Roumania, who has recently succeeded his uncle, the late King Charles, on the throne of that beautiful little kingdom in the Balkans, is said to be one of the handsomest women in Europe. Her father, the late Duke Alfred of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, was a son of Queen Victoria of England. Her mother was a Russian grand duchess, the aunt of the present czar. Duke Alfred had one son, who died just a year before him, but he had five daughters, whose beauty and cleverness made them the toast of every court of Europe. Strange to say, none of them made particularly brilliant matches. The eldest, Princess Marie Alexandra Victoria, who was born in 1875, married the crown prince, now King Ferdinand, of Roumania in 1893. She is the mother of two sons and three daughters. One of her sisters married the Grand Duke Cyril of Russia after divorcing the Grand Duke of Hesse, brother of the czarina. Another sister wedded the Prince of Hohenlohe-Langenberg, while the third is the wife of the Infante Alfonso of Orleans.

Queen Marie, while neither so brilliant nor beloved as her predecessor, Queen Elizabeth (Carmen Sylva), is a woman of great taste and kindness of heart. She has done much to encourage interest in the artistic work of Roumanian women, wearing their lovely embroideries herself and persuading her royal relatives to exploit them.

"An amateur," replied Bobby, "is anything that isn't nature."

"Mamma," queried little Myra, "do you think grandpa has really gone to heaven?"

"Yes, dear," was the reply.

"Well, continued Myra, "I'll bet he sneaks outside once in awhile to smoke his pipe."

In the lesson mention had been made of the cantbook that is used in rolling logs.

"Can you tell me what a cantbook is, Tommy?" asked the teacher.

"Sure," replied Tommy. "It's a cow that hasn't any horns."—Detroit Free Press.

TOGOLAND WAS WON FOR GERMANY BY FREEBOOTERS

Kaiser's Last Colony

It is Chiefly Famous For Its Marabou Feathers and the Great Wireless Station.

The first of the German colonies to fall into the hands of Great Britain, Togoland, on the Northwest Coast of Africa, has an interest for the ladies, as being the native home of the birds from whence come the highly-prized marabou feathers.

Lome, the capital, is quite modern. It is a clean little town with well-laid-out streets, shaded by palm and other trees. The principal building is the palace of the Duke of Mecklenburg, the Governor of Togo. To overcome the difficulties caused by the heavy surf which breaks almost incessantly on the low sandy beach, a pier, a third of a mile long has been erected, and connected with a massive wharf or quay at the seaward end.

Unfortunately the natives are forgetting how to handle the surfboats, and some years ago, when the bridge connecting the wharf with the shore was destroyed by a tidal wave supposed to have been due to a submarine volcanic upheaval, Lome was almost entirely isolated from the outside world.

What is believed to be one of the most powerful wireless stations in the world was completed in preparation for the present war a few months ago, at Atakpame, about 110 miles from Lome. It is the chief receiving and distributing centre for the German colonies in Africa, and since messages can be either sent to, or received from, Nauen, just outside Berlin, a distance of 3,450 miles, it was a most important link in Germany's world wide intelligence service.

Atakpame is the terminus of the railway, but the Germans have built a good road as far as Sokode about 100 miles to the north, and a large motor car has been provided to supplement the iron road for further progress into the fine hunting country nearer the interior of the continent.

There, however, the inhabitants are hostile and treacherous, and have the disturbing habit of taking potshots at the passing traveler with their poisoned arrows.

In this little-visited part of Togo are immense quantities of game. Antelope, leopards, and elephants abound, and many kinds of birds, including the marabou stork, whence come the greatly-prized marabou feathers. The rivers swarm with crocodile, and there are numbers of hippopotami.

As regards Togo history, this only extends back about thirty years, at which time the Germans first occupied the country. They found it in possession of many different tribes, all hostile to one another, the dominant tribe of the south-central region, dwelling round about which Sokode now is, being the Tschaudjo.

These people were originally a conquering tribe, like the Masai and the Zulus, and they swept down from the north, somewhere about a hundred years ago, devastating the country as they advanced. They came riding on horses, and as these animals had never before been seen in Togoland, the terror they inspired almost sufficed by itself to ensure the defeat of the aboriginal owners of the soil.

When the Germans came up from the south, a motley but brave and determined rabble, led by a certain free-lance adventurer named Kersting, they endured their first real check at the hands of these wild horsemen.

Impressed by their fighting qualities, Kersting, following in a small way the example set by Cortez in Mexico, and by Clive in India, allied himself with the uro—or king—of the Tschaudjo, and, aided by him, he eventually subdued the whole country and placed it under the German flag. The present uro, an old but dignified and amiable savage named Djabo, is the son of the man who fought under Kersting's banner. He resides at Bafilo, near Sokode, in a "palace" provided for him by the German Government, who also grant him a small yearly subsidy.

Although the bulk of the Togo natives are, as has been said, in a condition but little removed from barbarism, some of the tribes, nevertheless, show considerable skill in handicrafts. Thus, at Bassari and Benjali, in the Konkombwa country, iron is mined, smelted, and forged into various articles, under exceedingly primitive, though fairly effective, conditions.

Other tribes cultivate cotton, which they weave into strong and serviceable cloth on curiously primitive wooden looms. Beautiful leather mats are also made, and large, strongly-woven baskets of palm-fibre, which sell for about half a cent apiece.

In the far north, the only currency is salt or cowries. Amongst the Konkombwa copper and brass rods will purchase almost anything.

Mean of Him.

"Paw."

"Well?".

"When I promise to marry him do you want him to come and ask your consent?"

"No, not my consent; but I would like to have him trot in and tell me the good news. I sort of feel like I needed cheering up."

Square Measure.

One hundred and forty-four square inches in 1 square foot; 9 square feet in 1 square yard; 30 1-4 square yards in 1 square rod; 160 square rods in 1 acre; there are 640 acres in 1 square mile.

IN LESS NEED OF ROUMANIA

Russians' Successes in Bukowina Alter Eastern Situation

LONDON, Jan. 11. — There is no indication in any of the despatches received here that Italy has followed up her ultimatum to Turkey, which expired last night. The attitude of Italy, Roumania, Greece and Bulgaria continues to be the subject of much speculation, but nothing definite has yet transpired to justify the hopes so often expressed that these countries would at an early date join the allies.

A Petrograd despatch, on the contrary, hints in broad terms that Russia, by her sweeping advance through Bukowina, and invasion of Transylvania, is less concerned as to the plans of Roumania.

The despatch says: The recent Russian victories in Bukowina and the occupation of Radautz and Suczawa (Bukowina) enable the Russians, in their positions on the banks of the Tisza(Sereth and Moldava rivers, to cut off Roumania entirely from Austria-Hungary. This is the situation as outlined in despatches received in Petrograd from the front.

This position of the Russians considerably alters the military and diplomatic situation, military men say, since the yielding of Transylvania to Roumania no longer depends upon Austria-Hungary, and any possibility of the latter invading the Russian southern provinces of Volhynia and Bessarabia through Transylvania is now destroyed. The question of Roumania's future attitude, that is, whether she wil join the allies, is now also less important, it is asserted, because the victorious Russian armies in their wedge-like position between Roumania and Austria-Hungary would paralyze any hostile action of either against Russia.

A despatch from Paris says: Russia's tremendous success in the Austrian crown land of Bukowina, together with the growing friction between Turkey and Italy, points to the speedy entrance of Roumania and Italy into the war. Signs are multiplying also that Bulgaria and Greece, reassured by the negotiations looking to a rapprochement of all the Balkan States, also are believed to be ready to join the allies in war against the Sultan with the full might of their armies.

"BUNCOMBE"

It Don't Always Pay to Be Skeptical.

When a newspaper writer and proofreader that works nights can feed himself out of dyspepsia, which most all that class suffer with, it is worth while to know the kind of food used.

This man says:

"Being a newspaper writer and proofreader, also a graduate in medicine as well, though not practising, makes a combination that would produce a skeptic on the subject, if anything would.

"Day after day I read the proof on the Grape-Nuts advertisements with the feeling that they were all 'buncombe.' All this time I was suffering from dyspepsia from the improper food I was eating at the restaurant.

"One day I saw a package of Grape-Nuts at the restaurant and tried some with cream. The food took my fancy at once. After a few lunches on it at midnight I noted an improvement in my feelings, and was able to work with less fatigue.

"I have used Grape-Nuts as a regular diet since then, and have improved greatly. The old dyspepsia and bad feelings that I thought were necessary adjuncts to night work disappeared, and I am able to do much more and better work with less effort than ever before.

"I was nearly ready to give up, and seek health in some other walk in life, but thanks to my change in diet I am now all right." "There's a Reason."

ART TREASURES OF FRANCE

Precautions That Guard Them at the Louvre, in Paris.

Those who visit the Louvre do not suspect the labor that is necessary in keeping the building in order. It must be protected at night against fire and burglars by watchmen, who, with revolvers at hip and dark lanterns in hand, make their rounds, accompanied by police dogs.

Upstairs and downstairs and along the corridors, says the Paris correspondent of the New York Sun, the distance they travel amounts to four miles, and in every room the watchmen must "punch" the clock that shows whether the rooms have been inspected and how often.

During the night the most valuable works of art are kept under lock and key. When the galleries are closed to the public a clever piece of mechanism is set in motion that carries the royal jewels, worth millions of dollars, into a special burglar proof chamber. The Venus de Milo, too, has her own special bedroom. An iron shutter rises from the ground in front of her and hides the marble features of the goddess.

In the early morning an army of custodians pours through the rooms, and the process of cleaning begins. A force of 150 men sets to work with brooms, dusters and floor polishers. The custodians exceed the strength of a company of soldiers on a war footing. There are one chief custodian, three underchiefs, twenty-seven superior and 148 inferior custodians. To these must be added the Louvre's artisans, for the great place has its own works department and almost its own factory.

A SOLAR ECLIPSE

When Totality Occurs Nature Takes on an Awesome Aspect.

A total eclipse of the sun is a wonderful sight. Where the eclipse is but partial the disk of the moon will creep across the face of the sun little by little, but will never completely obscure the orb. But where "totality" occurs the sun at a given moment will be entirely obliterated and the inhabitants of the regions across which the black band will stretch will perceive the most wonderful phenomenon known to astronomers—the display of the "corona" of the sun.

Great waves of incandescent gas hundreds of thousands of miles long, reaching out from the sun into the ether, will be perceived. The countryside will take on a sinister, night gray color, and tints of nature will pale and deaden as at twilight, the temperature will diminish sensibly, the birds, believing night has come, will cease their song and seek their nests. A person who has never seen this strange manifestation of nature cannot form any idea of its awesome aspect.

This eclipse is a recurring phenomenon. At the end of every period of eighteen years and eleven days the moon comes between the earth and the sun at just such an angle that the sun's light is completely shut off from a portion of the world and partially shut off from a much larger part.—New York World.

What Bobwhite Eats.

Fifteen per cent of the food of the bobwhite is composed of insects, including several of the most serious pests of agriculture. Half of its food consists of weed seeds, one-fourth of grain and about one-sixteenth of wild fruits. Taken in all the bobwhite is very useful to the farmer, and while it may not be necessary to remove it from the list of game birds every farmer should see that his own farm is not depleted by sportsmen.

A BILLION OF DOLLARS

The Time it Would Take an Expert to Count Them

I wonder if we realize when we talk of a billion dollars what an enormous sum of money it means?

We all know how rapidly an expert counter of coins will manipulate them. You can scarcely follow the motion of his fingers as he shifts the coins from one pile to another and counts them. The treasury experts will count 4,000 silver dollars in an hour and keep it up all day long, but that is their limit.

Working eight hours a day, then, an expert counter of coins will count 32,000 silver dollars in a day, but how long will it take him at that rate to count $1,000,000? Thirty-one days.

But that is only the beginning of the measurements of great figures, for if this same man were to go on counting silver dollars at the same rate of speed for ten years he would find that he had only counted 100,000,000 of them and that to count $1,000,000,000 would require 102 years of steady work at the rate of eight hours a day during every working day of every one of the 102 years.—O. P. Austin, Former Chief of Bureau of Statistics.

FOR TOTAL ABSTINENCE THROUGHOUT DIOCESE

Local Societies Doing Their Part to Advance Cause of Temperance

A JOINT MEETING

Fifteen years ago tonight the first meeting was held by the Catholic men oft his city in the interests of total abstinence, and at that gathering of a mere handful was sounded the keynote of a great work which has been instrumental in doing infinite good for the spiritual and temporal welfare of many, and has attained almost universal admiration and distinction for Pterborough. At that meeting on the January evening in 1900 was founded the St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society. Given strength by the enthusiasm of the laity and hearty co-operation of the clergy, the infant society bravely withstood the battles against what then appeared to be unconquerable opposition. Year after year rolled by, and as each succeeding anniversary of its birth passed the society became more and more prominent, and its presence more and more felt. Yesterday the fifteenth anniversary was fittingly observed, not only by St. Peters' Total Abstinence Society, but also by similar societies in connection with the Church of the Sacred Heart and Church of the Immaculate Conception. The original society had so enlarged and expanded that with the forming of two new Catholic parishes, two new Total Abstinence Societies were founded. The fifteenth anniversary of the oldest of the three was further marked by the amalgamation of the three. It was a day that will go down in the history of this city, closely allied with the cause of temperance.

The three societies received Holy Communion in bodies, at their respective churches, in the morning, and in the afternoon all were present at the first meeting of the amalgamated societies held in St. Alphonsus Lyceum. The assemblage taxed the auditorium to its utmost. After a large number of new members were initiated and all present knelt and renewed their pledge to renounce the use of intoxicating liquors in every form and to advocate the cause of temperance, the meeting was addressed by members of the clergy and other memers of the St. Peter's Society.

Bishop O'Brien

His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, who was spiritual adviser of the St. Peter's Society for some ten years, expressed his great joy at being present on the occasion, and remarked that the good accomplished by the T. A. S. could not be estimated. No organization ever organized in Peterborough since the Catholic Church was founded here, had been the cause of so much good. It was not the work of an individual, but the work of good solid characters united. The grand success of the past fifteen years practically guaranteed further success in the future. Fifteen years ago, when Rev. Father Murphy, the noted temperance speaker, preached in St. Peter's Cathedral, he stated that in the course of a few years Peterborough would have a population of 20,000, nad the fact seemed beyond belief, yet it has come true, and when the present depression is over it will grow further. With Peterborough in a comfortable way of becoming one of the larger towns in Ontario, the Catholic men must be prepared to make their total abstinence societies advance correspondingly.

Bishop O'Brien went on to state how the amalgamation of the three societies will greatly assist in the work of advancement. It would be the beginning of a united action. The various societies would meet in their respective hal- once a month, and the three societies would hold a joint meeting once a month in St. Alphonsus Lyceum. The advisory board of the amalgamated societies which meets this week for the purpose of making the proposed plans more clear, consists of fifteen members, five from each society. The men elected to the board for the first year were, in Bishop O'Brien's mind, fully competent.

It was the opinion of the speaker that this was the first step towards diocesan total abstinence union, and to bring about such a great step will call for great activity on the part of the members. The laity should cooperate with the clergy in the future as they have in the past, and the work must, with God's help, be a success. His Lordship's concluding words were: "Be a member of the Ancient Order of Hibernians if you will, be a member of the C. M. B. A. or Catholic Order of Foresters, or be a Knight of Columbus, but above all be a member of the Total Abstinence Society."

Rev. Dean McColl

Rev. Dean McColl, pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, and former spiritual adviser of St. Peter's T. A. S., stated that already the cause of total abstinence was flourishing in the new parish in East City. Two weeks ago the inaugural meeting found fifty men taking the pledge. Yesterday the membership exceeded one hundred.

The speaker also hoped for the day when diocesan total abstinence union would be a reality, and he assured His Lordship Bishop O'Brien that he would work untiringly for such a cause. He referred to the money squandered on liquor, remarking what vast changes would be brought about should it be spent towards educating the boys of today who will be the men of tomorrow.

Rev. C. J. Phelan

Rev. C. J. Phelan, rector of St. Peter's Cathedral, and the present spiritual adviser, remarked that a new era was dawning in the cause of total abstinence. It was a work in which man uplifted his fellow-man and it was the names of those who uplifted their brothers which are to be found on God's honor roll. Father Phelan also made short reference to diocesan total abstinence union, and, if success was to reward their efforts, he urged his listeners to work shoulder to shoulder with united strength.

Rev. J. J. O'Brien

Rev. J. J. O'Brien, parish priest at the Church of the Sacred Heart, stated that the T. A. S. in the south end parish was making rapid progress. During the past month fifty new members have joined, and the number present at Holy Communion yesterday morning exceeded all previous records. The speaker explained a movement recently inaugurated at the Church of the Sacred Heart. It was the organizing of T. A. S. cadets, to which belonged all boys from the age at which they make their first Holy Communion till they graduate out of the Separate Schools. By this step, the virtue of total abstinence was in the minds of the children from the time they reach the age of reason, and they are also admonished not to use profane or improper language. Father O'Brien desired that the advisory board of the amalgamated societies further the idea of having T. A. S. cadets. He assured the various societies that he was with them heart and soul in the amalgamation step, and in endeavoring to bring about diocesan total abstinence union.

Rev. Father McAuley, assistant to Rev. Father O'Brien, also made a few similar remarks.

Charter Members Present.

Members of the various total abstinence societies of the city made a few remarks, and among them were several charter members of St. Peter's T. A. S. Special tribute was paid to the first president, the late Dr. Maher, and Mr. Joseph Primeau, Sr., who for twelve years held the office of treasurer. The members who spoke were D. Holland, Joseph Begley, P. Milloy, J. J. Duffus, Maurice O'Heron, Joseph Maher, T. McCabe, James Hickey, M. H. Quinlan and W. Haslam.

During the meeting the chair was occupied by Mr. Michael Sharpe, president of the St. Peter's T. A. S.

The members of the advisory board are:

SUFFRAGE BILL IN UNITED STATES HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11. — The most important subject to be taken up by the House this week is the Mondell resolution proposing an amendment to the federal constitution to provide for woman suffrage. The resolution will be considered tomorrow under a special rule allowing six hours for general debate, after which the measure and amendments will be voted upon until finally disposed of.

It is generally agreed that it will not obtain this number of votes and is therefore doomed to defeat.

LILLE IN POSSESSION OF BRITISH FORCES?

Amsterdam Paper Says German Civilians Are Leaving Ostend and That Allies Are Within Nine Miles of That Town---French Win a Victory Over the Kaiser's Troops Near Beausejour.

LONDON, Jan. 11.—A despatch to The Daily Express from Boulogne asserts that confirmation has been obtained of the rumors that the Germans have evacuated Lille, and that the city is now virtually in the possession of the British.

German civilians are leaving Ostend because the allies have now advanced to within nine miles of that town, according to a despatch to The Amsterdam Telegraaf from its Sluis correspondent.

German troops were driven to the north yesterday by the French forces near Beausejour, and also in that section of the battlefield between Rheims and the Argonne. North of Beausejour, the French captured a field fort from the Kaiser's troops, while to the west of that town the invaders were driven from a line of trenches.

West of the Argonne district French artillerymen dispersed a force of German sappers who were trying to work their way up to the positions held by the republic's soldiers.

Soissons has been under bombardment again by the Germans, simultaneously with a new attack by the Kaiser's troops to regain the positions they lost to the French near Soupire. This attack failed, the French holding their ground on all the vantage points they had seized.

Strongly organized onslaughts by the Germans in the forest of Apremont, France, and northwest of Wattwiller, near Thann, Alsace, have been repulsed by the French.

The struggle in Alsace continues in spite of the heavy rains. There is more than a foot of water in the trenches. The Germans have already lost in killed and wounded 6,000 men, according to reliable reports, and Belfort, the great French fortress, is filled with prisoners — men mostly 40 years of age or more.

Yesterday's bulletins from the French War Office said:

"Last night in the Champagne region two counter-attacks by the Germans — one to the north of Perthes, the other to the north of Beausejour were repelled. In the Argonne two minor attacks by the enemy have failed—at Fontain Madame and at St. Hubert. There was a lively fusilade in the direction of Hill 263, west of Douneubilles, and on Le Ruisseau des Nourissons but no attacks.

"From the sea to the Oise there have been artillery duels.

"Upon the Aisne, in the region of Soissons, the enemy, in spite of many attacks, has not been able to recapture the trenches which he had lost. At the end of the day he again bombarded Soissons.

"In the country from Rheims to the Argonne our artillery has shelled the German trenches very effectively at several points driving away bodies of sappers.

"The positions which we have gained at Perthes and around that village have been organized. A counter-attack of the enemy to the west of Perthes has been repulsed. In the neighborhood of Laferte de Beausejour we have made two-fold progress by gaining ground to the west and by taking possession of an old fort to the north.

"In the Argonne the enemy has bombarded the region of Four-de-Paris; we have replied and destroyed a German blockhouse.

"The enemy's efforts have been continued on 'Hill 263.'

"To the west of Bourneulles all our positions have been maintained.

"Between the Argonne and the Meuse nothing noteworthy occurred.

"On the heights of the Meuse in the forest of Apremont one of the enemy's attacks has been checked by the fire of our artillery.

"In the Vosges to the northwest of Watwiller (in the region of Thann), we have also repulsed an attack."

Saturday night's official statement said:

"To the north of Soissons our advances of yesterday has been maintained. A new German offensive has been repulsed. This morning the trenches conquered between Perthes Les Hurles and Hill 200 were subjected to a lively counter-attack but the enemy was driven back after having suffered severe losses."

Belgian Officers Sent to Prison

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 11. — (Via London.)— A despatch to The Telegraaf from Brussels says a court-martial at Liege has sentenced the retired Belgian General Gustave Fife and Lieut. Gille to life imprisonment on a charge of assisting 350 young Belgians to reach Holland to join the Belgian army in France.

"The general at the trial," the correspondent adds, "asked for a death sentence, saying he disliked imprisonment. He told the court that Emperor William was a rascal. The general was sent to Glatz, Prussia, to the same prison where Burgomaster Max of Liege is being held."

GREY AGREES WITH UNITED STATES BUT SAYS BRITAIN MUST PROTECT HERSELF

Preliminary Replv to American Protest Against Detention of U.S. Ships Concurs in Principles, But Says Fraudulent Practices of Some Shippers Makes Search Necessary—Exports ,lave Increased.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11. — Great Britain's preliminary reply to the treatment of American commerce by the British fleet was made public here and in London yesterday by mutual agreement between the State Department and the British Foreign Office.

The British communication concurs in the view of the United States that commerce between neutral nations should be interfered with only when imperatively necessary, and officials of the Washington Government construed it as conceded that the principles expressed by the American note were just and upheld by the previously accepted usages of international law.

The only formal comment made today was contained in a brief statement issued by Secretary Bryan, who said:

"This answer being preliminary and not being intended as a complete reply, we will postpone comment until the full answer is received."

Briefly, the British note, while conceding the principles of the American Government's contentions, points out difficulties in actual practice, refers to alleged fraudulent practices by shippers and cites statistics showing an increase rather than a decrease in certain neutral commerce in support of Great Britain's suspicions that Germany and Austria have been indirectly obtaining contraband through neutral countries. The note promises, however, that "Great Britain will make redress" whenever the action of the British fleet may unintentionally exceed "the limits of international law."

Sir Edward Grey states that there are four consignments to Sweden at the present time of copper and aluminum which though definitely "consigned" to Sweden are, according to positive evidence in possession of his Majesty's Government, definitely "destined" for Germany. He gives figures showing the enormous increase in copper exports from the United States to neutral ports, and declares that cotton has always been on the free list.

As to the protest against holding up cargoes of foodstuffs, Sir Edward agrees that, generally, they should not be detained, but adds:

"We cannot give an unlimited and unconditional undertaking in view of the departure by those against whom we are fighting from hitherto accepted rules of civilization and humanity, and the uncertainty as to the extent to which such rules may be violated by them in future."

The note concludes with the expression of a desire to enter into "any arrangement by which mistakes can be avoided and reparation secured promptly when any injury to the neutral owners of a ship or cargo has been improperly caused."

While they are generally reserved in their comment, it may be stated authoritatively that high officials of the United States Government regard the tone of the note as entirely friendly and believe, moreover, that the discussion which will follow it will be carried on in the same vein with a desire on the part of both countries to reach a satisfactory understanding.

The admission by Great Britain of one of the chief points in the American note—that the relations between neutrals were those of normal times of peace and not of war—was gratifying to officials, who believed that the controversy would now resolve itself into a frank discussion of what were the actual necessities of the case which impel interference by a belligerent when suspecting that the ultimate destination of a neutral cargo is to belligerent territory.

British Newspapers Well Pleased.

LONDON, Jan. 11. — The London morning newspapers, in commenting on the reply of Sir Edward Grey, the British Foreign Secretary, to the protest of the United States Government over delays to American cargoes through their being held up for examination by British warships, confine themselves in the main to expressions of complete approval of the Foreign Secretary's handling of the difficult and delicate subject.

Recognizing that the reply is only a preliminary one, the newspapers refrain from any detailed argument or criticism, but express satisfaction over the spirit of cordial frankness with which Sir Edward Grey has met the American arguments.

The figures quoted by Sir Edward of American trade are held to present a strong case from the British standpoint, and the Government is fully supported by the newspapers in its view, that while all possible concessions should be made where only questions of procedure are concerned, Britain's position in the war precludes any real change of policy.

When it is all over, Davy Jones should have a pretty strong navy.

LARGE CRUISER REPORTED SUNK

Unconfirmed Story Says Invincible Has Destroyed Von Der Tann

BUENOS AYRES, Jan. 11. — La Prensa publishes the report that an engagement has taken place off Rio Grande de Norte, Brazil, between the British battle cruiser Invincible and the German battle cruiser Von der Tann, adding that the Von der Tann has been sunk.

The German battle cruiser Von der Tann was reported several weeks ago to have crossed the Atlantic to join the other German warships in the South Atlantic and Pacific. Her arrival in these waters has never been recorded.

The Von der Tan is of 18,000 tons displacement, 562 feet in length, a speed of 27.6 knots. She carries a complement of 910 men and an armament of eight 11-inch guns, ten 5.9 guns, 16 24-pounders and four torpedo tubes.

The British battle cruiser Invincible is of 17,250 tons displacement, with a complement of 731 men. Her armament includes eight 12-inch guns, 16 4-inch guns and four torpedo tubes.

The Invincible was one of the British squadron which sunk the German squadron, including the Gneisenau, Scharnhorst, Nurnberg, and Leipzig, off the Falkland Islands.

Report Not Confirmed.

RIO JANEIRO, Jan. 11.—The Havas Agency has received no confirmation of the reported naval battle between the British cruiser Invincible and the German cruiser Von der Tann, off Rio Grande de Norte. Naval officials here place little credence in the report.

WELL-TO-DO-IN BELGIUM ARE IN NEED OF FOOD

LONDON, Jan. 11.— The representative at Hassel, Belgium, for relief in Belgium, in a letter describing the first distribution there of supplies forwarded by the commission, discloses the extent to which even those who can afford to pay for food are dependent on assistance.

"At the communal warehouses," he writes, "more than 100 persons were packed about the doors, each with a ticket, and with bags in which to carry away food. They crowded each other furiously to get in before the supply was exhausted. Old men, young men and children were in the crowd. They were not the recipients of charity. They were fighting for places to get food, for which in most cases they paid comparatively high prices. Rich and poor, all alike, had to come and await their turn in the distribution."

It was believed, the correspondent adds, that the aircraft were headed for Dover. They were flying very high and did not attack the towns they flew over.

No hostile aircraft were sighted at any point along the English coast Sunday, although a vigilant aeroplane and automobile patrol was maintained as a result of the rumors that the Germans was believed to be headed for England.

A despatch from Paris says that a dozen German aeroplanes bombarded Dunkirk and environs yesterday. Thirty bombs were thrown by the airmen, but owing to the precautions that had been taken there were few victims. The material damage was unimportant.

HIS MAJESTY KING GEORGE V.

This Has Been Her Work for Hundreds of Years and is Now one of the Real Reasons for the War — Is Protecting a Country which Wishes to Remain Free

EARL KITCHENER
War Secretary

(By Gregory)

Why is the present war raging in Europe? Why are Canada and Australia and New Zealand sending their soldiers to fight upon French and Belgian battlefields against Germans and Austrians?

The answer lies very deep in the past. Men do many things to-day because their ancestors very many years ago did certain other things, things of which the events of to-day are a consequence. To understand why the nations of Europe are fighting to-day we must go back to the Roman Empire.

The Roman Empire covered nearly all of the world which was known to the ancients. It reached from Persia in the East to Scotland in the west, and from Northern Africa to Northern Germany. The Roman Government kept all that great region in peace. It had an army which was not very large, but which for centuries was very well trained; and nearly all of this army was on the frontiers, allowing the countries which now compose England, France, Spain, Portugal, Belgium, Rhenish Germany, Switzerland, Italy, part of Hungary, the Balkan Peninsula, Greece, Asia Minor, Syria, Palestine, Egypt, Tunis, Tripoli, Algiers and Morocco to live in peace. These countries had good roads, good laws, high civilization, and the Roman Empire gave them security.

European Changes

Much cruelty and wrong went with the law and order of the Roman Empire, and the people within its borders became effeminate and immoral. In time the Barbarians from the forests of Germany and Austria beyond the frontier overcame the Roman armies, now degenerate, and then with great ease marched over and conquered the vast regions of the Empire, whose inhabitants had become soft and cowardly. It was a good thing that the Germanic tribes swept over Europe in this way, for the nations within the bounds of the Empire had become corrupt and cowardly; the invaders brought virtues which have never since left Europe—courage, a love of liberty, a respect for the rights of the individual man. But the destruction of the Empire meant that Europe, once united, broke up into a multitude of states and governments, some big, some little, and these warred fiercely with each other, while learning and civilization were forgotten for a while.

Two sets of people remembered and regretted the old days of the Roman Empire. Such men of learning as lived in those rough ages sighed for the earlier time when letters flourished, and they kept alive a dim tradition that the Roman Empire had been a sort of Golden Age. Kings also bore in mind the fact that in the past mightier monarchs than they had ruled the known world and when any king in continental Europe became unusually strong the idea was sure to seize him that he could revive the Empire by conquering his neighbors. This vision of a new Empire of Europe caused constant war and bloodshed for many centuries. The tendency still remains in the minds of the nations of continental Europe.

In the sixteenth century Spain found herself very rich and very strong. Her king by a series of events became monarch of the larger part of Western Europe; he ruled over Spain, Portugal, Southern Italy and Sicily, Northern Italy, Hungary, Austria, much of Germany, and Holland and Belgium. By the marriage of Philip and Queen Mary England for a short time was added to this wonderful total, and France was the only important continental European country which the Spanish king did not control or influence. Outside of Europe he had South and Central America and Mexico. Madrid came near to being the capital of the known world.

In the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries France was the strongest and most active power in Western Europe. Under Louis XIV. she tried to push her frontiers to the Rhine, while she got Spain and Southern Italy under her influence. Under Napoleon she at one time controlled the whole of continental Europe west of Russia and the Balkan countries.

To-day Germany is making the effort that Spain and France made in the past. Until 1870 Germany was split up into a number of separate states whose rulers generally quarrelled with each other. In that year, however, they all came together and formed the German Empire.

This new Germany is a very strong country. It has many millions of people, has much trade, is very rich, and has an enormously strong army and a powerful navy. With this the rest of the world has no quarrel; it is right that the Germans should be united, should have the one government, and should be prosperous and powerful. But the German Government has not been content with this; it desires to do what Spain and France tried to do and failed—to beat down the other countries of Europe, to make them obey Germany, and to make Europe one great Empire.

The British Attitude

So far nothing has been said of Great Britain or the British Empire. The British people always have fought against the idea of an European Empire. Several reasons have made them do this. First of all, Great Britain is a small island, and its population always has been small compared with that of continental Europe; consequently, Great Britain could not hope to be the one power which would rule the rest of Europe. Secondly, the British people worked out a way of governing themselves quite different from that which prevailed on the continent. It was freedom, not repression; it was self-government, not absolute rule; and people with so free a system of governing were not likely to want to subject other white men to their rule. Finally, they had a strong reason to dread the establishment of a great Empire of Western Europe; they were afraid that such an Empire would try to subdue them and add them to its dominions. They knew that their numbers were scanty as compared with those of the continental countries, and that if Germany, France, Spain and Italy were to unite they would be in great danger. So it became the British desire to see several strong countries in Europe, not one over-strong one.

One effect of the efforts of strong European countries to rule the rest was that the weaker ones resisted. The continental European country when strong may wish to rule others, but when weak it does not wish to be ruled by others. France fought hard against Spain when that country was dominant. The Germans did not like being controlled by the French. It follows that Great Britain for several hundred years has followed a steady policy of helping the weaker and resisting the stronger powers. She is the friend of the under dog.

In Queen Elizabeth's time England fought Spain. Often it is supposed that this was purely because England was Protestant and Spain Roman Catholic. In truth the quarrel was more than religious; Spain was the great continental power of the age and the two countries which stood out against her were England and France. As a result, England helped France, although France was a Catholic country and had been England's enemy throughout the Middle Ages. So also Great Britain opposed France alike under Louis XIV. and Napoleon. Against Louis XIV. she upheld Holland and Spain, and she stood against Napoleon for the liberty of all Europe, including the Germany which she is now fighting. Now that France is a peaceful power and Germany tries to crush her, Britain helps France and opposes Germany.

These, in a very large way, are some of the real reasons for the war. Our Empire is fighting against a country which wishes to rule the whole of Europe and indeed the whole of the world. Our Empire is protecting a country which desires to manage its own affairs without control from outside.

Must Defend Herself

But there is a further reason. The British Empire must defend itself. If Germany were to win against France and crush her, the German Empire would attack our Empire next. It has been so in the past. When Napoleon had got all Europe west of Russia subject to him he was not contented; he tried to crush Great Britain also, and his final wars, in which he was defeated, were caused by his trying to make them all fight the Mistress of the Seas. German writers of to-day have made no secret that if once they can destroy France and gain control on continental Europe they will turn their attention to the British Empire. The rulers of Germany do not like to see the British navy the strongest force on the seas and they have built a navy far stronger than they needed for defence; and this, although the British navy had not been used to oppress other nations. They have a curious phrase that Germany "wants a place in the sun," which means that they want colonies and dependencies over the seas such as Great Britain has, and as things are, the only way to get such things is to take them from the British Empire.

When the German Empire was being founded in the years between 1866 and 1870 an interesting thing was done. Prussia then was the strongest State in Germany and the Prussian Government, whose great statesman was Bismarck, meant to draw the several kingdoms and states of Germany into one Empire. Two strong powers were certain to resist: Austria and France, then under the Emperor Napoleon III. Bismarck made up his mind to fight and defeat both countries, but knew that he could not defeat them both at the same time. So he set about the task of getting France to keep quiet while he defeated Austria, and Austria to keep quiet while he crushed France. He succeeded. In 1866 he beat Austria while France was tricked into giving her no help; then Bismarck turned on France, and in 1870 the German armies overwhelmed her. Now there is much to show that the German Government of to-day hoped to crush France while Great Britain looked on, and then turn upon Great Britain; however this time, Great Britain has helped the countries Germany was attacking.

PRINCESS PAT'S PETS

The enrolment list of the Princess Patricia Canadian Light Infantry shows ten and a half per cent. of the total membership of the regiment to be Canadians. To be exact there are 118 Canadian born men in its ranks out of a total of 1,101 men. When the conditions governing the circumstances under which the regiment was raised, are considered, this is by no means surprising.

In the first place the Princess Patricias were raised as the result of the ardent patriotism of a Canadian born and bred, Mr. Hamilton Gault. That is a fact that ought not to be left out of account in reckoning the credit to the Dominion for the future exploits of the regiment. Then again it was a sine qua non of acceptance in its ranks that the men should all have been old soldiers. That was a condition hard to meet in a country which for a century had been free of war and in which no army, outside the militia, existed. The Boer war of a dozen years ago had nothing like the appeal for Canadians of the present conflict, and those who took part in it have for the most part since that time, assumed responsibilities which it would be too much to expect them to leave. Every part of the Empire and some countries outside it were drawn upon to make up the total of men, and in the circumstances the fact that ten per cent. of its membership should be Canadian is a good reason for congratulation. Though 83 per cent. of the Regiment are British-born, it should be remembered that the great majority of these have next of kin resident in Canada.—Beck's Weekly, Montreal.

The Sort of Girl He Likes

An experienced woman who knew men pretty well once said that there was one appeal to which she had never known any man fail to respond, and that was a certain sort of cowardice in woman.

Let any woman, she said, no matter how commonplace or ugly, become terrified by a tramp or a burglar, or even describe herself as having been so, and add, "You men have no conception of what that feeling is in a poor defenceless woman," and the man will respond to it as a cat to stroking!

And as a man likes the woman who depends on him and reaches out for his support, in like degree, on the other hand, he despises a man for those qualities. All of which goes to prove that, just so surely as a man demands of men to be manly, he demands of women to be womanly.

BRITISH CYCLE CORPS READY FOR UHLAN ATTACK.

It has been proved in this war that horses will not plunge fearlessly into a barrier of bicycles. The photograph shows British "cycle cavalry" entrenched behind their bicycles, expecting the horses of the Uhlans to shy at the wheels in their pathway.

THE MARKETS

Latest Quotations in Grain, Dairy Products, Live Stock, Etc.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—Rumors that the United States might put an embargo on breadstuffs and that the Dardanelles were likely to be forced, proved grim bogies today for owners of wheat. The market after violent changes closed half demoralized at 2⅛ to 2⅜ under last night. Other leading staples, too, showed a setback—corn ⅝-8c to ¾-4c net; oats ⅛ to 1c and provisions 5c to 10c.

WINNIPEG GRAIN MARKET.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 16.—Quite a bearish sentiment was aroused on the wheat market, which caused a lower opening on all grains, wheat being 1c to 1½c lower, oats ½c lower and flax ½c down. The rumor yesterday that Italy and Roumania had entered the war was not quite dispelled this morning and, coupled with this, was the talk of the United States likely to prohibit the exportation of grain—these caused the lower opening. Liverpool cables came late and were strong, which changed the sentiment, and prices rallied quickly, making new high records for the season, and since the Leiter boom. Later quite a break took place during the last 15 minutes of business attributed to profit-taking over the week-end. Actual sales for export were claimed to be much lighter today.

The cash demand continues good. No. 1, 2 and 3 northern wheat, and No. 2 C.W. oats are wanted most, but offerings were very scarce. Exporters were buying all offerings in shipping houses at Ft. William for all rail shipments.

Inspections yesterday 120 cars as against 291 last year and in sight today 239 cars.

MONTREAL GRAIN MARKET.

MONTREAL, Jan. 9.—The export demand for Manitoba spring wheat today was poor, and the prices bid were 1s 9d to 2s 6d per quarter below what exporters were asking, consequently the volume of business done was small. There was no further business done in oats for export account, but it is estimated that sales of fully [illegible] bushels were made during the week. The condition of the flour market is strong and another advance in prices is anticipated. Millfeed is fairly active and firm. Butter is stronger and prices have scored a further advance of ½c per pound with a fair trade passing. Cheese is quiet, but firm.

Receipts of butter for week were 1116 packages, and cheese 711 boxes, as compared with 953 butter and 389 cheese for the same week a year ago. Eggs fairly active with a strong undertone. Receipts for the week 2002 cases, as compared with 964 a year ago. Stocks: Wheat, 396,107; corn, 115,130; oats, 1,298,960; barley, 396,978; rye, 8998; buckwheat, 9721; flax, 86,491; flour, 125,190 sacks.

THE WINNER

The little old man who keeps pegging along,
Who is not downhearted though things may go wrong,
Goes pegging away
As though it were play
At any old business that comes to his hand,
Is bound in the place of preferment to land,
To capture the prizes that make for success.
A winner? Well, yes.

The codger who isn't a dodger and shirk
Of anything looking the picture of work,
Who doesn't fall dead
Or take to his bed
When labor is billed on the program ahead,
But rolls up his sleeves and gets busy instead,
Some day on the stretch as the victor comes down
And wakes up the town.

It isn't in making a wonderful spurt;
It's steadily scooping that piles up the dirt,
Just moving along
Not overly strong,
But steady as any old nag on the place,
That tells when they're marking the scores in the race
And shows who has won the blue ribbon and fame
That goes with the same.

So keep on a-tugging away at your line,
Don't envy the triflers who glitter and shine.
The face of the bluff
Looks charming enough,
But will not buy beefsteak or marbles or chalk
Or coax the shy ghost to go out for a walk.
The fellow who keeps night and day at the case
Will copper the ace.

PETES PLAYING IN BELLEVILLE

Blue and White Should Win Spratt or Halpin to Rove

The local intermediates will be entertained by Belleville tonight in the railroad villa, and judging from the game the other evening "Ack" Hunter's clan should have very little difficulty in securing a victory over Lawson Whitehead's crew. Peter Spratt has a brother joining the ranks of the benedicts in Kingston on Tuesday, and whether or not he can make arrangements to play tonight is not known as yet. If he should not be availale, Grover Halpin will rove. The rest of the team will be intact.

COBOURG JUNIORS PLAY HERE TOMORROW NIGHT

Two Teams Met Last Week in Cobourg and Sixty Minutes of Fast Hockey Resulted—Petes Anxious to Wipe out Defeat by Port Hope

The game tomorrow evening between Peterborough Juniors and Cobourg is expected to be one of the liveliest attractions staged at the local rink in some time. A week ago the teams met in Dick Maher's town and after sixty minutes of real fast hockey the Petes won 8-6. The Cobourg team is young and fast and a week's practice means a lot. That they will come up here determined to take a fall of Harold Long & Co. is assured. What opposition the blue and white can put up remains to be seen. Their appearance against Port Hope must be redeemed and the boys will be out there for that purpose. Long and Morrow will be on the defence with Legros in goal. The forward line will be the same as played in Cobourg.

A Sample of Billy Sunday's Vocabulary

Billy Sunday, at one time a sensational baseball pitcher, but now a more sensational evangelist is cutting things loose down Philadelphia way. Willie's language savors very much of the Bowery, and as a slang-slinger, he makes the famous George Ade look like a has been. Read this effusion of the Rev. William, delivered after he had leaped to the top of a table in his brand-new tabernacle in Philadelphia the other day:

"Come on, you forces of evil in Philadelphia that have made the church a doormat to wipe your dirty feet upon! Come on, you triple extract of infamy. Come on, you assassins of character! Come on, you defamers of God and enemies of his church! Come on, you bull-necked, beetle browed, hog-jowled, peanut-brained, weasel eyed, fourflushers, false alarms and excess baggage! In the name of Almighty God, I challenge you and defy you! I'm here for nine weeks! Come on, and I'll deliver the goods.

Most people like a preacher to show a little "pep," as Evangelist Sunday, no doubt, would express it, but there is a limit. However, some

INTERMEDIATES CRUCIAL GAME

Locals Will Have to Stop the Picton Seven

The crucial game of this district will be played in Peterborough on Friday evening when the local Intermediates meet the Picton team. The Petes suffered a 3-0 defeat at the hands of the new entry last week and now that the locals are greatly strengthened with the addition of Moiuse and Spratt. Harry Morgan is confident his boys will win by a larger margin than three. The Picton aggregation is being trained by the famous Walter Knox and thus far have not lost a game. They play Bowmanville in Picton this evening and if the home team wins they will come up here Friday night fully expectant of putting a half nelson on the district honors.

The only weak point of the Hunterites on Friday night was the lack of team play but with the game tonight and a couple of practices that item of attack should be improved. Friday night's battle promises to be a live one from 8.30 till the final gong.

COMMENT
As You Like it

IF DUCKETT of Cobourg plays as good an offensive and defensive game for Kitchener as he did for the Lakeshore town he'll come home with medals. The red haired boy was a good hockey player and with his departure Cobourg and the O.H.A.'s loss is quite heavy.

THE GAMES at the local rink will commence at eight-thirty in the future. They have been billed for 8.15 since the season opened but the referee usually arrives on the C. P. R. 8.10, so the time has been set back 15 minutes.

PICTON WILL very likely win from Bowmanville tonight and the Petes will have to stop them Friday evening or Walter Knox's team will get too big a lead. For a dark horse the Picton septette are certainly making their presence felt.

IF THE PETERBOROUGH Juniors go through this week without a defeat they will stand a good chance of carrying off the group honors. They play Cobourg here on Tuesday evening and Lindsay in Lindsay Friday.

THERE IS CONSIDERABLE local interest in the game between Riversides and Kingston in the Senior O. H. A. series tonight. Fred Dennison and Ken Crane, two Peterborough boys, are with Riversides.

WITH THIS EVENING'S game and a couple of practices this week the Intermediates' forward line should be going well by Friday. The Picton team play a great deal of combination.

JIMMIE McMARTIN, the local hockeyist, is on the line-up for Marmora in the Trent Valley League. It takes Tommy Moffat to gather in the speed artists.

SOME ONE tried to be funny at the ice box the other evening by asking where last year's "Scubbers" are. There was no fun in that. It was quite a tragedy.

The only quarrel that the small boy has with the man who invented vacation is that he didn't invent one big enough.

Twilight Musicale

Those who took part in the Saturday afternoon "musicale" held in the Conservatory of Music Hall contributed a flawless program, demonstrating that, as far as merit and popularity are involved, a superior program is almost invariably given by a few selected high-class performers. Nothing could have been more enjoyable than some selections rendered by Miss Ada Richardson, soprano, Miss Edwina Palmer, violinist, and the Conservatory Orchestra. Encores were given every selection, although the limited time prevented the artists from responding in all cases.

Miss Richardson sang very sweetly and effectively "Oh, Mary, Call the Cattle Home," and as an encore sang a pretty little ballad entitled "Because I've You." Her voice appears adapted to dramatic music, and is as much at home in secular as in sacred selections. Miss Richardson is soloist at Charlotte Street Methodist Church.

Miss E. Palmer achieved a decided triumph in her opening violin selection, "Adaigio," by Ries. Her work showed a strong, true understanding not only of the composition but of the instrument. She was warmly applauded and forced to respond.

The Conservatorly Orchestra contributed selections from "Robin Hood" and "The Chocolate Soldier." In this number they scored distinctly, although to a close observer the bass seemed a trifle too pronounced and heavy.

In the popular number, "Around the Christmas Tree," which was repeated by request, the orchestra was in perfect form and given hearty applause.

Taken as a whole, the program and its manner of presentation justified any reasonable praise that could be bestowed.

WIFEY WAS FREEZING, HUBBY TALKED WAR, PONY MADE FOR HOME

Some commotion occurred in the west part of the city Saturday night and it first looked as though a pony and gig had been stolen. A certain well known resident left the said pony and gig outside a house in charge of his better half, while he went inside on business. However, being loquaciously inclined and considerable of a talker he became so absorbed in discussing whether the Kaiser would be licked and hanged, drawn, and quartered that he forgot all about his poor shivering wife and pony outside, until the wife rapped at the door and asked for her husband. She was half frosen and looked like Dr. Cook must have, when he didn't discover the North Pole. She wanted to get warm and commenced to deliver a tongue threshing to her beloved for neglecting her. It made matters worse when the absent minded hubby told her he had forgotten about her outside, although he remembered leaving the pony there.

Presently both withdrew, but alas, pony and gig were gone. That was the climax and hubby exploded wrathfully, giving the woman whom he had sworn to love, honor and obey, a beautiful calling down for not tying the pony. The pony had either been stolen and run away he said, and she was the one to blame. Shouldn't she have known better than to do such a foolish trick. Finally the aid of the police was invoked by telephone and they were instructed to hunt for the missing outfit. But here comes the unkindest cut of all. After frantic searchings and after hubby had exhausted the vials of his anger upon his faithful but thoughtless wife, they went home to find Mr. Pony calmly standing in the back yard.

ALLEGES BREACH OF AGREEMENT ASKS DAMAGES

A writ was issued today on behalf of George Lockie against the Corporation of the Township of North Monaghan in which the plaintiff claims damages (amount not stated) from the defendant for an alleged breach of an agreement in not keeping culverts at the northeast corner of plaintiff's farm in such a condition that he was kept with a continuous and adequate supply of water for his cattle, and for damages for the defendant wrongfully appropriating part of the plaintiff's land on the east side of his farm for a public road and for failing to keep the said road properly fenced. No date has been set for trial.

GERMANS ARE SIMPLY THROWING AWAY LIVES

Killed and Wounded in Operations in Poland Can Never be Estimated Because so Many Are Carried Off by the River.

German Clothing is Utterly Inadequate to Meet the Bitter Cold.

WARSAW, Jan. 11.—The German attempts to force the Russian positions on the Bzura have been marked by a reckless waste of human life.

It is impossible to estimate the German losses in the recent fighting along this stream. The killed and wounded sink forever under the muddy, freezing waters, and those who reach the other side are easily made prisoners. Already these rash assaults are losing their force. After each unsuccessful attempt the weakening of the attacking columns is apparent.

It is bitterly cold. The freezing Siberian wind sweeps over the plain, and the mud of last week now is as hard as iron. The rivers are not entirely covered with ice, as the force of the wind has prevented this, and no human being can plunge into the Bzura without becoming numb with the cold in a minute.

What the Germans are suffering from exposure can be imagined from the conditions on this side, where is the well-clothed Russian soldier. The German overcoat is a thin, shoddy affair, which offers no protection against the Russian winter. So poorly are some of the prisoners clad that the soft-hearted soldiers of the Czar's army give them their mufflers.

The Siberian troops on the reserve line have built underground homes back of their positions. Each burrow is large enough for two men to sleep, and each has a fireplace, where glowing embers are always kept.

It is quite possible for the Russians to maintain themselves in their present quarters all winter, as they have the city of Warsaw behind them.

But for the Germans the case is different. Most of the towns in their rear they themselves have destroyed, and the question of winter quarters is soon going to be vital with them.

Judging from the condition of the prisoners at present, the German army has lost 25 per cent. of its original unit power. This loss increases each day. On the other hand the Russian effectiveness is always increasing.

TWO GOOD MEETINGS AT CITY MISSION

The city mission opened on Sunday with very gratifying results. The services were well attended both morning and afternoon, and in the evening nearly every seat was filled. The object is to make the mission a practical uplift to the city that will minister to the needs of both body and soul of the needy. Anyone having cast-off clothing, boots or shoes for men, women or children, or any pieces of furniture, or anything that will in any way help the needy of the city, kindly send name and address together with a list of the articles to F. A. Conners, City Missioner, 267 King street, who will see that they are called for. The mission is arranging to have a sewing circle, when these garments will be repaired, if necessary, and refitted and delivered to the homes of the needy.

SHORT COURSE AND PUBLIC MEETING

The music consisted of an instrumental duett by the Misses McBean and Needham, solos by Miss B. Lock and an instrumetal trio by the Misses Brown, Elson and Kennedy.

Mr. R. S. Duncan took the chair and gave a short address.

BI-LINGUAL QUESTION IS DISCUSSED

Cardinal Begin Soys Language Rights are Undeniable

MONTREAL, Jan. 11.—"If, which God forbid, the trial imposed upon our brethren in Ontario be prolonged, it would be the noble duty of the French and Catholic province of Quebec to assist with all its influence and all its resources those who suffer and struggle, until full justice shall be rendered them."

Such is an excerpt of a letter written by Cardinal Begin of Quebec to Archbishop Bruchesi relative to the demonstration held in Montreal on Dec. 21 by the Catholic Association of French-Canadian youth, when the bi-lingual school question was discussed.

"It is with profound satisfaction that I have read the speeches pronounced on that occasion," His Eminence writes, "and I congratulate your Grace particularly upon having interpreted in langauge so firm, and at the same time so well considered, the noble sentiments of our clergy and our people, and on having placed the question in dispute upon its real ground.

"This is not indeed a question involving a simple local interest.

"We are an association of provinces held together by intimate ties. This state of affairs creates among the sister provinces and their inhabitants a necessary solidarity. And no more in a moral body than in a hpysical organism can one strike a lbow at one of the component parts without the whole being made to suffer.

Undeniable Rights.

"As your Grace very accurately points out, 'the French language has undeniable rights in this country of Canada,' rights acquired y the most vigorous efforts nd the most generous labor and written upon the most glorious pages of our history. One cannot efface with the scratch of a pen these pages written with the very blood of our ancestors.

"Every race bears within itself the inalienable rights which authorize it to speak its own language. That is an indication and an innate need which no government may prudently ignore: it is a fundamental and primordial right which no human power may violate with impunity. I believe in an immanent justice, and I do not admit, no thinking man will admit, that in a civilised country like ours, brute strength and numbers should be considered as the final arbiters of everything.

"Our civil constitution has provided an official place for the French language. The men who devised it wished to found a prosperous and united nation. It is to disown their opinions, to betray the thoughts of our most illustrous political ancestors; to attempt to smother upon the lips of a class of worthy and loyal citizens the idiom they speak and which they claim their children shall speak, and which has the right to be spoken among the highest circles in the land.

Guardian of Faith.

"And what language is it sought to banish from the domain where the heart and spirit of childhood is being formed? That very language which is the guardian of our faith and the instrument of our culture. We certainly understand and can easily explain to ourselves the indignation awakened in the hearts and vexatious measures of which they complain. These measures strike at the very roots of the religious and intellectual lives of our brothers and co-religionists. And if by such acts and by our apathy this life, French and Catholic, is extinguished among them, who can say that the malign influences guilty of such deeds will not be exercised one day in the very heart of our province.

"I shall refrain from carrying the idea further and from going deeper into this troublesome question. It is my confident hope, even my conviction that, thanks to the goodwill and the prudent intervention of influential men genuinely anxious for public pease, in that place where minorities suffer and injustice triumphs, the ideale of a more just and sane policy will shortly prevail. It will result in the union of the races and the renown and grandeur of our country.

"We are, and as you yourself, Mouseigneur, have recalled, have been for a hundred and fifty years the peaceful and loyal subjects of the British Crown. We respect the English language, we teach it, we speak it at need, we surround it in our province with all the regard to which it is entitled, and it does not occur to any of us to take from it the least of its legitimate liberties. We do not think, therefore, that we are asking a favor or an unequal thing in demanding the same lot for the language of Laval, Champlain and Maisonneuve."

ASKS FOR $201 PRICE OF HORSE.

A writ was issued today on behalf of James Akey of this city against Wilbert Beavis of Asphodel to recover the sum of $201 being the price paid for a mare purchased from Beavis by Akey. The plaintiff claims that the defendant committed a breach of warrantee in claiming the horse to be sound when it was unsound. The date of trial has not yet been announced.

Clever Woman.

"How does it happen that Mrs. Wilson can go about so much when she has no cook?"

"Very easily."

"I don't understand it."

"Don't you?"

"No."

"She married an excellent cook."

Lots of Him.

"He is a very self sacrificing man."

"Well, I never noticed it."

"Didn't you?"

"I should say not."

"Why, I have known him to come home as early as 3 o'clock in the morning lest his wife be worried about him."

"See Us and See Better."

PASSED AWAY ON BIRTHDAY OF HER ELDER SON

The Late Mrs. J. C. Taylor Was Born in Lakefield

(From the Uxbridge, Eng., Gazette.)

We much regret to record the death of Mrs. Taylor, wife of the Rev. J. C. Taylor, Vicar of Harmondsworth, which occurred somewhat suddenly on Sunday evening. Mrs. Taylor, a grand niece of Agnes Strickland, the authoress of the "Queens of England and Scotland," was born in the village of Lakefield, Ontario, Canada, on December 29th, 1857. Inheriting a keen desire for knowledge, she made rapid progress in early life in her home studies, developed as they were by frequent journeys to England, and by intercourse with distinguished and deeply religious friends and relations. Visiting this country during the mission of Dwight L. Moody, she became deeply interested in that witness for Christ, which wrought so effectually in the conversion of souls. It was at that period she met him who was to be her future husband. Engaged in the year 1876, she returned to her native village, and immediately began to delight the members of her own family with her apt and rich testimony for Christ as Saviour and Lord from a mind stored with revealed truth. Many were the calls from ever-widening localities for such blessed teaching from so eloquent a mouth, until her name became an inspiration throughout the province. Her health becoming impaired, she crossed the Atlantic, and on November 11th, 1879 was united in marriage with the Rev. John C. Taylor, at Holy Trinity, Richmond, Surrey, by his vicar, the Rev. Evan H. Hopkins. Here she and her husband lived, and won very many trophies of the Saviour's grace, and here two daughters were born to them.

She left that sphere of concord and goodwill for Harmondworth, in June, 1882, and had completed thirty-two years of tender counsel and generous help to mothers and daughters throughout the parish when pernicious anaemia and hemorrhage set in, and she was ordered away to Dartmoor, in Devonshire. Great hopes for a complete recovery resulted, but on her return she incurred a chill while visiting the homes of her loved people. The hemorrhage recurred, until, on Saturday last, paralysis supervened, and her gentle spirit sighed itself away just before evensong of Sunday, the birthday of the Rev. Ralph Taylor, her elder son. The sudden home call of their dear friend and counsellor has wrung many souls with grief, yet multitudes rejoice that when "the day dawns and the shadows flee away" there will be a glad reunion in the better land, with her and those whom God gave her throughout her beautiful, consistent life. "Her children arise up and call her blessed." The funeral will take place in Harmondsworth Churchyard today (Friday), at three o'clock.

FROM CANADA TO RUSSIA

Canada to Petrograd is the latest excursion trip arranged in the world-wide ramifications of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and at present regular runs between St. John and the capital of all the Russias are being conducted. For $54.25 any Russian can now get to Petrograd, if he also pays the railway fare to St. John or Halifax to catch the boat. Passengers by this route will take a decidedly interesting journey. They will take the C. P. R. boat to Liverpool. From Liverpool they will sail to ports in Sweden or Finland, and from these make the final run to Petrograd. It is not likely that the history of rail and steamship travel has ever shown a single advertised trip with so many countries and so many possibilities for so small a price.

This service has been put on by the C. P. R. owing to the large number of Russians desiring to return to their native land since the war started. In present conditions the Russians have a predilection for travelling by British routes, feeling safer under the Union Jack. Hitherto Russians coming to Canada generally journeyed via New York, but now conditions have been reversed, and on their return journey they are taking the Canadian line.

It is stated that a large number of Russians who have been in Chicago and the Western States are taking advantage of this service. One party will come through Montreal and sail for Petrograd by the Missanable, which leaves St. John on January 15th, while another party will sail by the Grampian on the 29th.

EVENTS AWAIT THE COMING OF SPRING

Britain Sends Out Thousands of Men to France Every Week and Germany Makes Counter Preparations

DISQUIET SPREADS IN BALKANS

Italy May Soon be Called Upon to Resort to Arms

THE PARIS STATEMENT

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Jan. 12.—Fighting in the western theatre of war did not yesterday show any development of importance, according to the official report given out by the French war office this afternoon. There were artillery exchanges at some points along the line, and infantry attacks on the trenches. In some of these encounters the French claim to have been successful.

It is still snowing in the Vosges Mountains.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—Unusual interest attaches to despatches indicating that disquiet in the Balkans is spreading. Albanian insurgents are said to be bringing up guns to fire upon Durazzo, recently occupied by Italian forces, and Italy may soon be called upon to resort to arms. Servia now insists that in the event of a victory for the Allies, she must receive Bosnia, Herzegovina and Dalmatia; the mere consideration of an Adriatic port will no longer suffice.

Although Austro-German forces in Poland apparently have given up for the time a general offensive movement, local fighting continues. Vienna reports an attempt of the Russians to cross the lower Nida in Southern Poland was repulsed. This attack apparently means that the Russians have resolved on another move against Cracow.

Germans Beaten Back Along the Vistula.

Petrograd states that German attacks on the Russian positions along the Vistula were beaten back, and a minor victory over Turkish forces in the Caucasus is also announced. The Turks having claimed important victories in the Caucasus, together with the death of Grand Duke Alexander, brother-in-law of the Czar, Petrograd announces the Grand Duke is perfectly well and has not been in the Caucasus.

In every theatre of the war events seem to await the coming of spring. Great Britain is sending thousands of men to France every week, and Germany, aware of this, is making great countr preparations. All German reserves are being called to the colors, and German generals propose to direct the Austrian campaign against Servia, and Turkish campaigns against Russia and Britain, as well as those in which the German armies are directly engaged.

British military critics believe Marshal Von Hindenburg has further offensive strength, but presume the Russians must feel confident of Warsaw's safety or they would not continue hurling such large forces against Hungary through Bukowinia.

Berlin Claims Capture of 1,600 Men in the Argonne.

RE-OPENING AT ALL SAINTS' CHURCH

The re-opening services of All Saints' Church will be held Thursday evening at eight o'clock. The Bishop of Toronto will conduct the dedication service and will also preach. The Archdeacon of Peterborough and Rev. W. L. Armitage of Toronto, the first rector of All Saints will also take part.

SHE SAID "YES."

'Tis sad to relate, but the newly married couple had been quarreling, and all because of one fatal word the bride had uttered on one momentus occasion. He was reminding her of the time when they courted and never had an angry word; but it was no good, nothing would pacify her.

"Yes, oh yes!" she fired up. "It's quite different now, Henry, I can see you as you were the night you asked me to be your wife; and as you knelt at my feet and implored, 'Speak just one word, my angel, just one little word and make me happy for life!' You don't remember that, do you?" she asked, with withering scorn.

"Oh, don't I, though," vigorously replied her angered spouse; "but you said the wrong word."

KARLSRUHE SUNK IN WEST INDIES?

Letter Tells of Engagement in November

MONTREAL, Jan. 12. — A letter has been received here from Grenada, West Indies, purporting to describe a naval engagement in which the German commerce destroyer the fast cruiser Karlsruhe was sunk. The writer tells that on the evening of Nov. 25th he saw from his house the flashes of naval guns engaged in action between more than two ships. He got no confirmation of his supposition that a battle had occurred until six days later, when wreckage and dead bodies, also boots "with feet in them," floated ashore, and among the wreckage was a life buoy marked "Karlsruhe."

The Karlsruhe has not been heard of since late in October.

MAJOR MEDD TO TAKE COMMAND OF B SQUADRON

Major McLaughlin Second in Command of Mounted Rifles

OTTAWA, Jan. 12.—Major F. H. Honeywell has been appointed commander of A Squadron of the Canadian Mounted Rifles being mobilized in Ottawa for the third contingent. Squadron A will be recruited here. The officers under Major Honeywell will be: Captain L. F. Askwith, Lt. H. N. Bate, Lt. P. H. Wright, Lt. H. A. L. Conn and Lt. J. Thompson, all of this city and officers in the 5th P. L. D. G., will be the second in command of B Squadron, which is being recruited in Peterborough. The commander of B Squadron will be Major S. T. Medd of Peterborough. C. Squadron will be recruited in Toronto, and Major W. T. Browne of that city will be in command.

As has already been announced the regiment is to be under the command of Lt.-Col. J. R. Munro, of Ottawa, with Major A. E. McLaughlin of the 3rd Dragoons, Peterborough, as second in command; Captain W. A. Blue, adjutant; Capt. P. E. Pallister, veterinary officer; Lt. J. D. Fraser, in command of the machine gun detachment.

The regiment to be mobilized here will have 551 men of all ranks and 613 horses. The recruiting will probably continue until about the end of January at the headquarters of the different cavalry units in Toronto, Peterborough, and on Victoria street, Ottawa: Then the entire regiment will be mobilized in Howick hall. The Fat Stock Show will be over then and the hall available.

Recruiting in Ottawa for the Mounted Rifles has been suspended for a week or so. Orders to this effect were received by Lt.-Col. Munro and it is evidently in order to give the outside towns who wish to send men in the mounted corps an opportunity to send troops. For the few

SOME CLASS TO THE LIGHTS IN FIFTH WARD

That the street lights are off early in the morning, and burn all day in East City, was revealed last evening at the meeting of the City Dads. Ald. Saunders vouched for the fact that the lights are ofttimes out at 6 o'clock in the morning, and Ald. Weir supplied the information about them burning all day in "Brooklyn."

T. F. Matthews of the Utilities Commission, promised to look into the matter.

BORROW MONEY FOR PERMANENT WORK

Bill Will Give This Power to Utilities Commission, Without Vote

The first evening session of the 1915 council was a mighty tame affair breaking up about nine o'clock, but the meeting of the committee of the whole, which followed immediately, occasioned considerable discussion. The big item was the application of the Peterborough Utilities Commission asking the council to apply to the private bills committee at the next session, for the passing of a bill, which would "authorise the council of Peterborough, to pass by-laws from time to time, without the assent of the electors, to borrow money which has been expended by the Peterborough Water Commissioners or the Peterborough Utilities Commission in the construction of the waterworks dam and in permanent improvements in the waterworks, or the electric lighting and power system of the city, also for the purchase and installation of an additional pumping unit for the waterworks and money that may be hereafter expended in the laying of additional feed water mains. The purchase of land for a substation and other buildings required by the said commission and the erection thereon, of the necessary buildings and the equipment and furnishing of same and improving and extending the electric and power system of the city."

The matter was first brought up at the council meeting but it was decided that it had best be gone thoroughly into and passed upon at a meeting of the committee of the whole. As the hour of adjourning the council was early, and as the Utilities Commission was very desirous that the matter would be given immediate attention, it was decided to hold the meeting of the committee the same evening. Messrs. T. F. Matthews, W. H. Moore and R. Hicks of the Commission were present and the former acted as spokesman. He explained that it has been impossible to keep the expenditure down to the amount of debentures issued, hence overdrafts were accumulating annually. In all $69,000 has been spent more than debentures have been issued for, to which must be added the $10,000 for the McDougall pump. Of the above amount $29,000 resulted from underestimating the cost of the construction of the waterworks dam. That item was estimated at $150,000 whereas it finally cost $179,000. The difference was caused by the depth of the river being wrongfully estimated. Other work which has been performed outside the extensions properly petitioned for, was the 12-inch main from Smith Street to Auburn and the 18-inch main from Auburn to the waterworks.

Mr. Matthews further advised the council that no debentures would be issued without the joint consideration of the council and the commission. The water rates in Peterborough are the lowest of any city of its size in Canada and it is not the desire of the commisson to increase the rates.

Mr. Hicks remarked that the issuing of the debentures would not affect the city's tax rate in any way as the interest and sinking fund would be cared for by the revenue of the commission. Ald. Stratton asked the members of the commission why the fact that they were carrying an overdraft year by year and this request to issue debentures to cover the debt, was not brought up before. The commissioners stated that they were unable at any previous date to ascertain their exact indebtedness. Several matters and acounts which were hanging fire, have been cleared up during the past year.

FULL TIME

The Brinton Carpet Company started this morning to operate their plant on full time.

A reporter, in conversation with Mr. Ivor Brock today, asked what the trade outlook was, so far as he could size up the situation.

As far as their own business was concerned, Mr. Brock said that it was satisfactory to realize that in the face of conditions, when carpets were a luxury and not a necessity, they were enabled to start their employes on full time once more, and intended adhering to this plan for a season, in any event. Mr. Brock considered that it would scarcely be prudent to speak on business prospects in general.

YEAR'S FIRE LOSS DOES NOT AVERAGE $1000 PER MONTH

Damage is Made up of $2,298 to Buildings and $9285 to Contents

For the past few days Fire Chief W. A. Howard has been busy preparing a comprehensive summary of the work of the department during the year that has just closed. In it are some figures that seem to justify whatever expenditures have been made towards keeping it efficient. When the city fathers assembled for the first 1915 meeting last night, the following report was presented to them nicely typewritten and complete.

Gentlemen:—

I have the honor to submit herewith my seventh annual report of the Fire Department for the year ending December 31st, 1914:

During the year, the Department responded to 132 alarms of fire and in doing so the apparatus travelled 148 miles. We laid 29,400 feet of 2½ inch hose and raised 142 feet of ladders.

In addition to attending the number of fires mentioned, weekly fire drill was conducted throughout the year laying 21,400 feet of standard fire hose and raising 1,900 feet of ladders.

In extinguishing fires we used 297 gallons of chemicals. The total damage by fire, as near as could be estimated, for the year 1914 was $11,583.00 divided as follows:—

Damage to buildings $2,298.00
Damage to contents 9,285.00

Inspections.

The systematic inspection of public buildings, wholesale, retail and manufacturing establishments has been carried on throughout the year and has been productive of much good, with splendid beneficial results in the matter of fire prevention.

The work of the department has been exceptionally successful from many standpoints. We have been fortunate in receiving alarms of fire while they were in the incipient stage, and by being specially alert at all times, we have been able to prevent any of the fires reaching the conflagration stage. The merchants and manufacturers have this year, more than any previous year, shown a disposition to be cautious and to safeguard their individual premises: in consequence of this state of affairs, the fire losses have been less than any previous year in the history of the department.

The whole general public are evidently taking kindly to the suggestions offered by this department for the prevention of fire. I am pleased to be able to report that we have had the general co-operation of the citizens at large, hence my report to your honorable body is a splendid showing for our city. Something to be proud of.

Only one accident happened in the department during the year, by which one fireman was laid up for 28 days.

COMPARATIVE STATEMENT ON FIRES

Fire losses in the city of Peterborough were lighter during the year 1914 than in any previous year in the history of the department as will be noted in another column in which the report of the department appears. But to show just how this loss has kept on the down grade, a study of the following comparative statement for the last seven years will be necessary. One reason for this, according to the chief was the installation of hydrants in certain localities. The cost of installation was amply justified in the saving that they have effected. The comparative statement is given herewith.

	Damage to Buildings.	Damage to Contents.	Total Damage.	Apparatus Travel.
1908	$ 1,400.00	$ 1,677.00	$ 3,077.00	100 miles

WOULD CUT THE SALARIES OF ALL CITY OFFICIALS

South Ward Representatives Introduce Sweeping Resolution

KEEP DOWN THE RATE

"That in the opinion of this municipal council for the year 1915, it is desirable in the interests of the ratepayers, and particularly the workingman, in view of the stringency in the money market and the lack of work, together with the high cost of living, that the municipal tax be kept down to as low a rate as possible consistent with good municipal government, and that a special committee be appointed to go carefully over the list of civic employes with a view of cutting out any unnecessary officials, and also to place those retained as civic employes on the same schedule of salary, previous to the last increase, and that the proper authorities be asked to furnish this special committtee that may be appointed, with all necessary information."

The above resolution brought in by Ald. Edgar and Saunders, the two South Ward aldermen, was referred to the finance committee by the City Council last evening.

TEAMSTER HURT ABOUT THE HEAD

Geo. Mitchell Narrowly Escapes Fracture of Skull

A serious accident happened yesterday afternoon on Charlotte Street in which Mr. George Mitchell, 519 Sherbrooke Street, teamster for the city garbage collection department, was badly injured about the head. He was seated in a wagon talking to another man when the team which he was holding, jerked the reins suddenly, and pulled Mr. Mitchell off. He fell heavily on the hard road striking the back of his head. He was in an unconscious state when picked up and was taken to his home. His injuries as far as could be learnen while serious will not be fatal although he narrowly escaped a fracture of the skull.

WEIGHING OF BREAD.

Notices have been sent out by E. Owen Way, of Ottawa, Chief Inspector of Weights and Measures, that the Ontario Bread Act requires that every person making bread for sale shall keep scales to weigh bread offered for sale when required by any person. These scales must be in addition to the dough scales, and if the latter are found unclean they must be confiscated and the baker prosecuted.

MOUNTED RIFLES ARE MORE POPULAR THAN INFANTRY

One hundred and seven recruits for the mounted rifle corps have been secured, and the desired one hundred and fifty will soon be obtained at the present rate of enlistment. The Armouries was a busy place this mornig when seventy recruits were out for elementary drill. There are forty-eight who have enlisted in the infantry, which is considered by the recruiting officers to be fairly satisfactory. It is plainly seen, however, that the mounted rifles is the most popular in which to enlist. Major Johnston, who has charge of the recruiting operations for the mounted rifles, stated today that they will continue until orders are received to stop. It is customary, however, to enlist ten per cent. additional men in case of need later on. The following officers have ben notified by Major Johnston that they have been accepted for service in the 8th Mounted Rifles: Major McLaughlin, Bowmanville; Major Medd, Peterborough; Lt. T. D. Johnston, Otonabee; Lt. H. G. Rogers, Lt. T. D. Sneath, Napanee, and Lt. E. R. Hughes, Bowmanville.

Major Medd, when seen this morning, said that all he knew was that he had received notification from Major Johnston that he was accepted for service in the 8th Mounted Rifles, and that he was likely to be sent to Ottawa when recruiting was completed and the contingent ready to leave. Major Medd did not think he would be orderedt o Kingston.

The new recruits are being innoculated against typhoid fever, this being conducted by Dr. Cameron, medical officer for the regiment, assisted by Dr. McPherson. This operation will take about four weeks.

In the infantry the recruiting has brought out a fair number of applicants. Captain A. G. Carruthers has been appointed quartermaster, and Lt. C. R. Cameron and Lt. W. Eastwood have received provisional appointments. Lt. K. Lech has also volunteered, but as yet does not know whether he will get an appointment.

PETERBOROUGH, TUESDAY, JANUARY 12, 1915

HOW ICE TROUBLES WERE OVERCOME AT MOLINE, ILL.

MOLINE, ILLINOIS, is an American city, having a population of 22,100. It is a manufacturing city having a goodly number of industries. In size it is almost identical with Peterborough, and what has been done there to handle ice problems should be of interest to the citizens of this city. Moline is situated near the capital of Rock Island County and is about 150 miles west of Chicago.

The waterworks plant at Moline has been seriously bothered with anchor ice and evolved a method of overcoming the trouble that is different from anything we have yet found.

The water is supplied to the plant through two intake pipes, a 20-in., 350 feet in length, and an 18-in., 3,500 feet in length. The water flows by gravity to a well and is then pumped to the filter plant. The intake pipe is open and unprotected at its mouth; no crib or other device has been built about the pipe.

Formerly a centrifugal pump was so arranged that it could be connected to the 18-in. pipe, and in an emergency the water could be drawn through this line until the well was filled, and then the valve on the choked 20-in. line was opened, letting the full pressure bear against the obstruction. The depth of the well is about 20 feet, and the head usually obtained is about 15 feet. This system could not be relied upon, for as long as the 18-in. line remained open, things were satisfactory, but when ice choked it, the whole plant was at a standstill.

The chief engineer, Mr. Buck, attempted to improve the plan by connecting the blower used to air wash the filters to the 20-in. line. The blower is of the Root make, and gives a large volume of air under low pressure. The connection between the blower and the line is through a 2½-in. pipe connected to the intake pipe, near the raw water well end.

On nights when the temperature conditions indicate a slight freezing, the height of the water in the raw water well is carefully watched. When the level begins to drop, the blower is started, and in a very short time the line is completely cleared. At times when the line has been choked tight, the blower has without fail cleared the line in a few minutes. The maximum pressure needed or used for this purpose runs about 10 pounds per square inch. The main trouble usually becomes noticeable after midnight, and remains until daybreak. The old ice troubles have no longer tied up the waterworks of Moline, Illinois. In their place they blow the trouble and the ice out at the same time by an inexpensive contrivance for utilizing the equipment they already had. They solved the difficulty there without building an auxiliary steam plant.

NO ROOM FOR MEDIOCRITY.

WHAT IS GOOD ENOUGH for Canadians to buy from Canadian makers is of too much importance to be anything but the best. There is no room in this country for mediocrity in manufacturing. Long ago, with our 23,000 factories, we got past the stage where we excused ourselves by inexperience. We are not experimenting. We are competing in the world's markets, and, what is more to the point, in our own home market, with goods made by expert manufacturing nations the world over. Our $1,500,000,000 capital investment in manufacturing plants would be worse than wasted if they turned out a large percentage of inferior goods. They had far better be idle and go to the scrap-heap. We have the best wheat, the best all-round climate, the greatest railway systems, the most contented and prosperous people, one of the most efficient army of workers in the world, and as high an average of business and manufacturing brains as can be found anywhere. There is no reason why we should not be able to put our Canadian-made wares down beside those made in any country and challenge the most minute comparison. In many fields of manufacturing we have proved that we can. In some others we still seem to be experimenting a little. Now is the time, when the "Made-in-Canada" campaign has become a crusade, to get rid of all "fair-to-middling," "pretty-good-for-Mary-Ann" methods, and see that the things we ask our fellow-Canadians to buy carry on their face and in their fibre the guarantee of their own excellence. What is good enough for Canadians to buy is good enough to demand from the manufacturer the last ounce of excellence in manufacturing.

SAYS A CORRESPONDENT: "Having been struck by the last two verses of your poem, 'His Natural Profession,' I am moved to ask if a Post Impressionist is one who paints barber-poles?" No. A man who paints the emblems of shavery requires brains.—Toronto News. We may supplement the distinction drawn by our Toronto friend by saying that a tonsorial artist works in sharp lines, his tools having sometimes a keen edge, does heavy brush work in the foreground of his subjects, and gives his works a finish that is truly satisfying

A NEW DISEASE DISCOVEED.

AN INTERESTING CASE in London, England, has resulted in the discovering of a new liver disease. It seems that as fast as science discovers cures it also finds new ailments. The doctors are never going to be short of complaints—belonging to other people. This disease, caused by a quick-drying varnish, and to which varnishers and polishers may be subject, was discovered by Dr. Bernard Spilsbury and Dr. Wilcox, the eminent pathologists, in an autopsy upon a workman who had been employed at the Hendon Air Craft Factory.

This varnish is composed of tetrochlor-ether, methylated spirit, benzine and other ingredients. Rats subjects to the vapor, said Dr. Wilcox at the inquest, became drowsy and developed an extensive liver disease. The workman's death was due to syncope from disease of the liver caused by the action of tetrochlor-ether.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A MONTHLY JOURNAL entitled "Child Betterment and Social Welfare," calls attention to the number of deaths and non-fatal cases of children between one and three years of age, and which resulted from the parents using poisonous fly-killers. Parents should be very careful in using poisons of any kind, especially fly-killers, containing arsenic. One death in Canada has been recorded as due to this cause. In far too many cases parents allow their children to run needless dangers.

IT SEEMS rather strange to most people that Ald. Johnston, the oldest member of the Board, and who for part of last year was chairman of the most important committee, that of finance, was this year jockeyed out of the chairmanship. His long experience and close attention to his duties ought to have particularly fitted him for the position.

IN REFERENCE to the matter of consistency, our evening contemporary printed last night two articles, one condemning the Review for criticizing a wild goose chase to Ottawa about mobilization camps, and the other, in the very next column, demanding another delegation to stop the Grand Trunk from cutting off the "flyer."

FOR THE BENEFIT of future pullers and pushers who have a hankering to go to Ottawa, we may say that Sparks street is a very narrow one, though the main business street in Ottawa, but that Wellington street is broad and has relatively few pedestrians.

IT IS STATED that Mayor Buller has authorized the appointment of a stenographer for Alderman Johnston, as the latter is receiving so much correspondence lately.

NO, MAUD, there is only one main entrance to the Parliament Buildings in Ottawa.

A SAILOR' SONG.

(London Times.)

The shores are blind, the seas are mined,
  Tho wild sou'westers blow;
And at our posts on stormy coasts
  We cruise and seek the foe.
Behind their forts in sheltered ports
  Secure their ships may be;
But the sea was made for sailor men,
  And sailors for the sea!

Through fields they sowed we clear a road
  In weather they don't feel;
Long watch we keep while they can sleep
  Behind the booms of Kiel.
They lock us out, and wait in doubt
  For orders from Berlin.
But on the seas we hold the keys,
  The keys that lock them in.

For blows they dealt beneath the belt,
  For mines their hirelings laid,
For things like these that spoil our seas
  We're out until we're paid.
In safety they like captives stay,
  In danger we go free;
For the sea was made for sailor men
  And sailors keep the sea!

The Kaiser as Naval Expert.

(Westminster Gazette.)

The Kaiser's interest in naval matters is, as everyone knows, of long standing. In proof of which his Majesty once told — namely, at a Congress of Naval Engineers, at Charlottenberg, in 1901 — an amusing anecdote. When he was quite a boy, he said, and was studying naval architecture, he had occasion to ask a famous admiral what was the precise significance of the term metacentre, so often used in shipbuilding. After thinking a while, the admiral replied that he was really not quite sure, but that if the metacentre was not in the main truck the ship would certainly capsize

On the same occasion, taking part in the general discussion, his Majesty made some interesting remarks as to distinguishing characteristics of German naval architecture. From the very beginning, he said, it has been Germany's leading principle to give supreme regard to the views of those who would actually employ the ships in action, and so "we were the first nation to place a captain still on the active list at the head of our Construction Office." For the rest, he went on to say, that Germany, with its supreme belief in the value of the offensive in war, had always bestowed particular attention on its guns and gunnery, and considered that in this important matter it had nothing to learn from any navy in the world.

Canning Peaches.

(Exchange.)

Francis Wilson, the popular comedian, always has some good stories. Here is one of his new ones: "Mrs. Matthews very rarely visited her husband's office, but one afternoon, while out with a friend, she chanced to be in the locality of the office, and so the two women dropped in for a few moments. The small office force included five girls, all of them in the 'squab' class and all exceedingly pretty.

"During the course of the conversation which went on while the two women rested, the friend asked; 'Did you do up much fruit this season, Emily?'

" 'Not yet, Grace,' replied Mrs. Matthews, with a glance around the room, 'but I have about made up my mind to can a few peaches.' "

War Debts.

(Springfield Republican.)

In 1871 Germany exacted from France a war indemnity of $1,000,000,000. Already the damage done in Belgium by the war, by the estimate of a prominent lawyer of Brussels, Henri Masson, comes to $1,059,836,000. And that is but one item of the bill which the Allies, if they should win, will expect Germany to pay,

HOORAY FOR HOMESPUNS.

Editor, Review:

Sir,—Do you ever read any of the "homespun" letters in your contemporary, the Examiner? If you don't, and most people don't, you don't know what you are missing. They are used because they allow greater scope for abuse than editorials, and seem to be real public opinion made while you wait. Hooray for the homespuns.

Yours truly.

ELECTOR.

St. Thomas to Sue Estate.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Jan. 12.—The will of the late Peter Couse of St. Thomas, who died two weeks ago has been entered for probate and the estate is valued over $100,000 principally in mortgages and stocks. He was only assessed for $1,000 a year by the city, and the city officials will enter an action against the trustees of the estate claiming back taxes for the past six years on an income of $12,000 a year as all the securities held by Mr. Couse were drawing interest at 6 per cent. and over.

Drinkers Must Go.

OTTAWA, Jan. 12. — Orders have gone out by direction of the Minister of Militia to all commanding officers in Canada to the effect that any recruit found under the influence of liquor shall be summarily dismissed from the service. The Minister has decided not to tolerate any marked inebriety in the ranks of the Canadian force preparing for the front, and hereafter drunken soldiers should no longer be seen on the streets at the mobilization cities.

Prophecy of the Monk

the black eagle and the other eagle, and will completely invade the land of the Antichrist from one end to the other.

23. The black eagle will be forced to leave the cock to fight the white eagle, and the cock will pursue the black eagle into the land of the Antichrist to help the white eagle.

24. The battles waged until then be small in comparison to those that will take place in the land of Luther. Because the seven angels will at the same time pour fire from their burners on the impious land (image taken from the Apocalypse), which means that the Lamb will order the extermination of the Antichrist's race.

25. When the Beast sees he is lost he will become furious; during months the beak of the white eagle, the claws of the leopard, and the spurs of the cock, will harass him.

26. Rivers will be crossed on stepping stones of corpses, which in some places will change the course of the water. Only great noblemen, superior officers, and princes will receive burial, for to the carnage caused by firearms will be added the piling up of those who perished by famine and plague.

27. The Antichrist will several times ask for peace; but the seven angles who precede the three animals, defenders of the Lamb, have said victory shall only be accorded on the condition that the Antichrist be crushed like straw on the threshing floor.

28. Executors of the Lamb's justice, these three animals cannot stop fighting so long as any soldier remains to the Antichrist.

29. The reason the sentence of the Lamb is is implacable is that the Antichrist has pretended to be a Christian and to be acting in His name, so that if he did not perish, the fruit of the redemption would be lost, and the gates of Hell prevail against the Saviour.

30. It will be seen that it is not a human combat which will be waged where the Antichrist forges his arms. The three animals, defenders of the lamb, will exterminate the Antichrist's last army, but the battlefield will become as an altar of sacrifice larger than the greatest of cities, and the corpses will have changed its shape by raising in it chains of mounds.

31. The Antichrist will lose his crown and will die demented and alone. His empire will be divided into twenty-two States, but none will have either a royal house, an army, or vessels.

32. The white eagle by Michael's order will chase the crescent from Europe, where only Christians will remain. It will occupy Constantinople.

33. Then an era of peace and prosperity will commence for all the universe and there will be no more war; each nation being governed according to its wish and living in justice.

34. There will be no more Lutherans or Schismatics. The Lamb will reign, and the joys of humanity will commence. Happy they who, escaping from the perils of this prodigious time, can taste of its fruit, which will be the reign of the Eternal Spirit, and the sanctification of humanity, only to be achieved by the defeat of the Antichrist.

According to a note added apparently by the translator, France is figured by the Cock, England by the Leopard, Russia by the White Eagle, and Germany and Austria by the Black Eagle and the "other eagle." This explanation we can easily accept in view of the references in the text, remembering, too, that the leopard was originally more in evidence than the lion as the badge of England.

BIRDS CARRY A LUNCH

Several bobolinks killed in Cuba were found to have living specimens of the small, grass-inhabiting snail clinging among their feathers. This mollusk lives in Porto Rico and St. Croix, but not in Cuba.

A similar circumstance was since observed in the case of the upland plover (so called), a migratory sandpiper; and it appears to be a regular occurrence with that bird. This sandpiper arrives on the coast of Louisiana from its winter home in the tropics during the third week of March and is shot as game. Those killed immediately after their arrival are often found to be carrying beneath their wings from 20 to 40 small snails of the fresh-water genus Physa, which the birds are accustomed to eat. These snails abound in tropical America as well as in the United States, but can not be obtained in Louisiana until the warmth of early summer brings them out of their winter retreat beneath the mud.

In both these cases the fact of the birds transporting food-mollusks clinging to their feathers is certain, and the inference is that they are eaten soon after arrival, for a few days later none are to be found. Were they put there as a provision for the long journey across the water? No one knows, nor can say how the snails got under the wings.

Light is thrown on the matter by recalling a note, published by Grace Ellicott, of an incident in blue-jay life observed at New Castle, Indiana. Miss Ellicott noticed a blue-jay fly down to a disturbed anthill in her garden and began to pick up the big ants, which were running about in great excitement over the catastrophe that had befallen their city. The bird apparently realized that the ants were too many to be eaten at once, and that he had the chance of his life for savings. Working as fast as possible, he picked up ant after ant and tucked them beneath his wing, now on one side and then on the other. Ants have a propensity for grasping with their jaws and holding onto anything they touch when treated in such a way as that, and the bird seemed to know this and devoted himself to stowing away as many as possible. At last he (or she) flew away, perhaps to feed the insects to hungry young.

Learning Authorship

A Young Girl Takes a Lesson With an Unexpected Result.

By MARTHA V. MONROE

Louise Brewster's father died when she was seventeen years old, and her mother had then been dead some years. Louise was left with a competence which needed taking care of as well as herself. Her father had appointed Harold Vandeveer to administer her estate during her minority, and Harold's mother was to have the care of the young lady herself, she taking up her residence in the Vandeveer home.

Harold Vandeveer had been a chum of Mr. Brewster, though he was ten years younger than Brewster. When Louise went to live with his mother he was between thirty-five and forty. He was a literary man and made his living by writing fiction. He was a dignified man, methodical and, when composing, unapproachable. When not at work he was quite genial.

Vandeveer looked upon Louise much as he would have regarded a niece. She was to him a child and to be treated as a child. Neither she nor any one else was permitted to enter his study when he was at work, and when he had finished his daily labor, about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, he usually went out for recreation; consequently Louise saw very little of him except at dinner.

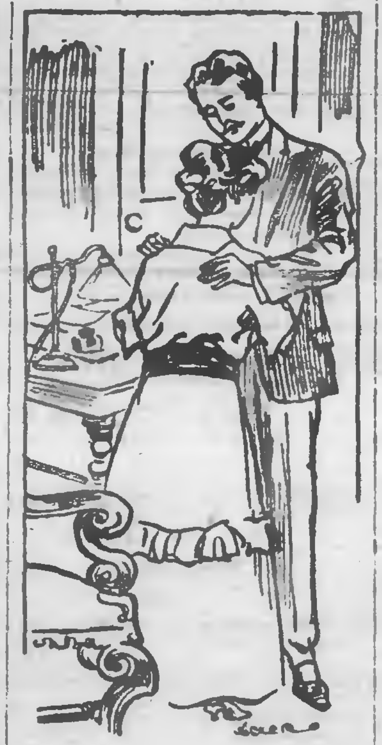
Such was the routine of the Vandeveers and Louise Brewster. Mrs Vandeveer was occupied with the care of the house and Louise's requirements. Their son was absorbed in his literary work, while Louise—well, Louise's mind should have been upon her studies.

But, as has been mentioned, Louise was at an age when girls, to say nothing of boys, must needs poke into every cranny with a view to discovering what is there. No one has ever yet been able to name an age when one of the softer sex is insensible to notice or indifference. Louise did not like it that this, to her, wonderful creator of imaginary beings should treat her as something of far less importance than the most insignificant of his puppets. She once asked him at the dinner table if he would not put her into one of his stories. He looked at her thoughtfully for a short while, then said: "No. I can't see that I could use you." Possibly if the author could have looked within her he might have seen how she could use him.

Half a year after Louise had gone to live with the Vandeveers she had a birthday. She was eighteen years old. Mr. Vandeveer was in his study working up a scene between an old bachelor and a pert young girl in which the former was good humoredly quizzing the latter. The door opened, and in walked Louise. The author frowned, but his ward was not dismayed.

"Guardy," she said—wards usually call their guardians guardy, at least in story books—"I am eighteen years of age today and have made choice of a profession."

"A profession!" exclaimed the astonished scribbler, turning in his chair to face her.



HE WILL DRAW HER HEAD DOWN ON HIS BREAST.

"Yes. I have chosen literature."

Mr. Vandeveer opened his eyes still wider. "What branch of literature, may I ask?"

"Fiction."

"You don't mean it."

How apropos this scene, coming as it did when the author was drawing one of the same type! Loads of material were at hand. He was the old bachelor; Louise was the pert girl.

"Yes," added Louise, "and I have come to ask you to be my instructor."

"Indeed. Um—are you aware that story writing requires experience, some knowledge of human nature, a bit of humor, pathos"—

"A sort of literary salad," Louise broke in.

"Quite right." Mr. Vandeveer was a trifle taken aback by the interruption.

"No, I was not aware of all this or of anything else concerning the art of writing. If I had been I should not have come to you for instruction. I am profoundly ignorant of the matter."

Mr. Vandeveer was turned from getting material for his quizzing scene to a problem. How could one be taught to write? Beyond the proper use of language he saw nothing to teach. If there were would there not be schools for the purpose?

"The only way I know of to learn to write," he said, "is to write."

"Well?"

"Suppose you start by writing a story. First you must get your motif, then locate the story. Begin to write on the germ of a plan and the germ will increase and multiply. After you have finished cut out all that is superfluous."

"I've thought of a motif already. A girl of my age is in love."

"You mean a girl several years older than you is in love."

"Didn't I tell you I am eighteen today?"

"So you did. Well, with whom is this girl in love?"

"With a man in love with himself."

"That's not a bad theme," said the author, all the while more and more surprised at his ward's sudden development, "but it has its difficulties. You must show the fellow to be conceited by what he does and says, an attractive contrast between his pomposity and the girl's real simple worth."

"But the man is very learned, and the girl knows nothing. She is not bright, either."

"I thought you said the man was in love with himself."

"I meant he was absorbed in himself."

"Oh, that makes a great difference! In that case I would invent some act by which the girl by her heroism or devotion attracts his attention from himself to her and, seeing her superiority, is convinced of his own unworthiness."

"But he is greatly her superior."

"Perhaps you meant that he was absorbed in his work—not in himself."

"Of course I did."

"This involves another change. A girl is in love with a man whose mind is so absorbed in some great purpose that he does not notice her. Invent some way by which she may befriend him or save him from a great calamity. Then wind up your story with an effective scene between the man and the girl who has been devoted to him."

"But the girl wouldn't be capable of a heroic act; she isn't brave. She would feel proud and happy to have the hero love her, but wouldn't be competent to do anything to make him love her."

Mr. Vandeveer looked a bit discouraged. He knew how to construct a story, but telling some one else how to do it was another matter.

"Have you any real persons in view for your hero and heroine?" he asked.

"Yes."

"In that case you have an advantage in real persons for models, but you must not hesitate to make them fit your literary purpose; otherwise you will get no story."

"Won't the girl's love for the man count for a good deal?"

Mr. Vandeveer was puzzled how to explain that her love must be expressed, that there were various ways of bringing it out, and doing so was dependent upon the skill of the writer.

"It seems to me," he said thoughtfully, "that you are attempting a theme that is very difficult. A heroic man absorbed in a noble purpose is loved by a simple girl not especially brilliant"—

"She is stupid."

"You can't manage these two as they are. You must make some change in one or the other. I've been studying the art for years, and I couldn't make a story out of a stupid girl in love with a man engrossed in a noble purpose."

"You might make him treat her with some consideration, couldn't you?"

Now, there was nothing in the words to make Mr. Vandeveer start. Louise bit her lip at having said them, for she found herself unable to speak them without a slight tremor in her voice. The author started because this love story he was trying to teach the girl to write was suddenly made to appear very near home. Louise turned to leave the study. He arose from his chair, stepped forward and placed himself between her and the door.

"Louise," he said, "I fear I have not realized that a girl of eighteen is not a child."

She put her hand on the doorknob to turn it. He stopped her by placing his own hand on the knob. But there was not room for the two hands, and his rested on hers.

"I will not let you go," he said, "till this matter is cleared up. You have intended to show me in an indirect way that you are not satisfied with my treatment of you; that I have looked upon you as a child, while you should have the consideration of a woman. Forgive me. I will mend my ways."

What there was to make the girl cry a story writer, who has long studied feminine emotions, would perhaps find it difficult to analyze. Vandeveer didn't try to analyze the cause. An author may sit at his writing table sucking the end of his pen handle trying to conjure some light touch to explain why his heroine weeps, but put that same author in the place of his hero, beside the weeping heroine, and he will do just what the hero did—he will draw her head down on his breast, and the rest of it. At any rate, this is what Vandeveer did, and that's the end of the story.

Some Baby Facts

A normal baby weighs seven to seven and one-half pounds at birth, fifteen pounds at five or six months and twenty-one pounds at twelve months. The baby should double its weight in six months and treble it at about twelve months. Its length at birth is twenty to twenty-one inches, at six months twenty-five to twenty-six inches, and at twelve months the length is twenty-eight to twenty-nine inches. Gains in weight are more rapid during the first six months. The average weekly gain is about four ounces. The best time to have a baby vaccinated is in its first year. If it is healthy it may be vaccinated at the end of the third month.—Health Bulletin.

MAKING OVER A PINE FLOOR

Worth While to Give Hardwood Appearance if Rugs Are Used

How can a pine floor that's none too smooth be made presentable so that small rugs may be substituted for the heavy, dust-gathering carpet? This is a problem that perplexes many housekeepers whose homes are the old fashion pinefloor kind.

To stain a pine floor the boards should first of all be smoothed with sandpaper or steel wool. If the floor is soft or very old, fill the pores of the wood and all cracks with a paste made from whiting or starch mixed with either oil or turpentine. Shellac varnish is often sufficient, if the larger cracks are first filled with the paste mixture. The floor should dry for twenty hours and be sandpapered a second time before the stain is applied.

To give a floor a good brown tinge make a stain of one pint boiled linseed oil, one tablespoon burnt umber, one pint of turpentine, one tablespoon sienna, and two tablespoons chrome yellow. This stain will serve as a filler as well as a finish on a smooth floor with no cracks. Apply two coats and then wax.

Wind and the Sun.

Wind does not always go down with the sun, but may blow from high to low after sunset. If wind starts to fill up a low pressure area before sunset it is liable to keep pouring in until it is filled and equilibrium restored. If wind stops exactly at instant of sunset one may rest assured that the area of barometrical depression is filled. If wind blows from sea to land by day it may stop at sunset and reverse direction. If it does the cause is that at sunrise the sun's radiant energy heats the land more than it does the water. The land warms the air, increases its rarity, and it rises, producing a lower pressure area, and cooler air from over the ocean rushes in to fill it. After sunset land cools in less time than the water, and the direction of flow is reversed. But this may not always occur. Local causes, as fog, saturation of air, electrical conditions and others may prevent.—New York Journal.

Novelty Toque.

The toque of black velvet illustrated here is made on chic lines, with deeply notched upstanding brim, edged with dull gold lace. A fanshaped ornament of velvet juts out from the front, held to the crown by a rose of gold lace.

VELVET CHAPEAU.

Sleeveless Evening Gowns.

Sleeves are an absolutely unknown feature of evening gowns. And in daytime models many of the sleeves consist merely of loosely shaped coverings of malines, chiffon or net unlined and clearly displaying the arm. The effort to restore the high guimpe, which was tentatively tried out last spring, failed altogether, and doubtless it is due to that failure that the sleeveless and transparent sleeve effects are now so much in evidence. Age, the contour of the arm or climatic conditions weigh not at all against fashion's decree. More fur, satin, lace and what not compose the skirt, but the seminudity of the corsage effects are more apparent than ever before.

For Bluing Clothes.

When using bottled bluing for washing the common tendency to pour in too much can be overcome by removing cork and cutting a triangular slit the entire length of cork. Reinsert cork and the bluing will come out very slowly. This saves pulling the cork out each time you have occasion to use the bluing.

For the Children

Huge Tin Soldier at Panama-Pacific Fair.

Young folks who are fortunate enough to be taken to the great Panama-Pacific International exposition to be held at San Francisco next year will see many quaint and curious things. For instance, they see the tallest toys in the world. There is a twelve acre playground called "Toyland Grown Up" in the "Zone," which is a part of the great fun section of the exposition. Little people are sure to be delighted when they see the tin soldier, for he beats anything in the toy line ever before constructed. This imposing warrior is built in imitation of the tin soldiers so common in the nursery, but he is ninety feet tall. Just imagine, if you can, a toy of that great size. The photograph here printed will give you something of an idea of this skyscraping tin soldier.

Shepherdess and Wolf.

The children stand in a long line, one behind the other, holding each one the dress of the player in front of her. The one at the head of the line is shepherdess; her followers are the lambs. One player stands apart from them and is called the wolf. He prowls stealthily around the flock, and the shepherdess calls out, "Who goes round my house this dark and stormy night?" The other answers, "I am a wolf." The shepherdess says, "I beg of you not to hurt my lambs." The wolf then says, "I only want one, and I mean to have this one," and he jumps at the last player in the line.

The shepherdess springs round to save her, followed by all the lambs, holding fast to each other's dress in line. The wolf pretends to jump away, but really tries to catch a lamb. The shepherdess tries to protect the lambs by keeping them behind her and facing the wolf at every turn.

If he does succeed in catching one, the shepherdess pays a forfeit. If the lamb can slip from his hold she must run and put herself in front of the shepherdess, who then becomes a lamb, and the escaped lamb is the shepherdess. The wolf in this case loses his place, changing with the last lamb in the line, who becomes wolf.

Sitting Cross Legged.

The next time you ride in a street car notice the number of people who sit cross legged. It has been estimated that four-fifths of them do. Probably you do. A prominent London physician has investigated the habit, and his advice is, "Don't sit cross legged." He states that the prime objection to the habit is that the return flow of blood is stopped at the knee, the result being that the veins in the leg swell up. As all of the weight is thrown to one side of the body under the leg, it is likely to go to sleep. The body should be equally balanced. Much crossing of the legs is also dangerous in that it is likely to cause lopsidedness. The limbs should be allowed to rest easily, so that the flow of blood is natural and the body equally balanced.—American Boy.

A Sample Search.

This is a good game for a hostess to introduce to a company of boys or young men. Each young man is given a scrap of cloth or goods of some kind and is sent to match it among a basketful of scraps on the table. When he has matched it he is then given pencil and paper and is asked to write down the name of the goods in question, the name of the color, to judge its quality and to suggest some way for making it up into a garment. A discussion of the written answers then follows, which will afford the company much amusement.

Charade.

My first can't be measured;
It's on every hand;
You find it by seashore
And on very dry land.

My second's a man
Who a bagpipe does play,
But he's not so much known
By the people today.

My two joined together
Make a species of bird,
And its chirp is as quaint
As any you've heard.

CAN YOU MAKE REAL GOOD CAKE?

Try This Out and See if it Does Not Meet with Favor in Your Home

Very few persons make good cake, and to have one reliable recipe is of more value than a dozen experiments. However, the "one cake" family sometimes wants a change, no matter how good that especial variety of cake may be, and it is a good idea to have at hand a cake recipe that lends itself to a variety of flavorings.

Here, for instance, is a mixture that can be used as a basis for six different flavors: Four ounces butter, 4 ounces sugar, three eggs, five ounces flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder.

Beat the butter to a cream with a wooden spoon. Sift in the sugar and cream well together. Add the yolks one by one and beat in. Sift the flour and baking powder together; whisk the whites of the eggs to a stiff froth. Fold these in gradually, keeping the mixture light. Flavor with a few drops of lemon essence, and bake at once.

This makes one loaf or about twenty-four small cakes. This recipe halved and baked in small cake or muffin tins will make twelve delectable little tea cakes.

The following varieties of flavorings may be used with this mixture: For walnut cake, flavor the mixture with a few drops of almond in place of the lemon essence, and just before baking add a half or a cupful of chopped walnut meats. If the mixture is made into small cakes, place half of a walnut on the top of each little cake before putting them into the oven.

To make chocolate cakes, substitute an ounce of cocoa or grated chocolate for one ounce of flour, add a little extra sugar and flavor liberally with vanilla essence.

For cocoanut cakes, stir three ounces of grated cocoanut into the mixture and add a few drops of almond extract.

Orange and lemon cakes are flavored with the grated rind, and candied peel cut up small is stirred into the mixture. Garnish each cake with a small piece of the candied peel.

Jelly cake is made by baking the mixture in flat tins. When it is cool, turn it out, spread the tops with jelly and pile one on another. This may be served in a loaf or built in layers of two only and sliced in finger-like sandwiches.

To make coffee cake flavor the mixture with coffee extract and a few drops of vanilla essence.

MRS. WILLIAMS' LONG SICKNESS

Yields To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Elkhart, Ind.:—"I suffered for fourteen years from organic inflammation, female weakness, pain and irregularities. The pains in my sides were increased by walking or standing on my feet and I had such awful bearing down feelings, was depressed in spirits and became thin and pale with dull, heavy eyes. I had six doctors from whom I received only temporary relief. I decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial and also the Sanative Wash. I have now used the remedies for four months and cannot express my thanks for what they have done for me.

"If these lines will be of any benefit you have my permission to publish them."—Mrs. SADIE WILLIAMS, 455 James Street, Elkhart, Indiana.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

WAITING FOR A DECISION

Entry of Roumania and Italy Will Alter War Outlook

LONDON, Jan. 12.—Only a change in the weather or the entrance into the war of Roumania or Italy or both is likely to bring any marked change in the military situation in Europe for some time to come.

What turn the weather will take no one can predict, but the belief is growing in those countries allied against Germany, Austria and Turkey that Roumania with her well-trained army of not less than 400,000 men, will at an early date throw herself into the conflict, which would in effect link Roumania with the extreme Russian left now forcing its way into Hungary through Bukowina.

Taking into consideration the Servians and Montenegrins, this would form a line menacing Austria-Hungary along the entire southeastern frontier from Russia to the Adriatic.

There is a strong feeling among the general public in France and England that definite action on the part of Italy and Roumania will not long be delayed.

MORE BOMBS AT DUNKIRK

Shrapnel Fire Brought Down Two Raiders

LONDON, Jan. 12.—According to French despatches to the London papers fifty bombs were dropped on Dunkirk Sunday by aeroplanes which were cruising over the town from 11 o'clock yesterday morning until nearly four o'clock in the afternoon. They came from all directions, and were met by a heavy shrapnel fire. Two of the raiders were brought down, one outside the town and the other twenty miles away.

In spite of the long ordeal the populace displayed no panic. The bombs included some of the incendiary type, but little material damage was done. Six persons were killed at Dunkirk and the suburb of Malo, and it is reported that several persons were killed at St. Pol and Adinkerke, but this has not been confirmed. It appears that the absence of a large number of French aeroplanes from Dunkirk must have been known to the Germans.

The German Chancellor is planning the re-shaping of Europe. He surely got it in pretty bad shape.

LITTLE CHANGE IS SEEN ALONG WESTERN FRONT

French in Alsace Are Face to Face With a Large Force of Germans and Neither Side Claims Any Progress—Artillery Duels Are Going on in the North and Hard Fighting is Reported Near Soissons.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—Little change is observed on the western front. In Alsace the French continue, by sapping and sporadic charges, their attempts to force their way nearer the Rhine, but there has been snow in the Vosges, and it is noticeable that neither side claims any new progress. The Germans threw heavy reinforcements into Alsace after the recent French advance, and apparently they have been able to hold their ground, in view of the failure of the French to consolidate the positions they took after much hard fighting.

With a comparative lull in this quarter and artillery duels predominating near the Belgian coast, fighting of a desperate character has broken out in the centre, notably to the northeast of Soissons, which bids fair, through bombardments, to suffer the fate of Rheims, and further east, in the vicinity of Perthes and Beausejour, from which points the allies have been trying to reach the important railway to the north, the seizure of which would cut one of the German main arteries of communication.

The official communications of the contending nations do not agree as to the outcome of the recent fighting in these areas. The allies claim to have forged ahead from Soissons; the Germans say these attacks have not been fruitful, and that fighting is proceeding.

The allies contend that they have advanced north of Perthes and still hold the ground at Beausejour, to the north and east. The Germans make no mention of fighting to the north of Perthes, but maintain that they have advanced east of the village. The fighting in the vicinity of Beausejour, which the allies consider so important, they ignore.

Last night's bulletin from the French War Office said:—

"There is no change in the situation to be chronicled."

The afternoon bulletin said:

"From the sea to the Lys, there was yesterday an intermittent and not very intense cannonading. In the region of Ypres our artillery responded efficaciously to the artillery of the enemy, and sent well-placed shots against the German trenches.

"From the Lys to the Oise, in the region of Boisselle, our troops took possession of a trench of the enemy after a violent fight. To the northeast of Soissons, on 'Spur 132,' they yesterday repulsed a German attack. Following this, they attacked and occupied two lines of the enemy's trenches captured Jan. 3, and assuring complete possession of 'Spur 132.'

"On the Aisne and in Champagne, as far as Rheims, there have been artillery exchanges. From Rheims to the Argonne our artillery bombarded the first line trenches of the enemy and the shelters of the reserves. To the north of Perthes, after having driven back the counter-attacks referred to in last night's communication, we made progress and gained 200 yards of trenches.

"To the north of Beausejour the enemy made a desperate effort to recapture the little fort which he had previously lost. His counter-attacks were delivered with energy. In each of them two battalions were engaged, the second advancing in close formation. Each attack was carried on with determination, but each was repulsed.

"In the Argonne there were some few small engagements, and our front was maintained. Between the Meuse and the Moselle the day passed calmly. In the Vosges there was a heavy fall of snow. Some shells fell in old Thann and on 'Hill 425'."

CANADIAN PRODUCT IS FINDING WAY TO GERMANY

Large Portion of Foodstuff Carried by Scandinavian American Line Steamers to Copenhagen and Thence Into Germany is Said to be Milled in Canadian West—Other Contraband Carried.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—That Canadian mills are supplying Germany and her allies with flour was asserted here yesterday, it being stated that a large portion of the cargo of steamers of the Scandinavian-American Line, plying between New York and Copenhagen, consists of Canadian flour shipped to the Scandinavian peninsula by the large mills in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

The American mills in Minnesota also are shipping large quantities of flour to Copenhagen.

Since the beginning of the war the Scandinavian-American Line has increased its service until it has now running between ten and twelve boats a month, in contrast to the two steamships a month which formerly maintained trade relations between America and Scandinavian ports.

Besides flour, large quantities of coffee, cocoa and tea are shipped to Copenhagen. These are considered by the belligerents as contraband of war. But as the consignments are made to Scandinavian firms they cannot be seized unless it is proven that the shipments are destined for countries with which the allies are at war. Local officials of the Scandinavian-American Line admit that the exports from Copenhagen to the United States have almost doubled since the outbreak of the war. That Germany is still exporting large quantities of her home products is evidenced by the fact that 7,000 barrels of German beer arrived last week in Hoboken from Copenhagen via the Scandinavian Line.

Japanese Steamer Ran Ashore on Reet

TOKIO, Jan. 12.—The steamer Fukuju Maru reports by wireless that she has rescued and is bringing to Kobe 170 persons, comprising all the passengers and the crew of the Peninsula & Oriental Steamship Co.'s steamer Nile, which ran ashore on a reef in the inland sea early Monday morning.

It is believed that the Nile sank after she was pulled off the reef near Iwaljima. The vessel was on a voyage from London to Yokohama. She was in command of Capt. Powell.

French Reservists Recovering.

QUEBEC, Jan. 12.—News has been received here of a number of French reservists from Canada. Rene Deroure, professor of McGill and Laval, Montreal, who was known to be a prisoner of the Germans, is still held, but is quickly recovering. He was hurt in the legs by bursting shells and also received two bullets in the legs.

Henri Bunle, head of the Quebec Statistics Bureau, expects to return shortly to the front. He has recovered from wounds received in the line of battle.

Cracow Deserted.

PETROGRAD, Jan. 12.—Cracow is deserted by all but artisans and soldiers, says a Polish newspaper writer from that city, who made his way out and into the Russian lines, and has reached Warsaw. Those of the residents who had means have removed to the interior of Austria and the officers of the municipal administration have removed to Vienna. There are practically no women and children left in the city.

Laborers are throwing up earthworks, while the rest of the civilians left are working in the factories, making shoes, clothing and other articles for the army.

Greeks Maltreated By Turks.

PARIS, Jan. 12.—An Athens' despatch says that the situation of the Greeks in Asia Minor is becoming desperate, owing to the persecution and violence to which they are being subjected. Greek stores have been pillaged, women insulted, and men forcibly enrolled in the army.

At Sidonia, Magnesia, the despatch adds, several Greeks have been murdered in the streets and conditions are so bad at Smyrna that a massacre is feared.

ALL LIVING CREATURES FLY BEFORE THE UGLY AFRICAN DRIVER ANTS

When an Army of These Formidable and Ferocious Insects Want to Cross a River a Suspension Tube of Their Own Bodies Provides the Way.

Why should driver ants cross rivers. The ants of our own woods have no such desire; they are busy little people, too much engaged in the practical task of finding and storing food to have any vagaries of this sort. They are contented and harmless if not disturbed or annoyed. An angry ant is to be avoided, and an angry swarm can make its displeasure felt in a very unpleasant way, as every one knows who has carelessly broken into a nest. But if left alone they are peaceful little workmen, absorbed in their own affairs.

The great driver or Bashikoney ant, however, has nothing peaceable in his composition. He is nothing if not aggressive and spiteful; neither is he contented. In the great forests of Africa these insects multiply to an alarming extent. They swarm in thousands, perhaps millions, and, formidable at any time, during the season of migration they are a terror to the whole district in which they live.

Myriads of these insects are seized with a restless desire for change. Obeying some mysterious instinct or following the commands of their queen, they set out upon their travels, and woe betide the man or beast that crosses their path! In a moment the hapless creature is covered with ants, and in an incredibly short space of time nothing is left but bare bones.

The driver ant is so called because it drives away all living creatures. When this most terrible host is on the march men and animals, great and small, take flight. Lions and tigers may be seen rushing along side by side with the timid gazelle. All are too much frightened to dream of attacking or avoiding each other. For once in their lives they are united in their terror of the common enemy. Size and strength are of no avail, and a rhinoceros or an elephant is as much terrified and is in as much danger as a rabbit.

When the vast army of ants arrive on the bank of a river a halt is called. They have no idea of turning back, but to cross that river they must have a bridge, and the making of this bridge takes time, and probably the engineers of the army have to bustle up to the front.

The making of an ant bridge is one of the most wonderful things in the world. The ants swarm on a tree, choosing one which overhangs the river. Upon the bough which reaches farthest over the stream they mass themselves and begin to form a thick rope of their own bodies. This they do by means of holding on firmly with their hind legs, while with the front pair of legs they grasp the bodies of other ants. Constantly fresh ants range themselves in front, and so the rope grows and grows until at last it touches the water.

By and by the floating chain is carried by the current toward the other side where probably grass and great reeds spring out of the water. The foremost ants seize upon the first object they touch, and from one slender foothold to another they climb until at last they reach land. The nearest tree is quickly climbed, the foremost pairs of legs doing all the work, and very soon the living rope is swinging high above the river. The bridge is made, and quickly the army crosses the stream.

Du Chaillu, in his African travels, had an opportunity of observing one of these bridges, and he declares that it is made with a hollow center, the living bodies of the ants forming the walls of a tunnel, through which the main body of ants travel safely over the water. When the last ant has crossed and the bridge is no longer needed, the ants in the rear release their hold and the rope or tunnel drops into the river. The ants do not like water, but they are soon released from this position, for the vanguard are dispersing as fast as they can, and the self sacrificing ants who began the great chain are quickly upon dry land.

It is all very strange and very wonderful. Why do they travel at all? By what direction and by what laws do they act, and how did they learn to make bridges? Our naturalists have learned much of their ways and their doings, but these questions they cannot answer; they are part of the mystery of life and nature of which the wisest knows little.—J. Cutler in London Family Herald.

BEARDS IN BATTLE

And Why Clean Shaven Men Became Prized as Warriors.

The habit of shaving is not of a very ancient origin. According to James Stephens in "Here Are Ladies," when humanity lived a quiet, rural and unambitious life men did not shave; their hair was their glory, and if they had occasion to swear, which must have been infrequent, their hardiest and readiest oath was "By the beard of my father," showing clearly that this feature was held in veneration in early times and was probably accorded divine honors upon suitable occasions.

With the advent of war came the habit of shaving. A beard offered too handy a grip to a foeman who had got to close quarters; therefore, warriors who had no true hardihood of soul preferred cutting off their beards to the honorable labor of defending their chins.

Many ancient races effected a compromise in order to retain a fitting military appearance, for a barefaced warrior has but little of terror in his aspect. The ancient Egyptians, for example, who had cut off or could not cultivate or had been forcibly deprived of their beards, were wont to go into battle clad in heavy false whiskers, which, when an enemy seized hold of them, came off instantly in his hand, and the ancient Egyptian was enabled to dispatch him while in a trance of stupefaction and horror.

Clean shaven men became by this cowardly stratagem very much prized as fighting men, and thus the foundation of the shaving habit was laid.

French Warship Is Sunk.

BERLIN, Jan. 12.—Vienna reports state that it has been ascertained that the French Dreadnought Courbet was hit by the Austrian submarine No. 12. The Courbet was rammed by her sister ship, the Jean Bart, which was attempting to tow her. The Courbet sank. The Jean Bart docked at Malta.

The Courbet was of 23,467 tons displacement, and was armed with twelve 12-inch guns, twenty-two 5 1-2 inch guns and four 3-pounders. She was completed in 1913, and carried a complement of 904 men.

THE ADROIT STATESMAN

Probably the Lady Still Believes Sir Charles Knew Her.

The name of Sir Charles Tupper came up while a group of members of the Montreal Press and Advertising Club were chatting one evening. "I often think of an interview I had with Sir Charles at the Windsor about twenty years ago," said one of the party, a reformed reporter. "Sir Charles received me in a alcove off the corridor, just outside his room. While he was talking, and I making careful notes, a pretty girl, passing along the corridor, caught sight of Sir Charles, hesitated, and looked at him half-expectantly. Sir Charles, always the gallant, arose and bowed with courtly grace, and the girl came forward more confidently, with outstretched hand.

"'I was afraid you might not remember me, Sir Charles,' she said.

"'My dear young lady,' said Sir Charles, grasping her hand in his right and patting it paternally with his left, 'I am so glad, indeed, that you spoke. Of course, I remember you, remember you very well. And Lady Tupepr, too. Why, it was only last week, on the steamer coming over, that Lady Tupper was speaking of you and wondering when we should see you again.'

"The girl blushed with pleasure and murmured her appreciation. After a few further civilities, she said good-bye, and I looked at my notes.

"'You were saying, Sir Charles,' I prompted, 'that the interests of the Dominion and the Empire demanded'—

"'Yes, yes,' said the old statesman, absently, his eyes still following the girl down the long corridor.. 'I wonder who that young lady is. You don't happen to know her name, do you?"

Quite a Difference.

The Serious Girl—I always work to be engaged at a higher salary than the year before. The Frivolous Girl—And I always try to be engaged to a higher salary than the year before.—Judge.

STRENGTH IN EXCITEMENT

Either Fear, Rage or Pain Starts the Adrenal Glands to Work.

Many a person has wondered where he obtained the strength that enabled him to undergo some emergency that called for unusual physical exertion when under ordinary conditions he would be unable to control a tithe of that strength. It was from the adrenal glands, two little glands situated above the kidneys which secrete what is known as adrenaline and when stimulated discharge the same into the blood. The effect of this addition to the blood is to release sugar from storage in the liver and bring it into the blood, drive the blood from the abdominal regions into the heart, lungs, central nervous system and limbs. The resulting effect is to excite the muscles to irritability and enable unusual effort to be made.

Either fear, rage or pain will supply the stimulus required to set the adrenal glands into action. When a muscle is fatigued without any accompanying degree of excitement it may take a couple of hours for it to recover its normal condition, but if adrenaline is injected, or if through excitement the adrenal glands are stimulated to discharge and secrete, the fatigued muscle may regain its "irritability" in three minutes. The sugar set free from the liver and circulated in the blood stimulates the muscles, for sugar is the source of muscular energy. Fear, rage and pain are thus given us by nature as agencies to enable us to use our physical powers to their fullest extent in the crisis that produces the excitement.—Los Angeles Times.

SLANG IN ENGLAND

Expressions Used Here Have a Different Meaning Over There.

If a man meets another man in Piccadilly and says, "Jack is pulling your leg," he means quite a different thing from what a man meeting another man on Broadway would mean. In London he means that Jack is telling his friend some sort of marvelous stories that are not true, but are designed to deceive not for the purpose of profit but for the purpose of making the man appear ridiculous. An American attempting to express the same thought would say: "Jack is kidding you." On the American side of the Atlantic, leg pulling means to exchange a counterfeit fairy tale for some real money.

In the United States, to call a man a "nut" is to imply that he is afflicted with wheels in his cranium, bats in his belfry, or, in other words, to imply that there is nobody home upstairs. In this land of the free and home of the brave a "nut" is a lunatic.

Not so in Britain. Over there to call a man a "nut," especially if he be a young man, is very likely to be a high compliment, for an English "nut" is a young gentleman who knows what the latest styles in dress are and wears them, who knows the latest steps in the dance and dances them and who is in every respect an all around, up to date sport. If such a "nut" owns a racing motorcar or perhaps has his own aeroplane he is automatically promoted to be a "super nut."

"Nut" in Britain has completely taken the place one finds in old English books represented by such words as "dandy," "buck" and "beau," a word that we Americans formerly rendered "dude."—Boston Herald.

A Useless Climb.

Peter Thompson went to visit his son in Montreal. It was his first visit to the city and the young man showed him all the sights, concluding with an ascent of Mount Royal. In a burst of enthusiasm young Thompson said: "See, father, isn't it wonderful down there!"

"Well," said his father, "if it's so wonderful down there, what did you drag me up here for?"

PROPHECY OF THE MONK JOHANNES MADE IN 1600

The following prophecy of the monk Johannes, made in the year 1600 makes interesting reading. Much has already come to pass.

Mr. David S. Ward, writes to a Harrogate contemporary:—I received through the kindness of a Belgian judge, whom I met in London, a copy in French of an exceedingly interesting old prediction made in 1600 and evidently referring to the present war raging on the Continent, and thinking it might interest some of your readers, I have pleasure in forwarding it for your perusal. As a proof of its genuineness, I may say this gentlemen assured me he had a copy of this prophecy as far back as the Antwerp Exhibition. Some of the French words used are, I believe, very old, this being also indirect testimony to its age. Your readers must, of course, allow for the religious preconceptions of the author, as altogether apart from this its precise detail is, to say the least, remarkable. Latin Prophecy Made in the Year 1600 by the Monk Johannes.

The Antichrist.

1. Several times has one seemed to recognize him, because all the slayers of the Lamb resemble each other and all the wicked are the precursors of the Great Wicked One.

2. The veritable Antichrist will be one of the monarchs of his time; a son of Luther; he will invoke God and call himself His messenger.

3. The Prince of Lies, will swear by the Bible, he will call himself the arm of the Most High, chastising corrupted people.

4. He will only have one arm, but his innumerable armies, who will take as their motto, "God is with us," will seem like infernal legions.

5. For a long while he will act by ruse and treason; his spies will spread all over the earth; and he will be the master of the secrets of those in power.

6. He will have theologians in his pay to certify and prove his celestial mission.

7. A war will furnish him with the reason for lifting the mask. It will not be one which he will make against the French monarch, but another which will be easily recognized by the fact that in two weeks' time it will have become universal,

8. It will call to arm all Christians, all Mohammedans, and even other very distant people. Armies will be formed in the four parts of the world

9. For men's minds will be opened by angels, and in the third week they will understand that this is the Antichrist and that they will all become slaves if they do not trample down this conquering one.

10. The Antichrist will be recognizable by several marks; he will chiefly massacre priests, monks, women, children, and old people. He will show no mercy; he will pass along holding a torch like the barbarians, but invoking the name of Christ.

11. His false words will resemble those of Christians, but his acts will be those of Nero and the Roman persecutors; there will be an eagle in his coat of arms, and there will also be one in that of his confederate, the other wicked monarch.

12. But this one is a Christian, and he will die cursed by the Pope Benedictus who will be elected at the beginning of the reign of the Antichrist.

13. Priests and monks will no longer be seen confessing and absolving the combatants, because for the first time priests and monks will fight with the other citizens; and also because Pope Benedictus having cursed the Antichrist, it will be proclaimed that all those who wage war against him will be in a state of grace, and should they die, will like martyrs go straight to heaven.

14. The Pope's "Bull" proclaiming these things will make a great sensation, and will cause the death of the monarch, the Antichrist's ally.

15. In order to conquer the Antichrist, more men must be killed than Rome has ever held. It will require an effort from all lands, for the cock, the leopard, and the white eagle would not suffice to overcome the black eagle if they were not helped by the prayers of all the human race.

16. Never before has humanity been in such peril; for the triumph of the Antichrist would be that of the Demon, in whom he is incarnated (?).

17. For it had been said that twenty centuries after the incarnation of the world, the beast in his turn would be incarnated, and would threaten the earth with as many evils as the Divine Incarnation had brought it graces.

18. Near the year two thousand the Antichrist will appear; his army will surpass in numbers anything before imagined; there will be Christians among his hordes, and among the defenders of the Lamb there will be Mohammedans and savage tribes.

BORROW MONEY

Ald. Green opined that the council should endeavor in every way possible to assist the Utilities Commission as the members are not wasting any money and are asking to issue debentures only against permanent work. The west ward representative asked the commissioners if the last part of his statement was correct, and they stated it was. They had a clause in the application which covered the construction of an auxiliary steam plant but it had been struck out.

Ald. Stratton thought the wording was not very clear and it might put the commission in a position that "they could put one over the council and then come back and give us the laugh."

Wanted Statement Withdrawn.

Chairman Matthews of the commis arose and asked that Ald. Stratton be asked to withdraw the statement he made. This the centre ward alderman declined to do, saying that there was nothing wrong in his words. Ald. Johnston claimed it was not fair for any alderman to use such terms and was not at all businesslike.

Ald. Stratton still protested that there was anything wrong or unbusinesslike in his expression or statement and he asked Ald. Johnston why he thought there was. Ald. Johnston's parting shot was "Oh I know you are capable of making any kind of a statement." Mayor Buller then threw oil on the troubled waters and order was again observed.

A Scrap Heap.

Ald. Green again sought to champion the cause of the commission by remarking that the present street lighting system is nothing but scrap and must be replaced with an up-to-date system To accomplish this and many more steps, the commission must have money and a lot of money. For that reason he thought, they should be assisted in the manner they desired. Ald. Stratton again claimed the matter to be in no way clear and Ald. Green agreed with him that it was a little complex.

The City Solicitor and W. H. Moore both reminded the aldermen that the request as placed before them (as stated above) will be thoroughly gone over by the private bills committee and re-arranged as they desired. It will also come before the council again. This assured Ald. Stratton that he was "on the safe side" so a resolution was put through giving the city solicitor power to go ahead and have the notice of the bill gazetted.

Other Question Settled.

The proposed passing of a resolution, in which the city guaranteed the indebtedness of the Utilities Commission, to the Bank of Montreal to the extent of $75,000, was next brought up and Ald. Stratton although remarking that he had no desire whatever to start an argument, he thought some restriction should be placed on the life of the resolution. He did not care to have the commission, not only the present commission but the commissions of the future, given power to draw on the bank to the extent of $75,000 and have the city liable for it. He thought the city solicitor should be instructed to have the wording of the resolution, made clear and definite.

Ald. Johnston remarked that as Ald. Stratton had brought up the objection so he should be allowed to re-word the resolution. Ald. Stratton remarked quite sarcastically that "that was the city solicitor's duty." The city solicitor gave the matter his attention and inserted a clause by which the resolution will become invalid when the present debt of the commission is wiped away. This met the unanimous endorsement of the committee.

PREMIER GOUIN'S APPEAL FOR FRENCH MINORITY

Regrets, What he Says is an Unfortunate Vision in the Sister Province

QUEBEC, Jan. 12.—A demonstration took place at the sitting of the Legislative Assembly last night when Premier Gouin, in the debate on the Address from the Throne, made an appeal to the Government and people of Ontario to give fair play to the minority composed of French-Canadians.

Armand Lavergne, who followed, congratulated Sir Lomer on the stand he was taking, after which Mr. Lavergne delivered a Nationalist speech on the present war, maintaining that Canada in entering upon an Imperial war was establishing a dangerous precedent, and that her sole constitutional duty was the defence of Canada, until such time anyway as Canada had a say in the declarations of such wars and the terms of peace.

After referring to the unity of the French and English, Premier Gouin said he regretted that an unfortunate vision in the sister province was preventing the perfection of union seen elsewhere in Canada. Closing his speech, he said:

"I desire, before taking my seat, to make an appeal in the name of the entire population of Quebec, of English-Canadians, Scotch and Irish, as well as of French-Canadians, to the Government and to the majority of the Province of Ontario. In the name of the justice and of the generosity of which England has given so many proofs, and which cannot fail to animate every truly British citizen, as well as in the name of the struggles which our forefathers sustained in opening to civilization the rich domains which are our common patrimony, I ask that justice be done to the French minority of Ontario, and that they be not only justly but that they be generously dealt with. In the name of our common expressions of thought, I ask for the French language the right to come to the lips of those school children of Ontario who wish to speak it."

ENLIST BY COMPANIES AT BATTALION HEADQUARTERS FOR THE THIRD CONTINGENT

OTTAWA, Jan. 12. — Orders sent out from the militia deaprtment for the recruiting of the third Canadian expeditionary force, which will be actively under way at all recruiting centres within a few days, will make each of the battalion centres throughout the Dominion a recruiting headquarters. Instead of following the plan adopted with the first and second expeditionary forces, of mobilizing the regiments at once at military division headquarters, the plan for the third and all subsequent contingents will be to recruit the men by companies from each battalion at local headquarters, and drill them there for a short time in company drill before they are mobilized as regiments. That will insure a greater local interest in the recruiting, and will mean that the men are in better condition for general regimental drill when the military district mobilization takes place.

The places selected as local headquarters for battalion recruiting are as follows:

For Military Division No. 1, Western Ontario, the recruiting centres are: 32nd Battalion at Walkerton, 33rd at Goderich, 22nd at Sarnia, 21st at Windsor, 24th at Chatham, 25th at St. Thomas, 39th at Simcoe, 26th at Strathroy, 28th at Stratford, 29th at Galt, 22nd at Woodstock, 7th at London, 30th at Guelph. The two regiments allotted to Western Ontario for the third contingent will be mobilized afterwards at London and Guelph.

For No. 2 Military Division, Toronto, the recruiting centres are:

31st Battalion at Owen Sound; 35th, Barrie and Orillia or Collingwood; 37th, Dunnville or Hagersville; 39th, Brantford; 44th, Welland; 19th, St. Catharines; 77th, Dundas; 26th, Georgetown; 36th, Brampton, Orangeville and Toronto; 34th, Oshawa; 23rd, Parry Sound or Bracebridge; 91st and 13th, Hamilton. The Toronto companies will be recruited at Toronto. Mobilization of the two regiments allotted to the district will be at Hamilton and Toronto.

A Northern Ontario regiment will be recruited by companies at the following local centres: Sault Ste. Marie, Sudbury, North Bay, Cobalt, Haileybury, New Liskeard, Cochrane, and possibly Mattawa.

For Military District No. 3, Eastern Ontario, recruiting centres are as follows:

45th Battalion at Lindsay; 46th, Port Hope; 40th, Cobourg; 57th, Peterborough; 16th, Picton; 49th, and 15th, Belleville; 47th, Napanee; 42nd, Smith's Falls; 66th, Prescott; 41st, Brockville; 59th, Cornwall or Alexandria; 43rd and Governor General's Foot Guards, Ottawa.

Officers of each battalion will act as local recruiting officers, and the men as recruited will be at once sent to the local battalion recruiting headquarters.

Widely Known Millbrook Citizen Seized With Heart Failure

Millbrook, Ont., Jan. 12. — The death took place yesterday morning suddenly at his office of Thomas B. Collins, who had been in business here for nearly 50 years and who was honored and trusted by the whole community. He was around this forenoon as usual, and at about half-past eleven he fell on the stair, expiring almost immediately from heart failure. Mr. Collins was born almost 74 years ago in Liskesnea, County Fermanagh, Ireland, coming to this country when a lad. After a short stay in New York he went to Peterborough, and shortly thereafter started here in the dry goods business, from which he retired about 20 years ago and entered into private banking. Lamprey, of Berlin, Ont., and Miss Mary L., at home, and two sons, Walter H., of the Bank of Commerce at Belleville, and Thos. H., of the Bank of Toronto, Montreal. THE STORMY HISTORY OF CITY OF CRACOW

The Holy City of the Poles Has Been Drenched with Blood Time and Again

What Rheims is to France, Cracow is to the Poles everywhere. It is their holy city. It contains in St. Stanislas Cathedral the greatest surviving monument to their genius and to their national history. It is their Westminster Abbey, about which Poles everywhere hope to build again their ancient kingdom when the war is over.

As Rome was supposed to have founded by a child that was nourished by a wolf, so Cracow claims a legendary origin. It was here that a fabled giant in the seventh century slew a dragon whose lair was in a nearby cave, and established himself. Even before the days of giants Cracow was populated, as science has proved, by prehistoric men.

Why they should have chosen this spot is not clear, but the fact that the greatest salt mines in the world are near Cracow and that the city stands at the navigable head of the Vistula, and that the main road from Russia to Western Europe leads through it, are sufficient reasons for Cracow's importance and prosperity in more recent times.

About a thousand years ago it was debatable ground for the rival Slav States of Poland and Bohemia, the centre of Polish life at that time being somewhere in what is now the German province of Posen. Early in the eleventh century the city was captured by a Polish king, who then made it his capital. Until the seventeenth century it retained this honor.

The Teutonic Invasion

In 1241, however, the Mongol invasion swept over Cracow, leaving ruins in its wake. Poland, too, was prostrate, but Prussia had been spared, so that when Cracow was being rebuilt it was necessary that the superior resources of neighboring Germany should be drawn upon. A policy of encouraging Germans to emigrate to Poland was industriously promoted. Teutons were given special privileges, and many of them taking advantage of the opportunity it was not long before the German element in the city was powerful in trade. The Germans brought with them some superior institutions, and soon Cracow felt the stimulus of the new blood, and entered upon a career of prosperity that was to last for some hundreds of years.

In the sixteenth century the Polish reaction against Teutonic influence set in, and as time passed Cracow became more or less a Teutonic island in a Polish sea. The marriage of a Polish king to an Italian princess led to an industrial and artistic invasion from Italy. The fact that Poland was Catholic and Germany Protestant was a further barrier, and when in the seventeenth century the capital was transferred to Moscow by a Polish king Cracow's sun had almost set.

Once a Separate Republic

This same King Sigusmund involved his country in war with Sweden, and Gustavus Adolphus marched his army through Cracow after a terrible siege.

Again, early in the eighteenth century, Poland was engineered into another war with Sweden by Peter the Great of Russia, and it was upon Poland that the terrible vengeance of Charles XII. fell the heaviest. Cracow was a veritable storm centre of this war, alternately occupied by Swedish, Russian, Saxon and Polish troops, and in the course of this struggle most of her ancient treasures were either destroyed or carried away. Toward the end of the eighteenth century the kingdom was divided up among Russia, Austria and Germany. Cracow itself was assigned to Austria, but at the Congress of Vienna in 1815 the city, with its environs, was made a "Free Republic."

Unfortunately this led to Cracow becoming a very centre for the agitators who planned to free Poland, and who conspired against Russia, Prussia and Austria to this end. So in 1846 Austrian troops marched into Cracow and extinguished the "Free Republic." They have been there ever since.

The Sawfish.

The sawfish has a formidable weapon of killing in the flat, bony sword, armed on each side with about twenty large, bony teeth. The sawfish rushes into a shoal of fish and slashes to the right and to the left. In sea fights sometimes whales have been killed by sawfish, and the saw sometimes has been driven through the hull of a ship. The sawfish, common about the West Indies, goes into the gulf of Mexico and the Florida waters and sometimes ascends the Mississippi and other southern rivers, doing great havoc to the nets of fishermen. This species sometimes reaches a length of fifteen feet, a fourth of which measures the "saw."

Aristhiou.

In a small village in Switzerland is a comfortable old inn much frequented by English, and the menu generally includes one dish supposed to be specially British. Though the orthography is peculiar, the meaning is generally obvious—as, for example, "rost bif roti," "rumesteck," but "aristhiou de mouton a l'Anglais" was puzzling. The first word had a distinctly classical appearance, which suggested a Greek origin. But when the dish appeared the meaning flashed into the guests' minds. "Aristhiou" was the Swiss chef's attempt to render phonetically the words "Irish stew."—Manchester Guardian.

BOWSER'S WINTER SCHEME

It Met the Fate of Many Other Great Ideas

By M. QUAD

After dinner, during which he had seemed much preoccupied, Mr. Bowser had passed through the kitchen into the back yard and poured about two pails of water into an empty barrel. The cook looked at him suspiciously from the half open door, and Mrs. Bowser wondered what he was up to, but nothing was said until he had kicked off his shoes and settled down for the evening. He had been aching for ten minutes to be questioned when Mrs. Bowser observed:

"Are you going to shut the water off from the street to make repairs to the pipes?"

"Not that I know of," he replied. "Look here, now, but I want to tell you something, and I don't want you to about 'Fad!' over it and call me a fool. I think I've got hold of a big thing. In fact, I believe I am about to produce a boon for all mankind."

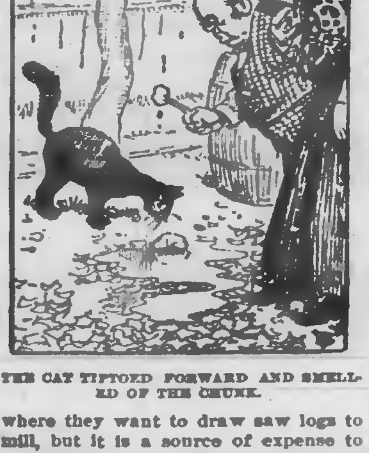
"Going to turn water into cider vinegar?"

"There you go with a sneer in your voice! By heu, but you do provoke me! Why can't you give me a word of encouragement in seeking to win fame and riches?"

"Well, tell me all about it, and I'll give you my opinion."

Mr. Bowser picked up the cat and pulled her tail in an absentminded way and finally said:

"You know what snow is, of course. It's useful enough out in the country, where they want to draw saw logs to mill, but it is a source of expense to the amount of millions of dollars in the cities. It costs New York city alone about $350,000 to get rid of her winter's snow. The snow must be shoveled up and carted off, you see."



THE CAT TIPTOED FORWARD AND SMELLED OF THE CHUNK.

"Yes, I see."

"Well, suppose the snow could be melted on the streets and in the yards and the water run off into the rivers; suppose it could be done for about a hundredth part of the expense of removal—would there be worldwide fame and millions of dollars for the inventor of the process, or nothing?"

"It would be a splendid idea," said Mrs. Bowser.

"Now you are talking. Now you are offering the encouragement to your husband expected of a wife. Say, my dear woman, I wouldn't sell my secret for $5,000,000."

"You can melt the snow on the streets, can you?"

"I can melt it as fire melts grease. I can clean a whole city block with one barrel of fluid. I can melt snow for about a cent a ton. It's a discovery that will knock the world off its feet."

"And how did you discover the process?"

"Partly by means of an old manuscript left by a sailor who died in the hospital and partly by a man who was out of work and was willing to part with his information for $5. It's straight and sure, and within two hours I'll be melting ice to prove it."

"I hope there's something in it."

"Something in it! My dear woman, where I start with one barrel of water I'll end up with ten barrels of gold! Your words of encouragement have done wonders for me. I must now go to the drug store after a few ingredients."

He went, and he returned with three bottles and a gallon jug, the contents of which were poured into the barrel. Mrs. Bowser still further encouraged him by coming downstairs to see him pour and stir and mix, and the cook was kind enough to remark that Mr. Bowser looked like a man who would not knowingly blow up or set fire to his own house in order to kill off a poor working girl at $15 per month. It was an hour before the experiment was ready. The dead sailor's manuscript and the hard up man's advice were to the effect that the mixture need not stand over ten minutes, but Mr. Bowser wanted to make a sure thing of it. The stuff had a rank, acid smell, but he sniffed at it as heartily as if it had been cologne. A chunk of ice was brought from the refrigerator and laid on the ground, and with a great deal of solemnity he dipped a stick with a sponge tied to the end of it in the barrel and sopped it over the ice. There was no explosion or sudden outburst of flame. Even the cat tiptoed forward and smelled of the chunk. Of course ice won't melt as quickly as snow, and in his own mind Mr. Bowser gave that chunk three minutes to vanish off the cold earth. The liquid honeycombed it and threw out a tanyard odor, but there was no melting.

"What seems to be the matter?" Mrs. Bowser finally queried.

"I—I may not have put enough on," replied Mr. Bowser as he renewed the sop with liberal hand. "There can't be any mistake in the mixing, and the thing is bound to work. Can't you keep that blamed cat away?"

The cat was chased away, and there was another painful period of waiting. The ice could be heard crackling, and it freckled up like a schoolma'am in summer, but there was no melting.

"Perhaps the discovery only alluded to very soft snow," suggested Mrs. Bowser.

"Soft snow be hanged!" he shouted. "I tell you this thing is all right. The stuff I put in cost $1.50, and it's bound to work."

"Then why don't it work? And if it cost $1.50 for two pailfuls, how are you going to remove snow for a cent a ton? I hope you have got a good thing, but it strikes me"—

"Oh, yes; you are always being struck!" he interrupted. "And this very minute you are hoping I will make a failure of this thing. But I won't, though. Perhaps it needs more stirring."

He seized the stick and stirred and swirled and poked, and again the chunk of ice was doped. The smell was ranker, but that was the only result.

"Perhaps the dying sailor left the wrong manuscript," said Mrs. Bowser quietly, by way of breaking the painful silence.

"Why don't he take a teakettle of hot water to melt it?" queried the cook.

"By the living jingo, but she'll work or bust!" shouted Mr. Bowser as a wave of anger surged over him. "Stand back there and gimme more room!"

He seized the barrel with a strong grip and upended it over the chunk of ice and then gave it a kick that sent it flying across the yard. Mrs. Bowser and the cook had retreated to a safe distance, but the cat had advanced to satisfy her feline curiosity. As the barrel went rolling the cat screamed out and began jumping up and down, but in half a minute changed from jumping to a wild career about the yard.

"You ought to be ashamed to kick a cat!" exclaimed Mrs. Bowser as the cavorting went on.

"I never kicked her!" he replied. "What in thunder can ail her? Gimme a club till I drive her over the fence!"

He was looking about for a weapon when he gave a sudden start. Then he uttered an exclamation and tried to lift both feet off the ground at once. Then he kicked off his shoes and seemed to start in pursuit of the cat, and he had circled the yard twice before Mrs. Bowser and the cook grabbed him.

"Water—a pail of water—my feet!" he howled, and as soon as the water was drawn he plunged his feet into the pail.

"Now, then, will you explain this circus?" asked Mrs. Bowser as a look of relief came to his face.

"The acid got to my feet," he replied. "There was a gallon of acid, you know. The cat must have stepped into a puddle of it."

Mrs. Bowser got out the bottle of sweet oil and some rags, and the blistered feet were made comfortable, and their sole owner and proprietor hobbled upstairs and stretched himself out on the lounge. Mrs. Bowser hadn't called him a lunatic or an idiot, but he felt that he had lost prestige and must regain it. She was still cuddling him when he sat up and pointed a finger at her and hoarsely whispered:

"Woman, I understand all!"

"All about melting snow?" she innocently asked.

"All about why my experiment was a failure. Don't seek to hide your guilt by looking at me in that bold-faced way. While I was gone to the drug store you sneaked down and put salt or ashes or vinegar or something into that barrel."

"How foolish of you!"

"That will do! Denials are useless. You can go home to your mother by the 10:20 train tomorrow, and my lawyer will notify you of the legal steps I take. Woman, avaunt and leave your victim to die in peace!"

And, having squared himself and accounted for the failure of his experiment, Mr. Bowser drew up his legs and fell into a peaceful slumber.

Sometimes Happens So.

The family had gone off for their holiday in a taxi. Twenty minutes later the taxi snorted back up the road.

"Forgotten the tickets?" cried a neighbor.

"No," said the irate householder, "but my wife's just remembered that she's left a kettle boiling on the gas stove."

He dived into the house and came back the next moment with a ghastly calm on his face.

"All right now?" said the neighbor cheerily.

"Right! I'd forgotten that I'd turned the gas off at the meter, and now we've two hours and a half to wait for the next train."—Glasgow Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—Wild selling of wheat resulted today from reports that the fleets of England and France were successfully breaking thru the Turkish defences of the Dardanelles. After a downward plunge of 6⅝c from the top figures today the market closed restless 3c to 3¼c under Saturday night. Other leading staples, too, all finished at a decided setback, 1⅛c to 1⅜c for corn, 1c to 1⅛c for oats and 12½c to 50c for provisions.

WINNIPEG GRAIN MARKET.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 11.—Wheat futures opened unchanged to ⅜c lower, oats ¼c to ½c lower and flax 1⅛c up. Trading was quiet, a light volume of business being transacted. Fluctuations previous to noon were ⅛c to 1c, and for the most part were fractionally higher than opening figures.

The market was, however, extremely excited during the closing hour. Prices were down 3⅛c for May and 3⅛c for July from the high points of the day at 12.30, but recovered about one cent, weakening again later. Wheat futures closed 2⅝c lower to 2⅞c lower, cash 2⅝c lower for contract grades, oats ⅜c lower and flax 1⅛c lower.

MONTREAD GRAIN MARKET.

MONTREAL, Jan. 11.—There was some demand from foreign buyers for Manitoba spring wheat today and as the prices bid by the early cables were practically the same as Saturday's sales of 100,000 bushels were made. The demand for oats on export account is steady and sales of 50,000 bushels were made to London at 31s, an advance of 6d per quarter. The local trade in coarse grains is quiet, but the tone of the market is firm. The export trade in flour was slow and the local demand is also quiet, but the undertone of the market is firm. A fair trade continues to be done in millfeed. Butter was firm, cheese quiet, eggs active.

DULUTH GRAIN MARKET.

DULUTH, Jan. 11.—Wheat—No. 1 hard, $1.31¼; No. 1 northern, $1.30¼; No. 2 do., $1.27¼ to $1.28¼; May, $1.32¼.

CATTLE MARKETS

UNION STOCK YARDS.

TORONTO, Jan. 11.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Yards were 2228 cattle, 1486 hogs, 585 sheep and lambs and 103 calves.

Butchers' Cattle.

Choice, heavy steers, $8 to $8.15, and one lot of five Christmas quality, $8.75; good, $7.75 to $8.15; medium, $6.50 to $6.70; choice cows, $6.50 to $7; good cows, $6 to $6.50; medium, $5 to $5.50; canners, $3.75 to $4; cutters, $4.25 to $4.50; bulls, $5 to $7.

Stockers and Feeders.

There was very little done on the stocker and feeder market, and prices were reported unchanged. Feeders, $6 to $6.50; stockers at $4.75 to $5.75.

Milkers and Springers.

A moderate number of milkers and springers were offered, and sold at $50 to $87 each, the bulk going at between $60 and $75.

Veal Calves.

The calf market was slightly firmer. Choice veals sold at $10 to $10.50; good at $8 to $9.50; medium, $7 to $8; common, $5 to $6.50.

Sheep and Lambs.

Sheep, ewes, sold at $5.50 to $6, heavy ewes, $4.50 to $4.75; cull sheep, $2.50 to $3; lambs, light, $8.25 to $8.75; heavy lambs, $7.50 to $7.75.

Hogs.

The market for hogs was about steady. Selects, fed and watered, $7.65 to $7.75, and $7.30 f.o.b., cars, and $7.90 to $8 weighed off cars.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

MONTREAL, Jan. 11.—At the Montreal stock yards, west end market, the feature of today's trade was the stronger feeling for steers, and prices scored an advance of 25c per cwt., as compared with last week. There was no change in the market for butchers' cows and bulls, prices being unchanged. The supply of this class of stock was ample to fill all requirements. A fairly active trade was done at prices which were more satisfactory to drovers. Sales of full loads of choice steers were made at $8 to $8.25, and good steers brought $7.50 to $7.75 per cwt.

Owing to the increased offerings of sheep and lambs the market showed a decline today of 25c per cwt. The demand for supplies even at this reduction was only fair, as buyers seemed to have ample stocks on hand for the present and trade was rather slow. Ontario lambs sold at $7.75 to $8, and Quebec at $7.25 to $7.50 per cwt.

Hogs advanced 15c per 100 pounds. Offerings were larger but as there was a keen demand from packers an active trade was done in selected lots at $8.25 to $8.40, sows $6.25 to $6.40, and stags $4.20 to $4.25 per cwt., weighed off cars.

EAST BUFFALO LIVE STOCK.

EAST BUFFALO, N.Y., Jan. 11.—Cattle—Receipts, 4000; fairly active; prime steers, $8.75 to $9; shipping, $8 to $8.65, butchers, $6 to $8.25; heifers, $5.50 to $7.75; cows, $3.75 to $6.75; ~~bulls, $4.50~~ to $7.

Hogs—Receipts, 23,000; active; heavy steady; heavy, $7; mixed, $7 to $7.10; yorkers, $7.15 to $7.35; pigs, $7.30 to $7.35; roughs, $6.15 to $6.25; stags, $5 to $6.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 16,000; active: lambs, $5 to $9; yearlings, $5 to $7.50; wethers, $6.25 to $6.50; ewes, $3.50 to $6; sheep, mixed, $5.75 to $6.

SHOT TROUGH THE HEAD

Remarkable Escapes From Wounds That Usually Mean Instant Death

There are two cases in London hospitals of soldiers who have been shot through the head and still survive and give every promise of getting well. In one case the missile passed in below the cheek-bone and out behind the ear, temporarily upsetting the nerve centres, but not inflicting a really dangerous wound. The patient can speak quite well. The other case is one in which a speeding bullet caught a man yawning, entered his open mouth, passed between his teeth and through his cheek without jaw or tongue being damaged.

But, although both these men were actually and literally shot through the head they were not shot through the brain. But such cases have occurred. In the Army Medical Museum there is a skull preserved which contains a bullet which entered the right eye and lodged at the base of the brain. The ball is embedded in the bone behind the eye, and it is a marvel that the man who was so hit survived a moment. He did, however. He actually lived for two months, and then suddenly dropped dead one day when the surgeons thought he was going to recover.

Kipling, who sang of "The White Man's Burden," must now admit that the black men are now assisting in carrying the load.

Big Cossack Has Speed and Skill

Ivan Michailoff Rated the Class of All Grapplers From Russia

HAS ORIGINAL STYLE

Boston, Jan. 12.—Ivan Michailoff, the great Cossack wrestler who is to meet Cyclone Byrns in Springfield tonight, is the first Cossack wrestler who does not depend upon sheer weight to win his matches. In fact, Michailoff is an athlete in all that the term implies, weighing 216 pounds and standing 6 feet 3 inches in height. He is easily the most skilful of the Cossack grapplers who have visited this country, as was attested by his great work against Alex. Aberg, the wonderful Finn, at Boston on Christmas night. When one considers that the Finn gave Stanislaus Zbyasko the greatest battle the Pole has had for several years, this feat of Michailoff's stands out as something out of the ordinary.

He is a powerful fellow, with the ability of a contortionist to squirm out of tight places. In fact Boston fans who watched him work against Aberg named him the "Human Spring," so sudden were his dashes to safety when he appeared to be all tied up and ready for the fall.

His style of wrestling is easily the most original of any wrestler who has visited America in a long time and the puzzling defense he assumes at times has bothered a lot of high-grade men. Few men are more powerful than he, and in action he is as cool as the proverbial iceberg.

Michailoff has mastered the tricks of catch-as-catch-can with surprising ease, as his basic knowledge of wrestling was gained through many years of experience in Europe where he has long been one of the stars of the mat game.

In the South American tourneys he was pitted against the best men of the world and came through with great honors, being one of the finalists in the big events in Montevideo in which 112 men took part.

Two rinks of curlers were to have visited Millbrook today for a friendly game but owing to the death in Millbrook of Mr. T. B. Collins, a prominent curler and resident of the town, the visit was postponed indefinitely. R. M. Waddell and W. H. Taylor were to have skipped the two visiting rinks.

The following are a few of the signals used by curlers:—

Directing Play.—Hold the broom with the narrow edge to the player delivering the stone is to aim.

In Turn.—Signal by a circular movement of the right hand outwards from the shoulder, downwards and then inwards towards the waist line.

Out Turn.—Signal by either arm being extended to full extent on a level with the shoulder.

Raising.—Place the broom in front of the stone to be struck, and indicate on the handle of the broom the distance the stone should be raised.

Guarding.—Lay the brush part of the broom flat on the ice on the spot the stone played should rest.

Running Shot.—Take the broom with both hands and give a sharp movement through the air, over the stone player is to strike, indicating that a fast shot is desired.

Drawing.—Draw the broom from the front part of the rings to the ice, indicating the direction the stone should come.

Drawing Around Guard.—Indicate by a stroke of the broom on the ice the course the stone played should take.

A Wick Shot.—Signal by a stroke of the broom, showing the stone to be wicked, the course the stone played should take, and where it should rest.

Striking.—If player is required to deliver stone with sufficient to carry stone at rest out of the rings, place the broom in front of the stone and the move the broom on the ice beyond the stone to the back of the ring, showing the direction in which the stone should be moved out of the rings.

Approval.—To indicate that player has delivered stone exactly as directed and that same meets with the approval of the skip, a good plan to follow is to raise the right hand or the broom.

PETES WON AT BELLEVILLE

Had Margin of Six Goals over the Gold and Green

The Petes easily disposed of Lawson Whitehead's second team at Belleville last night, the score being 8 to 2. The Hunterites lead in the first period by 3 to 1 and increased the count to 5 to 1 at the end of the second stage. Pete Spratt did not play, his position being taken by Grover Halpin, who did good work.

The teams:—

Referee—L. Marsh.

Picton won their fifth straight game at home, last night, when Bowmanville was defeated.

Ken Crane starred for the Riversides against Frontenacs last night. Denison did not play. The teams played 30 minutes overtime, the victory going to Riversides.

BOWLING

The Beginners run against a tough proposition last night when they rolled Pidgeon's lowly Unknowns. The Beginners were shy one man, but with the dead man rule were allowed 100 pins per game for the missing link. At that the Beginners took two out of the three games. The score follows:—

Unknowns.	1	2	3	Total
Carruthers ..	128	154	125	407
Nichol	122	107	111	340
Pidgeon	131	126	118	375
Handicap ...	25	25	25	75
	406	412	379	1197

Beginners.	1	2	3	Total.
Missing Link .	100	100	100	300
Hardill	131	155	121	407
Dawson	159	177	177	513
	390	432	398	1220

As usual Dawson of the Beginners had a good string with 513 for the three, and from present indications looks good to get away with the high average for the tournament. Scheduled games:—

Tuesday, Jan. 12—Gladiators vs. Brighten-Ups (33).

Wednesday, Jan. 13—Engineers vs. Belmont Club (39).

Thursday, Jan. 14—Examiner vs. Shop (8).

Friday, Jan. 15—Beginners vs. Unknowns (25).

TO PICK TEAM.

The following members of St. John's Senior Hockey Club are requested to be on hand for practice at Parker's Rink, Charlotte St., tonight at 7 o'clock sharp, after which the team will be picked to meet St. Luke's on Thursday evening: Flowers, Frost, LeBar, M. Pammett, R. Stevenson, L. Clarke, A. Heard, N. Pammett, A. Pidgeon, C. Devey, Morphet, R. Lockhart, H. Crowe.

It seems fitter to say the King of the Belgians than King of Belgium in view of what's happened.

COBOURG JUNIORS BATTLE AGAINST LOCALS TONIGHT

The Petes and Cobourg Juniors should put up a scrappy battle at the rink tonight. The locals put one over the Lakeshore seven in their first game and hope to repeat. Lou Marsh will referee. The local lineup will be: Goal, Legros; defence, Long and Morrow; rover, Rose; centre, Jackson; wings, Knapman and Richardson. The spares are Smyth and O'Connell. The players should be at the rink at 7.30.

OFFENSIVE IS CONFINED TO ZONE NEAR WARSAW

Despite Enormous Sacrifices of Men the Kaiser's Troops Have Failed to Make Any Appreciable Headway in Effort to Take Bolimow Forest—Austrians Are Hastily Changing Their Positions.

LONDON, Jan. 12. — The Times' correspondent at Petrograd telegraphs: During the past week the offensive action of the German forces in Poland has been concentrated within a narrow zone, approximately some 30 miles west of Warsaw. The zone runs along the right bank of the Rawka river, between the hamlet of Mozeli, two miles south of Bolimow and Sucha, a village approximately equidistant from Bolimow and Sochazew.

Here the Germans hold two army corps, one of which is in reserve. The other is on the firing line. Here also they have placed in position a large number of heavy guns. The German trenches are on the easterly bank, and run approximately parallel with the course of the Rawka for a couple of miles. In some cases the Germna trench runs through one side of a village while the Russian trench runs through the other.

It is believed the Germans are straining every nerve to gain possession of the Bolimow woods. It would seem that they are hopeful of piercing the Russian lines if they can once establish themselves in these woods.

Very fierce fighting has been in progress since Monday last in the vicinity of Bolimow. Positions are frequently changing hands, but despite the enormous sacrifices of men and the almost unceasing bombardment the Germans have entirely failed to make any serious headway.

A wounded officer related how his regiment, which was holding the trenches in one of the Bolimow positions, had repulsed thirteen consecutive attacks in one night. The enemy came on in close columns, but was mowed down to a man.

After the tenth attack had thus been stopped bodies were piled so high that the Russian riflemen were unable to shoot, and men were sent out to heap the bodies in such a way as to form embrasures for the machine guns. The three next attacks were repulsed from behind the shelter of the German bodies.

An unofficial dspatch from Petrograd says:

"On the Austrian front the enemy is attempting to execute great changes in his general position in view of the rapid and stalwart Russian advance through Bukowina."

The following official communication was issued last night from General Headquarters at Petrograd:

"On the left bank of the Vistula, both day and night on Jan. 10, the Germans attempted without success to attack our line at several points but were repulsed everywhere by our fire.

"In an attack in the region of the village of Samioe, east of Skiernewice, the Germans reached our barbed wire entanglements and began to shout: 'Do not fire; we are yours.'

"However, as similar strategems had been employed before, the vigilance of our troops was not deceived by this manoeuvre of the Germans, and we directed against them a destructive fire and delivered a counter-attack, repulsing the enemy and inflicting heavy losses upon them.

"In Galicia the cannon and riflefire has been kept going, and we remain in contact with the enemy."

Austrians Broken, Say Refugees.

ROME, Jan. 12. — A despatch to The Messagero from its correspondent at Bucharest states that several detachments of Austrian troops entered Roumania Sunday and were disarmed. They were in flight from the scene of conflict with the Russians in Transylvania.

They carried obsolete rifles and assured the Roumanians that the Austrian army is completely demoralized.

Aitkin Runs Press Bureau.

OTTAWA, Jan. 12.—Sir Max Aitkin is to have charge of the official news concerning the Canadian division. He has been selected by the Government for special work in that connection, and will prepare official reports for publication from Salisbury Plain and also from the front when the Canadians get there.

Every country claims that the Lord is fighting on its side, thus demonstrating that we are in an age of miracles.

CRUISER KOENIGSBERG SUNK.

German Warship Was Destroyed Five Days After Being Bottled Up.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—A news agency despatch from London, published here yesterday afternoon, says:

The German cruiser Koenigsberg, which was bottled up in a river on the coast of Africa several weeks ago, has been sunk, according to a despatch received here from Southend yesterday. It quotes Capt. Willet, commander of one of the blockading vessels, as saying that the Koenigsberg was destroyed five days after she was bottled up, an aeroplane giving the range for a rain of shells upon the German boat.

The Koenigsberg was a third-class cruiser of 3,350 tons, built in 1907. She carried ten 4.1-inch guns and eight 2.1-inch guns. Her speed was 23.5 knots.

Down in Mexico the candidates have to run, it seems, both before and after elections.

SCORN FOR THE UNITED STATES

Europe Contemptuous of Her Attitude in the War

CHICAGO, Jan. 12. — The Daily News prints the following special Marconigram from Millward Price, its London, Eng., correspondent:

"Conversations with persons of Great Britain, France, Russia, Italy, Germany and Austria, compel the conviction that the United States is making no real friends in this war. On the contrary, it is impossible not to see that the American name is suffering, and that conceivably the Republic is laying up grave trouble for itself in the future.

"The general charge against our country is that we are displaying a shameless lack of idealism, chivalry, magnanimity and courage. Britons, Frenchmen, Russians and Italians blame Americans for ignoring the invasion of Belguim and the violations of the conventions of The Hague, and then springing into the international arena with a protest relating exclusively to matters of trade. The argument in these complaints is that if President Wilson had protested against the violations of treaties and the principles of civilized warfare he could have protested with vastly greater effect against the arbitrary and possibly indefensible interference with American cargoes.

"The indictment against us, so far as I can measure it, simply is this: we abdicated ignominiously and ran away when great questions of morals and humanity were concerned, but promptly recovered our sense of duty and our courage when the state of war threatened to reduce the profits of the copper kings and otherwise penalize America materially."

The writer goes on to say that Germans are equally scornful, accusing the U. S. of cringing to Britain and enduring its "arrogant control of the sea."

TEN THOUSAND JEWS SERVING

All Sections of Hebrew People Help Britain

LONDON, Jan. 12. — More than 10,000 Jews are now serving in the British army and navy, and the army casualty lists show that six officers and over forty enlisted men have been killed and 150 reported wounded or missing in addition. These figures are compiled by Rev. Michael Adler, the senior Jewish chaplain to the forces. Rev. Mr. Adler has a son in the Royal Fusiliers, and he himself expects to leave for the front soon.

"Before the war," says the rabbi, "there were only 500 Jews in the service. Since the war, all sections of Jewry, rich and poor, have responded. Two of our men have received distinguished conduct medals. Among the Canadian troops are about 300 Jews, mostly sons of naturalized Russian and Roumanian Jews. Jewish soldiers are to be found also in all the training centres in England."

Lonsdale Escapes Death.

LONDON, Jan. 12. — A despatch to the Exchange Telegram Co. from Berlin by way of Amsterdam says that the court of appeals has commuted the death sentence on Pte. William Lonsdale, the English soldier who was court-martialed for attacking one of his guards at the Doeberitz detention camp, to twenty years' imprisonment.

Turkey's action in sending a representative to the Vatican court is just another little irony of the war.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Miss Ruby Blair returned to her home in Oshawa yesterday morning after spending a few weeks' holidays in the city the guest of the Misses Braund, 53 Park St.

Kitchener showers are quite in order among the young people of Indian River. Mr. and Mrs. Gavin Shearer were the recipients of a shower last wek, and a shower will be given Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Hope tomorrow evening.

Invitations have been issued to the marriage of Grace Mildred, daughter of Col. and Mrs. T. D. R. Hemming, of Kingston, to Mr. George Staunton Bowerbank, Lieutenant in the 21st Battalion, overseas contingent, in St. George's Cathedral, Toronto, on Wednesday morning.

The engagement is announced of Miss Ethel Augusta Sidey, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sidey and granddaughter of the late Dr. John Sidey, Bewdley, Ont., to Dr. George Ollonna, of Toronto. The marriage will be solemnized on Feb. 15th, 1915, in the Church of The Lady of Mount Carmel, Toronto.

RECITAL AT ST. PAUL'S.

Attention is directed to the advertisement in another column regarding the musical recital in St. Paul's Church a week today, Tuesday, 19th. The recital is to be given by five men whose musical peers it is impossible to find in Canada.

In spite of the large expense involved, admission is only 50 cents, as it is desired that as large a number of Peterborough citizens as possible may enjoy the pleasure of hearing this splendid quartette, and also Hesselburg, the famous Russian pianist.

STIRRING ADDRESS ON MISSION WORK TO EPWORTH LEAGUE

Monday night the George Street Epworth League received a great incentive in its missionary endeavors by the splendid address of Mr. Wearing on "Missions." He spoke upon both foreign and home missions, and regarded them as being of equally great importance. During the last one hundred years there has been a marked change for the better throughout barbarous countries, due to missionary work, but there is still much to be done. Some of our most intellectually and spiritually developed young men have given their lives toward the extension of the gospel in China, India, Africa and other foreign fields.

Home missions also demand much thought and support on our part. Right here in Northern Ontario are people, homesteaders, who can reckon the time in years since they have been inside of a church. These people are deprived of elevating influences for the reason that there are no places of worship within miles of their abodes. The speaker stated that it is a fact that most crimes occur in out-of-the-way country districts, and not in the cities where the many churches are able to wield their beneficial influence. Many perwork, have gone to such districts, sons, bent on performing Christian work, have ogne to such districts, and are laboring among the benighted people with great perseverance and enduring many hardships. But such workers are as yet far too few, and the means at their disposal too limited, and therefore we should do our best to promote this good work by giving freely.

This stirring address should have a beneficial effect upon the league and enthuse its members to greater efforts to reach the goal in mission giving which they have set. A well-rendered duet by the Misses McKee formed a part of the program.

THEATRICAL

The patronage accorded to Fiske O'Hara and his company in the performance, "Jack's Romance," presented at the Grand last night, showed that people are anxious for good plays, notwithstanding adverse conditions. Mr. O'Hara and his company were decidedly popular, although it was to be expected that the big attraction was the celebrated Irish singer himself. Little difference was noted in the quality of Mr. O'Hara's voice since his last visit to this city. He appeared, however, to be slightly impeded last night by a cold. His song hit of the evening was, "You and I," the audience insisting on numerous encores. Mr. O'Hara fulfills the general idea of the heroic figure on the stage, his splendid physique and personality greatly assisting him in his work. His song hits of the evening were "The Highwayman," and "You and I."

An order for eight thousand army shirts at $10,000 has been received by an Edmonton firm from the militia department at Ottawa.

TEN BELLS LIKE CURFEW AT THE MUNICIPAL RINK

Special Committee is Named With Ald. Johnston Chairman

Ald. W. J. Johnston was overlooked when the chairmen of the various committees were appointed yesterday morning, but the council last evening covered up the work of the a.m. session and gave the north ward representative a chairmanship. He is chairman of the special committee to look after the municipal skating rink. His committee is made up of Ald. Johnston and Ald. Dobbin. The rules and regulations of the rink as drawn up by Ald. Johnston and presented to the meeting were gone thoroughly over. Some 30 or 40 minutes was given to the settling of what time the rink should be closed at night. Each alderman had a little to say about the question and some a whole lot. The result was that the hours of the rink will be from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Ald. Johnston's rink committee was given the authority to employ a caretaker and any bills from the rink will be paid only when certified by the chairman of the committee.

Flood Rinks Gratis.

Ald. Duffus, the new chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee asked for a resolution authorizing him to have the firemen flood all rinks, where no charge was made. The request was granted.

Board of Education's Grant.

The Finance Committee was instructed to pay the first installment (about $3,000) of the appropriation of the Board of Education on January 15th. The matter of endeavoring to have the appropriation reduced will be discussed at a joint meeting to be held at a later date.

Sale of Land.

The Manufacturers' and Property Committee were asked to report on the progress of the proposed sale of land by the city to the Chickle Company.

Annual Appointments.

Ald. A. H. Stratton was appointed to the committee in charge of the distribution of charity funds, according to the will of the late Almira Grover Foley. H. R. H. Kenner was appointed to the Public Library Board and Dr. Amys, James Murty and ex-Ald. George H. Duncan were appointed to the Board of Health.

No Appointment Yet.

A letter was read from the Utilities Commission, which stated that they have no man in their employ who could act as wiring inspector. The matter was referred to the Fire, Water and Light Committee. The same committee was given Fire Chief Howard's annual report to look over.

The Same Old Request.

A letter was read from E. G. Patterson reminding the new council that the residents of a great portion of the west ward are desirous of having the street paving on Hunter Street extended to Belmont Ave. The matter was given over to the Board of Works.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES

The Junior business boys held their first outing to the toboggan slide last night. Mr. Elmer Brown, their leader, in charge. After enjoying the slide for two hours the boys returned to the building where a good supper was waiting for them. Several outings have been planned for this winter and the boys expect to have a very enjoyable time.

Intermediate boys will have their first outing at the slide tonight.

The leaders of boys' groups are requested to have their teams play off their hockey schedule as soon as possible.

The Y.M.C.A. is proud to state that ten more members have enlisted for the war and are to leave with the third contingent. This brings our honour roll up to about fifty and, while it has cost our work considerable, as the young men taken are from our best workers and leaders, still we are very proud of our soldier boys.

W. Flowers, A. Theobald and A. Skilleter who are just enlisted for the third contingent are members of our gymnasium leaders corp and have been responsible for a number of classes that have been conducted in the gymnasium. Allan Sharpe and A. Morrow are two of our best committee men. McKinley, Perry and Eastwood and Portsmouth will also be missed from the activities of the association.

It is a great pleasure to hear from our boys who are on Salisbury Plain and at Kingston. It was a special pleasure to receive calls recently from Stuart Laing and Allan Harper who are stationed at Kingston.

The association has been handicapped for lack of funds but the handicap is not nearly so great as is the removal of these well trained and tireless workers. But we bid them God speed and are sure that their action is in the cause of right.

ISSUE DEBENTURES TO PROVIDE $10,000 GRANT

One of the Clauses in City's Bill to go Before the Legislature

"To authorize the granting by the Council, without the assent of the electors, of the sum of $10,000 to the Canadian Patriotic Fund, and to authorize the passing by the Council, without the assent of the electors, a bylaw to meet such grant by the issue of debentures."

The above is one clause in the notice of the application of this city to the Legislature, for the passing of a private bill.

The matter came up for discussion at he Council meeting last evening, but was gone into more thoroughly at the meeting of the Committee of the Whole, which was held immediately after Council adjourned.

Ald. Stratton expressed himself as being opposed to issuing debentures to cover the $10,000 grant, claiming that when the resolution was put through it was the intention to pay out of this year's revenue. A short exchange followed between the finance minister and ex-Finance Minister Ald. Johnston, but it was pointed out that such matters can be decided upon after the private bill is passed. The bill would validate the action of the Council in making the grant. A resolution was put through giving the city solicitor power to have the notice gazetted.

BURGLARS ARE IN THE TOILS

Large Quantities of Stolen Goods are Recovered

TORONTO, Jan. 12.—An inscription on a comic supplement pasted on the wall of a room at 24 Lakeview avenue after they had ransacked the house was responsible indirectly for the arrest of seven men and the recovery of nearly two thousand dollars' worth of stolen jewelry and merchandise during the past few days.

Those at present in custody and the charges against them are: Ernest G. Hill, aged 50, 318 Queen street west, a confidential clerk employed by David Morrison of the same address, theft; Albert Secord, ex-bartender, rooming at 603A College street, receiving stolen property; Arnold Perkins, 4 Widmer street, receiving stolen property; John Batchelor, bartender, Clifton House, receiving stolen property; John Kemp, unemployed, 4 Widmer street, receiving stolen property; James McLaughlin, 79 West Lodge avenue, nine charges of burglary; Arthur Johnson, Frankish avenue, nine charges of burglary, and Henry Cullen, St. Patrick street, who is charged with the theft of candy from his employers, the Harry Webb Co.

Perkins is, the police allege, one of the worst "fences" with whom they have had to deal in some time. In his house on Widmer street, Detective Cronin uncovered goods which had been stolen from Morrison's clothing store, valued at $700. The police also located a large quantity of candy which had been stolen from the Webb company.

C.P.R. POLICY OF RETRENCHMENT IS FELT HERE

Fifteen Employes of This Division are Laid Off

The axe has fallen on the heads of fifteen employes on this division of the Canadian Pacific railway. On Monday fifteen men were notified that their services would be discontinued until further notice. The reductions were made in accordance with the policy of retrenchment being instituted by all the transportation companies. By the new arrangement there will be but one section man and a foreman on each section of the division where previously there were two sectionmen and the foreman.

So far none have been laid off the staff of the local freight office or yard crew, but the Review learned today that such would most likely occur very shortly owing to conditions. One was laid off the local staff about a month ago and transferred to Toronto.

LAD WILL SOON LEAVE HOSPITAL

Although shot through the abdomen in such a way that his physicians were at first doubtful about his recovery nine year old Harold Leahy of Douro will be discharged from St. Joseph's hospital during the course of the week according to a report from the institution today.

Leahy was accidentally shot by his father a day or so after Christmas and grave fears were entertained that his injury would prove fatal.

APPEAL AGAINST PAVING ASSESSMENT

But one appeal against the rulings of the Court of Revision at its recent sitting to consider appeals against street paving assessments was made this morning to Judge Huycke. E. A. Micks, Hunter St., was the appellant and was represented by A. E. Dixon. G. N. Gordon, S. R. Armstrong and R. H. Parsons were present in the interest of the city.

The appellant claimed he should not be assessed for one section of the frontage of his property because of the Hunter Street bridge cutting the front of his property at an angle. Mr. Micks also claimed he should not be assessed for a lane at the east of his building as several parties are using it as a right of way. The city solicitor contended that the appellant should be assessed despite the fact that others used it.

Judge Huycke reserved his judgment.

EIGHT CAR LOADS OF HOGS FROM THE WEST

It speaks well for the hog raising industry in the west when they can ship hogs to eastern packers in large shipments. The Matthews-Blackwell company received eight car loads today from Winnipeg off the Grand Trunk. This is the first lot the company have received for some time from Winnipeg, although Mr. Matthews stated that they get odd lots at intervals. It was considered to be a pretty fair shipment however from the west where the hog raising industry is being fostered as much as possible at the present time.

"Safety First" at Grand Trunk Yards

All the yard switches on the Grand Trunk are being painted yellow now in keeping with the policy of "safety first" which the company are putting into effect. The switches in the local yards are being painted yellow and the lights at every yard switch will be red hereafter. This is to insure safety and prevent confusion between main line switches and yard switches which previously were both red.

Millions of Acres Await Pre-Emption in British Columbia, Says Minister

The Hon. W. J. Bowser, the Attorney General of British Columbia, has just made public figures which give a striking picture of the agricultural development of that Province, particularly in the districts opened up by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway. Before the railroads in British Columbia were built, he says, the Government withdrew from the market many large tracks of agricultural land. Following the reservation of these lands they were surveyed so that the pre-emptor could go in and select his land without danger of rival and interlapping claims which had caused confusion where there had been no surveys.

This had been done along the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific and in the last two years there had been filed at the land offices at Prince George, Fort Fraser, Hazelton, and Prince Rupert no less than 3,643 preemption records in the land so reserved; which has four times the number of pre-emptions recorded in the whole of the province five years ago.

There were other thousands of acres of land waiting for the settler, surveyed and still under reserve. In four years the Government has surveyed for settlement no less than 3,789,372 acres, and the total amount of the land surveyed and ready for the pre-emptor and the pre-emptor alone amounted to 91,128,567 acres. One-third of the total area of land under cultivation in the Dominion of Canada, he said, was only 36,000,000 acres, and yet in British Columbia the Government had provided three times that area and it stood ready for the pre-emptor today.

RENT RAILWAY LINE FOR C.G.E. TEST TRACK

One clause of the Private Bill for this city which the city solicitor was last evening instructed to gazette, will cover the renting of the G.T.R. Peterborough and Chemong lake branch for the use of the Canadian General Electric Co. as a test track for electric locomotives. The clause reads as follows:—

"To authorize the making of an arrangement with the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada for a lease to the Canadian General Electric Company of a part of the right of way of the Peterborough and Chemong Lake branch of said railway as a test track for electric locomotives and authorizing the crossing of highways by same in the city of Peterborough and with the approval of the council thereof, in the township of Smith."

YEAR'S FIRE LOSS

We regret the death of one member. The late Joseph Jefferson died on October 18th from natural causes.

Appropriation.

Although the appropriations for the year were well pared by your committee in charge, I am pleased to be able to state that through the valuable assistance of Alderman G. Walter Green, the Chairman of the Board, whose wise counsel and business methods, coupled with the strictest economy, enabled us to finance the affairs of the department on the amount allotted, and come out at the end of the year with a small balance on the right side, despite the fact that we were faced with several items of expenditure that were not provided for in the original estimates. I sincerely trust your committee will take this into account and be as liberal and considerate as possible in providing sufficient funds to finance the affairs of the department for the year 1915.

It is not my intention to press the claims of the department for any extras this year owing to the general outlook in financial affairs. The matter of providing underground cable for the fire alarm system will be a somewhat expensive item and the advisability of purchasing a chemical engine for Peterborough, I believe, has been sufficiently demonstrated to warrant such an undertaking.

During the year 1914, one man was added to the staff, two new fire alarm street boxes were installed, one new exercise and supply wagon was purchased, and also a pulmotor for life-saving. The wisdom of purchasing a pulmotor is beyond any doubt, as it has been called into requisition several times with the desired effect of saving life.

I have very great pleasure in reporting the excellent behaviour of your firemen during the past year. Only three slight breaches of discipline occurred and these were adjusted in a satisfactory manner by the Chairman of the Board and the Fire Chief. The firemen have been faithful to duty, courteous and polite to the public and have continued to take a keen interest in the welfare of the affairs of the department and the protection of life and property.

A comparative tabulated statement of former years is also attached.

In conclusion, I wish to thank the gentlemen of last year's council for their assistance and kind co-operation, especially Alderman G. Walter Green, the Chairman of the Board, for the many hours of patient, painstaking interest in the general affairs, workings and doings of the department.

The Chief of Police and his staff of constables have rendered valuable assistance from time to time, which is highly appreciated.

The friendly relations existing between the city officials and the members of this department are worthy of note.

We also wish to thank the public press for the many kind references to the department from time to time, throughout the year.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

I have the honor to be, gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
W. A. HOWARD,
Chief, Fire Department.

RE-OPENING OF ALL SAINTS' CHURCH

Has Been Enlarged by Addition of Chancel and Vestries

HISTORY OF CHURCH

Tomorrow, January 14th, will mark the beginning of a new epoch in the history of All Saints' Church in this city. On that date the church edifice, which has undergone extensive alterations will be re-opened for divine service.

For nine months the chancel and vestry have been in course of erection, while for the past three weeks the interior of the naive has been in a process of transformation. When the church is re-opened it will be one of the largest and most beautiful structures in the Diocese of Toronto.

A Short History of the Work.

A short history of the parish will prove interesting to many at this time. Dating from 1875 the work covers a period of nearly forty years, and the church as it stands today is the fulfilment of many first hopes and the result of the efforts of many faithful workers, some of whom are not living to see the splendid fruition of their labours.

The work was begun under the late Rev. J. W. R. Beck, M.A., Rector of Peterborough, having with him the Rev. W. C. Allen, M.A., now of Millbrook. At that time services and Sunday School were held in a little brick building on Dalhousie Street near Rubidge St. This work however lapsed for a time but was taken up with renewed vigor in 1882, chiefly along the line of the Sunday school, which comprised about fifteen of the religiously uncared for children of the neighborhood, a great contrast to the Sunday School of today with over three hundred on the roll besides a church congregation of over four hundred families.

It soon became necessary to remove from the mission building on Dalhousie Street used at that time in common by several denominations and Sunday School was held in the south ward school until Miss Chamberlain, whose interests and benefactions are remembered with great gratitude, donated a property on the corner of Bethune and Dalhousie Streets. The first religious service was held here by the late Mr. Herbert Hammond, a lay reader of St. John's Church. The Rev. J. W. R. Beck died in 1889 and his successor, the Rev. Canon Davidson, took a most active interest in the new mission. A name also to be remembered among many others, who were interested workers of those early days, is that of the late Rev. V. Clementi, who gave not only the benefit of his ripe experience but also liberally of his means.

During the summer of 1890 the idea of erecting a mission building assumed shape and work was vigorously begun towards this end. Miss Chamberlain exchanged the old site for the more desirable one, on the corner of Rubidge and Sherbrooke Streets, upon which the parish hall is now situated. The work progressed rapidly and the new building was opened by the late Archbishop of Toronto on January 22nd, 1891. On January 3rd, 1892, the first morning service was held and the first celebration of the Holy Communion on Christmas Day of the same year.

The first curate of St. John's especially detailed to have charge of "The South Ward Mission" as it was then called was the Rev. W. M. Louks, now of Winnipeg. Other names also subsequently associated with the work are, the Rev. C. B. Kendrick, now of Hamilton, the Rev. E. W. Pickford, now of Brighton, the Rev. B. C. H. Andrews, and the Rev. Carl Smith.

REV. R. B. GROBB, M.A.

Who, on the first Sunday of this year, completed his second year as rector of All Saints' Anglican Church.

In 1896 the Rev. W. L. Armitage, B.A., became curate in charge. About that time a chancel was added to the original mission building and the complete structure dedicated as "All Saints' Church" on Sunday, October 10th, 1897.

A date always to be remembered by the congregation is January 1st, 1902, when All Saints emerged from the mission stage and attained the status of a separate and self-supporting parish. The first rector was the Rev. W. L. Armistage, B.A., who was inducted on January 22nd, 1902. Mr. Armitage remained in charge till 1904 when he resigned to go to Picton.

Subsequent rectors were the Rev. William Major, 1904-1908, and the Rev. H. R. Trumpour, M.A., 1908-1911. The present rector is the Rev. R. B. Grobb, M.A., who assumed charge of the parish on January 1st, 1912, and was inducted on February 16th, 1912.

About five years ago, the growing need both of the congregation and Sunday School, necessitated the building of a new church. The matter had been under consideration for some years and finally took concrete form in the building of the naive of the present church structure, the corner stone of which was laid with Masonic ceremony on July 9th, 1909. The first service in the new church was held October 23rd, 1910. At the time the old church structure was converted into a parish hall.

Recent Additions.

The additions recently made include the chancel, clergyman's vestry, general assembly room for the choir, men's and boys' robing room and ladies' robing room.

The building is gothic in design and is constructed throughout of red Stoney Lake granite, trimmed with gray granite and gray lime stone.

The interior of the chancel is very beautiful and spacious, the dimensions being 34 feet by 38 feet. It provides accommodation for a choir of 60 persons, while the whole church has a seating capacity of 900.

BLOWS TO THE FOE

Many Desertions and Sickness Among the Germans

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Jan. 13. — The Havre correspondent of the Paris Matin says the true reason for the Germans' close watch on the Belgian-Dutch frontier is an epidemic of desertion. In one month there were eleven thousand desertions from the German garrison at Bruges.

The Daily News correspondent at Rome telegraphs that a trustworthy observer of the German army in Flanders is the authority for the statement that the German medical staff cannot cope with the heavy losses in the trenches, and that the unsanitary condition of temporary hospitals, where filthy straw has been used over and over again till it is completely rotten, is responsible for many deaths.

Typhoid has raged since November, and the epidemic is admitted to be alarming. Should it continue till summer, the war will soon be stopped.

HASTINGS MAN IS BITTEN BY HORSE

Nasty Wound Was Made One Inch From Jugular Vein

Hastings, Jan. 13.—An accident which might have proved more serious, occurred to Mr. Fred McKee, when the horse to which he was attending, suddenly turned on him and gave him a nasty bite in the neck. The cut is within an inch of the jugular vein, and might easily have been very serious indeed. As it was, Mr. McKee was for a short time unable to realize what had occurred to him, so unexpected was the attack. Dr. Edmison was called in and dressed the wound and hopes that nothing further will develop.

NOTHING DOING SIGN AT THE BOARD OF TRADE

Only Three Members Turned up for Important Meeting

FREIGHT RATES

What was wrong with the members of the Board of Trade last night? A meeting was called, but by the time half-past eight swung round, only three members had arrived. As the meeting was billed to start at eight it was soon apparent there would be nothing doing so after discussing the tardiness of the organization, the three who did turn out came away, and there was no meeting. The membership of the board is about one hundred and twenty-five.

There was to have been a deputation wait on the Board, in regard to the question of double freight rates, which are levied on freight from Peterborough to points on the Central Ontario railway past Marmora, which is the junction point with the C.P.R. The deputation was to have been representative of the Commercial Travellers' Association. They intended quoting specific instances of double freight rates being charged. Freight consigned to points on the Central Ontario was charged the rate between here and Marmora, and from Marmora to destination another rate, the same as charged on freight billed through from Toronto was levied, making two charges upon one shipment.

The Commercial Travellers' intend getting the Board of Trade to look into the question with a view to having the rates reduced.

ROME IS SHAKEN

Earthquake Causes Serious Panic and Buildings are Damaged

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

ROME, Jan. 13. — A terrific earthquake, the strongest felt in Rome, occurred today. It lasted several seconds and caused serious panic, the people everywhere rushing from their houses in terror.

Many buildings were damaged by the shock.

The last previous earthquake in this vicinity occurred in July, 1899.

Historic buildings on the Piazza Colonna in the centre of Rome also were damaged, as was also the famous Farnese Palace occupied by the French Embassy. The column of Marcus Aurelius and the belfry of the Church of St. Andrea are in danger of falling.

It has not been learned if any lives were lost.

INDUSTRIAL ASSOCIATION'S GOOD RESULTS

Positions Found for One Hundred and Seventy Six Persons

The Industrial Association, since its inception about three months ago, has found positions for 176 persons, as follows:

Boys, 10; clerks, 8; carpenters, 5; farm hands, 36; girls, 10; laborers, 75; machinists, 6; painters, 4; polishers, 1; teamsters, 2; women, 15; woollen mill hands, 14. Total, 176.

That this is an excellent showing may be gathered from the letter received from the secretary of the Central Industrial Association of Ontario at Toronto, a copy of which follows:

"Edward Langley, Esq.,
352½ Water Street,
Peterboorugh:

My Dear Sir,—

I am glad to learn by youre of the 7th of the excellent work you are doing in the Peterborough branch of the association. Peterborough seems to have arisen to the situation better than any other city, and if they all bad co-operated on the same basis as you have, we would really be able to do something big in the way of relief for the unemployed. Unfortunately our own city, as well as some of the other larger cities, have not organized on the basis we suggested, with the result that they are using existing machinery, which is more or less inadequate to handle the difficult situation most of them are confronted with this year.

NO DECISIVE RESULTS

Berlin Claims French Made Unsuccessful Attacks Outside Creny

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Jan. 13. — Severe winter weather from one end to the other of the battle line in France hindered military operations yesterday, according to the announcement this afternoon. French artillery showed some activity, notably near Soissons and between Rheims and the Argonne, but no decisive results were obtained.

Fighting northeast of Soissons continues with severity. It is evident that large forces of infantry have been engaged. The French retain some of their positions, but were compelled to relinquish others.

BERLIN, Jan. 13. — A war office announcement says: "Yesterday's unsuccessful attacks by the French on the hills near Creny were followed up by a German counter-attack which ended in complete defeat of the French and the clearing of the hills east of Bussie and north of Creny.

"Our troops took possession of two positions and captured 1,700 prisoners, four cannon, and several machine guns."

DOVER, Jan. 13. — Two German submarines were today fired upon and sunk by the coast batteries off Dover, according to persistent rumors current in the city.

PETERBOROUGH, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 13, 1915

ADVANTAGES OF PUMPING PUBLIC WATER SUPPLIES BY ELECTRICITY.

AN ARTICLE in "Engineering and Contracting" of March, 1914, deals with the economic and service advantages of pumping public water supplies by electric power, and contains some points that ought to be of interest to those who are following the power and water situation in Peterborough. The article is by J. M. Bryant, assistant professor of electrical engineering at the University of Illinois. For the steam-driven pumping station, the large items in the operating expenses are those for fuel and attendance. Both of these items are either absent or lowered materially in the electrically-driven station.

The first question is cost of equipment. A comparison of steam and electrically-driven pumps reveals the fact that the electric equipment costs from one-fourth to one-half that of steam-driven units.

The next point is cost of operation. Interest on the investment is lower. Depreciation is less, for the centrifugal pump and electric motor; in the motor it is almost negligible, if it is properly housed and cared for. The cost of motor repairs is negligible in comparison with those for a steam or gasoline driven unit, on account of the absence of steam and heated gases and of reciprocating parts. Cost of motor attendance may be made very small, especially if the pumps are located near the plant which furnishes the power. Lubricating cost is very low, because pumps and motor are self-lubricating and use the same oil over many times. The maintenance cost is very low compared with steam, because fires have to be banked at times of no load.

The third point is that of reliability, and is very important. To insure this. Professor Bryant says that motors should be located above all possible flood levels, that instead of one large motor, two, and preferably three, should be installed. When the pumping station is at a distance from the power station, duplicate pole lines should be built. Professor Bryant based his conclusions on the actual expenditures for waterworks of some half dozen American cities. He says nothing, however, of protection from ice troubles, but when he considers an electrically-driven plant better than a steam-driven plant, protection from ice troubles should be a cardinal principle in the reliability of the plant. If it is not protected from ice troubles, it is not a reliable pumping plant and may cause damage of hundreds of thousands of dollars for not being so protected.

COMMAND OF THE SEAS AND OF OUR RESOURCES.

MOST PEOPLE on this continent are under the impression that Britain has command of the seas. The impotence of the German navy to go beyond Kiel, the destruction of German commerce, have been good evidence for believing so. The note of the United States Government to Britain regarding seizure, of right of search, would also indicate that Britain was still mistress of the waves. The reply of Britain to the American note, however, shows what alarming loopholes there are in that command, or, looking at the question in another way, it shows how difficult it is to maintain that command and prevent infractions of it.

It was shown in Britain's reply to the American note that exports of the United States to neutral countries had doubled and trebled for the month of November, 1914, over the same period for 1913. Here are the figures for the months compared:

	1913	1914
Denmark	$ 558,000	$7,101,000
Sweden	377,000	2,858,000
Norway	477,000	2,318,000
Italy	2,971,000	4,781,000
Holland	4,389,000	3,960,000

These figures are for the port of New York, and do not show cotton exports from other ports.

In regard to copper, a similar comparison was shown, the figures being for the period of the war to the end of the first three weeks in December:

1913	7,271,000 lbs.
1914	35,347,000 lbs.

This copper was destined principally to Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Switzerland. As for Italy alone, the figures are:

1913	15,202,000 lbs.
1914	36,285,000 lbs.

Sir Edward Grey stated that the British Government could not do otherwise than conclude that this abnormal increase in exports to these countries was not for genuine business in them, but for re-export to Germany, which could not get these goods direct. Sir Edward Grey went further and said that he had positive proof that four consignments of copper and aluminum to Sweden, though definitely consigned to Sweden, were definitely destined to Germany.

Another point has since been brought out, and that is that Canadian flour is finding its way to the German foe. That flour from Canadian mills is being supplied to Germany and her allies was learned when it became known that a large portion of the cargo of the steamers of the Scandinavian-American Line plying between New York and Copenhagen consists of Canadian flour from mills in Alberta and Saskatchewan, shipped to the Scandinavian Peninsula.

The American mills in Minnesota are also shipping large quantities of flour to Copenhagen. Before the war, Denmark raised enough grain to supply Sweden and Norway with flour. Some grain was imported from Russia, but this was usually re-shipped to England.

Since the beginning of the war the Scandinavian-American Line has increased its service until it has now running between ten and twelve boats a month, in contrast to the two steamships a month which formerly maintained trade relations between America and Scandinavian ports.

Besides flour, large quantities of coffee, cocoa, and tea are shipped to Copenhagen. These are considered by the belligerents as contraband of war. But as the consignments are made to Scandinavian firms they cannot be seized unless it is proven that the shipments are destined for countries with which the allies are at war.

According to Scandinavian mariners, the free port of Copenhagen is clogged with exports for Luebeck and Stettin, the largest Baltic Sea ports Germany has. Shipping on the Baltic Sea is practically in the hands of the Germans, as the Russian navy has not been able to run the blockade of the Baltic Sea ports which Germany is said to have effected soon after the outbreak of the war.

Officials of the Scandinavian-American Line admitted that their export business had almost trebled since the outbreak of the war and that they had been compelled to charter steamships to take care of the increase in the export business between America and Scandinavian countries.

Local officials of the Scandinavian-American Line admitted also that the exports from Copenhagen to the United States had almost doubled since the outbreak of the war. That Germany is still exporting large quantities of her home products is evidenced by the fact that 7,000 barrels of German beer arrived last week in Hoboken from Copenhagen via the Scandinavian Line.

In view of these facts, the public can see what a difficult task is placed on the British navy, and that Britain is quite justified in taking vigorous right of search measures to prevent contraband supplies getting into Germany. That is the only method Britain can adopt at present, when Germany has control of the Baltic, together with two important ports there open to business. But so far as Canada is concerned, the Government of this country should make every effort to prevent food and other supplies finding their way to Germany. When it is remembered that Germany is fighting without regard to the rules of civilization and humanity, the need for the most vigilant inspection of all exports and sea cargoes is certainly justified. If Canada shipped her flour and wheat over east and west Canadian lines, there would be no danger of it going to Americans, who, if not sympathetic to the German cause, have at least no compunctions about selling it to Germany or agents of that country. Owing to the fact that the Liberals wanted closer relations with the United States and north and south railway lines, this country has the Conservatives to thank for no more north and south lines than there are. The question of the Dominion Government keeping a closer watch on flour shipments is important and quite feasible, and would be a distinct assistance to the British navy in keeping control of shipping on the high seas.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

IF ALDERMEN Edgar and Saunders had brought in a resolution to the effect that the city should not pay the expenses of aldermanic trips to Ottawa or other places, and to see that no city official is appointed who is not competent, instead of a resolution for cutting down the salaries of efficient public servants, there would be some hope that Peterborough would receive a measure of proper municipal government. As it is, that trip to Ottawa has put the Council off to a bad start.

IT SEEMS that the manner in which certain delegations disport themselves when away from home demands that an itemized account of the expenses of all delegations should be published.

DID YOU NOTICE that while there has been plenty of gossip, none of the notables who journeyed to Ottawa are making public addresses about the trip down?

AN INQUIRER wants to know if some of the "expenses" of that delegation to Ottawa will figure in "grants to poultry association."

Uncle Sam Now a Big Lender.

(Montreal Journal of Commerce.)

Within the past few weeks foreign countries have placed loans in the United States amounting to $72,590,000, of which Canada secured nearly $20,000,000. Other countries to secure funds in the neighboring Republic were Argentina, Panama, Norway, Sweden, France and Switzerland, while Holland is about to ask for subscriptions for a $110,000,000 loan. Great Britain, which is usually regarded as the world's banker and money lender, is fairly busy at the present time financing her own undertakings, and as a result the United States is coming more into prominence as a factor in the world's finance.

INCREASE THE PRODUCTION.

Editor Review.

Dear Sir,—The Minister of Finance calls the attention of the farming community to the fact that already the market for food stuffs is showing a great advance and that if the Canadian farmer is to take advantage of his opportunities both as a business man and a patriot, he will increase his production as much as possible.

THAT WILD GOOSE CHASE.

Editor, Review:

Dear Mr. Editor,—Some time ago the M. P. for West Peterborough, through the Press, informed the people that all that could be done had been done, so far as getting a mobilization camp here; (at least the people of his own party that put him in power should have accepted his statement(; but, no; the Mayor and his followers KNEW BETTER, with the result that they travelled to Ottawa on the taxpayers' money, only to find that what the M. P. had said was true.

Before the nominations or elections, I objected to the idea of Mr. Harry Rush, that of "re-electing the Mayor and Council by acclamation, in order to save five or six hundred dollars election expenses." My objection was based on the principle that such a Mayor and Council would waste more in thousands: and, while neither the Mayor nor the Council were re-elected by acclamation, the statement still stands, and to prove it, I refer to THE WILD GOOSE CHASE TO OTTAWA.

Are the Mayor and his followers entitled to spend the money of the taxpayer in little trips? Is the taxpayer or the M. P. not to be considered? There are enough matters to be looked after in Peterborough that need the attention of the city officials, without spending time and money of the taxpayer, CHASING THE BAG OF GOLD AT THE FOOT OF THE RAINBOW.

I again repeat what I said before, "THE BUSINESS OF THE CITY IS VERY SERIOUS BUSINESS," and should not be in the hands of incompetents.

A NON-VOTING TAXPAYER.

FIFTY YEARS OF PROGRESS

Union Bank's Fiftieth Report Shows Net Profits of $712,000—Public Deposits Increased — Strong in Liquid Assets

The fiftieth annual report of the Union Bank of Canada, shows net profits for the year ended November 30th, 1914, of $712,440.00 as compared with $750,000.00 for the previous year. This slight contraction in view of the worldwide depression was to be expected, and is on a par with the experience of other banks which have issued their reports. Apart from the decrease in net earnings, the bank made satisfactory progress during the year. While deposits are down $2,000,000.00 from the showing of the previous year, Public deposits increased $386,410.00 the general item being largely affected by withdrawal of deposits on account of Provincial Government's special needs. Total assets, however now stand at $81,561,000.00 or almost $1,000,000.00 more than at the close of 1913.

A feature of the report calling for comment is the strength of the bank's liquid assets. These stand at nearly $26,500,000.00 and bear a very high ratio to its total liabilities to the public. Another noteworthy feature is the fact that current loans throughout the year amounted to over $50,200,00.00 or over $4,000,000.00 more than for the previous year, which indicates that the bank dealt generously with its customers and did not restrict credit. The usual dividends were paid throughout the year and in addition a bonus of 1 per cent. making total disbursements of 9 per cent. The bank with its usual care has set aside the sum of $215,000.00 for possible depreciation of securities, a considerable part of which will doubtless be recoverable in normal times.

Long Lived Ships.

If the life of the old man-of-war was longer than that of the present Dreadnought the old merchantmen lived longer still. The Lively, for instance, when wrecked at Cromer in 1888, had been afloat two years over a century. The Liberty, too, built at Whitby in 1750, was in regular use till 1856, and the Betsy Cains, which began life as a frigate and ended as a collier, went down in her one hundred and thirty-seventh year. And in 1902, according to a daily paper, the Anita, then trading between Spain and America, dated from the days of Columbus. —London Standard.

A "SCRAP OF PAPER"

At ten minutes past seven in the evening of the fourth of August, 1914, within the four grim walls of the Berlin Foreign Office, there transpired a twenty-minute interview, the most dramatic of which history holds record. * "Will Britain," queried the German Chancellor, "fight just for a scrap of paper?" The British Ambassador made terse reply, "That solemn compact simply has to be kept." For that "scrap of paper" was the public law of Europe guaranteeing the independence and neutrality of the Belgian nation. * Eighty-three years ago Britain had signed. And, whatever the consequences, the mightiest of empires was tossed into the melting-pot of a world-war. Belgium also had subscribed. Would she, too, risk all for honor? Her reply was sealed in blood on the ramparts of Liege; and, forthwith, Devastation laid waste her smiling fields and piled her cities in smoking ruins. An empire in arms, a country in ashes, a nation homeless—and all for a "scrap of paper!" * Magna Charta, too was but a "scrap of paper," but it was the earliest monument of Anglo-Saxon freedom. The Declaration was only a bit of parchment—but it heralded the birth of the American nation. Just such scraps of paper have marked the milestones in mankind's upward climb to freedom. * Mortgages, bonds, debentures, promissory notes—all are but scraps of paper. But no self-respecting man and no honest corporation can wantonly repudiate such commitments. * As it lies in your drawer or your safe, your life assurance policy measures but four inches by nine. It, too, is only a "scrap of paper." But the scrap of paper bears on its face the corporal seal of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada. It is backed by over Sixty Millions of Assets and nearly five decades of honorable dealing. In times like these it may easily spell the salvation of your business. Should you die, of all your scraps of paper it alone may be worth one hundred cents on the dollar. In years to come it alone may be left to buy bread for your mother, your wife, or your children. * That "scrap of paper" represents the most sacred of your obligations. Respect for it is the measure of your honor. * Keep it inviolate, whatever the cost!

A Burned Barrier

The Lover Laid His Pride at His Sweetheart's Feet

By MARIE MONTROSE

Down the dust white country road sped Doxy, palpitating and panic stricken, her eyes bent on a volume of smoke that was rolling up from the sheep dotted pasture. She went "cross lots" and came to the charred remains of the old farmhouse, where a knot of neighbors, helpless and wondering, gathered round the pathetically small pile of rescued household effects.

Doxy was not a young woman, but she was of the type that time touched gently. Her eyes were soft and gray and expressive of a past but unforgotten time. Her optimistic fatalism was not wanting in this hour of trouble.

"I don't see how you managed to save so many things," she said to her friends, each of whom at this encouragement began to point out what he had snatched from the flames.

"See, Miss Barton," cried a lad, triumphantly thrusting a tin can into her hand, "I hearn you say as how this 'ere was yer bank, so I grabbed it fust thing."

"Oh, Jim, there is $50 in it!"

Her father, Seth Barton, now arrived upon the scene. His heart was full of memories which were smothered in the philosophical remark, "Never could have saved her in this wind!"

"You and Doxy 'll come right home with us and stay," cordially invited the nearest neighbor.

The others followed suit in this proffer of hospitality, tendering wide open doors.

"You are so kind, but we'll stay right here," said Doxy in response to each invitation. "Our barn upstairs is fitted up snug as a fireside, you know."

Her father's stoical face brightened. He had a catlike clinging to home—not from love of every heart beat for it, as in Doxy's case, but because he could not bear the thought of uprooting and transplanting.

The neighbors carried the goods and chattels to the barn and helped Doxy arrange a temporary home. While the men were aiding in the evening work their wives prepared supper. Any event, joyful or calamitous, in the district was deemed an "occasion" worthy of a general repast. After supper they departed for their homes. Seth settled down to his evening pipe and weekly paper as if nothing had happened.

Then Doxy in the soft shadows of the dusk stole out and went through the garden to the blackened ruins of tottering walls and crumbled mortar. All the voices of long ago called to her, most persistently the voice of the youth who ten years before had wooed her.

There had been the lovers' quarrel, and Jed Knox in a moment of hot headed anger had sworn he would never again cross the Barton threshold.

Time and events showed him that he was entirely in the wrong and that the quarrel had been of his own making, but he held stubbornly to his oath. With quiet and firm dignity Doxy had refused to see him elsewhere than in her own home.

As Jed's stubbornness increased he grew bitter and morose, avoiding all mention of Doxy.

She started at sight of a man coming from out the ruins, but in an instant she recognized Sol Opper, the village carpenter, early in line for a contract.

"Sol," said Doxy briskly, "I want you to build me a house as near like this as you can."

"Waal, Miss Barton, tell me how much you can put into a house."

"There's the $50 Jim saved, the bank account, a little insurance, some that Hobbs owes us"—

After a mental accounting she gave the total of her capital. Sol shook his head discouragingly.

"You can't do it noways for that money."

"Knock out the cellar," commanded Doxy, "and take off the blinds. In the fall I will use the turkeys for blinds."

"The turkeys!" repeated Sol wonderingly.

"The money I get for selling them, I mean."

When the blinds were off, the bay window deducted, the gables torn off, the back porch taken away, the stairs removed and a general clearing of fireplace, attic, paint, plaster, lath and partitions had been effected the amount of cash available was triumphantly reached.

The architecture appealed to Sol as easy to build, but was not in accordance with his ideas of what a dwelling should be.

"Your house won't have no insides, Miss Barton, but I'll be on hand tomorrow to begin," said he disapprovingly.

When he had gone she again resumed her twilight reveries.

"Miss Doxy!"

She started and, turning, saw the figure of a lad so like the youth of the long ago that there was a momentary stirring in her heart like pain.

"Don't you remember me—Laurie Knox?"

He was Jed's young nephew, who had been used as a child to spend his summer vacations with his uncle.

"Little Laurie! A man!"

"I hope so," he replied, taking her hand. "I came today for a visit after all these years. We just heard of the fire, and Uncle Jed asked me to come and see you and ask if there was anything we could do to help you. Won't you and your father come over to Uncle Jed's and stay, just for the night anyway?"

Had it been so long, then, his struggles? She pondered sadly. It hurt her that he could not come himself, but must send another. She thanked the boy kindly, but declined the invitation. After talking a few moments of old times she bade him go to the barn and see her father.

"You had better come, too," he pleaded. "I don't believe it's just good for you to stay here."

She smiled at his boyish wisdom.

"Just a few moments more, Laurie, and then I'll join you and father."

It was very quiet. A lone bird called. She felt solitary and outlawed. A third time she was interrupted. There was no mistaking the man. Jed, strong and straight, his grimness softened, but showing in the lines of his face, came straight up to her.

"Doxy, I thought they would never go. As soon as I sent the lad I knew I must come myself. I took a short cut, but the Opper man was ahead of me, and then, Laurie."

"Well?"

Her voice was curiously subdued.

"Doxy! I am here at last. I have punished myself all these years, which have not meant much to you, for you are as young and as fair as the night"—

"The night you said you should never cross our threshold."

"Doxy," he cried, seizing her hand passionately, "I have suffered for it. Be good to me."

"Why did you come tonight, Jed?" she asked quietly, but with beating heart.

"Why? Because everything brought me. I couldn't keep away."

"You came," she said, turning proudly away, "because you knew that at last you could come and still keep your oath, because you knew the house was gone."

"No," he said, with a long breath. "You don't mean that, and you don't think so."

She felt his strong arms about her. She was lifted and carried over the smoking ashes and bricks to the place where the doorstep had been. He held her closely with his left arm while his right hand grasped a blackened beam. In a moment he was standing on the charred threshold, pressing her to him in a tight embrace.

"Here," he said with forced lightness, "I lay my pride at your feet. Now, Doxy, won't you say something?"

"Never mind the ten years now, Jed. They are gone—like the house."

"But we'll have a new house, Doxy, right here, and Sol shall put on and in all those things you told him to leave off."

"I say," cried the voice of Laurie from a distance, "Uncle Seth just found a ten dollar bill in the old dictionary. He says he'll bet it's the one he lost ten years ago!"

MOYEN AGE OUTLINES.

Novel New Afternoon Gown For Thanksgiving Festivities.

BLUE AFTERNOON COSTUME.

The gown pictured here would be a most attractive one to wear at the Thanksgiving matinee dinner or family reunion. The gown is of blue taffeta and has a quaint basqued effect of tapestry figured gabardine whose scalloped hem falls below the hips. A novel feature of the basque is the fact that it is laced up the back. The low collar is finished with a narrow ruffle of batiste edged with lace. The deep circular tunic and draped skirt are of the plain dark blue taffeta.

LINGERIE PILLOWS.

Inexpensive and Easily Made Trifles Suitable For Christmas Gifts.

The daintiness of the lingerie pillowslip grows more apparent each season, and no couch full of satin and velvet cushions is complete without the addition of at least one of these confections.

In shape they are long and narrow, square, heart shaped, diamond shaped, octagonal or star shaped, with and without flounces. They are of fine handkerchief linen, cambric and marquisette.

One is decorated with Venetian embroidery, with medallion lace figures and point de venise lace finishing the edges. Another has fillet lace motifs and flowers. Some are done on fine hand woven linen. If initials are used they are not large and are surrounded by the empire wreath.

Owing to the tendency of certain shoe buckles, jeweled or of silver, to catch in chiffon and lace skirts effort was made by their designers to produce something equally as attractive without the objectionable sharp points and edges. The result is the double loop lace shoe bow, particularly remarkable for the delicacy and beauty of the dentelle work, which stands out in clear relief against the density of a black background. These are worn at the side of the instep.

CHICAGO Jan. 12—Huge sales of wheat to Europe and to millers in the United States helped wonderfully today to quell fears as to the results of a possible opening for Russian shipments thru the Dardanelles. Accordingly, the market finished strong at 3c to 3⅛c above last night. Other leading staples, too, all scored net gains—corn ⅛c to ⅝c, oats ⅜c to 1c, and provisions 7½c to 20c.

MONTREAL GRAIN MARKET.

MONTREAL, Jan. 12.—The foreign demand for Manitoba spring wheat was much better today in spite of the sharp decline in prices here yesterday, and a fair amount of business was done with sales of No. 2 northern to London for February-March shipment at 55s, and No. 3 northern at 54s to 54s 3d. The only business of importance in coarse grains on spot today was a sale of 12,000 bushels of No. 3 Canadian western oats at 60½c per bushel ex-store, but prices for car lots are firm. There is no change in the condition of the market for flour, business being rather quiet for export and domestic account at firm prices. The demand for millfeed is fair.

Butter is quieter, but the undertone of the market is firm.

There was more enquiry from abroad for cheese today. Eggs were active.

Sausage and Sweet Potato

Wash six good-sized sweet potatoes. Put on to boil. When cooked so you can pierce with fork remove, peel and slice into shallow tin in layers. Salt and slightly pepper each layer. Also dot with little bits of butter. Put layer of either link or sausage cakes on top. Put in oven and bake hard for fifteen minutes. Serve in same dish.

New England Hash

One pint of cold cooked corned beef chopped fine, one pint of cold boiled cabbage, one cup of sliced carrots and one-half cup of sliced turnips. Chop all separately and very fine. Cook one tablespoon of butter and one of flour together until smooth. Add one cup of tomato juice. Stir to a smooth sauce. Add ten drops of onion juice, and pepper to taste.

Mix meat and vegetables together. Put into tomato sauce. Stir very little. Turn into well-greased pan. Put layer of bread crumbs on top. Dot with butter. Cover and bake twenty minutes. Remove cover and brown. Serve with horse radish and catsup.

Brown Betty

One cup of bread crumbs, six large apples (peeled and sliced), one cup of molasses, one-half cup of cold water, one-half cup of sugar, butter size of walnut, pinch of salt and grated nutmeg. Put thin layer of sliced apples in bottom of buttered pudding pan. Sprinkle with little sugar, then put layer of crumbs over apples; dot crumbs with bits of the butter and dash of nutmeg. Continue in this way until all crumbs and apples are used. Mix the water and molasses. Turn over and around sides of the pan. Set the pudding dish in pan of hot water and bake forty minutes or until apples are tender. Serve hot with foamy sauce.

Barber a Man of Strength.

"I suppose that most people," said a barber, "would consider plying the shears and razor as comparatively easy work; they would not expect to find barbers men of muscle.

"The fact is that standing all day and even in the easier parts of his work using his arms all day in various positions the barber keeps his muscles in constant exercise, while in such operations as shampooing and massage he is called upon for the exertion of downright strength.

"He may not have the muscle of a man always in strict training, but I think you would find that, as a rule, the barber is no weakling."

If it is a violation of neutrality for Yankee sailors to sing "Tipperary," how about the Yankee chorus girls doing Turkish dances.

Good thing Russia never enthused over the good roads movement, or the Germans might have made much better progress.

MEAT HELD SINCE NOV. 17.

British Government Found Vessel Had a Fraudulent Manifesto.

LONDON, Jan. 12. — The Norwegian steamers Alfred Nobel and Bjornstjerne Bjornson, loaded chiefly with lard, bacon and other products of Chicago packing houses, have been held with their cargoes in British ports since the middle of November. The cargoes are consigned "to order" at Copenhagen. The Nobel sailed from New York Oct. 20, and arrived in Liverpool Nov. 17. The Bjornson left New York Oct. 27 and was taken into Leith Nov. 17.

It is said by the owners of the vessels that they sailed from the United States before the British announcement of Oct. 29 that all supplies that a belligerent army might utilize must be definitely consigned to some firm or individual.

The Swedish steamer Fridland, which left New York Oct. 28 for Copenhagen, and arrived at Kirkwall Nov. 10, and was taken thence to Shields Nov. 30, also is still being held. Like the Nobel and Bjornson the Fridland is loaded with packers' products.

The Foreign Office was advised that the Fridland's manifest was fraududent, it being alleged that rubber was listed in it as gum. The cargoes of all three ships have been held for a prize court.

The Foreign Office says that the delay in bringing the cases to trial was due to the request of the owners for time to complete their evidence.

Japanese Seek Prinz Eitel.

LIMA, Peru, Jan. 13. — Japanese cruisers continue to be active along the coast of Peru seeking the German converted cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich.

The latest reports received here set forth that the Japanese armored cruiser Asama went into the port of Payta, Peru, Monday, took on provisions, and left the same afternoon. There is reason to believe that the British steamer Oriana, on her way back to Liverpool from the Pacific coast of South America, was being sought by the German boat. In any event, it is apparent that Japanese cruisers are endeavoring to come up with the Eitel Friedrich.

OTTAWA, Jan. 13. — The cruiser Rainbow has been sent by the Naval Department to the assistance of the Fisheries Protection cruiser Galiano, which has gone ashore near Esquimalt on the Pacific coast. The crew of the Galiano are reported safe.

BAD WEATHER HALTS EASTERN OPERATIONS

Russians Are Fighting Hard to Break Through to Cracow and Germans Are Confining Their Offensive to Section of Line Before Warsaw.

LONDON, Jan. 13.—Heavy storms prevail in the east, and while they have not completely stopped the fighting they have called a halt over the greater part of the field of operations. In restricted areas, along the river Pawka near Bolimow, however, there has been fierce fighting, but, according to Petrograd correspondents the Germans have been unable to make any serious advance. Severe fighting also is taking place on the Nida river, where the Austrians are opposing the Russian attempts to penetrate to Cracow.

The Turks have been offering stubborn resistance to the Russians at Kara Urgan, where a battle has been in progress for five days. The position at this place is more favorable for the Turks, who have not the deep snow of the mountains to contend with, and are in closer touch with their base. It is a death struggle for them, for so long as the Russian fleet commands the Black Sea the Turks cannot get reinforcements from Europe, the overland route being a long and difficult one. They have an army corps at Bagdad, but this is needed to oppose the advance of the British Indian army from the east.

An official statement issued last night at Petrograd says:

"On the left bank of the Vistula on the night of Jan. 11 and all the following day the Germans continued the attempts which have become customary of late to attack by small detachments at different points along our front, but nevertheless all these attempts were easily repulsed by our rifle fire and cannonading, which inflicted grave losses on the enemy.

"The Germans showed a more obstinate offensive which, however, failed in the region of the village of Soutaba, making four separate attacks, and also near the Moghely farm, where they delivered two attacks.

"At daybreak on Jan. 11 along parts of our front, our scouts approached very near to the German trenches, and successfully attacked them by means of hand grenades, inflicting severe losses.

"According to supplementary information, the Germans suffered considerable losses in an attack on the night of Jan. 10 in the neighborhood of the village of Samice, abandoning 500 killed on the field. Our field searchlights were of much service during the attack.

"On the other fronts there is no essential change."

INDUSTRIAL ASSOCIATION

I am also in receipt of 100 cards covering applications from the unemployed.

With many thanks for your good wishes, which I heartily reciprocate, I am,

Yours faithfully,
H. D. SCULLY,
Secretary."

On a report being made to Mr. Burnham, the member of Parliament, of the work of the association, he replied:

"Thank you very much for your note. It is very reassuring. It is a very good thing to have a man of your acute perception and tender sensibilities on guard in matters of this kind."

The men to whom Mr. Langley has been of assistance speak very warmly in his praise and of the good offices of Mrs. Langley, who is indefatigable in her assistance in the work, and particularly among the women. When the report is analyzed, it shows that for every day since the Industrial Association commenced operations, two applicants have been supplied with a position, thus relieving the city of the necessity of providing for the applicants. The citizens generally should be pleased with the success achieved. This is another instance of the power of organized effort, and if all the citizens would take it upon themselves to patronize the Industrial Association by undertaking some work now that otherwise will be put off for a year or more, but must eventually be done, and ring Mr. Langley at 1659, a great deal of suffering and a heavy drain on the resources of the city will be relieved. The association's motto of "Work, not Charity" seems to be entirely popular with the applicants, and it is a well-known fact that charity very often reaches the persons least entitled to it, and in this way tends to increase pauperism and destroy independence.

The association is able to supply an almost unlimited demand for any kind of help, and earnestly solicits the assistance of the citizens in making its existence as useful as possible.

Guarantees Supplies

Germany's Treaty With Turkey Published in Bulgaria.

PARIS, Jan. 13.—A news despatch received here from Deagatch, Bulgaria, says there has been made public there a synopsis of a treaty recently concluded between Germany and Turkey.

This treaty provides that Germany shall furnish Turkey during the war with munitions, material and the money necessary for the Turkish army, and supply also a sufficient number of German officers and specialists to meet Turkey's requirements.

In case of victory, Germany agrees to pay Turkey one-fifth of her war indemnity; in case of defeat, Germany will introduce into the peace treaty a clause guaranteeing the integrity of Ottoman territory. Each country agrees not to conclude peace without the other.

Turkey, under the terms of this agreement, is bound to make war against Great Britain and Russia. France is not mentioned in the document.

Notice has been given already of over seventy private bills for the coming session of Parliament. Of these, 25 are applications for divorce. Last year there were 42 applications of this kind.

Suffrage is Defeated

Resolution in U.S. House is Overwhelmingly Voted Down.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Woman suffrage went down to overwhelming defeat in the House of Representatives yesterday. By a vote of 204 to 174 the House refused to pass the Bristow-Medill resolution to submit to the different States an amendment to the national constitution providing that the right of suffrage should not be denied because of sex.

A two-thirds majority of the House and Senate is necessary for the passage of any resolution for a constitutional amendment.

The vote was the culmination of a ten-hour battle, in which the perfervid oratory of the champions and opponents of the resolution was cheered and hissed in turn by the women who packed the galleries almost to suffocation. So vociferous were those in the gallery that Speaker Clark several times threatened to have the galleries cleared.

Redmond Again Heads League.

DUBLIN, Jan. 13.—(Via London.)—John Redmond yesterday was reelected president of the United Irish League at the annual meeting of the directorate held here. Resolutions were adopted congratulating the Irish nation on the triumphal end of the agitation of the past forty years for a national self-government, but maintaining that in view of the critical situation which might arise in the near future, the continued existence of the national organization until the crisis has passed is vitally essential.

Noury Bey Captured.

PETROGRAD, Jna. 13. — (Via London.)—Noury Bey, chief of the General Staff of the third Ottoman army corps, who was sent by the Sultan to the Caucasus to investigate the cause of the defeat of the Turks by the Russians at Sari Kamysh, has been captured by Cossacks at Kara Urgan, according to the Tiflis correspondent of The Bourse Gazette.

During the past few days about 30 cases of typhoid fever have developed in Brockville, some serious. Four samples of water sent to Dr. Connell of Kingston, bacteriologist of Queen's University, showed contamination. The board of health will now take action.

WOULD RAISE RATES.

C. P. R., C. N. R. and G. T. R. Will Make Application to Board.

OTTAWA, Jan. 13.—The Canadian Northern, Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk will make an application for increased freight rates in eastern Canada. The application will be formally made to the Railway Commission shortly.

The following statement from a high official of the Canadian Pacific was made yesterday:

"It is understood that following the decision of the United States Interstate Railway Commission in granting an increase in freight rates in the eastern states, the Canadian railway companies are considering the advisability of asking for a somewhat similar increase in eastern Canadian rates. The fact is, there have been large decreases in freight rate earnings and greatly increased operating expenses in both countries, and practically similar conditions exist in Canada as those across the border, where an increase of rates was freely given."

Seems to be about time that Austria and Turkey got together to issue a black and blue paper.

CANADA WILL LIKELY REVISE PENSION LAW AFTER WAR IS OVER

A Little Over Two Dollars a Week is the Amount Now Payable to the Widow of a Soldier, and if She Has Children She Gets a Few Cents More—Totally Incapacitated Soldier Gets $1.50 a Week.

As the law of Canada now stands, the Government allowances to the widow of a Canadian soldier who gives up his life for the country amounts to a trifle over $2 a week on which to maintain herself for the balance of her days, says the Toronto Star Weekly.

If she has two or more children—some of the soldiers have eight and ten—she must make ends meet on $2.50 a week. That allows her just about enough money to rent one of the poorest houses in town or city, and leaves nothing for maintenance.

The widow of a lieutenant who sacrifices his life for patriotic causes is faced with a schedule of pension rates, slightly higher, but still leaving her no alternative to working for a living or subsisting on the good graces of relatives. She may expect, with no children, $209 a year; or with one child $292; and with two or more children $365. The lieutenant's widow, therefore, has a minimum guarantee of $4 a week.

That is how the pension allowances at present in force propose to take care of the courageous and unselfish men who have shouldered arms for their country. Thus far, there has been no indication that the Dominion Government has considered a revision of the rates, which are, of course, hopelessly out of date, and based on a standard of living which would mean poverty in nearly every community the world over. Vital as the subject is, very little attention has been directed toward it. From what was said in a number of interviews with members of Parliament, clergymen, labor leaders, and others, the next session of the House will see the subject under debate and a remedial measure probably introduced.

The pension rate for privates who return to Canada sick or incapacitated by their wounds will certainly not appeal to Canadians as the proper reward for national heroes. A private who is only "slightly incapacitated," which may mean any number of painful and distressing conditions, is allowed $75 a year, which means approximately $1.50 a week, an amount that would not give him a room in a good boarding house, not to mention a supply of food or clothing. If "materially incapacitated," a term which carries its own meaning, he gets $110, a trifle over $2 a week. If wholly incapacitated, he gets $150, nearly $3 a week. The latter sum represents, perhaps better than any other item, the serious insufficiency of the whole Canadian pension arrangement. A soldier who gives to his fellow-countrymen his last jot of bodily usefulness is "taken care of" by a weekly allowance which will keep no man in the necessaries of board and lodging, let alone any provision for his wife and children. That, however, is the letter of the Canadian law, and precisely that reward will be foisted upon the widows and the wounded unless the change comes about at the next session of Parliament.

As Mr. N. W. Rowell, leader of the Ontario Opposition, pointed out in a recent address, the rates allowed by the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Act to widows of men killed in our factories were more than double what Canada was willing to pay to widows of soldiers under the present pension law. The widow of a workman will receive, under the Act, $240 a year if she has no children; if one child, $300; if two or more children, $360 and up. There is an additional allowance for children up to the number of eight. If a workman is incapacitated, slightly or seriously, so that he cannot follow his usual calling, the weekly payment is based on 55 per cent. of the man's wages. In place of the soldier's pittance when wholly incapacitated of about $3 a week, the workman under the same circumstances will draw on an average of from $6 to $12 weekly.

It is essential to remember that when the war is finished and the great task of looking after the dependents commences, there will be no patriotic or other public funds from which to supplement the Government's pension. The $1.50 and $3.00 per week handed out to the heroes will represent in most cases the total resources upon which those men can rely for the rest of their lives. Pension funds in all countries appear to be based on the assumption that the widow of a soldier should devote the balance of her life to day labor, and indeed the same assumption would seem to be directed at a lieutenant's or captain's widow. A wealthy Canadian citizen, when asked for his opinion on a pension increase, made the remark that wives of soldiers should not be "supported in idleness" for the rest of their lives. This will probably appeal to most Canadians as a bitter and most unjust comment. It amounts to a declaration that the service of a soldier to his country may involve not only his own death, but a lifetime of penury and drudgery for his wife and family. Canadian public sentiment would give hearty approval to any proposal that would guarantee the wife of every enlisted man a decent income for the rest of her life, should misfortune befall the breadwinner.

"I am ready to give hearty support to a new pension schedule," remarked Mr. Edmund Bristol, M.P. "Indeed, I have not the least doubt that any Government measure designed to put the pensions on an equitable basis would receive hearty endorsation on both sides of the House. It is not a controversial matter, surely, and what injustices there are in the present law should be removed without delay."

POLAND A KINGDOM

Effect of Czar's Promise Would be World-Wide.

By his proclamation to the Polish populations of Russia, Germany, and Austria, announcing his intention to restore to Poland her territorial integrity with complete self-government and guarantees for religious liberty and the use of the Polish language, the Czar has made possible the fulfilment of the day for which the Poles have so long waited.

Fifty years ago Poland (or Polsko, "the land of plains") lost her independence. With it disappeared as a definite nation a race of people whose past was one of imperishable memory. In those days, when civilisation and Christianity were struggling to overcome barbarism and paganism, Poland was the strong bulwark which withstood the raids of the Asiatic hordes, which championed the cause of humanity and enlightenment. Her history possesses a wealth of incidents unsurpassed for their picturesqueness, and the story of her fall from an honored place in the Councils of Europe to her present position of dependence is one of inexpressible sadness.

The victim of the ambitions of her powerful neighbors, Poland, weakened by internal discord, was stripped of her fair lands by partitions of 1772, 1792, 1795. The kingdom was finally divided by the Congress of Vienna in 1915 in such a way that the shares of Prussia and Austria were reduced and the Grand Duchy of Warsaw united to the Russian empire as the kingdom of Poland. In 1831, however, the Poles rebelled and were crushed, with the result that they were deprived of their Constitution, their army was merged in the Russian, and the Russian language made compulsory. In short, Poland become mere Russian provinces.

Thus the voluntary promise of the Czar to reconstitute a complete Poland, with its own Constitution, language, and religion, under a Russian Viceroy, is a political event of the first importance. It illustrates one of the many examples of the reshaping of the world which will result from the war, for Prussia would have to contribute about 26,000 square miles of territory and Austria about 35,000 square miles, while Russia would voluntarily surrender her share—some 220,500 square miles. The new kingdom would thus be nearly five times as large as England, and have a population as big as that of Spain.

Historic Huy.

Huy, in Belgium, is the burial place of Peter the Hermit, who aroused Europe to holy zeal and inspired the first crusade against the Saracen. He founded here the abbey of Neufmoustier, and it is within its limits his ashes are interred. The single fortress is perhaps stronger than any one of the defenses at Liege, the citadel being partly excavated in solid rock. It commands the passage of the Meuse, on both banks of which the city is picturesquely situated amid lofty rocks. The Church of Notre Dame, a graceful Gothic edifice, was begun in 1311. The town is seventeen miles southwest of Liege. Its industries are paper, leather, beer, zinc, spirits and wine.

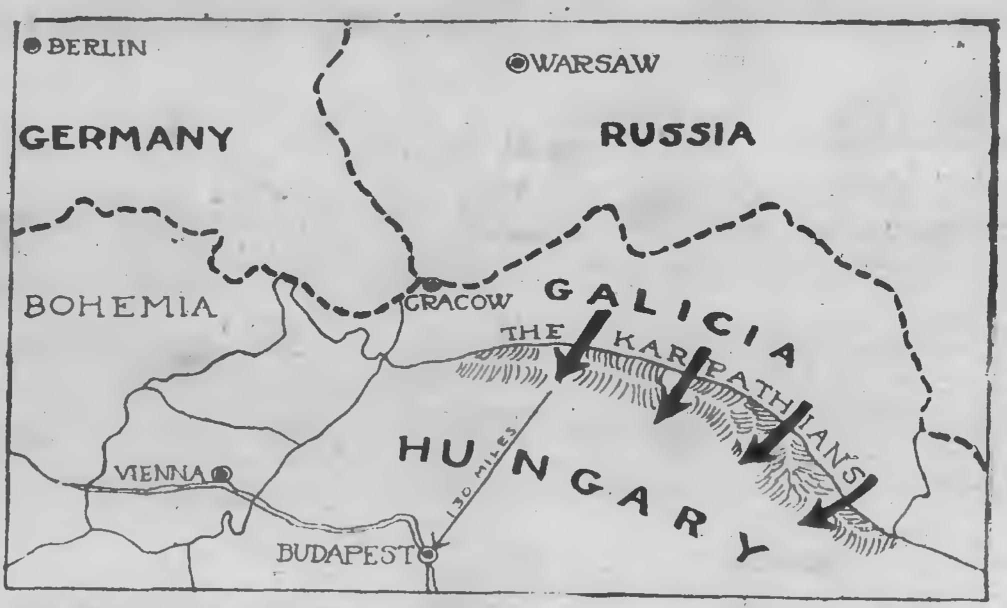
RUSSIA'S NEW CAMPAIGN IN HUNGARY



THIS MAP SHOWS THE DIRECTION OF THE NEW RUSSIAN OFFENSIVE WHICH HAS AGAIN ROUTED THE AUSTRIANS AND CROSSED THE CARPATHIANS. THE FOUR RUSSIAN ARMIES ARE NOW MOVING ACROSS THE PLAINS OF HUNGARY IN THE DIRECTION OF THE CAPITAL, BUDAPEST. MILITARY CRITICS ASSERT NOW THAT, WHATEVER PRESSURE OF VALUE TO THE ALLIES CAN BE EXERTED BY RUSSIA, DEPENDS UPON THE SUCCESS OF THIS NEW DRIVE THROUGH THE CARPATHIAN PASSES TO THE CAPITAL OF HUNGARY. THE MOST INTERESTING DEVELOPMENT TO WATCH NOW WILL BE THE EFFORTS OF GERMANY TO MEET THIS NEW RUSSIAN STRATEGY.

TRYING TO ENVELOP RHEIMS' BESIEGERS

French Advance in Alsace is Stopped by Bad Weather and Increase in German Forces Rushed to Scene—Kaiser's Generals Will Endeavor to Retrieve Losses.

FOE MUST QUIT BELGIUM

LONDON, Jan. 13. — The French attacks to the north of Soissons, on the Aisne and near Perthes, east of Rheims, are developing into a serious offensive. The gains which the French have made at these points, if followed up would have a two-fold importance. They threaten the railways which the Germans are using to supply their troops in the fighting line, and are a serious menace to the German forces which hold positions to the north of Rheims.

The French have found it impossible to take those positions from which the Germans are bombarding Rheims by frontal attacks, but advances on either side would envelop them and force a retirement, thus giving the cathedral city much desired relief from the German shells, from which it has suffered so much.

In the Argonne and on the heights of the Meuse the Germans are on the offensive and claim to have made further progress. It is reported that the Germans have sent heavy reinforcements to this district to prevent the French from breaking their lines, which are very close to their own border and not far from Metz.

Fresh German troops despatched to Alsace, combined with the wintry weather, have stopped the French advance in that region. Along the rest of the front the artillery is doing most of the work. Only isolated attacks are being attempted, the state of the weather and ground making the movements of any large bodies of troops out of the question.

Last night's French bulletin was as follows:

"To the northeast of Soissons the enemy throughout all last night bombarded our positions on the plateau of Perrieres and on 'Spur 132.' With the object of taking the latter point, he delivered to-day a strong attack, the result of which is not yet known.

"There is no other event of importance to report."

The afternoon bulletin said:

"From the sea to the Oise there was yesterday an intermittent cannonading, fairly violent at certain places.

"On the Aisne, to the north of Soissons, determined attacks have been delivered against the trenches occupied by us the 8th and the 10th of January. The enemy during yesterday attacked our positions several times. We repulsed him, and we took possession of more trenches.

"From Soissons to Rheims there were artillery exchanges. Our heavy pieces of artillery responded efficaciously to the batteries and the mine-throwers of the Germans.

"In Champagne, in the region of Souain, there was yesterday very active shooting by our artillery directed against the positions of our adversaries near Perthes.

"Le Fortin, situated to the north of the Beausejour farm, was the scene of a desperate encounter. The enemy succeeded in setting up a trench at a point within a series of field-works, the commanding position of which was held by us. This fighting is still going on.

"In the Argonne and as far as the Meuse there have been two German attacks, one at the Forest of Consenvoye and the other at the Forest of Bouchot. Each was repulsed.

"To the southeast of Cirey-Sur-Vezouse one of our detachments surprised and put to flight a German company which was pillaging the village of St. Sauveur.

"In the Vosges and in Alsace the day passed quietly. Bad weather and the snowstorms continue."

A despatch from Lousanne, Switzerland, says:

"Rain and snow has fallen the past two days in Upper Alsace and has caused both the French and German armies operating in the vicinity of Muhlhausen and Altkirch to suspend their activities.

"Advices reaching here from Basle say the Germans are planning a big offensive movement with the view of recapturing positions they lost in Alsace."

The following despatch has been received from Amsterdam:

"Although fresh German troops were continually being sent to the front on the Yser, a passage of the river even if the allies' position could be forced, would be impossible according to a German officer, owing to the inundation of the country on either side of it. The officer added that if the Germans are forced to retire from present positions, Belgium will be devastated as the men have got beyond control."

A HEROIC BISHOP

Mgr. Lobbsdey of Arras Stays in Stricken City

NORTHEAST FRANCE, Jan. 13.—One of the noblest figures in French ecclesiastical circles at the present moment is the Bishop of Arras, Mgr. Lobbsdey, who, undaunted by German shells, has ministered to those of his flock who remained in their cellars in the bombarded area and to the sick and wounded among the French troops. Since the tide of invasion ebbed, Arras has stood at the apex of the enemy's roughly-drawn, obtuse-angled triangle.

The Germans still hold the hecatombs of chalk to the east of the city—natural entrenchments, from which they must be starved or smoked out. Hidden batteries here play on Arras and its purlieus practically every day. Not a single church remains, but the bishop has lived underground with a few scores of elderly members of his congregation, who prefer to be buried under the ruins of their homes rather than to go out into the new and strange world that they know not. So far, the bishop's palace has escaped the enemy's fire, except for a few broken windows, and here the prelate holds his services for the devoted few.

TRAIN NEW ARMY

Canadian Officers Posted Throughout England

SALISBURY, Jan. 13. — Owing to the reorganization of the Canadian Expeditionary Force eight surplus officers from every battalion are being posted in various parts of Britain until vacancies occur through casualties at the front. In the meantime they will help to train the new army.

Among the Ontario men recently transferred from the 3rd Battalion have been posted as follows: Lieuts. R. N. C. Davis and J. A. Cameron to Woolwich; Lieuts. N. P. Kelly and C. L. Clarke to Falmouth Fortress, and Lieut R. N. W. Chitty to the Aviation Corps. Corpl. Mulholland, of Toronto, a member of the Artillery Corps, has secured a commission in Kitchener's army.

Italians Meet Hero's Body.

ROME, Jan. 13.—A great crowd assembled in a severe storm yesterday to meet the body of Constantino Garibaldi, grandson of the famous Italian soldier, who was killed while serving in the French army. In the crowd were veterans of the Garibaldi campaigns, wearing their red shirts, and representatives of various political parties.

SAYS WARSHIP WAS WASTED

Formidable, Needlessly Subjected to Grave Dangers

LONDON, Jan. 13.—Admiral Lord Charles Beresford, retired, in a letter to the press yesterday discusses the loss of the battleship Formidable, which was destroyed recently in the English Channel by a German submarine.

"The ship was lost," says Lord Charles, "under conditions whose repetition after the losses of the Aboukir, Cressy and Hogue, we thought impossible. In both cases heavy ships were sent into water infested with submarines without the protection of torpedo boat destroyers, which are the natural defence against the submarine. The efficacy of the destroyer is shown by the fact that submarines are unable to injure the British squadron off the Belgian coast. It is unpardonable that officers and men should be thus gratuitously exposed to conditions under which they are sent to the bottom without a shot being fired."

PRESIDENT OF E. B. EDDY CO. DIES SUDDENLY

W. H. Rowley Collapsed While Drinking Tea

TORONTO, Jan. 13. — Stricken while drinking tea in the Alexandra room of the King Edward Hotel, William Horsley Rowley, J.P., one of Canada's well-known business men, and president of the E. B. Eddy Co. of Hull, Que., died suddenly of heart disease yesterday afternoon. With no warning whatever, Mr. Rowley collapsed while sitting at a table and expired a few minutes after being carried out of the room. No commotion was caused as the impression gathered by the spectators was simply that a man had fainted. Medical aid was at once summoned, but nothing could be done to save Mr. Rowley's life.

Through his connection as president of the E. B. Eddy Co., and as vice-president and afterwards president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, Mr. Rowley was very well known to business men all over the continent, and was everywhere respected as a first-class business man and the controller of the largest industry of its kind in the British Empire.

Mr. Rowley was born in Yarmouth in 1851 and was educated for the army, in which he was commissioned as a lieutenant of artillery. He turned to commerce before taking up his commission.

An Anglican in religion, Mr. Rowley was a delegate to the Synod, a member of the Chapter of the Treasurer-Seneschal of Christ Church Cathedral, Ottawa. He claimed to be "non-political" in his views, but was a strong Imperialist and an uncompromising protectionist.

Vatican Demands Reparation.

ROME, Jan. 13.—"The German denial that Cardinal Mercier was arrested in Brussels is true in only a technical sense," says The Tribuna in a special edition.

"The cardinal was not physically arrested and brought away from his residence, but he nevertheless was placed in a state of arrest, within his palace, and was watched by the military.

"The holy see has asked that reparation be made by the German Government.

"The action of Germany is awaited anxiously."

The death sentence on Wm. Ruttan, who was to be hanged at Bracebridge on January 15th, was yesterday commuted to life imprisonment in Kingston Penitentiary by the Governor-General-in-Council.

RED CROSS IS PRO-GERMAN

American Society Dishonest Says Envoy

PLEA FOR SUFFERERS

TORONTO, Jan. 13. — The most startling story of pro-German intrigue and political machination that has been revealed in America, at least, since the outbreak of war was laid bare last evening by Dr. L. E. Brown-Landone of Paris, France, who is here to address the Canadian Club. Dr. Brown-Landone is in America primarily to make an appeal for the hospitals of northern France, where the most appalling conditions prevail at the present time, but, being an American by birth and having been in the United States during the past few weeks, his story last night concerned mainly the intense activity of pro-German sentiment in his native country.

In short, according to Dr. Brown-Landone, the Red Cross organization in the United States is nothing more nor less than a pro-German agency. Although given the nominal connection with the United States through the name of President Woodrow Wilson as Honorary President of the organization, the Red Cross Society has for its president, Jacob Schiff, a German Jewish banker, and on account of certain revelations in connection with the sailing of the Red Cross ship from America last fall it has been identified as strongly sympathetic with the German people.

"In the first place," said Dr. Brown-Landone, "the officials of the Red Cross Society in the United States wasted $67,000 in chartering a special ship to carry hospital supplies, which British, Holland and French lines of boats offered to carry free of charge. Then," he continued, "after the ship had left port a protest from Great Britain and France over the predominantly German personnel of the crew resulted in her return to New York. The crew was reorganized, and those who left carried off all the iodine and chloroform in the ship. That the supplies went to Germans almost exclusively is proven by the replies from German soldiers to the notes of good cheer enclosed in the packets."

TO SET UP SYRIA

Britain May Make Her an Independent Kingdom

ROME, Jan. 13.—The Cairo correspondent of The Giornale d'Italia says that Great Britain is planning to transform Syria into an independent kingdom, with Prince Mohammed Daud (a direct descendent of Mohammed Ali, who conquered Syria in 1831-32, but was compelled by the European powers to relinquish his control of the country in 1841) as sovereign under a British protectorate.

This, the correspondent says, will bring to a real test the question whether Great Britain can build a railway from the Syrian coast to Jerusalem.

This Swedish Paper Displeased.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 13.—(Via London.)—The Dagblad, the leading Swedish Conservative paper, expresses great dissatisfaction over Great Britain's reply to the American Government's note concerning delays to commerce, declaring that it indicates a determination to adhere to what it terms the harassing policy of interfering with and restricting the legitimate commerce of neutrals.

The Dagblad declares that the Swedish people will never submit to Great Britain's assumption that she has the right to dictate just how much of any particular goods Sweden requires for her own consumption or how much of such goods she will be permitted to import.

TURKEY HAS CAPITULATED

Porte Yields to Demands of Italy

LONDON, Jan. 13. — Special despatches from Rome yesterday say that Turkey has agreed to the demands of Italy in connection with the Hodeida incident. According to these advices, Turkey has ordered the release of the British vice-consul, Richardson, who was arrested in the Italian consulate at Hodeida, and has promised to punish the soldiers who broke into the consulate, as well as to salute the Italian flag when it is again hoisted over the building.

Investigation of the circumstances attending the invasion of the Italian consulate is still in progress, and the incident will remain open until this inquiry has been completed. In view of the concessions Turkey is reported to have made, however, satisfactory adjustment is expected.

A despatch from Rome, however, says that there are many indications that Italy's entrance into the war is accepted as a foregone conclusion in some quarters.

Large numbers of Germans and Austrians have left Rome within the past few days, and many others are ready to leave at any moment. The exodus is said to be due to advices received from "home authorities."

JOHN GALT, President. G. H. BALFOUR, General Manager.

REPORT OF THE AUDITORS TO THE SHAREHOLDERS OF THE UNION BANK OF CANADA

In accordance with the provisions of sub-sections 19 and 20 of Section 56 of the Bank Act, we report to the Shareholders as follows:

We have audited the above Balance Sheet with the books and vouchers at Head Office and with the certified returns from the branches.

We have obtained all the information and explanations that we have required, and are of the opinion that the transactions of the Bank which have come under our notice have been within the powers of the Bank.

In addition to our verification at the 30th November, we have, during the year, checked the cash and verified the securities representing the investments of the Bank at its chief office and principal branches and found them to be in agreement with the entries in the books of the Bank relating thereto.

In our opinion the Balance Sheet is properly drawn up so as to exhibit a true and correct view of the state of the affairs of the Bank according to the best of our information and the explanations given to us, and as shown by the books of the Bank.

T. HARRY WEBB, E. S. READ, C. R. HEGAN, Auditors, of the firm of
WEBB, READ, HEGAN, CALLINGHAM and CO.,
Chartered Accountants

The President, Mr. John Galt, in moving the adoption of the Report, referred to the strong position which the Bank had maintained during the financial crisis and that they had not found it necessary to curtail loans for legitimate purposes. During the present war conditions our first duty is to defend the Empire; our next to devote all our energy to replacing the wastage of war by increased production, and it is to our farmers chiefly that this must be looked for. A splendid beginning has been made in an increase of about 20 per cent in the land ready for next year's crop. Hard work, courage, and intelligent economy will undoubtedly bring us safely through the present ordeal. We have a fertile land with a hardy, vigorous and industrious population, and though for the time being, our progress may be checked, nothing can stop Canada from becoming a great and prosperous country.

In closing he expressed the regret, which he knew would be felt by all the Shareholders, at the unavoidable absence of Mr. G. H. Balfour, the General Manager, on account of his serious illness, and requested Mr. H. B. Shaw, the Assistant General Manager, to read the report.

General Manager's Address.

The General Manager referred to the unsettled financial conditions which are gradually righting themselves, but it would be necessary to continue a policy of extreme caution, and maintain a strong financial position.

The action of the Finance Minister in making Bank Notes legal tender and in promising financial assistance to the Banks (if required), had been of great assistance in steadying the financial situation and in avoiding anything in the nature of a panic.

It is a hopeful sign that the necessity for economy has been universally recognized, and that efforts have been put forth generally to develop our natural resources along lines that will give the best results.

The profits were at the rate of 14.25 per cent on the Paid-up Capital, and were slightly less than last year. Securities have been written down by the sum of $215,000, which is merely a reasonable precaution in view of the present unsettled conditions. $25,000 has been donated to the Canadian Patriotic Fund.

The policy of maintaining a strong position has been continued and our Liquid Assets are 34.90 per cent of our Liabilities to the Public with other sources of strengthening our position available.

Provincial Government Deposits show a decrease, but Public Deposits show an increase of $386,409.75.

Amount due by Banks and Banking correspondents, elsewhere than in Canada, shows an increase of $2,363,261.11, which is immediately available.

Bonds, Debentures and Stocks show an increase of $1,242,528.57.

We have subscribed for £50,000 of the recent British War Loan.

Call and Short Loans, elsewhere than in Canada, show a decrease of $4,700,409.05. Other current Loans and Discounts, elsewhere than in Canada, show a decrease of $1,167,657.35. Current Loans in Canada show an increase of over $4,000,000.00.

Total Assets amount to $81,561,349.94, showing an increase of approximately $800,000.

Mr. R. T. Riley, the Vice-President, in seconding the motion for the adoption of the Report, referred to the fact that for fifty years the Union Bank has stood the test of time and with "BUSINESS AS USUAL" for our motto, we look forward with confidence to what the next fifty years has in store for us.

Auditors.

Messrs. T. Harry Webb, C.A.; E. S. Read, C.A.; and C. R. Hegan, C.A., were re-appointed Auditors of the Bank.

A resolution of sympathy for the General Manager, Mr. G. H. Balfour, during his serious illness, was passed, and the hope was expressed that he might be speedily restored to health and strength.

The customary resolutions of thanks to the Directors and Staff were passed.

The Scrutineers reported the following gentlemen elected as Directors for the ensuing year: Sir William Price, Messrs. John Galt, R. T. Riley, Geo. H. Thomson, E. L. Drewry, F. E. Kenaston, Wm. Shaw, W. R. Allan, M. Bull, Hon. Samuel Barker, P.C., M.P.; E. E. A. DuVernet, K.C.; Stephen Haas, Lieut.-Col. John Carson, J. S. Hough, K.C.; B. B. Cronyn.

The Meeting then adjourned.

At a subsequent Meeting of the newly elected board, Sir William Price was elected Honorary President; Mr. John Galt, President; Mr. R. T. Riley and Mr. Geo. H. Thomson, Vice-Presidents.

No More Foreign Toys

"We have imported the last foreign toys that will ever be sold over our counters," announced one of the largest departmental stores in Canada, in speaking of the Xmas trade dent today about the Christmas trade and its features. "Of course, for this season we had already brought in heavy shipments, but we find that Canadian firms are beginning to meet the demands of the Canadian market better even than the foreign firms. By next Christmas instead of having dolls dressed according to the ideas of foreign designers, there will be Canadian dolls. Boy dolls with toques and sweaters, and girl dolls with the kind of outer clothing Canadian girls wear. For our toy department the Made-in-Canada idea is working out splendidly."

"But does the Canadian-made toy cost any more?" asked the reporter.

"Sometimes yes, sometimes no. European labor has, as a rule, been cheaper than labor here but on the other hand Canadian made goods are likiier to be made by healthy workmen in healthy shops not the cramped workrooms of Nurenburg, or the sweatshops of New York. When we count in the expenses of our buyers travelling in Europe, the freight, the duty, the trouble we have getting shipments on time, and replacing certain lines that may sell out more quickly than we had expected—the situation is more than in favor of the Canadian-made doll or other toy."

"What about mechanical toys?"

"We expect to get them in Canada by next Christmas. All it needs for Canada to get this additional industry is a little enterprise and patriotism. Our firm has just realized what it never thought of before: that if we order goods from Canadian factories and workmen, then the money we spend is fairly likely to come back to us for other purchases, whereas the toy-maker, for example, that we used to send to Europe and the United States, was absolutely exported beyond our reach. It would even pay us better to buy Canadian goods at a slightly higher rate than foreign goods."

THE ST. LAWRENCE

The St. Lawrence river owes its name to the accidental conjunction of the Festival of Saint Lawrence with the day upon which the first explorer imagined he had discovered the river. Jacques Cartier in 1534 heard from the natives of the Magdalen Islands of a mighty stream threading the continent to an unknown source, and it was while testing this legend that he sailed up the gulf until he could see the land on each side.

In the following years he made a bolder expedition with three ships and the blessing of the Bishop of St. Malo. He sailed past Rimouski and on to Quebec, then known by the Indians as Stadacona. Here the fleet anchored. The French, however, failed in their efforts to colonize the country until a century had passed, largely owing to their high-handed treatment of the Indians.

London's Moated House

The bishop of London inhabits the only moated house in London. The grounds of Fulham palace, thirty-five acres in extent, are entirely surrounded by a moat constructed by the Danish army which encamped here in 879. According to a local historian, "the Danes as winter came on found the high tides encroaching seriously on their position, and not liking to leave the river and run the risk of being cut off from their ships they threw up a bank with a ditch along the river flank of their army and further fortified their position by carrying the ditch round the whole camp. The Danish army gone, it was not likely that any bishop would go to the expense of filling up the moat." The water is now regulated by sluice gates built during the episcopacy of Bishop King, who was appointed in 1611.—London Chronicle.

By HARRY PAYNE BURTON— Staff War Correspondent.

"Look out for the spreading boughs
On the riven forest tree,
Look down where deep in blood and mire
Black Thunder plants his feet and ploughs
The soil for ruin—that is France
Still thrilling like a lyre!"

So sang the heart of great George Meredith as he tramped the bleeding earth of fair Lorraine after the close of the Franco-Prussian war. But that was forty years ago when men were only killed by men, and not by Krupps! TOMORROW no one but a blind poet, walking the plains of Marne, would pen such lines of HOPE—for at the end of the great world war now raging, EVEN SHOULD IT HALT THIS HOUR, there will be too little left of France, or Germany, either, to thrill a note!

Dead men do no singing, and the losses of life in this conflict have nothing even approaching a parallel in all the history of the world.

For the American mind, an ocean away, to grasp at all the appalling slaughter that is reddening Europe, a comparison with the mortality in our own civil war, will serve.

In the four years of the Civil War only about 4,000,000 men altogether were engaged, according to Livermore's figures—2,898,304 on the union side and 1,234,000 on the southern side. Of the union enrollment, according to Fox's "Regimental Losses in the Civil War," but 110,070 were killed in action or perished from wounds received in action during the WHOLE COURSE of the war!

And on the confederate side but 94,000 perished as a result of action, Livermore says!

At the outbreak of European hostilities, the armies of the various nations, SWELLED TO UNHEARD-OF SIZE DUE TO MODERN MILITARISM, were placed by leading authorities at these figures:

Great Britain	798,000
France	2,150,000
Russia	5,400,000
Japan	1,500,000
Belgium	340,000
Germany	3,850,000
Austria-Hungary	2,220,000

Thus it is seen that the world war in Europe has already involved FOUR TIMES as many as were involved in the entire length of our civil war! And it goes without saying that the mortality, PROPORTIONATELY as well as actually, will be much greater for modern armaments are many times as deadly as were the rifles and cannon of '61.

There have been no total official lists of the killed and wounded in the present war compiled yet in any nation, but various unofficial estimates declare that in the first five months of the war at least 1,800,000 lives were lost! And such estimates seem more or less borne out by the sporadic official estimates that have been given out from time to time in various countries.

On December 19 Great Britain issued an official statement to the effect that 84,000 Englishmen had been lost since the British army took the field but that these losses had been more than made good by the introduction of various colonial contingents and home recruits.

On November 19, a French document announced that 100,000 French soldiers had been killed in action up to that date, that 400,000 were sick and wounded and that 90,000 were prisoners in Germany

On November 30, a statement issued at Petrograd, declared that the Austrian losses to that date consisted of 900,000 men and 19,000 officers, although this was probably an exaggeration. A semi-official statement; published November 4 in the North German Gazette, said that the Russian losses against the Austrians had been 420,000 men and that the Russian losses against the Germans had been 340,000. The number of Russians lost at the Battle of the Masurian Lakes alone was fixed, by the Germans, at 150,000!

The Prussian losses in dead alone, were fixed by a Berlin dispatch to Copenhagen, Denmark, a neutral country, at the appalling total of 225,000. This total does not include the German losses sustained by the regiments from Bavaria, Wuerttemberg and Saxony.

No doubt the bloodiest battles of the present war have been the series still raging in the Yser region of Belgium. It is said that the Germans estimate their losses in actual killings there so far at 40,000 and the allies dead at 30,000.

These figures of death are so large that THEY MEAN NOTHING TO THE EYE. To bring home to the American mind the REAL horror that they hide, just consider these figures of losses sustained in the BLOODIEST battles of the civil war:

FIRST BULL RUN BATTLE.—Union losses: Killed, 470; wounded, 1071; missing and taken, 1793. Total, 3334. Confederate losses: Killed, 387; wounded, 1582; missing, 13. Total, 1982.

BATTLE OF SHILOH—Union losses: Killed, 1754; wounded, 8408; captured and missing, 2885. Total, 13,047. Confederate losses: Killed, 1723; wounded, 8012; captured and missing, 959. Total, 10,694.

BATTLE OF GETTYSBURG (July 1-3, 1863)—Union losses: Killed 3070; wounded, 14,497; captured and missing, 5434. Total, 23,001. Confederate losses: Killed, 2592; wounded, 12,706; captured and missing, 5150. Total, 20,449.

Think what these figures MEAN that the battles commemorated by the U. S. every Decoration day were fought with probably less men than are KILLED AND WOUNDED every week in blood-sodden Europe!

They mean that, in short, the business of murdering today has become far more terrible than the world begins to realize yet.

Compared with ALL OTHER WARS in the world's history, they mean that if this war goes on, Europe will be impoverished of strong manhood to such an extent that she may NEVER rehabitate herself—that France may never again come "thrilling like a lyre"—that though the big rulers of Europe may feel that "THE BLOOD OF PEASANTS IS ONLY RED A HUNDRED FEET AWAY," still LIFE, after all, is ONLY BLOOD and that this war of Kruppism is establishing a record for blood-spilling that only historians of the future have complete knowledge of and, what may be worse, ITS EFFECT ON THE HUMAN RACE!

CAPTIVES NUMBER 1,179,800

Paris, France, Jan. 13.—The Geneva correspondent of the Temps says that, according to the figures of the international bureau the number of prisoners of war held by various belligerents now amounts to 1,179,800. Of this number 604,200 men were captives of the allies and 575,600 by Germany and Austria.

How Various Nations Identify Their Soldiers in War Time

Every nation has its own particular method of identifying its dead in war time. Each British soldier has a small oblong card (known officially as Army Form B, 2,067), which is stitched inside the tunic. On it are entered particulars of the man's name and regiment, next-of-kin, etc. Besides this, every article of the man's clothing is stamped with a number which corresponds to one written opposite his name in the regimental records, as well as the county depot of his battalion.

Our method is a little more elaborate than that of Germany, whose soldiers carry a metal disc bearing a number, which corresponds with a number at the Berlin War Office. After a battle numbers, not names, are telegraphed and verified. And the effectiveness of this system may be judged by the fact that after the fighting round Metz in 1870, when the casualties exceeded 40,000, complete lists were posted in the capital two days later.

The Japanese system is very similar. Each man has three discs—one round his neck, another on his waist-belt, and a third in his boot—on each of which are three numbers corresponding to the wearer's name, corps, and brigade respectively, while the Russian soldiers wear a numbered badge shaped like an "ikon"—sacred picture image — which is formally blessed by the priests.

Italy uses a small zinc plate affixed to the trousers at the waist, on which are embossed the soldier's name, place of origin, number, and date of enlistment, while the Portuguese cavalry soldier has a number stamped on his spurs, the infantry having a similar number stamped on their leggings.

The French, who formerly used little aluminium name-plates, which in war with savages seemed an irresistible attraction to the enemy, now use little cards like ours; but Austria still has an ornate identification badge of gun-metal, shaped like a locket, with inside all particulars inscribed on little parchment leaves.

Turkey alone among the nations issues to her soldiers no formal identification badge. Said Edhem Pasha, when remonstrated with regarding the omission: "A dead man is of no use to the Sultan; why, therefore, trouble about him?"

PICTON GAME FRIDAY NIGHT WILL BE FAST

Visitors Have Five Victories Petes Must Win to Stay in Running

When the Intermediates meet Picton here, on Friday night, they will have to win or they are out of the running. Picton has no less than five wins to their credit and naturally they are expecting to make the total six on Friday while the Petes are just as determined to present the visitors with a loss. That both teams are in grand shape goes without saying and it should be a battle royal from beginning to end.

The Peterborough forward line did not work out very well together last Friday evening but the game in Belleville and a couple of practices will set that matter right. Picton have won all their games by their speed and team play, the forwards being extra fast. The two sevens should present a grand exhibition of hockey.

PETES WERE AHEAD AT EACH PERIOD

Cobourgers Put up Good Game but Took the Short Side of 12-5 Score

Playing a far better brand of hockey than they did aweek ago, the Peterborough Juniors found it a rather easy task to defeat Cobourg last evening. As was anticipated both teams put up a very nice exhibition, the only bad feature of it being the poor attendance, but evidently the followers of the Blue and White were saving the "two-bits" for Friday night's game. The couple of hundred present had nothing to regret. It was hockey all through the sixty minutes and the credit of this goes partially to the teams and partially to Referee Lou Marsh. The Petes led all the way the scores at the close of the three periods being 4-1, 6-1 and 12-5.

Those who saw the two teams play in the lakeshore villa last Thursday gave the assurance that the battle here would be one worth watching. The tip was correct. It was one of those fixtures that pleases everyone. Both teams played clean hockey, kept up the pace well and endeavored to play combination. For the first part of the first session the players were bunching it quite frequently but as the game progressed the roving tendency disappeared by degrees. In the latter part of the last period both sevens were showing fine team play. The fact that the scoring was heavier in the last period proves the old time assertion that team play is seventy-five per cent. of every victory.

Lornie Rose, whom the management of the Juniors has been asking to don a uniform since the first workout, was at rover for the Petes and fully deserves all that can be said about him. He was easily the most prominent man on the ice and with Jackson executed the greater portion of the work of the locals. Rose is only seventeen but is well built and has a head like a veteran. He backchecks well, combines with the rest of forwards and is a regular hornet around the nets. His deadly shooting drew applause from the fence on several occasions. Walter Jackson, at centre, played one of the best games of his career. The boy is improving wonderfully and promises to hang up a record before the season is over. Richardson at left wing worked hard all evening but he was not as conspicuous as he has been on previous occasions.

Harold Morrow and Harold Long played a fairly good game on defence and kept the visitors shooting from outside most of the evening. Both Harolds have the weight but they should learn to use it to more advantage. They also have a tendency to delay a little before getting the puck away. Legros in goal is still continuing his good work stopping a lot of "sures ones" out. The first shot that beat him found him having an impromptu dream but it made him more careful for the remainder of the game. The shots that beat him in the last period were all hard ones and while he allowed four to pass him he turned off five times that number.

Bulger, the little goaler for Dick Maher's seven is about as nifty a net custodian as any junior squad could desire and it is not his fault if the team isn't battling for first honors. The boy made a big hit with his cool headedness and if twelve did beat him he saved many more. His defence of Thompson and Horne is fair. Horne is a speedy individual who rushes very well but does not play as good a defensive game as his partner. Both men play the give-and-take style of hockey which invariably finds favor with the spectators.

The shining lights on the forward line were Maher at centre and Ewart on right wing. Time after time they combined for nice rushes and both back-checked very well. The other members of the advance guard, Climo and Skitch were not brilliant but played steady hockey. On the whole the Cobourg team is a nifty little aggregation but were up against a proposition that was a trifle too big. The boys are all young and if together next season will have to be reckoned on.

Petes Scored First.

Jackson was the first man to register and it was after five minutes of play. It resulted from a combined rush by Long, Richardson and the centreman. Ten minutes later the visitors evened it up by a shot from Skitch's stick but the Blue and White annexed three more before the first period ended. During the second session only two goals were secured, both coming to Peterborough, by Jackson and Rose. After the second rest, the teams played much better combination and scored at the rate of a goal every two minutes. Peterborough scored 6 and Cobourg 4.

The teams:—

Peterborough.		Cobourg
Legros	goal	Bulger
Long	r. def.	Thompson
Morrow	l. def.	Horne

KINGSTON, Ont., Jan. 13. — The Anglican bishops of Ontario will meet in this city on Jan. 21 for considering the vacancy at Ottawa. The Bishop of Algoma was selected, but he has not accepted the call, and it is understood that he does not care to take over this charge.

COMMENT As You Like it

LOU E. MARSH, of Toronto, will officiate at the big Intermediate game here on Friday evening between Peterborough and Picton. The well known Torontonian has been working entirely in this district, so far this season, and the manner in which he has performed his duties, has helped a lot, in affording the fans good hockey. According to reports the game in Belleville Monday night would have merged into a rough battle had not Marsh been there with the iron hand. In last night's Junior game he made the boys play hockey, yet did not over do it.

THE FACT that Marsh has been here quite frequently of late has caused him to become acquainted with the Petes and other teams in these groups. The result is an occasional boost in the Toronto Star for which Lou pushes a pencil when not refereeing in the O.H.A., N.H.A., making trial trips in byplanes and breaking records and limbs on motorcycles. Followers of the game in this city are particularly desirous of Marsh handling the remaining games of the Petes.

INTEREST in Friday night's game by fans outside of Picton and Peterborough is shown by the following from today's Globe:—

What looks like the best game on the O.H.A. intermediate list for this week is that at Peterborough on Friday night between Picton and Peterborough. Picton has yet to be defeated, and has one victory over Peterborough, while the only loss Peterborough has sustained is that at the hands of Picton.

"NO SMOKING" has been well enforced at the rink this season. The east side gang should keep up the good work on Friday night. It helps the players beyond estimation.

THE JUNIORS should win from Lindsay Friday evening judging from their showing against Cobourg. The trip to Scugogville would have been taken by many followers of the team had not the Intermediate game been scheduled for here the same night.

THE POPULAR guess for Friday evening's game is even money that the Petes will win by 3 goals.

FRACTURED ARMS BUT FOUGHT ON

New York, Jan. 13.—Jim Flynn, the Peublo fireman, broke his left wrist and Al Reich, former national amateur heavyweight champion, sprained his right wrist in their ten-roung bout in Brooklyn last night. Flynn's accident came in the second round and Reich's in the third, but they fought on, using their uninjured hands in offensive work and their other arms defensively. Reich had the better of it until his wrist was sprained and made a wild rally in the tenth, using the injured hand for several effective blows. From the fourth to the ninth, inclusive, Flynn outfought Reich.

Picton Rooters Ask for Seats

Picton has telegraphed instructions for two hundred seats to be reserved for their supporters for the game on Friday night.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mayor Buller is in Toronto today on business.

Miss Mary Convey, of Hastings, is in the city visiting friends.

Miss Kathleen Schlochow is staying with Mrs. DelaFosse, Aylmer street.

Mrs. Barclay Wiley is the guest of Mrs. Aylmer.

Mrs. Harry Rush is leaving on Thursday morning for a short visit to friends in Orillia.

Mrs. J. E. Latimer, 317 Boswell avenue, will receive Thursday, January 14th, and afterwards on the second Thursday.

Miss Violet Wheeler and Miss Myrtle Penrose left yesterday morning for Battle Creek, Mich., where they will enter one of the large hospitals to train for nurses.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Polley, Trenton, Ont., announce the engagement of their daughter, Bertha, to Mr. Charles L. Maguire, of St. Catharines, Ont., the marriage to take place quietly the last of January.

The Ladies' Aid of Park Street Baptist Church held a talent social yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. Stiner, Aylmer Street. Mrs. Stiner was assisted by Mrs. W. O'Neil. Refreshments were served.

The girls' auxiliary of the Y. W. C. A. are making arrangements to hold a library tea on Thursday, 21st January, which they hope will be well attended. Each person is asked to contribute one or more books to be placed in the library of the Y. W. C. A.

The sympathy of Peterborough friends will go out to Capt. Hazen Ritchie, now on duty at Victoria, where his wife is dangerously ill and also on the loss by sudden death of his brother-in-law, the late W. H. Morley, president of the E. B. Eddy Company.

Peterborough has been very fortunate lately in having the opportunity of attending two such enjoyable performances as have recently been given in the Grand. Both "Mrs. Wiggs," with all the fun and pathos which are inseperably connected with her "cabbage patch," and Mr. O'Hara, with his easy, natural acting and charming songs, provided a great treat.

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Willis, Cobourg, was en fete on Monday, in honor of the diamond jubilee of the marriage of this couple. Mr. Willis is a native of Wedmore, Somersetshire, England. Mrs. Willis's maiden name was Margaret McCardell, and she was born in Pickering. They were married at Perrytown sixty years ago, and much of their married life has been spent in Cobourg. Four of their seven children were present.

One of the most delightful affairs which have taken place in the city this winter was the skating and bobbing party given by Mrs. George Burnham on Tuesday. The guests numbered about sixty, and judging by the merry parties which gathered about the supper tables, the outdoor amusements had been very much enjoyed. A number of guests who were not able to take part in the outdoor sports came in later. Amongst those present were Mr. and Mrs. Dunsford, Miss Dunsford and the Messrs. Dunsford, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Smith, Mrs. and Miss Denison, Mr. H. Rogers, the Misses Rogers, and Lieut. Rogers, Mrs. Clarkson, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Rogers, Mrs. Goodwill, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Nichols, Mrs. and Miss Burnham, the Misses Erskine, Miss Revell, Mr. and Miss Munroe, Miss Burnet, Dr. Hammond, Messrs. Kerr, Scadding, Weller, Carlyle and Lundy.

A very pleasant break in the otherwise quiet social life is afforded this week by the members of the Red Cross Society, who are conducting the tea rooms at the Oriental. This method of raising funds seems to appeal most favorably to people, and the room was crowded all afternoon. The waitresses looked most attractive with the picturesque white headdress of the military nursing sisters, which proved most becoming. Those assisting on Tuesday afternoon were Mrs. Matthews, Miss Davidson, Miss Morrow, Miss Munro, Miss Cameron, Miss Neill, Miss Cummings, Miss Hatton and Miss Eastwood. Amongst the number who thronged the rooms during the afternoon were Mrs. Huycke, Mrs. Roger, Mrs. Roy, Mrs. May, Mrs. Vincent Eastwood, Mrs. Harstone, Mrs. Macdonald, Mrs. Cameron, Mrs. Aylmer, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Mulholland, Mrs. Eastwood, Mrs. Hill, Miss Jenkins, Miss Davidson, Miss Nina Davidson, Mrs. Richard Hall, Mrs. George Lundy, Miss Pearce, Miss Anderson, Miss Nan Hall, Mrs. Stevenson, the Misses Hall, [illegible] Miss Georgie Stevenson.

WEDDING BELLS

DOODY—COLCLOUGH.

At St. Andrew's manse last night the marriage was solemnized of Thomas Doody of this city and Agnes Colclough of Toronto. Rev. Jas. Rollins performed the ceremony which took place at 7 o'clock. After a brief stay in Peterborough the couple will leave for Kingston to reside.

SPRATT—McARDLE.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized this morning at the Church of the Sacred Heart, Wolfe Island, when Miss Sadie McArdle, daughter of Mrs. Mary McArdle, Wolfe Island, was joined in matrimony to Thomas Spratt, son of Richard P. Spratt, of Lindsay, and nephew of Archbishop Spratt and Father Spratt of this city.

The ceremony was performed by His Grace Archbishop Spratt, assisted by the Rev. Father McNeill. The bride was charmingly attired in a gown of white brocaded Duchess satin, with veil of Japanese embroidery caught with orange blossoms. She was given away by Dr. O'Connor, mayor of Gananoque, the bridesmaid being Miss Annie Hickey, who was dressed in coral satin. The groomsman was Mr. Peter Spratt of Peterborough. The groom's present to the bride was a beautiful pendant of pearls, and to the bridesmaid a gold pendant. The luncheon and reception were held in the manse at Wolfe Island, and the many presents which the young couple received testified to the wide popularity which they enjoy. The bride's going-away gown was of blue broadcloth with hat to match. On their honeymoon they will go to Toronto, Niagara Falls, Chicago and other points west.

The wedding march was played by the brother of the groom, Mr. Joseph Spratt, solos being sung by Miss Spratt and the Rev. Father Pechie.

Among the guests present were: Rev. Father Staley, Father McNeill, Father Pechie, Richard P. and Mrs. Spratt, Dr. and Mrs. O'Connor, Dr. and Mrs. W. A. McCarthy, Miss Evoy (Belleville), Miss O'Connor, Miss Spratt, Joseph Spratt, Robert and Mrs. Spratt, M. Lawless and Mrs. Hickey.—Kingston Standard.

Mrs. Brownscombe Painfully Injured

Mrs. Felix Brownscombe, 165 Murray Street, had the misfortune to fracture an ankle bone last night and she is now in Nicholls hospital. She sustained the accident in a rather peculiar manner.

Last night she was at the George Street Church Sunday school room with some other ladies preparing a lunch for the members of the Excelsior Bible Class and Miss Hardill's class of young ladies, who had been out to the Jackson Park toboggan slide for the evening. The lunch was prepared for the young people but before seating themselves a flash light photo of the group was suggested. One of the benches in the school room was used in getting the group arranged. It was pretty well crowded, some of the boys standing on the seat and back of the bench while the ladies stood on the floor at the foot. It is thought that the extra weight caused the bench to collapse throwing those on it to the floor. When it caved in, a portion of it struck Mrs. Brownscombe on the ankle and it was found the bone was broken. Mrs. Brownscombe was removed to the parsonage. Dr. Brown was summoned and had her taken to Nicholls hospital. All the young people regretted extremely the misfortune, and it cast a damper on their spirits for the rest of the evening.

Annual Concert of Conservatory

The annual Conservatory of Music concert, which is always regarded as the big musical event of the winter, will be held this year on February 8 in the Grand Opera House. Mr. R. Gliddon has been preparing for this for months, and is bringing three famous outside musical artists to Peterborough for the occasion. One of these is Leo Smith, the celebrated English 'cellist. Mr. Frank Oldfield, baritone, and Miss L. Adamson, violinist, will also be on the program, and these three stars are expected to provide a high-class program. Miss Ada Richardson, local soprano, will also contribute.

As the concert will be presented this year under the auspices of the Women's War Fund Committee, it is expected it will be rewarded with a large patronage.

The Conservatory Orchestra of 35 pieces is practising faithfully for the event, and are in better form than at any time in their history.

An Address on Persia to the C.L.A. Society

The C.L.A. Society of Charlotte St. Methodist Church was addressed last night by Mr. A. E. Kochaly, a native of Persia, who is studying in this country to be a missionary to his native land.

Previous to the lecture a solo was sung by Miss Ada Richardson and a violin selection was given by Miss E. Jackson, both of which were much enjoyed. Mr. Gates fulfilled the duties of chairman.

Mr. Kochaly gave an interesting description of Persia before passing to the numerous slides with which he illustrated his address. The lecture was very comprehensive and covered in some degree nearly all phases of life in Persia. He illustrated town and city life showing the primitive methods of agriculture, and women grinding corn or wheat in hand stone mills.

Persia has a population of about 15,000,000, largely Mohammedans but, owing to religious differences with the head of the Turkish church it is probable that the Persians will not be drawn into a general holy war.

The lack of proper constitutional or representative government has been the cause of much stagnation. Also the religious objection to anything Christian has prevented inventions and modern ideas from developing the country. The lack of railroads and machinery has been due to this cause. The recent efforts to obtain better government have resulted in a larger measure of religious liberty but still it is a dark country greatly in need of educational and religious enlightenment. This need was well emphasized by Mr. Kochaly.

An invitation to ask questions was responded by numerous members of the audience.

RESIGNATIONS THREATENED AT PORT HOPE

Councillors do not Like Being Left out in the Cold

Port Hope, Jan. 13. — The new members of the council are not at all pleased with the committees as struck at the council meeting. Not one of the new members was honored with a chairmanship. They consider this a concocted scheme on the part of the old members and they resent the action very strongly. In fact some of them are so much put out that they have threatened to resign. They point out that there had been an unwritten law in the council for years that the Reeve and Deputy Reeve were not to hold the chairmanship of a committee, but this year they were both remembered. Further no consideration was given for the large vote polled by the new men and they think this quite unfair.

Mayor Bush has promised to look into the matter and at the next meeting a new slate may be made.

Canadian Governess In Germany.

It is probably not generally known that a Canadian girl is governess in the family of the Duchess of Brunswick, daughter of Emperor William. She is Miss Alice Pearce, a sister of Miss Adelaide Pearce, of the Margaret Cox Home for Girls, Peterboro. Miss Pearce has been in Germany since April. On Nov. 11, and after the war broke out, her sister in Peterboro received a letter, which came by way of the Netherlands, and was unsealed. In this Miss Pearce stated that she was being kindly treated, but made little mention of the war.

Stealing From Dressing Rooms

A case of stealing at the dressing-rooms connected with the Jackson Park skating rink was reported to the police yesterday by Wesley Elliott, who missed a card-case containing a return railway ticket to Regina, from his coat. Detectives Newhall and Meagher visited the rink and secured information which enabled them to locate the guilty party who turned out to be a 12-year-old boy. No steps have yet been taken to prosecute him.

Read Character by the Tongue.

The "science" of glossomancy consists in reading people's characters by the shape and size of the tongue. Thus, according to glossomancists, a long tongue shows frankness, a short one dissimulation, a broad one unreservedness, a narrow one concentration, a long and broad tongue inclination to gossip, a long and narrow one frankness. Those who possess short and broad tongues are untruthful; those whose tongues are short and narrow are sly as well as bad tempered. Hold out your tongue!

MEDICAL MEN ANXIOUS TO QUALIFY FOR SERVICE

From inquiries instituted today by The Review it was definitely ascertained that several members of the medicine profession were seriously thinking of qualifying for medical service in the army. Without exception those who were asked concerning their intentions were disinclined to have their names connected with any definite statement, for the reason that those on the inside of military activities just at present might regard any statement coming from them as savoring of gallery play, or as one member put it, would court the appellation of "rotter." Therefore he said he would not like his name to figure in the matter just yet although he stated that he would probably be the first to go.

It was learned that two others have also expressed themselves as anxious to qualify for army service. This would have to be done before a physician would be eligible.

RE-OPENING OF ALL SAINTS'

One of the most beautiful and striking features of the interior is the splendid gothic arch separating the chancel from the naive and rising to the very peak of the roof. The inside of this arch is mounted with a row of incandescent lamps, which constitute a system of indirect lighting. This dispenses with the necessity of a central chandelier in the chancel and so leaves unbroken the view of the triple chancel window which is one of the most beautiful features of the church.

The chancel furniture is of dark quarter cut oak including choir stalls, clergy seats, communion table and communion rail. These, all mounted on a rich red carpet of Ecclesiastical designs will produce a beautiful and churchly apearance.

The walls and ceiling of the church have been beautifully decorated. This work has been under the direction of Mr. Arthur Kingdon upon whom it reflects great credit and adds greatly to the warmth and cosiness of the interior.

Near the chancel arch and over the font, a marble tablet has been erected to the memory of the late William Van Every. A number of gifts also have been made to the church, including the communion rail by the ladies' Bible class, a large prayer book for the prayer desk by the junior auxiliary, and kneeling cushions for the communion table and communion rail by Mr. William Comstock. The furniture in the rector's vestry is of quarter oak and is the gift of the women's guild.

The church is also indebted to Mr. Alexander, of the firm of Alexander and Miller, for the electric wiring of the new addition, to Mr. Barrie for a skilful piece of work on the organ front, and to Mr. Hall and Mr. Greenwood for racks for the choir surplices, as well as to many other men and women of the congregation, who have given ungrudgingly of their time for various purposes.

The contractors were as follows:

Masonry—Mr. R. Sheehy.

Carpenter work and painting — Ephgrave and Barrett.

Galvanized work — Campbell & Best.

Heating—Adamson and Dobbin.

The building committee consisted of Mr. H. P. Morgan, chairman; Mr. C. E. Sisson, Mr. Thos. Hooper, Mr. F. H. Dawson, Mr. Edgar Worth.

The architect was Mr. Samuel Belcher.

The cost of the building including furniture and exclusive of tower, is $45,000.

The opening services ought to prove of interest not only to the congregation of All Saints but to many others throughout the city. The following is a list of the special services:

Blood Indians Loyal

The loyalty of the Blood Indians to the flag that protects them was made manifest at a meeting held on the reserve shortly after the outbreak of the present European war. Just as soon as Indian Agent Dilworth had informed the Bloods that England was at war, Head Chief Shot Both Sides suggested that a meeting to see what form of assistance the Indians could offer be called.

"What can we do?" exclaimed Chief Shot Both Sides, who presided at the council. "We will do anything that we can."

The Indians were deeply moved and the suggestion was made by some of them that they should turn over to the Government some $4,000 that had been funded for their benefit this year. It was finally decided, however, to offer $1,000 of that amount now and at a later date, if necessity demanded, to offer the remainder.

Every Indian in the encampment stated that if his services were required by the Great White Father, he was willing to take up arms at once, and expression was given in a formal document which was ordered transmitted to the Superintendent-General of Indian Affairs at Ottawa:

"We the undersigned Chiefs and Head Men of the Blood Indian Tribe in council assembled, after due consideration and unanimous consent, beg to submit respectfully the following resolutions:

"Whereas a condition of war exists against the children and dominions of our Gracious King;

"Whereas, we of the Blood Indian Tribe, are thankful for the kindly, just, and honorable treatment always given us by the King's Government;

"Whereas, it is our earnest desire that Great Britain may ever remain the guardian of the weak, and the arbiter of the world's peace;

"We, the undersigned Chiefs and Head Men of the Blood Indian Tribe, in council assembled, unanimously beg to inform the honorable Superintendent-General of Indian Affairs that it is our desire that we make use of $1,000 of our moneys funded with His Majesty's Government in Canada, to be used in whatever way he may deem it to be of the most advantage to the British arms in their hour of peril;

"And further, we beg of the honorable Superintendent-General of Indian Affairs to convey to our Gracious King our assurance that it is our wish that he command us should assistance be required, and that it will be our daily prayers that the British arms be victorious in their battle for the right, that peace will speedily be restored, and that His Majesty's Government will still remain the protector of the weak, and still sovereign in those pursuits of peace that we have learned to love so well."

None of the signatures are by the signers themselves as none are able to read or write, except the interpreter.

A Barbarian.

Sir Donald Mann, the Canadian railroad builder, had a sensational career, beginning as an axman in the Canadian lumber woods.

Early in life Mann visited Europe on a business mission and at a dinner one night became involved in a quarrel with a Russian nobleman. Next day he received a call from one of the nobleman's friends, bearing an invitation to a duel. "If he doesn't like what I said to him, let him come up and tell me so," said Mann. "He can come a-running, too, and carry any size gun he likes."

The friend explained that would never do. Nothing but the regular thing on the field of honor would do.

"Oh, all right!" said Mann. "I've been fighting duels all my life. But I'll have to insist on using my national weapon—a sixteen pound double-bitted axe."

The friend went away holding up his hands at the barbarian. That night the nobleman met Mann. He was about the size of a grasshopper. Mann is something over six feet high and four wide, with no fat. "I fight you, m'soo," said the nobleman, "with the weapon of any civilise nation, but I be hang if I commit suicide."

POLICE SAY HILL COASTING MUST CEASE

Danger to Lite and Limb too Great

LAD IS INJURED

Someone is going to be seriously hurt if the practice of hill-coasting is not stopped by the young people inside the city limits. This was shown yesterday, when a young lad named Marshall, 425 Rogers street, was slightly injured while coasting in East City.

The police issue a warning that the practice must be stopped, as it is endangering the life and limbs of the public to such an extent that it is impossible to navigate with any degree of certainty or safety on certain hills inside the city limits. Some places where the children indulge in this sport are on Murray street, Elm street, London street, Smith street, Antrim, Reid, Stewart and Hunter street east and west. Morrow's hill is also a dangerous spot, as coasters cross the boundary into the city at terrific speed sometimes.

Accidents are frequent as a result, and many citizens are complaining, especially the street car men. Many north end residents will recall the narrow escape of a young lad on Smith street, where the G. T. R. track crosses, when he and his sleigh passed under a moving train, between the front and rear trucks.

ALDERMAN DUFFUS RIDES THE GOAT

Initiation Took Place at the Fire Station

Alderman J. J. Duffus the new head of the Fire, Water and Light committee was initiated into his new duties yesterday following a conference in Chief Howard's office. Alderman Duffus went over the books and stock records showing the financial condition of the department and the amount of equipment on hand and how the affairs of the department stand. Ald. G. Walter Green former chairman was present at the invitation of Ald. Duffus. This plan of having a quiet survey of the affairs of the department is always adopted at the first of the new year after a new chairman to the committee is appointed.

WANT THE DETAILS OF SCHEME AND PROBABLE COST

W. H. Moore of the Utilities Commission informed The Review today that William Kennedy, Jr., of Montreal, the engineer called in, in connection with the erecting of an auxiliary steam plant for the local pump house, has tendered one report to the Commission.

Engineer Kennedy stated he was progressing with the plans, etc., but the Commission ordered him to cease work on the plans and send along the details of the scheme and the probable cost. His second report is expected daily.

$8702,74 IS RAISED BY MURRAY STREET CHURCH

Giving for Current Expenses Shows Increase ot 38 Per Cent and That for Missions 30 Per Ceut

The most largely attended annual business meeting ever held in Murray Street Baptist Church took place last evening. The pastor Rev. J. R. Webb occupied the chair. His annual letter showed an increase in the membership of 58. He had made eleven hundred and three pastoral visits, baptized twenty-two persons, married sixteen couples, and paid eighteen visits to the cemetery.

The treasurer's report showed that $8,702.74 had been raised in the twelve months for all purposes, this being $138 more than this year's expenses. Of this sum $7,426.95 had been given by the church itself, besides what had been done by the various societies. The giving through the duplex envelopes for current expenses had increased 38¾ per cent., while the givings to missions had increased 30 per cent. The Ladies' Aid Society raised $304.41, the Mission Circle $323.97, the Mission Band $115.03, the Sunday Schol $398.04. The fellowship fund amounted to $116.85.

The church debt was reduced $1,225. Mr. T. F. Matthews, the treasurer of this fund showed all claims in the way of interest paid and a balance on the right side.

The gifts through the envelopes for missionary purposes amounted to $1,389.59.

A resolution expressing the love and confidence of the church in its pastor and the hope that he and his wife may be spared to the Murray Street Church for many more years of service was passed with enthusiasm, the entire congregation rising. The motion was presented by F. Somerville and R. Harding. The customary but evidently heartfelt resolution of appreciation to the members of the choir was carried amid applause.

Officers Elected.

The following officers were elected for the year:

Honorary Deacon, John Riddle, who with Mr. B. R. Matthews and W. Aldridge will serve in that office for life.

Deacons elected for three years—R. Harding, P. White, T. G. Gillespie.

Clerk—A. J. Raddon.

Treasurer—F. M. Somerville.

Financial Secretary—F. M. Somerville

Assistant—T. G. Gillespie.

Finance Committee—R. Harding, Geo. H. Duncan, Dr. Scott, L. J. Pettit, R. C. Read, Jas. Lewis, S. Cottingham, Thos. Waller, J. Dallin, Jno. Rossel, J. Sitts, D. Thompson.

Treasurer Fellowship Fund—Dr. W. D. Scott.

Ushers — Messrs. Cottingham, Harding, Walter Barringer, Pringle, Doughty, Lewis, Sitts, Rambo, Blewett, Albert Wray.

Representative to Charity Board—Dr. J. A. Morgan.

Representative to Protestant Home Board—Dr. Mann.

Music Committee—T. F. Matthews, W. R. Breyfogle, Dr. Scott, Jos. Wearing, J. P. Cunningham, R. Harding.

Reports from all of the departments showed a most gratifying increase of usefulness. The appointment of Messrs. H. G. Webber and A. J. Raddon as a reception committee seemed to meet with special favor. The appointment of Mr. W. Shiner as superintendent of the Sunday School was confirmed.

With the splendid band of men who are active workers in Murray St. Church and the traditions of generosity which seem to be so well sustained year by year the influence of this denomination in Peterborough is increasing constantly. This past year has certainly been one of which the Murray St. People have no reason to be ashamed.

During the evening suitable acknowledgment was made to Mr. T. F. Matthews who had during the year deeded ten feet of property on the west side of the church to the congregation.

IT'S A LONG WAY TO DAVE BYRNE'S MILLIONS BUT HE'S STILL MARCHING

Another Chapter in His Search for Fortune, Left Him by Man Whose Daughter he Rescued

Ottawa, Jan. 14.—David S. Byrne, nee Kidd, the man who was left a fortune in the neighborhood of $2,000,000 for rescuing the daughter of a millionaire from a Chicago dive, is in Ottawa today in an attempt to remove one of the last obstacles in the way of his receiving the fortune.

Mr. Byrne, who, in compliance with a condition of the will of Wellington George Byrne, the millionaire whose daughter he saved, changed his name from Kidd by a deed poll, the cost of which was 70 cents, is in Ottawa to establish the death of his father, who he states dropped dead at Cyrville, as the result of a bursting blood vessel, on July 29, 1895.

An inquest was held, and the deceased was buried in Beechwood cemetery. Later the body was removed to the family plot at Bewdley, Ont., which is at the head of Rice Lake.

David S. Kidd, the man who rescued Miss Lucy Byrne, and was adopted by the millionaire father, was born at Bewdley. The doctor who was coroner at the time of his fathers death, has no official record of the event, and Byrne is now gathering evidence of the death from other quarters.

A Romantic Story.

Miss Lucy Byrne had left the home of her millionaire father when her parents objected to her marrying the man of her choice. She went to Chicago, and in April, 1907, Mr. David S. Kidd, who was a traveller for a tea firm, was in Chicago attending a religious convention. He wandered into what he thought was a lunch room, looking for a directory.

It turned out to be the annex of the Manning & Bowes saloon building. A young lady approached him and asked him to have a drink. He read her several passages from a Bible he had in his possession and finally his efforts to reform the girl were successful and resulted in the young woman returning to the home of her father. The family had long thought she was dead, but there was great rejoicing after father and daughter were reconciled.

The life the young woman had been living affected her health and she went into decline, dying some time later.

To show his gratitude to Mr. Kidd the millionaire expressed a desire to adopt him as a son.

Proving His Claim.

The millionaire, G. W. Byrne, was an illiterate and this fact makes it considerably harder for the adopted son. He must prove his identity before the courts and not the solicitors of the estate.

The estate, according to documents shown by Mr. Byrne, amounts to $9,000,000, and consists of money and holdings in the United States, Spain, Australia and countries in South America. There are eight beneficiaries. Over a million and a half dollars goes to the establishing of the Lucy Byrne memorial building at Toronto, and $318,000 was left to servants. The mother gets one-third of the balance. He gets a quarter, and is the sole trustee of the memorial building.

The testator directs in the will that a sworn correct statement of the value of the holdings in the different countries be made before it is probated. It does not need to go for probate for 84 months. This time is up next fall, and before that Mr. Byrne says he has to make a trip to Spain.

Byrne spent some time in this city, and during his stay, he gave addresses at the Royal Theatre.

LESS CRIME

Crime of all kinds and breaches of the peace are just now at low ebb, so much so that the police have had no particular cases to look after all week. Last week was also slack. The reason advanced is that times are not ripe for breaches of the law of any kind, and that money is an unknown factor in the hands of the most frequent law-breakers.

ONCE FOUGHT THE BOERS, HE NOW KILLS BED BUGS

Fifteen years ago Peter Cogan was tramping the veldts of South Africa, helping His Majesty's forces plant the Union Jack in that troublesome zone. Today Mr. Cogan is pursuing an occupation which is said to be a boon to mankind. It is nothing short of supplying the wherewithal to exterminate rats, mice, beetles, roaches and bed bugs. He is now in the city.

Mr. Cogan fought in South Africa with Kitchener's Fighting Scouts. He also served in India with the Cameron Highlanders.

He is still imbued with the fighting spirit, and, though he has passed man's allotted three score years and ten, he hopes to go again to the front by shipping with recruits.

"He's a great man, that Kitchener," is Peter's enthusiastic endorsation of Britain's war chief.

THE PARIS STATEMENT

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Jan. 14. — The official announcement by the war office this afternoon again dwells upon the situation in the region of Soissons. To the north of that place there was determined fighting all day, but it was confined to the section situated north of Crouy.

The French left made scarcely any perceptible progress; the centre maintained its positions around the village of Crouy, and the right, in front of Vregny, was compelled to yield ground.

Floods having taken away several bridges over the River Aisne, thus making lines of communication uncertain, main positions have been established on the south bank between Crouy and Missy, but the bridge heads on the north bank are still in our possession.

Along the remainder of the line, fighting is chiefly confined to artillery exchanges. Near Stuyvekerke the Belgians blew up a German ammunition depot.

The French adopted a vigorous aggressive north of Beausejour.

SURPASSES MESSINA DISASTER

Ruin is More Widespread and Death List is Greater

AVEZZANO LOST

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

ROME, Jan. 14. — The destruction of the town of Avezzano, a community of some 12,000 people, in Aquila province, by earthquake yesterday, is virtualy complete. There is good authority for the statement that not more than ten per cent. of the population survived the disaster.

LONDON, Jan. 14. — A News despatch from Rome says a member of the chamber of deputies for Lipari, has telegraphed that the disaster of yesterday surpasses the Messina catastrophe. Ruin is more widespread and injury to life and limb will be greater.

MAJOR JOHNSTON TAKES COMMAND OF THIRD DRAGOONS

Major Johnston who has charge of the recruiting for the Mounted Rifles has been gazetted to the command of the Third Prince of Wales Dragoons succeeding Colonel C. H. Rogers who went to England, with the first contingent.

Recruiting for the mounted rifles is rapidly proceeding there being now one hundred and twenty on the roll, who have been accepted. On account of many of the recruits having been inoculated against typhoid, the number of parade at the armouries today was not as large as usual, quite a number being under the weather.

Sewer Completed at Victoria Heights

The labor market received another flood last evening when the work of constructing the sewers on the Victoria Heights was completed. When the city engineer reached his office this morning some sixty men were waiting for employment. Only a few could be put to work on the outfall sewer, where in all some twenty-six men are being kept busy.

Ald. Green, chairman of the board of works, paid his first visit to the scene of activities on King George street today.

Milk Bottles Not For Coal Oil or Vinegar

Recently a milk vendor was fined $2 in police court for changing milk from one bottle to another, on the street. Now householders are cautioned against the use of milk bottles as receptacles for liquids other than milk. Sanitary Inspector Spence stated today that many people are in the habit of using milk bottles for storing vinegar and coal oil and returning them to the vendor unwashed. This he considers a most unwise practice as the health act plainly calls for all bottles to be washed and cleaned, and to be used for milk only.

"I have even known a milk bottle to be turned into a flower vase," he said.

Will we Get it Asks Hastings ?

We are informed that the Grand Trunk is likely to put on another train on this line from Stirling to Peterborough, the train to leave Stirling about noon and return leaving Peterborough some time after 10 p.m. This is a service that this district has been trying to get for a long time and should the railway put it on it will be one of the great needs of this district satisfied, if the cars are only fit to ride in.—Hastings Star.

INVESTIGATING THE LAD'S STORY

Efforts are being made by Adjutant McElhiney and Fire Chief Howard to unravel the incidents which led to thirteen year old Ernest Connor leaving the farm of the man who had employed him near Franklin, Ont. Connor claims that the farmer would not permit him to send any of his wages home or write letters to his relatives, and finally gave him 25 cents and ordered him off the farm in the depth of winter. The lad came to this city and has since been a charge of the Salvation Army. The Adjutant wrote to the farmer but received no reply so today he and Chief Howard went out to interview him.

QUARRELED OVER CARDS.

Magistrate Langley is hearing a case in Lakefield today in which Hall Godfrey, aged 60, is charged with assaulting Wesley Morrow, aged 80, over a game of cards in the House of Refuge, of which both are inmates. Morrow was not badly hurt and has recovered.

Towns in the Central Districts are Destroyed by Earthquake

Avezzano is Almost Wiped out and Great Damage is Done in Rome and Naples

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Jan. 14. — A news agency despatch from Rome says that a further distinct earth shock was felt in Rome about three o'clock this morning. In several quarters of the city the people fled from their houses into the open air.

ROME, Jan. 14. — Late reports from yesterday's earthquake zone, while stil fragmentary, indicate a very great loss of life and property.

The number of dead and wounded is now estimated at fifty thousand.

ROME, Jan. 14. — A young Italian driver who left Avezzano, a few minutes before the earthquake, gave a brilliant account of his experiences when he reached Rome at an early hour this morning. His first intimation of the trouble was when the horses of his carriage suddenly refused to go any farther.

From Avezzano there came cries of frightened people. Amid the roar of falling houses could be heard the voices of women caling on the saints to help them. The city was under a cloud of dust. To the driver it looked as if the earth had opened to emit columns of white smoke. The young man tried to drive back to Avezzano, but could make no headway. He and his horses were blinded by dust. Soon he saw survivors, struggling, making their way from the city. Many had sustained injuries and were dragging themselves through the dust and confusion, in a pitiable plight. Some were so weak, they fell by the roadside.

The objective of the refugees was the railroad station, which was soon crowded with a half-frantic gathering of men, women and children. Before the driver left the vicinity, organized efforts were being made to convey the most severely wounded to nearby hospitals.

PETERBOROUGH, THURSDAY, JANUARY 14, 1915

A POINT THAT HAS NOT BEEN MENTIONED.

THROUGHOUT CANADA there has been much talk in newspapers and in social and political circles about encouraging the farmers to grow as much wheat as possible for next year's harvest. From the Minister of Finance down, this policy has been advocated, but there has been no mention of measures taken to insure the harvest of a big crop. Everybody knows that in harvest time a great deal of hard work has to be done quickly. Everybody knows that in the West, particularly, a small army of extra workers is needed to handle the crop, and, if they cannot be provided, much grain will be wasted for lack of labour to harvest it. It is stated that 70,000 men of Canada will be under arms by spring, and this depletion of men, which exhausts in the first place a large proportion of the surplus hands that have been drawn upon for harvesting purposes, raises the question as to whether the farmers will be able to get adequate help for a big crop if they courageously resort to big sowing, as they are advised. The matter is one that should have immediate attention, so that when the time comes there will be ways and means of meeting such a probable difficulty if it should arise.

FRENCH IN ONTARIO.

THERE SEEMS TO BE considerable misunderstanding in the Province of Quebec over the attitude of Ontario towards the French language —a misunderstanding that has reached to the highest places of the Catholic Church. There is no effort on the part of Ontario to stamp out the French language, in the stand taken on the bilingual school question. What is sought is to provide as good an education to the children of these districts as of any in the province, and the whole movement was Catholic in its origin, beginning with Bishop Fallon of London. Many in Quebec apparently do not know all the facts, and have acquired a mistaken conception of the question. The following editorial from the Toronto News sets forth the problem in a way that ought to silence any unjust criticisms and unfounded assertions that emanate from Quebec:

> "Cardinal Begin, in a letter to Archbishop Bruchesi, of Montreal, assumes that the French-Canadians of Ontario are suffering from injustice. He says: 'Their tongue, which people seek to banish, is the instrument of our national culture.' In another place he refers to the Ontario regulations for the conduct of bi-lingual schools as 'unjust and vexatious measures.'
>
> The cardinal is a man of distinction, both in position and in character. Usually he is most guarded in his utterances. But on this occasion he is completely misled. Perhaps he is depending too much on the statement of La Verite, which declared last week, on the authority of Senator Belcourt, that the regulations were adopted by the Ontario Government in consequence of an Orange agitation.
>
> On the contrary, the agitation was of Irish Catholic origin, and was begun by Bishop Fallon, of London. The Bishop declared vigorously that the pupils of bi-lingual schools in his diocese were learning neither English nor French. The only spring of the Government's action was the proof that the schools in bi-lingual districts were not accomplishing the desired results.
>
> When the Cardinal intimates that some people wish to banish French from bi-lingual schools, he is merely repeating the inaccurate assertions which have been made by wholesale in the Province of Quebec and in Ottawa by Mr. Genest and his associates. Bluntly, these assertions are not true. There is no desire on the part of the Government to banish the French language. The Cardinal might as well say that the Ontario Government was seeking to banish arithmetic from the schools. The time provided for the teaching of French in every class is greater than that assigned for arithmetic.
>
> The regulations adopted for the government of bi-lingual schools are neither 'unjust' nor 'vexatious.' They are devised for the sole purpose of providing a good education both in English and French, and have no ulterior motive. Anyone who is not satisfied with them is either incapable of forming a judgment on pedagogical questions, or else has accepted the wild statements of irresponsible self-seeking agitators without verifying them. One would expect a calmer judgment from a Prince of the Church."

CANADA is a large importer and borrower. In order that she may continue to buy abroad what she requires, and pay interest on her borrowings, she must sell. European countries will require all Canada can produce, and to take advantage of this opportunity, Canada should greatly increase her production, especially of live stock and farm produce.

WHAT LEAMINGTON DID FOR THE PATRIOTIC FUND.

MANY PEOPLE in Peterborough will be glad to know that small towns are giving the larger urban centres an example of patriotic giving. Peterborough has done exceptionally well, but Leamington has surpassed it, on a basis of population. The contribution of the Leamington Mersea Patriotic Association to the Belgian Relief, Red Cross and Canadian Patriotic Funds, amounting to $20,000, has been forwarded to the Hon. W. T. White, Minister of Finance, at Ottawa. The population of the town of Leamington is less than three thousand.

The fund was distributed as follows: Belgian Relief, $10,000; Red Cross, $5,000; Canadian Patriotic Fund, $5,000.

One thousand pairs of socks, knitted by the ladies of the district, have just been forwarded to the 18th Battalion soldiers at London, together with several hundred garments for hospital use.

WHAT QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY IS DOING FOR THE EMPIRE.

THE CURRENT NUMBER of the Queen's Quarterly contains an account of the work of the Fifth Field Company of Canadian Engineers at Valcartier. This corps of engineers is formed entirely of graduates, undergraduates and professors of Queen's University, which was the only Canadian university having such a body of men available at the outbreak of the war. When war was declared they were called out for Home Service, telegrams being sent the men, who were scattered from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and who gave up good positions to answer the call.

They proceeded at once to Valcartier, and were kept busy putting in temporary pumps and water supply, making roads passable for heavy traffic, and surveying sites for infantry and artillery lines. The whole camp was a maze of water pipes and electric wires, which required a great deal of attention in the matter of repairs, extension and completion of work left unfinished by contractors. Railroad sidings had to be surveyed, crossings repaired, roads macadamized, horse troughs built, shower-baths installed, camp surveys made, and nearly one thousand sign posts put up. Of course, all this was not done by the Queen's company, but it was the first engineering corps on the ground, and did splendid service.

The corps was divided in two sections, the overseas and home service, and it is gratifying to record that Queen's University sent thirty-two men with the first contingent and sixty-four with the second contingent. Among these we recognize the names of several of our classmates and friends of old days in Kingston. There are D. M. Jemmett, M.A., B.Sc., H. S. Baker, B.A., B.Sc., D. S. Ellis, M.A., W. S. Laing, B.Sc., J. W. D. Farrel, B.A., C. A. Girdler, M.A., R. M. Calvin, B.Sc., and others. Major Alex. Macphail was a professor. Captain L. Malcolm, M.A., was a lecturer, as was also D. S. Ellis. Some were famous in the university as medalists, debaters, hockey, rugby and basketball players. These are potentially among the best men in the land, and the lead that Queen's University has taken in sending men for the service of the Empire is a worthy example to the other universities of Canada, an inspiration to all those connected with Queen's, and to the public in general.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

WE HAVE RECEIVED the second number of the Second Battalion Bulletin, which is a production of the troops now stationed at Salisbury Plain. It is as usual an interesting pamphlet, merry and serious at the same time.

THE GERMANS, says Beck's Weekly, have a wonderful theory and philosophy of Empire—but no Empire. The British peoples have no theory or philosophy of Empire—merely the Empire.

Rev. J. A. Macdonald and the U. E. L.'s.

(Montreal Star.)

Rev. Dr. J. A. Macdonald, of the Toronto Globe, has sent the following version of the American War with Great Britain to the American Review of Reviews:

"George Washington and Thomas Jefferson and Alexander Hamilton proved themselves sons of the blood when, against the arrogance of the monarch and the ignorance of the aristocracy of England, they stood, in the hour of supreme struggle, for the rights of British freemen in New England and in the South."

We reproduce it merely that Dr. Macdonald's admirers in Canada may appreciate the sort of opinion he sells in the United States. If any of them chance to possess ancestors who, after "the hour of supreme struggle" was over, felt driven to evacuate the neighbourhood of "the British freemen in New England" and other parts of the new Republic, and face murderous hardships in the then wilds of Canada because of their loyalty to the "arrogance of the monarch and the ignorance of the aristocracy of England," they will all the more admire these sentiments sent by a Canadian editor to an American publication.

The war was, it seems, in Dr. Macdonald's opinion, between an arrogant monarch and an ignorant English aristocracy on one side, and some "British freemen in New England and the South" on the other. Had Dr. Macdonald been here, we must assume that he would have fought against "the arrogant monarch and the ignorant English aristocracy" and with "the British freemen." He would have gone South, we take it, when—or before—the U. E. L.'s came North. He would not have "followed the flag" into the snows of Canada; he would have deserted Canada for the home of the "British freemen" who pulled down the British flag and incidentally confiscated the property of our Fathers.

It is most sincerely to be hoped, however, that, in such an event, Dr. Macdonald would not have hailed "the sons of the blood" whom he found in the new Republic as "British freemen." They might not have appreciated it. They seldom thought of themselves as "British" at all. Indeed, they rather deprecated any such idea. Moreover, the minions of "an arrogant monarch and an ignorant aristocracy" who came to Canada, would have had difficulty in recognising themselves under that description. They thought, in the depths of their delusion, that they were the "British freemen" in the case. However, why bother about the vulgar facts of the case when the Doctor comes to write an article for an American audience where he gets so many of his invitations to lecture!

If, however, the Globe and the Liberal party can endure this perversion of history and lying, libel upon the founders of Canada, launched by a man—for whom they are responsible—for the tickling of the American public, we suppose that it is not for other people to complain.

IMPORTANT NOTICE GIVEN OUT BY THE CANADIAN PACIFIC

According to the Montreal Gazette, the Canadian Pacific Railway has notified holders of its first mortgage five per cent. bonds that the company would retire the balance of the issue at any time from January 1st on to the date of maturity on July 1st, at par and accrued interest. The influence of the announcement should be excellent on the credit of the company as well as on the credit

The importance of the announcement is two-fold. In the first place, the retirement of the issue—the outstanding bonds at the beginning of the year amounted to $12,842,646—clears up the entire mortgage on the C. P. R. system with the exception of the $3,650,000 Algoma Branch five per cents., which have still some time to run. With the last of these general first mortgage bonds retired, even theoretically there can be no such thing as a foreclosure of the C. P. R. property. The Algoma Branch 5's are secured only on a small branch line and are not a mortgage on the general system.

No railroad in the world approaching the size of the C. P. R. can lay claim to a like distinction. The debenture holders in the event of the company failing to meet its interest obligations to them, might call on their trustees to operate the property for their benefit. But the moment the arrears in interest were made up the trustees would automatically retire from the temporary situation thus created. They have no claim on the property in the same sense as first mortgage bondholders, who can force foreclosure in the event of default. This in railroading today is virtually an unique position and, for a system of C. P. R.' size, without parallel.

The other important feature of the transaction is that at a time when the tendency of al debtors is to defer payment of their obligations as long as possible, C. P. R. comes along and says in effect to its best-secured creditors:

"The loan which you made us back in 1885 matures on July 1st next. Possibly you have need of your capital now for other investment or other requirements. Well, the C. P. R. is willing to pay off the loan at any time from now on, or six months ahead of the due date, at the par agreed on in the trust agreement and with interest for any broken period your money remains with us."

An announcement of this kind is naturally convincing evidence of a confident position financially, and, more particularly, at a time like the present, should add materially to the lustre of C. P. R.'s name in the money markets. Indirectly, it is of importance as a stimulus to confidence towards Canada generally.

It will be recalled that C. P. R. made an effort in May, 1913, to retire all of these first mortgage bonds maturing in July of the current year. The company then offered 102 and interest to holders who would turn them in before July 1st, 1913. The response to that was that $20,608,873 were delivered and paid for, but bonds to the value of $12,842,646 were held back, holders apparently being unwilling to surrender their security even for the premium offered. Naturally, with the issue maturing in July, no premium can be offered now, at the company is extending to holders the opportunity to convert their security into cash at the face value six months ahead of the due date.

GIRLS OF TO-DAY ENJOY LIFE FULLY

Edward Frederick Benson, prophet of the New Woman, has written a New Dodo. Seated before the fire in his London study, hung with blue china, he talked wittily of women as he knows them.

"The first Dodo," said he, "was militant against Victorian conventionality. Dodo the Second is a daughter of the old Dodo and though she has the same originality of character she is different in many respects. Less impulsive, more studious, she is deep in social problems. Never had Dodo reasoned before she acted.

"The girl of to-day is absolutely different from the girl of 20 years ago. Two things have helped to bring this about—the improved methods of education and the disappearance of the chaperone.

Chaperonitis was a positive disease in the Victorian time, quite as common as appendicitis is now. But just as people remove the appendix because it is unnecessary, so they have removed the chaperone because she is unnecessary. Nobody thinks of Mrs. Grundy nowadays. She is so near death that she hardly matters.

"The girls of to-day are eager they are really; they want to learn, they are critical and want to know how and why. They hold their hearts high, and let them beat, and let themselves enjoy and be happy and taste things to the full.

"It is easier to be miserable for most people. Young people think for themselves far more than they did. They are not forced to learn all kinds of useless things in which they have no interest. The education of to-day is like a nice warm poultice which is applied in the proper way and draws out all that is inside."

The Egyptian week was one of ten days. The ancient Chinese and Japanese did not count by weeks at all.

THE BOER WAR.

Editor Review.

Sir,—I notice in your paper of Wednesday, 13th, there were only 12,000 killed during the Boer War, 1899-1900, which was declared on October 8, 1899, and was brought to a close May 31, 1902. During that time officers who were killed or died from disease numbered 1,229. Men killed and wounded, or died from disease numbered 24,624. No record of deaths after the close of the war was kept.

A Happy Meeting

By EVERETT P. CLARKE

The case of the people against Jacob Severance, or Edward Todd, or a number of other names which might be applied to the prisoner, was called. The prosecuting attorney expected to prove that he was the notorious Jake Severance who had committed any number of confidence games and was the slickest operator in that line in America. The trial was to come off in the county seat, where he had been captured working as a farmhand to escape those who were after him. It was at the height of the haying season, and the farmers were all endeavoring to get in their crops before the next rain. Consequently there was difficulty in making up a jury, for whenever a man had a valid excuse for not serving he availed himself of it. Finally the panel stuck at the twelfth juryman.

A farmer entered the courtroom and looked about him with that wild glance common among countrymen who find themselves in an unfamiliar position.

"Is this yere a reel estate offis?" he asked.

"No, it's a courtroom," replied the sheriff.

"Oh! I thort it was a reel estate offis. I want to buy a farm."

"Do you belong about here?"

"No. I come from Canada. I got tired livin' under the British flag, and I want to git property yere."

"I say, my friend, how would you like to help us out as a juryman? You will get a dollar a day for sitting still and doing nothing."

"I don't know nothin' about juries; I never sot on one."

The farmer was persuaded, and the jury was complete. When the prisoner was brought forth for trial he cast a sweeping glance over the twelve anxiously.

The man from Canada seemed uneasy in finding himself in a jury box and kept looking about him here and there as if he feared something awful was about to be sprung upon him.

"Jacob Severance, you are accused of"—

"I ain't Jacob Severance; I'm Tom Barker."

The farmer juryman at this was seen to start.

"Where do you hail from?"

"Ontario, Canada."

The farmer arose from his seat, looked fixedly at the prisoner and said:

"Is you the Tom Barker that run away with my darter?"

"I run away with a gal named Barker, but I never seen her dad."

"Mathildy Barker?"

"Yes, my wife's name's Mathildy."

"Whar's my darter?" asked the old man pathetically.

"She's to hum with the kids, while I am tryin' to make enough as farm help to keep 'em alive."

"Tell me whar I kin find her. I done her a big wrong when I told her she shouldn't marry a man I had never seen. Her mother has been most heartbroken since she went away and pinin' for her all the time."

The court business stood still while this dialogue was in progress. When it had come to this point the prosecuting attorney said:

"Your honor, I have no objection to this man taking the witness stand to clear up what has evidently been a mistake. But since he is a juryman he must be excused as such."

A new juryman was found, and the stranger took the witness stand. He told a pathetic story of how his only daughter, who was a schoolteacher across the international line, had written that she was going to marry one Tom Barker, a young farmer who was trying to pay for a farm he had bought mostly on credit. Her father objected to the match on the ground of poverty and tried to stop her by telling her that if she persisted in the matter she would never again be welcomed home. From that day he had never seen or heard from her. Then he broke down and wept.

Handkerchiefs appeared all over the courtroom.

"Your honor," said the lawyer who had the prisoner's case in charge, "this is evidently a case of mistaken identity. The man the police is looking for is a very different person from the prisoner. I move that the case be dismissed."

The judge, who noticed that the sympathies of all were with the poor farmer and his son-in-law, consented, and the case was taken off the docket. Then the farmer went up to his son-in-law, put out his hand and told him how sorry he was that he had taken such harsh measures with his daughter. "But," he added, "I've sold the farm for a good price, and I've come down yere to buy another. We'll settle among these good people, work the farm together, and when I'm gone Mahuldy shall have it. Meanwhile there's plenty for all of us."

Half a dozen persons gathered around the speaker, all having farms they would sell—just to have him settle among them—but he said the first thing he would do was to go to his daughter. Then he would come back and look at the properties for sale. He left with his son-in-law, and neither of them returned. The son-in-law was the crook the police were after, and the father-in-law was another, the two having long worked their games together.

A Trick of Oratory.

Victor Murdock says that the best advice he ever received in regard to public speaking was from a hack driver. After making one of his maiden speeches in Kansas he was being driven to the railway station by the polite liveryman.

"Like the speech?" asked Victor.

"Yeh," answered the driver, "only you'd get more hand claps if you'd always put the names at the last when you say anything."

Victor didn't understand, so the driver explained;

"You spoke of Henry Clay and Grant and James G. Blaine and then went on to tell about what they did. You ought to go over the things they did and then say, 'That's what was done by Clay and Grant and James G Blaine!' Always put the names last, and the crowd'll take more interest."—New York Sun.

INDOOR PLANTS AND THEIR CARE

Leaves Need Frequent Soap and Water Baths—Ferns Require Constant Attention

The condition of all indoor plants depends on the sort of treatment you give them after you get them. Pick out healthy specimens to begin with and then take care of them.

One woman who prides herself on her indoor plants has a Boston fern that she has had for five years. It is a big plant, a wavy mass of lacy deep green fronds, filling all the corner between two sunny windows. Some of the fronds are five feet long; others of the stout up-standing ones are broader than the hand. They spring from matted roots crowding a ten-inch pot. The plant has been shifted yearly, and old crowns have been broken off whenever they go high above the roots that the new fronds from their tips lacked vigor.

Further, the fern has had water every day—enough to wet the pot thoroughly, but not to stand in the saucer. It has been fertilized every week, and bathed every fortnight. For the bath, the pot is laid on its side in the tub after covering the earth-surface and the pot edges with a clean cloth. The water is a little less than tepid, and good white soap is used. As soon as they are clean the pot is set upright, the soap-suds drained off, and the whole plant well showered with clear water.

Keep the Pots Clean

After it has drained, the cloth comes off and the pot is scrubbed clean. Dirty pots smother roots as dust and grime smother leaves.

This fern stands in a big wicker jar. The ordinary jardiniere is a handicap to the growth of plants, for stagnant water and close air are likely in it at the roots of the plants in these jardinieres.

Only a few plants love to have their feet continually wet. The asparagus fern is one of them. To have long thick sprays of it, prodigal of blossom, and later of coral red berries the pot should have a saucer generously deep, and the saucer should be filled with water every day, besides soaking the earth in the pot. It should also have frequent baths. All house plants, indeed, not too big for the tub, are the better for them. The giants must have, instead of the plunge, sponge baths—first with white soap-suds, then with clear water. Leaves are plant-lungs, and choke quickly indoors.

Ferns, too, need much care. If you have a fern dish for the table or other potted ferns about the house, it is best to have the dish in which they are potted of red clay, as this is porous and absorbs both air and water easily.

Ferns Will Live in Shade

Every morning these pots should be lifted out and sunk in a basin of water, their tops plentifully sprinkled and the whole thing drained carefully before it is put back in its dish. The dish should be kept in moderate sunlight throughout the day, excepting when it is wanted on the table.

The prevalent idea that ferns must have no sun is false. Ferns will live in the shade and there are some sorts, of course, that are scorched by the sun. But most ferns that are cultivated in the house like light and some sunlight and never do their best without it.

Window boxes should be sprinkled lavishly twice a day. If it is dry and dusty, the leaves should be well shaken before sprinkling.

If possible, get the earth with which to fill your boxes from an old hot bed—rich loam and rotted manure, about half and half.

Failing that, take any which is handy, and enrich it with ammoniated meal mixed well through, or else with rotted sheep manure. A heaping teaspoonful of the bone meal or a tablespoonful of manure is enough for a six-inch pot of earth. Neither must be kept directly on the roots of plants. Liquid fertilizer, likewise, must be kept off roots, stems and leaves. Make a hole at one side, or a trench just inside the pot rim. Pour in the fertilizer and let it sink then put back the earth, and water the pot well.

Washing Doeskin Gloves

Put the gloves on and wash in cold water first, and then in warm soapy water, using good white soap.

Do not rinse them, but dab lightly with a cloth to remove some of the moisture.

Draw gently off the hands, straighten out the fingers and blow into the gloves, and they will retain the shape of the hand. Do not dry in a hot place, or shrinking will result.

OWES HER LIFE TO "FRUIT-A-TIVES"
Cured Both Stomach Trouble and Headaches
PALMERSTON, ONT., JUNE 20th, 1913.
"I really believe that I owe my life to "Fruit-a-tives". Ever since childhood, I have been under the care of physicians and have been paying doctor's bills. I was so sick and worn out that people on the street often asked me if I thought I could get along without help. The same old Stomach Trouble and distressing Headaches nearly drove me wild. Sometime ago, I got a box of "Fruit-a-tives" and the first box did me good. My husband was delighted and advised a continuation of their use.
Today, I am feeling fine, and a physician meeting me on the street, noticed my improved appearance and asked the reason. I replied, "I am taking Fruit-a-tives". He said, "Well, if Fruit-a-tives are making you look so well, go ahead and take them. They are doing more for you than I can".
MRS. H. S. WILLIAMS.
"Fruit-a-tives" are sold by all dealers at 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. or sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

BUTTERLESS, EGGLESS CAKE

Eggs are expensive, butter is more so, and milk is by no means cheap—but even so our "sweet tooth" demands cake once in a while and here's a recipe that beats the "high cost of living" three ways. It requires neither eggs, milk nor butter to make this cake:

One cup brown sugar, one cup seeded raisins, one cup water, one-third cup lard, one teaspoonful cinnamon, one-third teaspoonful cloves. Boil above together three minutes. When cool add one teaspoonful soda dissolved in warm water, two cups flour, one-half teaspoonful baking powder, one cup black walnut kernels. Beat thoroughly. Bake in loaf 40 minutes.

Maude Adams

"No Average Woman" Says Maude Adams

"There is no average woman," says Leonora in Maude Adams' play, "The Legend of Leonora," and to Barrie's sentiment Miss Adams adds. "There is no average woman, because there is no commonplace woman. No two women are alike. Women refuse to be classified. What lifts woman above the commonplace is her power to dream. The woman without dreams is the one hopeless person of us all. No matter what a woman's task may be, it may be sewing in a sweatshop, it may be washing dishes, but her dreams rescue her from the commonplace in life. They keep her from being an average woman."

Hints For Baking Day

To properly bake sponge or pound cake have oven hot enough to turn white paper light yellow in five minutes.

Cup or Small Cakes—Have oven hot enough to turn white paper dark yellow in five minutes.

Bread or Pastry—Heat of oven must turn white paper dark brown in five minutes.

Put saucepan of boiling water in oven when baking rolls. Steam will make crust smooth and tender.

When oven is too hot at first, a crust will form on the cake and prevents its raising. It is best to have the oven a little slow at first, then increase the heat after ten minutes.

Baking powder biscuits should be baked in a very quick oven, as hot as possible without burning the biscuits. One that will brown a piece of white paper in one minute is none too hot.

The Sleep That Counts.

When you go to bed—if you are looking for beauty sleep—you should fall asleep right away. The beauty sleeper, the one who wakes up looking refreshed, will fall asleep the minute her head touches the pillow. She will fall into a slumber, heavy and dreamless, and she will waken in the morning of her own accord.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson III.—First Quarter, For Jan. 17, 1915.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Judg. vi, 11-16, 33-40—Memory Verses, 14-16—Golden Text, Ps. lxv, 4—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

I often read what I copied from one of Dr. Andrew Murray's Bibles in his study in Wellington, South Africa, in August, 1898: "The central thought of this book is God. Its one object is to reveal God—His glory, His will, His love. In reading it our chief desire ought to be to know God." I am reminded of this as I read carefully our lesson chapter and note in these forty verses some name of the Deity forty-four times (LORD or GOD, 27; God, 7; Lord, 2; Spirit, 1; Angel, 7). Thus the sin of Israel draws forth the love and grace of God and this time in connection with a great deliverance through a seemingly very weak man called Gideon.

The chapter opens with the oft repeated saying, "The children of Israel did evil in the sight of the Lord." This led to great oppression by the Midianites for seven years. Then they cried unto the Lord in their trouble, and He saved them out of their distresses (verses 1, 6; Ps. cvii, 6, 13, 19, 28). In our lesson verses, 7-10, He reminded them by a prophet of how He had brought them out of Egypt and planted them in this good land, warning them against any fellowship with the people of the land, but they disobeyed His voice (chapter ii, 1, 2). He calls us still to separation from this evil age unto Himself, but the god of this age, the devil, who also ruled the inhabitants of the land He gave to Israel, is still blinding and deceiving the people of God and running the so called church for his own ends, and those who are willing to see Jesus only and follow Him fully are comparatively few.

Since Adam sinned God has been patiently and persistently seeking man, and mankind has been as persistently, under the power of the devil, turning away from God. God has myriads of angels who delight to do His will, but He never had but one man wholly and utterly at His disposal and under His control. Many redeemed men and women have been in greater or less degree yielded to Him, but none absolutely except the Son of Mary, the Son of God, the Lord Jesus Christ. We have already read in this book of Judges of His selection of Othniel, Ehud, Shamgar, Deborah and Barak and now His choice falls upon Gideon of the tribe of Manasseh, whom He visits in person and talks with him as a man with his friend.

These appearances of God in human form before He came as the Son of Mary are some of the most fascinating as well as the most profitable of Bible studies. In each instance it is the Son of God whom we see, whose goings forth have been from of old, from the days of eternity (Mic. v, 2, margin), for "no man hath seen God at any time; the only begotten Son * * * hath declared Him" (John i, 18). The glory of God can be seen only in Christ (II Cor. iv, 6). We are more likely to have special manifestations of God when about our ordinary work rather than when we go aside to seek such. Gideon was thrashing wheat (verse 11); Moses was keeping sheep, as were also the Bethlehem shepherds; Elisha was in the field plowing; Zacharias was ministering as usual, and Mary of Nazareth was probably about her household duties. How beautiful and wonderful the words from the Lord to Gideon: "The Lord is with thee. Go in this thy might, have not I sent thee. Surely I will be with thee."

Gideon's seeming unwillingness and probably his conscious unworthiness (verse 15) remind us of Moses and Jeremiah (Ex. iii, 11; iv, 10; Jer. i, 6) and show us the Lord's difficulty in finding willing instruments. The Lord's encouragements to these three and to others were written for us that we may not hold back as they did. It is never a question of what we are or can do, but only and always, Who is He, and what can He do? The incident of verses 17-24, the Lord tarrying while Gideon prepared the kid and the unleavened cakes, reminds us of the Lord and the two angels waiting for Abraham and Sarah's preparation, but in that case they ate the food; in this it was consumed by fire, while in the incident of Manoah, the father of Samson, the angel of the Lord ascended in the flame which consumed the offering (Gen. xviii, 8; Judg. vi, 6-21; xiii, 19, 20).

Gideon's readiness when encouraged by this sign is seen in his fearless destruction of his father's altar to Baal. It is refreshing to see Joash stand with his son in this matter and to hear him say concerning Baal, "If he be a god let him plead for himself" (verses 25 to 32). If we would be used of God we must break with all idolatry and serve only the living and true God. There must be no conformity unto or compromise with the world lying in the wicked one. As the spirit of the Lord clothed Himself with Gideon (verse 34, margin), so He will use us if we are whole hearted. The three signs granted to Gideon, the two of the fleece (36-40) and the one of the offering, remind us of the three signs granted to Moses (Ex. iv, 1-9). Our one only sign is the crucified and risen Christ (Gal. vi, 14).

KITCHEN SINKS.

They Are Low Yet Because They Had to Be Low Originally.

In a recent issue of the Survey the question why kitchen sinks have been made so low was discussed. No one seemed able to explain. Finally a certain maker discovered that the original sinks were made when the washing of dishes and other sink work was done in wooden tubs with high sides. Such a tub when used in a high sink came up too far, so the sink was made low. Furthermore, as running water and fixed faucets had not long been made, the tub had to be lifted out of the sink and the lower the sink the lighter the lift.

Through improvements in faucets, dishpans and other accessories of kitchen sinks have been made no one has seemed to realize that the sink could be improved by raising. So women were—and are—compelled to endure discomfort when doing their ordinary household work.

"There may be a certain percentage of inconvenience to be reached before the human mind grasps the fact that something must be altered," remarks the Journal of the American Medical association.

"The wise inventor attains a reputation for brilliancy by making his invention before the need becomes obvious to others."

A Means of Approach.

A bright young life has been brought to a close in the passing away of Miss Olive Glen at the age of 25 years. Deceased had been suffering for some months with a form of tuberculosis, which gradually exhausted her strength, until on Monday she finally succumbed to the disease. Her death is particularly sad, owing to the fact of it being the third member of the family to be carried away by the same fell disease. She leaves to mourn her early demise a father and younger sister, who watched over her very tenderly during her illness, and who have the sympathy of a large circle of friends in their sore bereavement. The funeral was held on Wednesday to the Trent Valley Cemetery, where interment was made. The large cortege which followed the remains to the grave testified to the esteem in which the deceased young lady was held by all who kenw her.

Mr. George Carter left last week for the County House of Refuge, at Lakefield.

Mr. Ed. Christie of Westwood was in town on Friday.

RUSSIA'S GUIDE

A Most Remarkable Secret Document---The Will of Peter the Great.

Russia's proclamation of the annexation of Galicia the other week serves to recall a most remarkable historical document—the secret will of Peter the Great—which, it is said, is read to every Czar of Russia on his accession to the throne.

In that will Peter laid out an amazing program of aggression for future Czars to follow, which had as its consummation the commercial or political subjugation of the entire world.

Nearly two centuries have passed since Peter died. The proportion of his prophecies that have come true is startling. Poland has disappeared; Sweden has been humbled and isolated; the Turk has been driven from the Black sea; the road to India is mostly in the Czar's hands, and a vast line of Russian advance has spread over northern Asia to the Pacific ocean.

The guiding hands of the dead Czar may be seen as clearly in the present war as at any time in the past. England must be made a commercial ally, Peter counseled his successors. All Slavonic peoples must be molded into one nation, Constantinople should be taken and the ascendancy over the Teuton race gained by fair means or foul.

Three far-reaching objectives, and all of them possible as an outcome of the titanic war now in progress. It seems almost that Russia has no other policy than a determination to make Peter's prophecies come true.

He said:

"We must make the house of Austria interested in the expulsion of the Turk from Europe, and we must neutralize its jealousy at the capture of Constantinople either by preoccupying it with a war with other European states, or by allowing it a share of the spoil, which we can afterward resume at our leisure."

What could be more prophetic? Russia's advance along the Black sea was marked by the acquisition of Galicia, Bukowina, Bosnia, and Novibazar by Austria. It has already lost the latter to Servia, the two former will become Russian territory if the allies win the present war and Servian arms are now invading Bosnia. Russia, it would seem, is resuming at its leisure.

No effort should be spared to gain control of Constantinople, Peter urged. Russia has spared none. Had it not been for the united resistance of the powers of Europe in the Crimean war it would be Czargrad instead of Constantinople now. He wrote:

"We must progress as much as possible in the direction of Constantinople and India. He who can once get possession of those points is the real ruler of the world. With that view we must provoke constant quarrels with Turkey and at another time with Persia. * * * Moreover, we must take pains to establish and maintain an intimate union with Austria, apparently countenancing its schemes for future aggrandisement and all the while secretly rousing the jealousy of the minor states against it. In this way we must bring it to pass that one or the other party shall seek aid from Russia, and thus we shall exercise a sort of protectorate over the country, which will pave the way for future supremacy."

Servia and Montenegro were provoked to war and appealed to Russia for aid. That furnished the spark which kindled the war of nine nations. Poland once turned to Russia as the Balkan states did only yesterday.

Peter believed that the future greatness of the Russian race was ordained by fate. Not westward, but northward, the star of empire would wend its way according to his plans. Egypt, Chaldea, Babylon, Greece, Rome, France, England, why not Russia next? Kismet, Russia would be next.

"I look on the future invasion of the eastern and western countries by the north as a periodical movement, ordained by providence, who in like manner regenerated the Roman nation by barbarian invasions. These emigrations of men from the north are as the reflux of the Nile, which at certain seasons comes to fertilize the impoverished lands of Egypt by its deposits. I found Russia as a rivulet. I leave it as a river. My successors will make it a large sea, destined to fertilize the impoverished lands of Europe, and its waters will overflow in spite of opposing dams erected by weak hands, if our descendants only know how to direct its course. This is the reason I leave them these instructions. I give these countries to their watchfulness and care, as Moses gave the tables of law to the Jewish people."

NORWOOD NEWS NOTES

(Special Correspondence.)

Norwood, Jan. 12.—Norwood curlers got off to a good start on Monday night of this week when final organization took place and five rinks were chosen and drawn up to compete in the first round for the Union Bank silver cup. The five skips are Messrs. F. G. Finlay, J. R. McKelvie, Thos. Watson, C. J. Puffer, and H. W. Nicol.

President J. R. McKelvie is endeavoring to procure an individual prize for the members of the winners of the cup. This will create a greater interest in the series as the cup only remains in the possession of the winning rink for one year.

Hastings hockey team came over to Norwood on Friday evening of last week to try conclusions with our Norwood boys. The Norwood hockey club has not been organized but a team was gotten together among whom were some of the old boys and they put up a very nice game. They were, however, defeated by the Hastings boys who scored six goals to Norwood four.

Manager H. Rogers of the skating rink is holding a carnival on Friday evening of this week. A nice lot of prizes are on exhibition in the store window of Mr. J. W. Rork and should bring out quite an array of good costumes.

Our townsman Councillor S. Hendren sent quite a large number of his Campine and Ancona chickens to the Peterborough Poultry Show and succeeded in capturing a large number of prizes. Mr. Hendren is quite proud of his success which goes to show that Mr. Hendren is in the van of poultry breeders in Ontario. His exhibition consisted of 15 birds. Of Silver Campines he exhibited 8, Golden Campines one and Anconas six. Out of the 15 entries he succeeded in carrying off 14 prizes as follows:

Silvers, cock, 2nd; cockerel, 1st and 2nd; hen, 1st; pullet, 1st and 3rd. Golden, pullet, 3rd. Anconas, cock, 1st; hen, 1st and 2nd; cockerel, 2nd and 3rd, and also $2.50 gold piece for most points scored in Silver Campine. The Silver Campine cockerel won also 1st prize in the Guelph show this fall being then owned by the famous breeder Farley of St. Thomas. His first pullet won 2nd prize at the Guelph show.

Mr. Hendren is sending his birds to Ottawa to the poultry show.

On the 12th February the Local Chapter I.O.D.E. are giving a play entitled "The Courtship of Miss Canada." The proceeds will be devoted to patriotic purposes.

THE FORCES OF NATURE

What They do in Providing Power For Machinery.

Several ingenious ways the forces of nature are now exploited in order to provide power for machinery necessary for various human activities. Such apparatus is especially favored by engineers, for not only can enormous power be obtained, but the running expenses are extremely low. One of the most ingenious of these inventions is that which obtains power from the rays of the sun. The apparatus is at work in Egypt, where it pumps up water onto high levels in thousands of gallons.

This novel device consists of a number of reflecting mirrors which concentrate the rays of the sun onto a glass-covered trough containing water. In a short space of time this water becomes sufficiently heated by the reflection from the mirrors to give off steam, which passes into a pipe to an engine of the usual steam variety. When some 30 or 40 of these heating boxes are boiling water by means of the sun's heat sufficient steam is obtained to keep a powerful pumping engine at work with a minimum of expense.

Some idea of the enormous power which the sun machine conveys to the engine can be gauged by the fact that 3,000 gallons of water can be lifted 40 feet in one minute. In many ingenious ways water is now trapped by means of dams, gigantic reservoirs and great stretches of piping and converted into power for various purposes.

Many great waterfalls are now harnessed in such a fashion, two of the most important being the falls of the Rhine and those of Niagara. The machinery used to obtain power from these great products of nature is somewhat complicated, but, roughly speaking, huge pipes divert tons of water from the rapids just above the falls. This trapped water is then allowed to fall some hundreds of feet.

Hard to Kill Some Men.

Reports indicate it sometimes takes a lot to kill a modern soldier. Sergeant Fougere of France received eight bullet wounds, a broken arm and other injuries and, although shot in the calf, thigh and ankle, escaped being captured by Germans and limped ten miles to his regiment. Another French soldier received six bullet and three bayonet wounds and is recovering. The French war office estimates only two men are killed out of every 100 hit. Belgian Townsmen Killed in Fight With Germans

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 14.—The failure of the residents of Magnault, in the Province of Hainaut, to meet the military requisition of food and fodder for a cavalry troop, resulted in an encounter between civilians and soldiers on Monday night, in which three civilians were killed and a soldier was wounded, according to a refugee who crossed the border into Holland yesterday.

The Germans demanded that the residents of the village produce the burgomaster. They replied that the burgomaster has been missing and is thought to be dead. Maintaining that the village official was not dead, but in hiding, the Germans arrested five elderly men of the town. The Germans also looted the co-operative store.

DEAD AND WOUNDED

ROME, Jan. 14.—Despatches from Anesoa say that a heavy storm raged yesterday along the Adriatic coast. There was also a heavy fall of snow.

Naples reports a strong tidal wave in the Gulf of Gaeta, accompanied by seismic disturbances on the shore.

Venice reports very cold weather in the Alps, with sonw in deep drifts.

The zone of devastation lies between Florence and Naples and the Adriatic and Tyerhenian Seas.

Avezzano, a city 67 miles east of Rome, in the Province of Abruzzo, is officially reported practically destroyed. Nearly all of the ten thousand inhabitants are said to have perished.

The towns of Torres, Cajenti and Pippi, the latter near Florence, are reported more than half destroyed, with many dead.

The town of Ailli is reported completely razed, with one thousand dead and five hundred wounded. At Arpino one hundred and fifty are reported dead. At Capistrella and Abano the estimates of dead run into the thousands.

Rome was terribly shaken by the shock. A total of 775 buildings in the city were damaged. The whole populace was wildly excited. The streets are a confused mass of frightened persons.

Pope Benedict was saying Mass in the Vatican when the shock was felt. The chalice shook in his hand and nearly fell. The Pontiff held fast to the edge of the altar. He was very calm, and in a moment knelt and prayed. As the vibrations ceased the Pope resumed the ceremony in a steady voice.

All details of the catastrophe were requested from the Minister of the Interior by King Victor Emmanuel. After learning that Avezzano and other towns were terribly damaged the King expressed a wish to visit the stricken cities. Under Secretary of Public Works Visocchi immediately left Rome for Avezzano. A Cabinet Council will be held to-day to provide relief measures.

The main facts of the calamity, arriving slowly from the damaged districts, display in bold strokes the seriousness of the disaster.

At Torre Cajetani, 37 miles east of Rome, the village was wiped out.

At Sulmona the barracks collapsed, burying several soldiers and injuring a number of civilians.

Capello and Magliano, in Abruzzo, were badly damaged, while at Frosinone the partial destruction of the prison resulted in the mutiny of the prisoners. Two deaths are reported, but the damage is unestimated.

The most violent phase of the seismic disturbance appears to have been in the neighborhood of Veroli Monte Rotonde. Aid has been sent there from Rome.

Communication has been cut off with many towns in the province of Abruzzo, so that full details of the disaster will not be ascertained until to-morrow.

Capistrella, another town of 3,000 population, lying three and one-half miles from Lake Fucina, and Magliano, a small village near Avezzano, are both reported to have been wiped out. All of these towns and villages are within two hours' ride of Rome.

TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND MEN FROM INDIA ARE NOW ON THE FIRING LINES

Lord Hardinge in Opening the Vice-Regal Council in Delhi, Recounts Striking Proofs of the Loyalty of the Eastern Empire.

Turkey's Action Has Not Altered Attitude of Moslems.

DELHI, India, Jan. 14.—The vice-regal council opened yesterday. The viceroy, Baron Hardinge, in a speech before the council, disclosed the number of troops which India has contributed to the war, which, he said, amounted to 200,000 men. These soldiers are distributed in France, Egypt, East Africa and along the Persian Gulf.

Lord Hardinge at the outset expressed regret at the participation of Turkey in the European conflict as an ally of Germany, and reviewed the events leading up to that event. His Excellency proceeded:

"I am well aware that many of the leading Moslems of India have done their duty to the utmost to avert war; but the authorities at Constantinople turned a deaf ear to all pleas. It is a striking fact that while thousands of Moslems are now fighting in the ranks of the British, French and Russian armies, not a single Moslem exists in the German ranks. It is no exaggeration to say that Enver Pasha's military clique, under Germany's compulsion, betrayed the interests of Islam, and that the Turkish Government in submitting to it has abdicated its sovereignty, and Turkey must now face the consequences of those actions. But however the tide of events may shape, there can be no doubt that the holy places shall remain inviolate, and that Islam will still be one of the great world forces.

"From the moment that the intervention of Turkey appeared probable, it was clear that amongst the Moslems of India there would be a natural sentiment of sympathy with a great Mohammedan power. But when the character and motives of this war became fully known and realized by the Moslems of India, any such sentiment was absolutely swept aside by their feelings of unswerving loyalty to the King-Emperor and to the Empire whose cause they recognized to be that of freedom, honor and justice."

Rev. S. R. Heakes Gets Commission.

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 14. — Rev. S. R. Heakes, former curate of Cronyn Methodist Church, this city, who left for the front as a chaplain with the first contingent, has secured a commission with the Seaforth Highlanders of Vancouver, according to word received from Salisbury Plain, and will go to the firing line as a combatant. Rev. Mr. Heakes, before going into the ministry, was a mining engineer, and is well known in the Cobalt district.

MOVEMENTS IN EAST PRUSSIA

Russians Have Defeated the Rearguard of the Enemy

LONDON, Jan. 14.—The Russians, according to official despatches from Petrograd, continue to keep the Germans in check on the Warsaw front, and to carry on a vigorous offensive in East Prussia, southern Poland and on the Transylvania border. Several villages were occupied in East Prussia, the defeat of German cavalry indicating an affray between the Russians and the German rearguard.

A special London Times' despatch from Petrograd says:

"The suggestion is made that the Germans are preparing for a general attack on the Bzura-Rawka positions, but this is not supported by conclusive evidence. It is not improbable, however, that a general regrouping of forces is being undertaken by the enemy.

The fighting on the Bzura already has cost the Germans over 250,000 men. To take the Russian lines would probably cost as many if not more.

The Russians have resumed the offensive in East Prussia, while the Germans continue to attack them in Poland, and they are again trying to cross the Nida river in southern Poland, which is held by the Austrians.

The renewed activity of the Russians in East Prussia indicates that the freezing over of the Mazurian Lakes, for which they have been waiting, has at last occurred, for otherwise it would be impossible for troops to advance through the narrow defiles defended by the Germans.

The Turks have occupied the Persian town of Tabriz, which is a Russian sphere of influence, and are battling with the Russians in the Caucasus, and are reported to be making preparations for an invasion of Egypt.

Mercier Adheres To Letter.

THE HAGUE, Jan. 14. — Cardinal Desideratus Mercier, the Primate of Belgium, declines for the present to discuss what he defined the "vexatious measures" of the German authorities in Belgium with reference to him and to the pastoral letter written by him on Christmas.

In a formal statement the cardinal says he will withdraw nothing from his pastoral letter.

Gen. von Bissing, German military ruler, admits he confiscated the pastoral letter, but denies any interference with the cardinal's personal liberty.

CANADIANS ARE READY TO LEAVE SALISBURY

Australians Will Leave For France.

LONDON, Jan. 14. — Lewis Harcourt, Secretary of State for the Colonies, addressing a gathering of Australians yesterday, said it was not likely that the Australians who were guarding Egypt with New Zealanders, Indians and English Territorials and regulars, would have much fighting to do there, and that they would soon be in France.

Twelve miles out from Rome the town of Albano, an episcopal city with a population of 10,000, and a favorite summer resort of the Roman nobility, has felt the full force of the shocks. Here are located the ruins of the Emperor Domitian's palace, a Praetorian camp and other antique remains, all of which are reported destroyed, together with the modern villas of the Princes Barberini and Altieri.

A large convent and a museum of antiquities are also reported to have been damaged at Albano.

Radius of 100 Miles.

NAPLES, Jan. 14.—Father Alfani, director of the Pompeii observatory, says that the earthquake appears to have been most disastrous from a radius of more than one hundred miles. He fixes the centre of the disturbance in the Province of Potenza. Communications with the town of Potenza have been interrupted, and a grave disaster there is feared.

It is reported that many houses fell in Caserta, northeast of Naples. All the glass in the observatory on Mount Vesuvius was broken.

In the Church of the Divine Providence Sisters were praying around the bier of a dead nun when the first tremor of the earthquake came, causing one of her arms to move. The Sisters at first cried out that a miracle had taken place, but simultaneously the candlesticks and crucifixes in the chapel began falling. Then they realised what was happening and rushed terror-stricken to the street.

Great crowds of the populace also fled into the thoroughfares when the earthquake came. They formed into processions, reciting the Litany of the Saints. Many of the people in their excitement declared that the earthquake was a punishment for the sins of men who are fighting against their brothers in the European war.

Epidemic of Spinal Meningitis in Camp Has Been Checked.

SALISBURY, Jan. 14. — Canadian troops here are to discard their Canadian-made boots, which have been declared to be too light and not waterproof. The troops will be refitted with British ammunition boots.

Camp surgeons announced yesterday that they believed they had effectively checked the epidemic of spinal meningitis.

During the past week the weather has shown wonderful improvement, and the Canadians are taking advantage of this and getting in some good hard training.

Every indication points to an early move; everything is being made ready to move at an hour's notice and the orderly rooms remain open all night in case of the expected order being given.

TURKS HANGING ON.

They Have Sustained Rearguard Action For Six Days.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—The fighting in the Caucasus, according to Petrograd despatches, reveals surprising tenacity on the part of the Turkish remnant, which has rallied and faced round, keeping up a vigorous defence for nearly a week, aided by reinforcements from the garrison of Erzerum.

The Turkish rearguard is holding on obstinately on the western bank of the River Olti, 35 miles west of Kars. The Russians report the capture of the 92nd Regiment of Infantry, including 11 officers, 3 surgeons and 1,500 men, and the partial destruction of the 52nd Regiment. Of the latter 250 men and one officer are reported captured. The Russians also stormed a height occupied by the enemy and captured a quantity of artillery and supplies.

BERCHTOLD STEPS OUT

Austrian Foreign Minister is Succeeded by a Hungarian

LONDON, Jan. 14.—Count Leopold von Berchtold, Austrian Foreign Minister, has resigned, and his resignation has been accepted, according to The Vienna Fremdenblatt. Count von Berchtold will be succeeded by Baron Stephen Burian von Rajecz, Minister of the Royal Court in the Hungarian Cabinet.

It is stated that he had long desired to retire for "impotrant personal reasons."

As Austrian Foreign Minister Count von Berchtold was largely responsible for formulating the policy which resulted in the declaration of war on Servia. The appointment of a Hungarian to succeed him is believed to indicate that henceforth Hungary will assume a more prominent place in shaping the policy of the dual monarchy.

The announcement has caused a sensation in diplomatic circles in Europe.

Hungary, while at one with Austria in regard to the principle of the war, has shown dissatisfaction with the manner in which it has been prosecuted.

Baron Burian was at one time Austro-Hungarian Minister of Finance, and latterly he has been Hungarian Minister to the Royal Court — evidence that he is in royal favor.

FRANCE HAS NEW ARMY

General Gallieni is at the Head of a Force Which Will Force its Way Into the Upper Rhenish Provinces.

Enemy Have Massed Forces in Soissons Region in Order to Relieve Pressure in Alsace.

LONDON, Jan. 14. — That the French are preparing to carry the fighting into Germany is disclosed in despatches reaching here yesterday to the effect that a new army of 400,000 men, under the command of Gen. Gallieni, former military governor of Paris, and considered probably the most brilliant tactician in France, is about to invade the upper Rhenish provinces.

For some days Germany has been rushing reinforcements to Alsace, and it is reported that 120,000 men are assembled near the fortified city of Metz, where they can be instantly thrown across the border against the French, and be quickly moved southward to Cernay and Steinbach if necessary.

It is believed here that the recent French advance into Alsace is largely for the purpose of determining the real strength of the Germans. This having been accomplished, it is stated Gen. Gallieni will shortly launch ten army corps on a terrific drive towards the Rhine.

The Germans apparently are having the best of the terrific battle now raging to the northeast of Soissons. Reports from Berlin and Paris War Offices agree that the French are giving ground before the terrific onslaughts of the Kaiser's forces.

This stubborn resistance is Germany's first answer to the new French plan to invade Upper Alsace. While the French armies farther east are presumably preparing to sweep up toward Metz, the German strategy seems to be to hurl such an avalanche of men at the centre that the need of reinforcements from both ends of the line will be great enough to halt the Alsatian march.

As for the fighting at the Flanders' end of the battle-line, where most of the British and Belgian troops are lined up with the French forces, it is not possible by comparing the French and German advices to get so clear an idea of what is transpiring.

Yesterday afternoon's report at Paris said:

"The unfavorable weather conditions, which have persisted along almost the entire front, have hindered operations. In Belgium there has been a sandstorm in the dunes along the coast.

"In the region of Nieuport and near Ypres the French artillery directed an effective fire on the earthworks of the enemy.

"On the Aisne, to the northeast of Soissons, the fighting around 'Spur 132' continued with great severity during all the day of Jan. 12. The Germans brought very considerable forces into this engagement. We maintained our position on the crest of the hills to the west of 'Spur 132.' To the east our troops were obliged to give ground. The fighting here continues.

"Between Soissons and Berry-au-Bac shells from our artillery caused explosions at several different points, in the midst of batteries of the enemy.

"In Champagne, from Rheims to the Argonne, there were yesterday exceedingly violent artillery exchanges.

"In the region of Souain the advance position covering the blockhouse located to the north of the Beausejour farm is still in our possession, and we here have set up a trench distant sixty yards from the German trench.

"In the Argonne there have been rain and wind storms. No infantry activity has been recorded.

"From the Argonne to the Moselle there have been intermittent artillery exchanges.

"In the Vosges there have been fogs and a heavy fall of snow."

Turks Bombarded Own Troops.

PETROGRAD, Jan. 14.—A curious incident concerning the proceedings of the Turkish fleet in the Black Sea has been reported. It seems that the Turkish cruiser Breslau, by mistake, bombarded certain positions held by Turkish troops near Liman, which is to the north of Hopa. Following this bombardment our troops occupied without hindrance the positions from which Turkish soldiers had been driven by the fire of their own cruiser.

—there's no food that equals Grape-Nuts in concentrated food-strength.

A pretty big claim, but listen—

"All-wheat food" sounds good to most people, but Grape-Nuts goes one better. It not onlycontains the entire nutriment of wheat, but also the rich nourishment of barley.

More! Grape-Nuts is long baked and digests quickly. Most wheat foods—bread for instance, and some so-called breakfast foods—require 2½ to 3 hours for digestion.

Grape-Nuts food digests generally in about one hour.

Being highly concentrated, there's more actual food value, weight for weight, in Grape-Nuts than in some other foods sold in bigger packages.

Grape-Nuts contains the vital bone, muscle and nerve making phosphates necessary for health and life, but lacking in most wheat foods—white bread especially. A daily ration of Grape-Nuts readily makes up for this lack.

A PHRENOLOGIST'S VIEW OF THE KAISER'S HEAD

Years Ago His Bumps Showed His Abnormal Self-esteem ---- Head Smaller Than Average

The following article on the German Emperor from a phrenological point of view is particularly striking in view of the fact that the description of the weaknesses and characteristics of the Kaiser which Mr. Blackpool O'Dell, a well known London phrenologist, gives, was written eighteen years ago, when he made his first study of the Emperor's head.

The head of the German Emperor is below the average in size the phrenologist wrote. Consequently the strength of mind manifested does not originate in the size of His Majesty's head. The strength comes more from the activity of his brain, in conjunction with the motive temperament. The direction that the activity takes is in accordance with the predominating faculties. One of these to be observed is that of self-esteem.

I should infer that this faculty is not alone strong, but active; in fact, in such a state of activity as to prevent the other faculties from having their due share in the councils of the mind. When this faculty becomes unduly excited, even a small head and inferior abilities can make a good appearance—can even at times deceive the ordinary observer, and lead him to believe in the existence of much where there is but little.

The Kaiser's Mission

From the formation of the Emperor's head, I should conclude that the possessor would honestly believe that he had special powers, that he was in a special manner an ambassador from Heaven, and if he should ever take it honestly into his head that his mission is to subdue the world to his rule and authority, he will endeavor, regardless of consequences, to obtain the submission of even the strongest nations, feeling confidence in his Divine authority. To suggest such ideas and to help him in their furtherance, the whole line of the Hohenzollerns will be constantly at his elbow.

His excessive self-esteem, while it may be a danger to other nationalities, is also a safeguard, for it may lead him beyond his natural powers. The size of his head is also opposed to any deeds of greatness. Apart from his position as Emperor, he may be recognized by those who pay him sufficient homage as a kindly, sociable man.

Not a Normal Mind

To this phrenological study of the German Emperor's head, made eighteen years ago, Mr. O'Dell added the following remarks, apropos of the present war:

The brain of the German Emperor is exceedingly sensitive and emotional. This has been noticed in his various speeches, addresses, sermons, and other communications.

The quarter of a million brain cells of which he is in possession I should suppose were in a constant state of friction, fear, and ambition. Being opposed to each other, they would be likely to produce inflammation in the regions of self-esteem and cautiousness.

For years his mind has been in a constant state of fear from many causes, especially in the direction of Socialistic progress and Socialistic political power; also the denunciation of war and many demonstrations for international peace.

The feeling of brotherhood is extending over the army of Germany, and he knows it. It is a source of fear, causing him to conclude that the soldiers are not to be trusted, to fight as in olden times.

If we are correct in our estimate, this state of the psychological condition of the German people and soldiery suggests the probability of a revolution, the fear of which may be one of the chief factors in bringing this war to an end.—Tit-Bits.

Undiplomatic Language

Signor Tittoni, the Italian Ambassador in Paris, may well be prejudiced against the Germans on personal grounds. When serving as Foreign Minister, Signor Tittoni found reason to complain of gross discourtesy on the part of the German Ambassador. On one occasion Herr von Monts, although in perfect health, lay in bed during a call paid him by the Foreign Secretary; and pointedly refrained from offering his visitor a chair. Again, at the opening of the Milan Exhibition, when all the diplomats attended in uniform, the German Ambassador was furious at seeing the Italian Minister in morning dress. "This is a strange way of arranging things," he called out to Signor Tittoni. "You make the diplomats and the flunkeys wear a livery, but you don't wear one yourself."

CONSERVING THE BREEDING STOCK

Everyone knows thaat trade conditions and commercial enterprise have suffered a very serious and unexpected upheaval during the past year. To this situation the war has, of course, largely contributed; but other causes, including the general financial depression throughout the country, have been operative for some months past. The agricultural industry has, naturally, been very widely affected by these changing conditions and by the varying situation with respect to demand and supply. The rise in the price of grain, together with the corresponding fillup to grain production, represents, without doubt, the most outstanding feature of the direction which has been given to agricultural activity.

We need, perhaps above all things else, sane, level judgment in the conduct of our agricultural affairs during the coming year. It is to be expected that grain production will be largely increased. The raw products of the soil are, and will be, in demand at remunerative prices. What then is to be said, what course is to be followed, with respect to the breeding of live stock?

The high price of feed, on the one hand, and relatively low prices for market stock, on the other, have resulted in very heavy marketing throughout Canada, particularly in the Western Provinces, of the stock, suitable for breeding purposes. Perhaps this was inevitable, but will these conditions continue? Feed grain will, without doubt, be high in price, but it must never be overlooked that the country can maintain very large numbers of live stock on the enormous quantity of rough fodder which it can produce. To waste this, for the sake of the grain which can be grown, would, under the present circumstances, be criminal neglect. It is clear, then, that the country should conserve its breeding stock. If grain is to be grown for sale it is recommended that plans should be carefully thought out as to the manner in which the greatest quantity of rough fodder may become available for feeding purposes and as to the means by which this otherwise waste product, together with the screenings and unsaleable grain, may be utilized to the best possible advantage. In other world eliminate waste. Do it by feeding live stock.

The present low prices for stock cannot last long. A careful review of the world situation makes it clear that there will be a shortage next year. Europe is becoming seriously depleted in both breeding and feeding stock. The United States, for ten months of the current year, at its leading markets is short 746,045 cattle, 208,000 sheep and 1,890,939 hogs. Canada has, as before stated, heavily liquidated her breeding animals and, while it may possibly maintain its quota next year of cattle and sheep, it is doubtful if more than seventy-five per cent. of the number of hogs will find their way to market in 1915, as compared with the current year. It is, therefore, a time for live stock men to stay with their trade. The present tendency is, of course, all the other way. A safe harvest is likely to be reaped by those who have stock for sale next year. Even bankers and business men are of this opinion.

One word of advise is to be given. Avoid marketing so far as it is at all possible to do so during the period of October fifteenth to December fifteenth. This is a time of the year when everybody else has stock for sale. It is a period when packers know that they can fill their cellars with cheap meat. These are the months when the surplus of the whole country finds its way to the packing centres. It is invariably the period of low prices, uncertain markets and disappointing returns to the producers. Breed, therefore, to have your stock available for sale at some other time of the year. Take care to provide sufficient winter feed that you may not be forced to sell when the cold weather comes. Above all, conserve your breeding stock.

The newest warships of the Agamemnon type cost £1,500,000. Nelson's Victory, armament and all, cost no more than £100,000.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 13.—New high records for wheat were created this morning on the grain market. During the early hours May touched $1.39 5-8 and July $1.40¾. There was some enquiry for oats, but on account of the scarcity of ocean grain room exporters could not work any further business. Sales of car lots of No. 3 yellow corn for shipment from Chicago were made at 80c per bushel, ex-track.

WHAT "SHOCK" MEANS.

How It May Affect the Physical and Mental Systems.

In medical language "shock" means the depression of the vital forces, both mental and physical. The condition may result from many causes and may vary from a faintness and pallor that soon disappear to a state so desperate that the sufferer dies of it, as in the case of serious accident or difficult surgical operations.

Shock may also be the result of an overpowering emotion, like great terror. That kind of shock is often seen in the survivors of any terrible accident. Many who have not got so much as a scratch suffer for a long time from a state of impaired health. Sometimes their nervous systems are so badly shattered that they never entirely recover. That is one of the many reasons why foolish practical jokes are wrong. It is not funny to dress up like a ghost, to jump out on timid children from behind doors, to play "jokes" with dead mice or snakes. And such pleasantries are dangerous as well as stupid. Many an unfortunate child has been made the slave of fear all his life by reason of a shock that some playmate gave him in his youth. The remedies that the physician uses are those which will restore the blood to its normal flow and stimulate the vital functions. For shock associated with great loss of blood the best thing is to inject salt solution. For shock without hemorrhage, a stimulant of some kind is generally given.—Youth's Companion.

INTERMEDIATES OUT TO WIN TOMORROW NIGHT

If the Petes Lose They Are Practically out of the Running Picton a Great Little Team and Will Give Locals a Lively Battle

The Picton-Peterborough Intermediate O.H.A. game tomorrow evening here, is looked upon as the most important O.H.A. game this week. Interest from all O.H.A. centres has been drawn to the conflict, which will practically decide whether the Petes stay in the running or not. Picton has won 5, lost 0 and has to play 5, while the locals have won 4, lost 1 and have to play 5. If the Petes win the two clubs will be tied for first honors.

Picton has a speedy little team and that they have the staying power goes without saying. The 3-0 defeat they handed the Petes in Picton, has given the care of Walter Knox a great deal of encouragement, but the Hunterites are determined to redeem themselves. The Peterborough line-up will be the same as played Belleville here. Lou Marsh will officiate.

SENIOR GYM CLASS HAD GOOD TIME

The senior gymnasium class of the Y.M.C.A. spent a most enjoyable evening at the toboggan slide, last night, about thirty of the boys and their ladies participating in the fun.

They left the building at 8 o'clock, returning about 10.30 to feast on beans and brown bread and enjoy music and games. Everybody had a good time and will look forward to the next event of its kind.

Mr. F. L. Roy is chairman of the special committee for this class and last night's affair was under the supervision of Mr. and Mrs. Roy.

These socials will be run once a month during the winter season and the boys and their friends may look forward to more times of which last night was only a sample.

GAME TONIGHT.

The Junior Church Hockey League game tonight will be between St. John's and Charlotte Street. The game will be played between 7 and 8 o'clock.

FANS, BASEBALL BRAND.

Are Most of Them Imitations of the Newspaper Cartoon?

My own belief is that the fan, as the baseball writers and cartoonist have depicted him, is a very rare being. To the extent that he does exist he is the creation, not of the baseball diamond, but of the sporting writer and the comic artist. The fan models himself consciously upon the type set before him in his favorite newspaper. It is once more a case of nature imitating art.

If Mr. Gibson many years ago had not drawn a picture of fat men in shirt sleeves, perspiring freely and waving straw hats the newspaper artists would not have imitated Mr. Gibson, and the baseball audience would not have imitated the newspapers. It is true that I have seen baseball crowds in frenzy, but these have been isolated moments of high tension when all of us have been brought to our feet with loud explosions of joy or agony.

But the perspiring, ululant fan in shirt sleeves, ceaselessly waving his straw hat, uttering imprecations on the enemy, his enthusiasm obviously aroused by stimulants preceding his arrival at the baseball park, is far from being representative of the baseball crowd.—Simeon Strunsky in Atlantic Monthly.

Victoria Crosses for bravery were bestowed yesterday upon a major, a captain, three lieutenants, three non-commissioned officers and one private, by King George, at Buckingham Palace.

JUNIOR METHODISTS WON OPENER IN CHURCH LEAGUE

The Junior Church Hockey League opened last evening at the rink between 6 and 7 o'clock with a win for George Street over All Saints. Previous to the facing of the puck, Rev. Canon Davidson, rector of St. John's Church, gave the boys a short talk along the line of becoming conduct on the ice, and urged them to uphold the honor of their church. The game was quite interesting, despite the one-sided score, and taking it as a sample, it is safe to predict that the Junior Church League contests will be well worth attending.

Mr. Roy Smythe refereed satisfactorily.

Neither team showed much team play but Rutherford, the goalkeeper, and Helson, figured prominently for George St. while LeBarr and Taylor were All Saints' best.

The lineup:—

All Saints.		George St.
Catchpole	goal	W. Rutherford
LeBarr	r. def.	Baxter
Tanning	l. def.	Simpson
Taylor	rover	Helson

Charlotte St. and St. John's meet this evening at 7 o'clock.

Some Trip.

Adventures such as seldom fall to the lot of a gas buoy must have happened to the one that is recorded by the Government of Canada. This particular buoy was located near Levis, opposite Quebec, on the St. Lawrence river.

It was carried away by ice in the spring of 1911. Of course, it was believed to have gone to the bottom. In the spring of this year it was found on the coast of New South Wales, Australia, a distance of 18,000 miles. During the years in which it drifted, it was never reported as being seen, although it stood fully 15 feet above water. Caught by the currents of the north Atlantic, it must have traveled south until picked up by the equatorial current, then have been carried to the southern end of the continent, and so around Cape Horn to the distant point where finally it was thrown ashore.

War Will Help Mines.

The Mines Department at Ottawa has had many enquiries as to Canada's ability to furnish mineral products formerly obtained from Germany or Austria-Hungary. Among these are magnetite, molybdenum, tungsten, potash salts and the salts of strontium, barium and antimony.

There is a big demand for magnetite, and if it can be found where transportation is available a valuable industry should develop. The manufacture of potash from felspar is only a question of cost, for there are ample supplies of felspar in central Ontario and Quebec. Strontium is found in Renfrew County and near Brockville.

The Mines Department has much information regarding all these deposits, but further investigation will be made in the spring.

The recent birth of a daughter to Joseph and Ethel Cokely completed a line of five generations of daughters. It made the third time in ten years that in this family five generations of daughters have been living. The present ancestral line begins with Mrs. Ella Weedmark, 72 years old, and ends with the new baby, not yet named.

Sacred Shells.

The clever priests of China often insert tiny images of Buddha within the shells of a living oyster, which are left undisturbed for about a year. At the expiration of that time the images are covered with mother of pearl to such an extent that they appear to have grown in this natural manner. The Chinese people hold these shells in great reverence, believing that Buddha dwells within them. However, should a Christian chance to look upon one of the shells it has no further value to them, as its charm is supposed to have left it.—Scientific American.

Irish Wit.

Even little children in Ireland, according to Hugh O'Donnell, have the true Irish sense of humor. He was standing before Nelson's statue, he said, when he asked a youngster, "Was Nelson really Irish?"

"That he was," replied the child. "That's why he is what he was."

A Deceived Man.

Bix—That lawyer you recommended is not a man of his word. Dix—Why not? Bix—He told me I could talk freely to him, and look at the bill he's sent me! — Spokane Spokesman Review.

Sharpening Scissors.

To sharpen scissors take a bottle and cut with the scissors as if you had to cut the neck off the bottle. This is effective.—Woman's Home Companion.

A Misnomer.

"How did your farewell tour turn out?"

"We didn't fare well." — Louisville Courier-Journal.

PICTURESQUE ICE FIELDS.

Scenic Beauties of Uncle Sam's Glacier National Park.

That the ice fields of Glacier National park present some of the best examples of active glaciers now found in the United States, is a statement made by W. C. Alden in a government pamphlet. "They have a splendid setting in magnificent alpine scenery," says Mr. Alden, "unsurpassed in grandeur anywhere. Hidden away in the recesses of the mighty mountain ranges, these rare and wonderful features form a climax to many of the interesting trips open to the tourist.

"There are in the park about ninety small glaciers, ranging in size from Blackfeet glacier, with its three square miles of ice, down to masses but a few acres in extent, yet exhibiting the characteristics of true glaciers.

"After examining these features one can easily picture to himself as he looks down the valleys the great rivers of ice which in ages past cascaded from the cliffs below the upper cirques, converged as tributaries from the many branch valleys and united in great trunk glaciers. In imagination he can see these great glaciers, many hundreds of feet in depth, filling the great mountain valleys from side to side and deploying thence upon the bordering plains. He seems to see these mighty engines plucking away the rock ribs of the mountains, smoothing, grinding and polishing the irregularities and sweeping away the debris to be spread on the plains below. These glaciers developed and extended three times and, after each development, the congealed masses melted away on the return of milder climatic conditions, until at length only the small cliff glaciers of the present day are left lurking in the protected recesses at the heads of the capacious valleys.

"Many of the rock walled amphitheaters are no longer occupied by ice, but from all there issues streams fed by the melting snow or ice. These plunge over the cliffs in beautiful, foaming cascades and rush on down the mountain gorges. The melting glaciers left many inclosed basins, large and small, and in these the waters rest awhile and mirror in their crystal depths the dark green of the surrounding forests, the rich colors of the rugged mountain walls and the deep blue of the cloud flecked sky. On, again, from lake to lake, the waters flow and finally start down their long courses to the sea to merge at length with the chill waters of Hudson bay, the balmy tides of the Gulf of Mexico or the rolling billows of the Pacific."

Paid In Full.

Miss Pinkerton (daughter of a rich manufacturer)—Pardon me, miss but I have not the honor of your acquaintance!

Miss Lowton (who does not intend to be put down in that style)—I thought you had at one time, but never mind! Perhaps if my father owned a big glue factory like your father's I'd be stuck up too!

Drawing the Line.

"I want you to read my speeches," said the candidate.

"Couldn't think of it," replied Mr. Dustin Stax.

"Why, I thought you would be interested. You have always subscribed to my campaign fund."

"Yes. I'm glad to be an old subscriber. But I'm hanged if I'll be a constant reader."

U. S. Consul Saves British.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—How the vigorous intervention of the American consul at Jerusalem, coupled with the dramatic appearance of the United States cruiser Tennessee, enabled the last five British subjects remaining in the Holy City to escape is related by one of them, a clergyman, who arrived in London yesterday.

Only by the untiring efforts of the consul, said the clergyman, were they able to obtain permission to leave Jerusalem on Christmas Eve.

None Rescued From Disaster.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 14. — (Via London.) — Information received at Berlin is to the effect that none of the officers or men were saved from the German cruiser Scharnhorst, sunk off the Falkland Islands by the British squadron. Seven officers and 171 men were saved from the Gneisenau, seven from the Nurnberg and four officers and fifteen men from the Leipzig.

It is now said to be practically certain that the nine Senatorial vacancies will not be filled for this session. When they are filled, probably after prorogation, there is a good chance of several members of Parliament going to the Upper House.

BROOKS—CLARK.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Clark of Belmont, when their daughter, Pearl, was united in marriage to Mr. Bruce Brooks of Peterborough, formerly of Trent River, on Tuesday, January 12, at 3 o'clock.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. W. DeMille of Havelock.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Ethel, while Mr. Elmer Davidson, cousin of the bride, ably assisted the groom. Only the immediate relatives and friends were present.

After a dainty repast the bridal party left, amid showers of rice and confetti, for Campbellford, to take the 7.23 train for Peterborough, the bride travelling in navy blue serge and black velvet hat.

Mr. S. Curry of Toronto is visiting friends in the city.

Mrs. H. Gordon Logan will receive for the first time since her marriage at her home, 72 Sophia street, on Friday, January 15th.

CONCERT GIVEN BY CHILDREN AT ST. GEORGE'S CHURCH

The second annual children's concert was held last night in St. George's Church, and from every point of view was a big success. The parish hall was well filled and the entertainment, all given by the Sunday School children themselves, was much enjoyed. The recitations, singing and other numbers was all that could be desired from children of such tender years. Such talent as shown last evening speaks well for the future of St. George's Church.

Mr. Turner, church organist, presided at the piano in his usual most acceptable style. The evening was brought to a close by the singing of "Who Killed Cock Robbin," "Tipperary," "For he's a jolly good fellow," and "God Save the King."

PETERBOROUGH AMONG COUNTIES SHOWING INCREASED POPULATION

(Weekly Sun.)

The statistics of population gathered by the Ontario Department of Agriculture from the returns of municipal assessors have been proved by the Dominion census a trustworthy source of information. They showed, according to an analysis made by the Sun some time ago, that from 1911 to 1913 the rural or township population of Old Ontario decreased in forty counties 30,185 and increased in five counties 3,046. There was a net loss in two years of 27,139.

The tide seems to have turned. Comparing the statistics of township population in these countries taken from the assessment reports of last spring, with the statistics of 1913, it appears that only twenty-two counties show the following losses:

Bruce	966
Dufferin	188
Dundas	148
Durham	505
Elgin	113
Grenville	204
Grey	562
Hastings	52

The township population, therefore, increased during the year 1913-14 by 6,098. The condition of the farm population is, however, not so favorable. An increase in Ontario County is due to the inclusion of the inmates of the asylum in East Whitby. The gains in Carleton, Brant, Middlesex, Wentworth and York are due almost entirely to urban overflow. The gains in Lincoln and Welland are due to the new Welland canal. There is probably an error in the figures for Russell, as there is in those for Durham, which ascribe a loss of nearly five hundred to the township of Hope.

The change in the movement of the farm population, which is clear in the figures for the counties removed from public works and urban overflow is due to the contraction of credit in the early fall of 1913. It proves that the main motive of rural depopulation was the pursuit of gain. Although we are sure that the assessment reports for 1915 and succeeding years will show an increase of the farm population, we are not hopeful that the cult which makes its livings by exhortation will become less zealous or turn as it ought to the promotion of measures to increase the profit of farm industry.

Prest, Sunday school superintendent, in the chair, the Treasure Seekers' Adult Bible Class of St. James Sunday School held their annual meeting on Tuesday night for general business, election of officers, and a social evening. The business part over, a very pleasing event took place, when the teacher, Mrs. (Rev.) J. N. Clarry, was asked to step forward. The second vice-president, Mrs. L. Emery, read the following address, and the honorary president, Mr. Charles Kitney made the presentation:

Dear Mrs. Clarry:

We, the members of the Treasure Seekers' Adult Bible Class, have felt for some time that we would like in some way to convey to you some expression of our united love; you have made our lessons pleasant and profitable, and taught us by example, as well as precept, lessons which we shall never forget. We shall never forget the pleasant social hours spent together as class and teacher.

We will always look back with real enjoyment whenever memory recalls those hours, and our hearts will warm toward you as they do today. It is with great pleasure that we offer to you this purse, asking you to make your own selection, whatever you would like best.

It is but a poor symbol of our feelings, but we know you will receive it kindly as a slight token of the attachment we each hold in our heart for you.

May you always be as happy as you have tried to make the class.

We thank you for all your kind endeavors, and pray God's richest blessings may always rest on you and your family, and, following your example, may we all strive to be faithful and each make our life a success and be permitted to a higher school in the life to come.

Signed on behalf of the class,
MR. C. KITNEY,
MR. A. KENT,
MRS. L. EMERY,
MRS. E. PALMER.

Mrs. Clarry was taken wholly by surprise, and after recovering herself thanked the class for their kindness and thoughtfulness toward her and hers.

After a few words by the chairman, Mr. Prest, and Rev. J. N. Clarry, the class then adjourned to the basement of the Sunday school where a very enjoyable social time, with refreshments, was spent. The class then dispersed to their various homes with feelings which will stay with them for many a day.

Montreal Slums

On the summit of a gentle slope, a few miles from Montreal, there nestles among the trees the garden suburb of the city, Montreal West. Its houses are beautiful homes, most of them are set in spacious grounds and surrounded with all manner of flowers and greenery. Its people are the prosperous business folk of the city.

At the foot of the same hill is the village of Bluebonnets—the overflow from the slums of the city itself. Its houses are mostly wooden boxes, crowded together without breathing space between; its back yards are rubbish heaps of infection for its children to play amongst. Half the people who live there are "out-of-work."

As in the case of Bluebonnets, which has a population of about 700 foreigners, there are a number of other colonies on the outskirts of the central part of the city. Little Italy lies between Park Avenue and Amherst street, and above Mount Royal Avenue—a considerable portion of the north end of the city, with a population of some 5,000 Italians.

In Point St. Charles are a large number of Russians and Poles. The housing conditions there are bad.

It is in the central districts, however, that the conditions under which these foreigners live are worst. St. Timothee street and its neighborhood, in the heart of the east end of Montreal, has an Italian population of nearly 5,000, while Latour street, further west, contains about 2,000.

On and near Cadieux street, east of St. Lawrence Boulevard, which divides Montreal into east and west, there are large numbers of Russians and other people of the Slav race.

It is stated by those who are carrying on work among these foreigners that the majority of the children do not attend school. The Presbyterian and Methodist churches, the Montreal City Mission and the Y.M.C.A. are doing what they can, but are quite unable to cope with the situation, unless given greater means. The Y. M. C. A. has an energetic branch among the Italians.

One day not many months ago a Galician boy of thirteen drifted into the City Mission.

Cyril, it appeared, was working for a Hebrew baker. He received 10 cents a week. The Mission gave him some decent clothes, including a pair of boots.

Cyril went back to the baker. The new boots were taken from him and sold for the benefit of his master. From time to time Cyril dropped in at the Mission, and after a time left his baker master. He is in more prosperous circumstances now.

Just across the road from the City Mission is a little terrace of three houses.

One is inhabited by Russians, one by Poles and sandwiched between them, in the middle house, are a family and several boarders of Austrian nationality.

In the evenings the occupants of all three houses sit on their doorsteps and smoke peacefully; but there is never interchange of remarks between the Austrians and the Russians and Poles.

It may be armed neutrality, or it may be that they just don't know there is any war. Most of the foreign peoples even although not speaking the same language fraternize to a certain extent if living in the same district.

The Y. M. C. A. workers in the foreign colonies believe that 65 per cent. of the foreigners in Montreal are not aware that there is war in Europe. They do not understand our language and rarely get a newspaper of their own. Added to this there is the fact that 57 per cent. of the Italians and 87 per cent. of the Russians are illiterate.

A Bird of a Retort.

"Here you are," scolded the robin, "putting your egg in my nest and expecting my wife and me to hatch it. You have a mighty bad reputation for your irregular habits."

"Oh, I don't know," saucily replied the cuckoo. "I never heard of any clocks being named after you."

Electricity in Rain

Rain drops are almost always charged with electricity. The charge is often positive, rarely negative. Many observers have measured the charge approximately and made it from 0.000,000,000,000,000,01 to 0.000,000,000,000,001 amperes per square centimeter. Professor F. Herath of Kiel describes in the Revue Electrique the experiments by which he has measured them.

He received the rain on a fine metallic cloth twenty-five meters square, insulated and attached to a galvanometer in a cellar. The galvanometer registered photographically. Among the facts he proves are these:

Rains with a constantly positive charge are much more frequent than those that change to a negative. The passage from a positive to a negative charge corresponds to a momentary cessation of the shower. The quantity of positive electricity brought by the rain is fifteen times greater than that of the negative. The positive currents in a steady rainfall are about 0.000,000,000,000,000,1 amperes per square centimeter. The negative currents never exceed 0.000,000,000,000,001 amperes per square centimeter.

GERMANS WERE FORCED FROM CAPTURED VILLAGE

FOE'S GUNS ARE DEMOLISHED --- OTHER FIELD WORKS DESTROYED

BAD DAY FOR THE GERMANS

Zouaves Take Positions After Brilliant Charge—Enemy's Bridges Are Destroyed.

FRENCH RE-TAKE ST. PAUL.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Jan. 15. — Today's official announcement records artillery engagements at many points, some of them quite spirited. At several points, notably in the region of Roye and near Rheims, German batteries were silenced, guns demolished, and field works destroyed.

Germans yesterday captured the vilage of St. Paul, northeast of Soissons, but the French immediately retook it. A brilliant bayonet charge by Zouaves to the north of Arras resulted in the capture of some German positions.

German foot bridges over the River Meuse at St. Mihiel have been destroyed, and their attacks in the forest of Ailly repulsed.

In an infantry engagement to the south of Senonnes, in the Vosges, the Germans were repulsed, and the French broke through their barbed wire entanglements and occupied German trenches.

RUSSIANS TOOK HEAVY HAUL FROM TURKS.

LONDON, Jan. 15. — The Daily News' Petrograd correspondent, describing the Russian victory over the Turks in the Caucasus, says that a Turkish rearguard was completely destroyed. Russians captured all the Turks' mountain guns and ammunition and all their field artillery and transport animals and beef cattle. These losses are disastrous for the Turks, as reinforcements cannot reach them for three months under the best weather conditions.

TWENTY-SIX VOLUNTEERS FROM THE HOME GUARDS

Men Are Addressed by Lieut. Col. Goodwill — Church Parade to be Held

There was a splendid turnout of the home guard last night at the armouries. Four hundred and fifty men were on parade. Their work showed remarkable improvement and was a cause for great satisfaction among the officers and executive.

A number of new members signed the service rolls, indicative of the great interest that is being taken in the organization.

A significant phase of the situation is that twenty-six members of the guard have enlisted for service in the third contingent.

These men were asked to step from the ranks by Lient. G. H. Young, after which Lieut. Col. J. E. L. Goodwill addressed a few remarks to them, congratulating them upon their decision, and he intimated that before leaving the city they would be tendered a farewell banquet.

Church Parade.

It has been decided to hold a home guard church parade, and although the date is not fixed, it will be either Jan. 24th or 31st. All Saints' Church has been selected for the Protestant members and St. Peters for the Roman Catholic section.

The following are the orders for the guard:—

Orders by Lt.-Col. J. E. L. Goodwill, Officer Commanding.

By orders of the Officer Commanding this district the home guards will practice drill as laid down in the manuel for "Infantry Training 1911."

Arrangements are being completed for a class of instructions for commissioned and non-commissioned officers and all such officers are expected to attend such class, and qualify for their respective positions.

A supply of instruction books has been arranged for and will be sold at cost to members of the class.

Officers commanding companies are requested to hand into orderly room at once, names of all non-commissioned officers provisionally appointed.

Members are requested to settle all accounts for membership dues or badges with the orderly room as soon as possible.

By order,

F. D. KERR,
Capt.Adj.

MILITARY EUCHRE.

A very successful military euchre party and dance was held last evening in the St. Alphonsus Lyceum under the auspices of the Ladies' Literary Society of St. Peter's Catherral. The winners at the cards were Miss K. Masterson and Mr. J. Crough. Miss Marion Gorman supplied the music for the dancing.

NEW CHANCEL AT ALL SAINTS' DEDICATED BY THE LORD BISHOP

Large Congregation and Visiting Clergy, Present for Re-opening Service

BISHOP SWEENY.

Who dedicated the Chancel of All Saints' Church.

Many friends and members of sister churches, joined the congregation of All Saints' Anglican Church, last evening, when the chancel was dedicated and the re-opening service held. It was a bright and significant service. The Lord Bishop of Toronto officiated and other clergy taking part besides the rector, Rev. R. B. Grobb, M.A., were Ven. Archdeacon Warren, B.A., Rural Dean W. E. Pickford, Brighton; Rev. W. L. Armitage, B.A., Toronto; Rev. C. W. Holdsworth, B.A., Havelock; Rev. Canon Davidson, M.A., Rev. F. J. Sawers, M.A., Rev. Jas. Price and Rev. E. Soward.

The choir of All Saints' was assisted by a large number of St. John's choristers and the singing was hearty and effective. The anthem was, Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem, by E. V. Hall, and the Hallelujah Chorus was sung after the last hymn. Mr. Geo. Chandler, choirleader at All Saints, led the choir of sixty voices, and Miss M. Flowers presided at the organ.

The beautiful decorative scheme carried out on the interior of the church, was very pleasing to the eye and the improvements that have been made throughout the edifice have given the congregation of All Saints one of the finest churches in the province. It is the largest church in the diocese of Toronto, exclusive of Toronto. With the church completed, rector and the congregation may be expected to push forward with even greater success the work before them.

AN EXAMPLE OF LOYALTY.

An example of loyalty and patriotism to the mother land is illustrated in the case of Thomas Henry Griffith, of No. 5 Company, home guard, who gave up a good position in the Brinton Carpet works and together with his son has enlisted in the third contingent. Another son went with the first contingent from Peterborough.

THREE MEN MAY HAVE BEEN LOST

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

HAMILTON, Ont., Jan. 15.—The police believe three men may have lost their lives in the bay last night. Three pairs of shoes left in a check house last night were unclaimed today, and it is thought the owners may have gone through the ice near the canal.

MADE ADVANCE OF ONE MILE

British Victory Near La Basse, Gives Them an Important Strategic Point

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Jan. 15. — The Havas agency has received a despatch from St. Omer, dated January tenth, which relates a British victory and an advance near La Bassee of one mile. The British, by an impetuous attack, stormed the strongly entrenched German position near La Bassee at two o'clock this afternoon after a vigorous preliminary shelling.

This is an important strategic point, and its occupation represents an advance of one mile.

The British losses were slight, but the Germans lost heavily. Many Germans were taken prisoners.

ALLIANCE AGAINST GERMANY AND TURKEY.

LONDON, Jan. 15. — The Daily Mail's correspondent telegraphs that the mission of Mr. Ghenadieff, a former Bulgarian cabinet minister, who will later proceed to Paris and London, is looked upon as an indication on the part of Bulgaria to join other Balkan states in an alliance against Germanic powers and Turkey.

PUBLISHERS TO BE SUED

For Story Given Prominence in Life of Lord Strathcona

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Winnipeg, Jan. 15. — The Free Press says General Steele and other former officers of Strathcona's Horse will sue W. T. R. Preston and the Toronto publishers of Preston's Life and Times of Lord Strathcona for libel. The alleged libel is a story given prominence in the book that an officer of Strathcona's Horse at a banquet in London, on the regiment's return from South Africa, made a ridiculous vulgar, boasting speech.

The story was in circulation several years ago but General Steele possesses written denials from Lord Strathcona and others present at the banquet that the episode ever occurred.

YOUNG BELGIAN WANTS TO ENLIST

Fifty Per Cent ot Recruits Are Canadian Born

120 MOUNTED RIFLES

Volunteer Says he is the Fifth From His Family

It has ben shown by analysis of the nationality of recruits enlisting for the tird contingent, that fifty per cent. are Canadian born, and the balance principally Britishers who have come to the city and surrounding country.

Recruiting in the last coople of days has not been particularly brisk, the number of volunteers now hovering around one hundred and twenty for the mounted rifles.

Among the applicants who presented themselves this morning was a young Belgian. He was extremely anxious to be accepted. Major Johnston was not quite sure whether he should be taken on here, but wired to Kingston at noon for instructions, as arrangements have been made at Toronto for all Belgians anxious to enlist.

The young fellow has been living near Peterborough for two years, and is unmarried.

Another applicant who was enlisted was the last of five brothers to take up arms. The other four, he said, were all at the front. He is Fred Haylock.

ONLY ESTIMATES CAN BE MADE

Weeks May Elapse Before Losses in Italy Are Known

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

ROME, Jan. 15. — Constantly-shifting estimates, based on straggling reports, now place the death list from Wednesday's earthquake at twenty thousand killed, and the injured over thirty thousand.

Thousands of victims are still buried alive under the wreck of their homes, while relatives struggle desperately to release them.

Latest reports place the number of dead in Avezzano at ten thousand; in Sora at four thousand. Sixty or more other towns contribute six thousand dead and injured. In Avezzano and Sora almost everybody was killed. These figures are merely an estimate and not very accurate, and several weeks may elapse before the loss, either in life or property, can be precisely computed.

PASS IT ON TO THE CITY

Council is Asked to Order Investigation Into Alleged Irregularities

BOARD OF EDUCATION

MR. GORDON QUOTES LAW.

Following is the law, quoted by G. N. Gordon, at the Board of Education last night:—

"A trustee shall not enter into any contract, agreement, engagement or promise, either in his own name or in the name of another, and either alone or jointly with another in which he has any pecuniary interest, profit or promised or expected benefit with the Board of which he is a member, or have any pecuniary claim upon or receive compensation from the Board for any work, engagement, employment or duty on behalf of the Board, and every such contract, agreement, engagement or promise shall be null and void, and a trustee violating the provisions of this section shall ipso facto vacate his seat.

One hour of arguing, cross firing and dissension marked the adjourned meeting of the Board of Education last night which wound up in a signal victory for Mr. G. N. Gordon who succeeded in the face of what looked like helpless opposition in shoving through an amendment demanding a judicial investigation into the affairs of the board, thereby defeating a motion that the matter be referred to the Minister of Education for adjustment. Mr. Crane was the mover of the motion but his proposition was nosed out by two votes. Some interesting passages occurred, one of which was when Mr. Vincent diagnosed the conduct of his fellow member, Mr. J. Smith as rotten. Mr. Gordon singled out W. H. Hill as the living illustration of one member of the board against whom there would be a specific charge. This went against Mr. Hill later in the meeting when he allowed it to stop him from voting on the motion and amendment regarding the investigation, by accepting Mr. Gordon's word that he was not eligible to vote when under the shadow of impeachment.

Mr. Gordon Determined.

When the meeting was called to order the object of it explained and the motion and amendment standing over from last meeting read, every member's hand seemed unfriendly to Mr. Gordon. To break the ice Mr. Crane who was active in urging the appointment of a commission by the Minister of Education, quoted extracts from the statutes endeavoring to prove that it was a matter that should be referred to the Department of Education.

Mr. Gordon who was the next to speak, started out on his amendment which was before the board when he was informed that the time was not opportune for such action. Mr. Gordon, however, stoutly maintained that he was within his rights and declared that he would speak and be heard. He went on to state that since his amendment had been introduced he had analysed the matter carefully under the heads of policy and administration. He contended that in the first place the fact of the board having incurred an overdraft of $18,000 without having obtained the sanction of the ratepayers or obtained authority respecting whether it would be met by a debenture issue was simply a question of policy. But how money had been expended for clocks, blinds, furnishings, etc., came under the head of administration. If a commission were appointed he interpreted the statutes in a manner which would not give them authority or permission to investigate the latter Here he was interrupted by Mr. Crane who reminded him politely that he was out of order. Chairman B. F. Ackerman told him the board had met to consider the motion and amendment. That was all.

Mr. Gordon: "I propose to insist upon my right to speak upon my amendment."

He continued speaking and in reply to Mr. Crane said that he had made no direct pre-election charges against the board of education. This led Mr. Crane to ask what he meant about "straw" men in awarding supplies. However this gave Mr. Gordon an opportunity to state that he thought Mr. Crane was out of order if the meeting was called purposely to deal with the motion before the board. Mr. Gordon maintained that there was no charge against the whole board.

An Impartial Investigation.

Regarding the amendment he said that his contentions were that under the provisions of the Municipal Act the matter should be referred to a judge whose findings would not be open to comment which usually attended an investigation by a commission. He wanted a fair and impartial investigation, not by a man whose next job might depend upon how he handled this one. He did not propose to hand any of the material he had collected over to a man who perhaps had never handled an investigation before. Mr. Gordon said that part of his material would deal with a specific charge against Mr. Hill and if proven it would result that Mr. Hill would have to vacate his seat. That was his interpretation of the Municipal Act, under which he contended proceedings should be taken.

Mr. Vincent Eastwood.

Up to this time feeling seemed against Mr. Gordon but Mr. Vincent Eastwood had not spoken. At the last meeting he was absent in Ottawa. Before coming round to the matter under discussion he congratulated Mr. B. F. Ackerman upon his appointment to the chairmanship and believed he would fill it with honor and satisfaction. He also welcomed the two new members cordially. With regard to the matter in hand he said he did not feel inclined to force an issue so suddenly as evidently was being done. A man of ordinary common sense and ability (referring to Mr. Gordon) would certainly try and make good any charges that he had laid in a matter so vital and important. It didn't seem to him to be exactly wisdom to attempt to strangle Mr. Gordon in what he bad choosen to do. He thought the latter might possibly consent to modify the whole matter and it would not be necessary for him to build up a case as a consequence. It was a question that concerned every member of the board and what would the public think of it. The public would have to be convinced in the proper manner that things were right and they would not be forced into believing and nothing could be gained by voting Mr. Gordon down. Mr. Deane, also a new member, spoke for the first time. He was in favor of having the matter threshed out before a judge instead of a commission like the Trent Canal investigation which had involved innocent people. He wanted to see it brought to a head quickly instead of jangling going on for an extended time.

Mr. Crane thought that what Mr. Gordon was urging was simply his interpretation of the manner in which the trouble should be treated and that it was simply a difference of opinion twixt he and Mr. Gordon.

Wanted Full Investigation.

Mr. W. H. Hill wanted the matter settled quickly. "I am not afraid of Mr. Gordon and I court the fullest investigation." Here the suggestion was made that a vote be taken but Mr. Gordon said that a man who was impeached, referring to Mr. Hill was not eligible to vote and in this he was uncontradicted.

Mr. Vincent Eastwood again rose to say that the matter could be settled without a commission which would involve extra expense. He thought the county judge was capable of handling it properly and he would therefore second Mr. Gordon's

IS IT NECESSARY FOR PETERBOROUGH TO SPEND $30,000?

THERE IS NO DOUBT that an auxiliary steam pumping plant is a reliable method of operating the waterworks system of Peterborough in case there is no electric power. If electric power cannot be obtained, for lack of a water supply sufficient to run the turbines of the generating plant, there would hardly be any other alternative but to build an auxiliary steam pumping plant. However, last summer the water of the Otonabee was lower than it has been for a number of years, if reports of old residents are true, yet there was, apparently, no shortage of water for local purposes. Further, there was no mention at that time of an auxiliary steam pumping plant. Not until frazil and anchor ice completely demoralized the power companies of this district and caused a most dangerous shutdown of the waterworks system, was there any important mention of an auxiliary steam plant either for pumping or power purposes. Therefore, the building of a steam auxiliary for the waterworks seems to be intended principally for the purpose of overcoming ice troubles, and not because of a shortage of water.

Such a plant will cost the city of Peterborough at least $30,000. Now, just think for a moment for what this thirty thousand dollars will be expended. The longest period of an attack of frazil that we have read of, occurred at Ottawa in 1905, when it lasted for eleven days. Three days is an unusual length, and six or twelve hours is the normal duration of attacks in Peterborough. There are two periods in the year, spring and fall, when this ice formation occurs, so that normally one to three days covers the whole danger for a year. To spend $30,000 for a provision against three days of ice troubles, and at most six days, is very expensive insurance, particularly at a time when money is scarce, rents low, and the property that must bear the expense not in a flourishing condition.

But that is not all. Were there no ways of preventing these ice troubles, the citizens would have to face the music. Just suppose ice caused a shutdown of the waterworks when a fire of any size took place in Peterborough, and the damage might easily reach one million dollars. Fires cannot be put out quickly if there is no water to fight them. We have published a number of remedial measures that could be taken to prevent ice from causing shutdowns, and that is why it does not appear advisable to spend $30,000 for this purpose at this time.

In conversation with a resident of this city, we were informed that Mr. Murphy's plan had been put in operation at the Quaker Oats powerhouse, and that it had failed. Mr. Murphy makes the statement that a license for the use of his patents was granted the Otonabee Power Company, at its request, after a gentleman of that company had paid a visit to Ottawa and seen what had already been accomplished in successfully preventing frazil from causing shutdowns. Whether the plans and advice were carried out, Mr. Murphy could not say, but he has no knowledge of anything being done at the Quaker Oats power-house.

Some time ago we printed the evidence submitted us by the manager of the Dominion Power and Transmission Company, which obtains its power from Decew Falls. This company stated it had tried Mr. Murphy's scheme without success, and, on a further inquiry, the manager states that their "racks are of iron, faced to the southwest, and are not protected from the wind or outside air." He also understands that the plan of heating they tried was not exactly in accordance with Mr. Murphy's plan. The ultimate cost of their steam auxiliary plant will be about $3,000,000, of which $1,200,000 are to be spent on the present installation.

So far as we can learn, there has been no satisfactory evidence produced that ice troubles cannot be successfully overcome by protecting the racks and fore-bays and by providing heat for the turbines and racks. We have spoken to several who say that it has been tried and failed, but they either do not give any supporting evidence of facts, or else have very unsatisfactory data. In regard to the Hydro-Electric Commission, some say it is not fair to quote them, because they do not develop power, but we have only quoted them when they spoke for the Ontario Power Company, which does develop power. There appears to be a prejudice and a picayune spirit in opposition to any other method than that of a steam auxiliary, and this is not the proper way to approach any public question. The theory that was prevalent in Peterborough was that when the Auburn powerhouse was shut down the others would not be, and that they would always be able to get power. This theory was founded on the assumption that a weather condition in Peterborough would not obtain at Nassau or Campbellford. This was, manifestly, a short-sighted policy, that would break down just as soon as Nature provided a general weather condition, such as happened last December. If a steam plant is necessary, the citizens should not object, but if it is not warranted, the $30,000 should not be spent. The whole problem hinges upon the reliability of the methods of overcoming the ice problem as compared with using an entirely independent means like steam. Steam will provide power to run waterworks, but it is expensive. If simpler and less expensive methods, based on scientific facts, are found reliable in other places, surely Peterborough could also use them.

THE LIBERAL BOURASSA.

SO H. BOURASSA has decided to lead a Quebec wing of the Liberal party. He makes a mistake if he thinks Canadian Liberals, any more than Canadian Conservatives, will stand for Bourassaism. This country is not to be made the victim of twaddle like that. The English people are very chary of demagogues. It has been England's safety and strength. Boulanger got the French "going" in a way that would be impossible in Britain. Mercier, Bourassa, and such people understand the simple, fervid Gallic temperament.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

EVEN some newspaper publishers are beginning to realize that their newspapers should be conducted with some regard to business principles. The idea of printing larger newspapers than is demanded by strict business has been discontinued by the Winnipeg Telegram, which will no longer publish a morning edition. The Regina Province has also discontinued its morning edition, and the Regina Leader its evening edition. It is about time that some Ontario newspapers should wake up to the same facts as our western brethren. The newspaper that gives the news without unnecessary "padding," and maintains a respectable tone, will serve all the interests of the people, be of more value to its advertising patrons, and at the same time provide a living for its publishers.

IT IS rather surprising that the Board of Education did not show more resoluteness than it did at last night's meeting. Just because one member says another has no right to vote does not make it so. Even the reading of the Municipal Act is not sufficient. A member has the right to vote until he is legally disqualified, and that means by a process of law. Apparently, some members do not know what their rights are, or otherwise allowed themselves to' be bluffed.

PREMIER GOUIN'S references to bi-lingual conditions in Ontario, says the Toronto Mail and Empire, come at a singularly inappropriate time. If war-time is no time for partizan politics, then it is no time for raising senseless racial controversies.

THE LATEST REPORTS are that Kitchener thinks the war will last "a bit longer." We take that to mean that there is little prospect now of the war terminating next year.

DURING the coming year, Canada, as the "granary of the Empire," should make such large increases in production as to fulfill her duty and deserve the appellation.

WE RESPECTFULLY call the attention of all pullers and pushers, delegates, etc., to the fact that there are reduced fares to Ottawa January 18-21, inclusive.

WHETHER Trustee Gordon is right or wrong in his methods to dig into school matters, it must be admitted that he has the courage of his convictions.

Toronto's Municipal Show.

(Beck's Weekly, Montreal.)

A few weeks ago a Montreal man, in going over the various elements in which his city outshone Toronto, wound up by saying: "And let me tell you that we are not only the biggest city in Canada, but we have the biggest jackass in Canada for mayor."

It must have been a mean and envious spirit which prompted Toronto to try to rob Montreal of this distinction by choosing Controller "Tommy" Church as its chief magistrate on New Year's Day. "Tommy" has been the butt and joke of every newspaper in Toronto, with one or two exceptions, for the past fifteen years. He was never heard to utter an intelligent opinion unless it had been pumped into him by a capable instructor. His brain has always seemed to swirl in a perpetual maelstrom. An intelligent man could not spend ten minutes in his company without being bored to death. He has "trimmed" on almost every question with which he has been called upon to deal; and yet he has gotten everything in the way of a municipal office that he has gone out after since he first became an alderman ten years ago.

The Failure of Trade Unionism.

(Industrial Canada.)

One of the strongest claims made in defence of international trade unionism was that it constituted an insurance against war.

"We will never fight our union brothers in foreign countries," was one of the commonest statements made by trade union leaders.

Yet the most startling feature of the present war was the ferocious alacrity with which Germans and Austrian trade unionists flew at the throats of their Russian, French, Belgian and British brothers.

As a keeper of the peace, international unionism has been a failure.

And Why Not?

(Collier's)

At a recent meeting of professional Irishgermaniacs in New York City Dr. Kuno Meyer, of the University of Berlin, roused enthusiasm by remarking: "I could not live or breathe an atmosphere so close and dense as that which appears to prevail at Harvard." We know quite a few Harvard alumni who would cheerfully contribute something toward the expense of injecting this lively thought into the psychological midst of Dr. Hugo Munsterberg, now occupying a chair at that institution.

LEAGUE TO REVIVE RECIPROCITY.

Editor, Review.

Sir,—Are the people of this district aware that a league has been formed in the United States to revive the Reciprocity propaganda? Canada presents a fine field to the American capitalists, who want to corner the Canadian product of grain and cattle. They have got hold of the trade of Argentina in foodstuffs, and completely control it. Like Argentina, this country will have to be brought into the control of the financier if he is to make money out of the Canadian farmer. The Canadian agents and disciples of American interests are beginning their press work. Look out for them.

BISHOP FALLON GETS THE BLAME

Is French Canadians Worst Enemy Says Armand Lavergne

QUEBEC, Jan. 15.—The expression of a belief that "the government should put something in the hands of the poor French-Canadians in Ontario to enable them to fight their battles," formed the most striking contention made by Armand Lavergne, Nationalist, in the course of a debate in the legislature on a motion of W. S. Bullock, M.L.A., asking for fair play for the minority in Ontario. Mr. Lavergne said the Orange order in Ontario, which was responsible for the agitation against the French, was made up of "the lowest classes of Irish Protestants."

Interest was lent to Mr. Lavergne's attack on Bishop Fallon of London, seeing that he was at one time one of his pupils. Mr. Lavergne bracketted the bishop and the Orangemen in allotting the blame for the position of the French-Canadians.

Both Hon. J. M. Tellier, leader of the opposition, and Mr. C. E. Gault, St. George's, Montreal, protested against Mr. Lavergne's attack.

Mr. Lavergne said: "Mr. Bullock, by his speech, has just given us an example of justice, tolerance, and generosity. I have no doubt that, representing as he does the minority in this province, his words will echo widely in the sister province."

Treacherous Agitation.

Mr. Lavergne went on to trace the history of the language question in Ontario. It was only in 1908, he said, that the treacherous agitation against the French language was begun. He attributed this agitation to two causes — the Orange element and the preaching of Bishop Fallon, whose tyrannical spirit, he said, spoiled everything, and set fire to the powder.

Mr. Lavergne then quoted from various authors to show that "Orangeism" was a "low secret society," and he gave a number of examples to prove that its object was a merciless war against the French language and the Catholic regligion. The order was given up to much drum-beating and raising of race cries which brought disorder.

Their Worst Enemy.

Mr. Lavergne went on to declare that Mgr. Fallon, Bishop of London, was the worst enemy of the French Canadians in Canada.

Continuing, Mr. Lavergne quoted documents to show that the teaching of the German language went before that of the French language in Ontario.

"We have, therefore, the right," he affirmed, "to protest against this infamous system which the Prussians never even dared to apply in Alsace-Lorraine.

Society of Education.

"The French-Canadians were not a people to endure persecution without defending themselves against it. The society of education was formed, and had begun a campaign which would only terminate with the complete triumph of right and justice. Tyrants passed away, but liberty remained." As an example of the spirit of justice among certain tyrants, he said that while a niggardly press was praising Carson for causing a revolution, this same press was scandalized at the campaign of the society of education in Ontario. There were two standards of justice for these narrow minds."

LEGISLATURE OPENS FEBRUARY 16th?

TORONTO, Jan. 15.—It was hinted yesterday at the Parliament Buildings that the Legislature will be convened Feb. 16, instead of on Feb. 10, as originally ordained. Although the members have been holding themselves in readiness to assemble on the latter date, several matters which have appeared within the last two weeks are understood to be arguing for a postponement.

It is likely that the order-in-council settling the date will be issued before the end of the week. None of the Ministers wished to commit themselves yesterday, although they intimated that the public would be given notice before long.

Some people talk so much they never remember anything they say.

For selling butter not properly put up and correctly branded.

Government dairy regulations require that when DAIRY BUTTER is put up in blocks, squares or prints and wrapped in parchment paper, the paper shall be printed or branded with the words "Dairy Butter" in letters at least one-quarter inch square.

Imitation Parchment paper (which some sell) is no better than common tissue as soon as it becomes damp; and cheap inks stain the butter, making it unsaleable. We use only PURE PARCHMENT printed with SPECIAL INDELIBLE INK.

A "SCRAP OF PAPER"

At ten minutes past seven in the evening of the fourth of August, 1914, within the four grim walls of the Berlin Foreign Office, there transpired a twenty-minute interview, the most dramatic of which history holds record. * "Will Britain," queried the German Chancellor, "fight just for a scrap of paper?" The British Ambassodar made terse reply, "That solemn compact simply has to be kept." For that "scrap of paper" was the public law of Europe guaranteeing the independence and neutrality of the Belgian nation. * Eighty-three years ago Britain had signed. And, whatever the consequences, the mightiest of empires was tossed into the melting-pot of a world-war. Belgium also had subscribed. Would she, too, risk all for honor? Her reply was sealed in blood on the ramparts of Liege; and, forthwith, Devastation laid waste her smiling fields and piled her cities in smoking ruins. An empire in arms, a country in ashes, a nation homeless—and all for a "scrap of paper!" * Magna Charta, too was but a "scrap of paper," but it was the earliest monument of Anglo-Saxon freedom. The Declaration was only a bit of parchment—but it heralded the birth of the American nation. Just such scraps of paper have marked the milestones in mankind's upward climb to freedom. * Mortgages, bonds, debentures, promissory notes—all are but scraps of paper. But no self-respecting man and no honest corporation can wantonly repudiate such commitments. * As it lies in your drawer or your safe, your life assurance policy measures but four inches by nine. It, too, is only a "scrap of paper." But the scrap of paper bears on its face the corporal seal of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada. It is backed by over Sixty Millions of Assets and nearly five decades of honorable dealing. In times like these it may easily spell the salvation of your business. Should you die, of all your scraps of paper it alone may be worth one hundred cents on the dollar. In years to come it alone may be left to buy bread for your mother, your wife, or your children. * That "scrap of paper" represents the most sacred of your obligations. Respect for it is the measure of your honor. * Keep it inviolate, whatever the cost!

A LOVER'S TEST

By LOUISE B. CUMMINGS

About a century ago a crown prince of Prussia was in the matrimonial market. One day a Prussian deputation called on the reigning duke of one of the smaller of the German states and made a proposal for the hand of the duke's youngest daughter, Elsa, then nineteen years old. Her father, astonished and delighted at being so honored, went at once to communicate the news to his daughter. Elsa received it without the transports exhibited by her father.

"I am disappointed," she said, "for I have always supposed that not enough princes of the blood would be found for my elder sisters and that I would be permitted to marry, if at all, for love. I will not wed the prince."

Her father argued and stormed, but could only secure his daughter's consent to the wedding on condition that she spend some time in Berlin that she might become acquainted with the prince and if he did not please her she could break the betrothal. Since her father must accept this condition or send a refusal to the king of Prussia he consented to it.

The crown prince pleased Elsa very much with his personality, but did not show her the attention she had a right to expect from a fiance. There were many gallants at the Prussian court, and the princess accepted the attentions of those who were sufficiently impolitic to give them, for it was not expected that any man would devote himself to the betrothed of the heir apparent. Count Caspar Audenreid was one who seemed willing to trespass on the royal domain, and his attentions being accepted it was not long before the matter began to excite comment.

Meanwhile the crown prince, who took an interest in state affairs, busied himself with them and when at leisure, instead of seeking the company of his betrothed, devoted himself to other women. He did not seem to notice Count Caspar's attentions to Elsa, or if he did they did not seem to trouble him.

Elsa was piqued by his indifference. She did not love the count or any of the other courtiers who paid her attention. Indeed, she was much cut up because the prince slighted her. At last she concluded to withdraw from Berlin and on reaching her own home compel her father to send word to the king of Prussia that his daughter had informed herself of the crown prince's desirability and that she had not been sufficiently well pleased with him to marry him.

Elsa was aware that her leaving Berlin would be interpreted to mean that she had refused the heir apparent to the throne, which would be considered an insult to the Prussian court and nation. She therefore determined to depart secretly or at any rate without leave.

One night a carriage stood waiting at a doorway directly below her apartments in the palace. The princess, veiled, descended, entered the vehicle and was driven away.

On reaching a wooded spot some distance from the city the carriage was stopped and the door opened by a masked man.

"Pardon me, your highness," he said. "I am looking for one whom I expected to be with you."

"And who may he be?"

"Count Caspar Audenreid."

"And pray what interest is Count Audenreid to you?"

"None to me personally, but as one who has insulted my master, the crown prince, he is a good deal of interest to me. I desire to avenge that insult."

"You mean that his royal highness is indifferent to his loss, but extremely sensitive to his dignity."

"As to that the prince must speak for himself."

"I have no desire to hear him on the subject. I presume you will permit me to go on."

"But perhaps my master may desire to apologize for his neglect of one for whose hand he had proposed."

"In that case it is not necessary that I should return to Berlin."

"Why not?"

"He stands before me."

"How have you been able to recognize me?"

"I would know you through any disguise."

"May I ask where you are going?"

"Home."

"Why are you leaving Berlin?"

"Because I will marry no man who treats me with indifference."

"And you are not accompanied by Count Audenreid?"

"That you can see for yourself."

"Will you give me another trial?"

"Not in Berlin. I shall be happy to receive you at my father's capital."

"May I accompany you?"

Elsa hesitated. A change had evidently come over her betrothed. Her departure would doubtless occasion a great deal of talk and trouble.

"You may," she said.

The prince entered the vehicle, and it was driven on.

"You came to Berlin," he said, "to look me over. I have been to your home incognito to look you over. I selected you among the other princesses of Europe because I fell in love with you."

"Then why did you treat me with such indifference?"

"To learn if it troubled you. But you have been a match for me. I believed you loved Audenreid."

"I love only the crown prince."

Father of the Dreadnought.

To the late Admiral Cuniberti, member of the Italian naval engineering staff, is due the credit of having suggested the modern Dreadnought. It was he, also, who suggested the modern type of scout, and he was one of the first to study the question of the application of liquid fuel to marine boilers. It was his influence which led to the adoption of this fuel in the Italian torpedo boat service.

Victor Hugo's Appetite.

Hugo was himself a curious mixture of the aristocrat with the democrat. For these mixed dinner parties he sent out formal invitations on printed cards. Another inconsistency was his vulgar longing for public praise. He was in the seventh heaven when the crowd shouted "Vive Hugo!" In order to be in contact with the people he rode on the imperial of omnibuses and talked with everybody. At table one hardly knew which to admire more, his conversation or his appetite. Both were exceptional. Hugo never did anything by halves. His repasts were gargantuan, and he drank as much as he ate. — Charles Dawbarn in T. P.'s London Weekly.

Pointers For Housekeepers

Apple Sauce Cake

Cream one cup of brown sugar with one-half cup of butter, add one and one-half cups of apple sauce, half teaspoon of salt, half teaspoon, each, of cinnamon, cloves and grated nutmeg and three tablespoons of coffee. Sift two and one-half cups of flour with two teaspoons of soda three times. Clean and dry two cups of raisins. Add these to flour and stir into first mixture. Stir all together; put in well-greased and floured pan. Bake in moderate oven one and one-quarter hours.

Stewed rhubarb may be used in place of apple sauce.

Eggless Cookies

Take one large cup of butter and lard, mixed; one cupful of sugar, one cupful of molasses, one-half cupful of water, one tablespoonful of ginger, one of cinnamon, one teaspoonful of cloves, one teaspoonful of soda and flour for stiff dough. Pour over the soda a little boiling water before using it. Mix the ingredients thoroughly, for if the dough is not properly mixed the cookies lose in flavor, and they will not be shiny and spicy when done. These cookies should be rolled thinner than sugar cookies.

Spaghetti Cooked Italian Style

Use one-half package of spaghetti boiled in two quarts of water until tender. Take one-quarter pound of very thinly sliced bacon cut in squares. Fry them in a skillet with two cloves. After the bacon is crisp skim out pieces and slice in one medium sized onion and two cloves of garlic and each clove cut in half. Fry a delicate brown. Take out the pieces of garlic and pour on one quart of soup stock, one can of tomato paste. When all is well incorporated and hot add bacon and spaghetti. Cook slowly for one-half hour, adding a little more stock if needed.

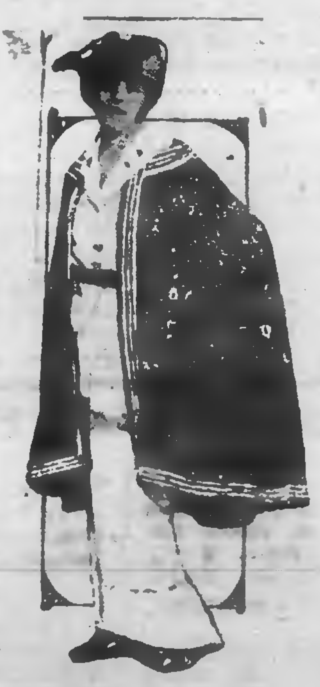
Serve with parmesan cheese sprinkled thickly over each portion.

Stuffed Onions

Boil large-sized onions until tender, allowing one for each person to be served. When they can be pierced with a fork drain and set aside to cool. Take great care to keep the shape perfect. When cool, with sharp knife remove center. Mix three tablespoons of minced ham, three tablespoons of bread crumbs, one tablespoon of butter, one egg, three tablespoons of milk together. Salt to taste. Fill the space in each onion with the mixture. Put into baking dish. Dot each onion with butter. Add one cup of sweet cream. Sprinkle with bread crumbs. Bake in slow oven half an hour.

Invalid's Food

A pound of finest round of raw beef is very strengthening food for the invalid who can take it. Trim off fat, slice two small onions, season with pepper and salt. Chop altogether until reduced to almost a pulp. Spread on thin slices of bread and butter; whole wheat or rye bread is best. Put another thin slice on top to hide the meat—which tastes better than it sounds, or looks.



The Cult of the Caps

Capes are the most popular of wraps for all occasions. If you wish to be right in style, you must have two or three of these useful articles of dress ready for wear.

The illustration shows a cape of dark green duvetine made in circular style and trimmed with black soutach braid.

The Seal's Ventilator

Not many people know how the seal of the far north gets air when the Arctic ocean is entirely covered with many feet of ice.

The small spotted seal, which is a hair seal and not a fur bearer, is the hardy dweller of the northern waters. Under his tough, thick skin he has an inch or more of blubber. When the ice closes up the open water in the Arctic the seal selects a spot and begins to drill a hole to the surface by pressing his warm nose against the ice. Nobody knows how many hours it takes him to accomplish his task but he manages it, and, although he is obliged to work most of the time because the surface of the hole is continually freezing, he keeps it open all winter and obtains air. Seals have been known to drill in this manner through fifty feet of solid ice. Whether or not they take turns in the slow drilling is not positively known. It is at these "seal holes" that the polar bear seeks food in the winter and there the Eskimo waits, spear in hand, for his weekly supply of meat.—Youth's Companion.

American Place Names.

If the movement for the Americanization of American place names comparable with the movement which in Russia has changed the name of St. Petersburg to Petrograd ever gets started in the United States it will make awful havoc with the map. Boston will be Shawmut, Portland will be Piscataqua, Long Island will be Paumanok, and so on around the country. No doubt names with a real local reason in them, like Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Providence, Cincinnati, Detroit, Indianapolis and San Francisco will be retained, but New York, Boston, New Orleans, Richmond and Cleveland will have to go. The names of Chicago, Milwaukee, Buffalo and Oshkosh already loom magnificently for their sturdy Americanism.—New York Mail.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Bleeding Gums.

Bleeding gums are one of the signs of scurvy, a dreadful disease, of which, happily, we hear less now than in the days when men had to take long voyages on sailing ships and could not get fresh food. Mild cases of it are found among children who have been fed on condensed milk only. As soon as these children are given a proper diet with fresh milk the gums cease to bleed and grow hard again. Many other constitutional disorders besides scurvy cause bleeding gums, but most cases are owing to local conditions and need to be treated by the dentist rather than by the doctor. If your gums bleed because you have discarded a soft toothbrush for a stiff one you can relieve the trouble by a mouth wash of salt and water or by putting a little myrrh in the water. If, nevertheless, the gums continue to bleed visit the dentist at once, for spongy gums soon cause loose teeth. In many cases he will find suppuration round the sockets of the teeth or between them.

It is possible for that to be the case, although the teeth themselves show no sign of disease. It can even happen to the most cleanly people, for the brush, even when conscientiously used, will not reach the affected spot. If neglected the condition is sure to lead to trouble, because the patient constantly swallows the poisons that are formed, to the detriment of his digestion and his general health.

SOME GIFTS FOR BRIDAL SHOWER

Useful Kitchen Articles and Dainty Japanese Ware for the Whole House

The girl who is about to be married is nowadays entertained by all her friends with pretty gifts in the shape of "showers."

With a little thought and very little money a group of twenty girls friends can furnish the bride's entire kitchen.

Let one of the number send out the invitations written on light colored wrapping paper. Roll them up and tie with wrapping twine.

If one has a large kitchen have the party there.

Of course, there must be graters, beaters, lemon squeezers, skimmer, measuring cups, spoons (all sizes in tin and two wooden ones with split bowls), spatula, cake tins, bread pans, muffin tins, pie pans (assorted sizes), granite pans with long handles, small tea kettle, double boiler, steamer, teapot, flour sifter, coffee scoop, cup for measuring coffee, oil can, omelette pans, molds for jellies and puddings, cork screws, can opener, ice pick, sink strainer, dish pans in a kitchen.

A buffet luncheon, served on the range, will be fine if the company is not too large. Serve coffee, crisp bacon and griddle cakes or waffles, requiring each to bake her own, and give a prize to the one who bakes the most perfect ones.

Or a Japanese shower is a little more elaborate and quite a favorite just now. You'll be surprised to find what pretty and useful Japanese furnishings you can get for the bride's new home.

The blue Japanese towels, which come at 60 cents apiece, make most acceptable lunch cloths if sewed together, or may be used in stripe through center of table. Then there are the regular lunch cloths in different sizes, and doilies to match, as well as napkins. A set of curtains for a breakfast or dining room may be made from the towels and a valance over the top.

Teapots, sugar and creamer in blue, cups and saucers with plates to match, can be bought for 10 cents apiece. Salt and pepper shakers, a set of four, with a few small dishes for marmalade, pickles and an oblong blue tray for sandwiches make a complete luncheon set at very little expense.

A deep blue dish in which to put the numerous little Japanese houses and bridges filled with water, with pieces of horse radish roots that sprout and make a whole city, is a beautiful centre piece for the table and quite the fad just now.

If the bride likes birds, a singing bird in a bamboo splint cage, with blue and white seed cups in it, will be an acceptable gift.

Condiment sets, toast racks, celery sets consisting of tray and salt dishes, ramakins, sugar shakers, mustard pots with ivory ladle, vase for holding one rose, Japanese bell for table, incense pot, stamp box in brass, ink well in brass, basket for cakes with bamboo. Lamp and candle shades of split bamboo are more expensive gifts, but some may want to give them.

Luncheon of tea and rice cakes be served, using Japanese towels for lunch cloth and paper napkins and paper cherry blossoms for floral decorations.

Settled.

CLAUSES OF CITY'S BILL TO GO BEFORE LEGISLATURE

Ald. Green Would Place Limit on Amount of Debentures to be Issued by Utilities Commission

1. That notice be given of the intention of the council to apply for legislation to authorize the granting by the council without the assent of the electors of the sum of $10,000 to the Canadian National Patriotic Fund and to authorize the passing by the council without the assent of the ratepayers of a by-law to meet the cost of such grant by the issue of debentures.

2. That notice be given of the intention of the council to apply for legislation to authorize the council to pass by-laws from time to time without the assent of the electors to borrow money by the issue of debentures of the corporation to replace money which has been expended by the Peterborough Water Commissioners or the Peterborough Utilities Commission in the construction of the waterworks dam and in permanent improvements in the waterworks or the electric lighting and power system of the city—for the purchase and installation of an additional pumping unit for the waterworks, and money that may hereafter be expended in laying additional feed mains; the purchase of land for a sub-station and other buildings required by the said Commission and the erection thereon of the necessary buildings and the equipment and furnishing of same and improving and extending the electric lighting and power system of the city.

3. That notice be given of the intention of the council to apply for legislation to authorize the making an arrangement with the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada for a lease to the Canadian General Electric Company (Limited) of a part of the right of way of the Peterborough and Chemong Lake branch of the said railway as a testing track for electric locomotives and authorizing the crossing of highways by the same in the City of Peterborough and with the approval of the council thereof in the Township of Smith.

4. That, whereas the Peterborough Utilities Commission has applied to the Bank of Montreal for a credit of $75,000 for the purpose of enabling the Commission to undertake and proceed with necessary work in connection with the city waterworks and electric light and power plant, this council hereby requests the said bank to make advances from time to time to the said Commission up to the said sum and undertakes to be responsible for the repayment thereof with interest thereon, and guarantees any overdraft of the said Commission up to the said amount, which guarantee shall be a continuing guarantee and cover all amounts at any time at the debit of the account of the said Commission in the books of the said bank up to the said amount; but this guarantee shall not continue after there has been paid the amount of the said guarantee and debentures shall be issued and delivered to the said bank by hypothecation for the amount of such guarantee.

The above recommendation of the committee of the whole was passed at the special sitting of the city council last evening with the exception of the last clause which was referred to the city solicitor to make a little more clearer.

A discussion arose over the first three clauses. Ald. Johnston spoke along the lines of assisting the commission in its infancy and helping the members to have the places where power is received centralized and thus afford cheaper power to the customers.

Ald. Green thought that some restriction should be placed on the amount of debentures issued by the commission as authorized by clause one. He expressed himself as being in favor of putting on a limit. All these matters will be gone into more thoroughly when the drafted bill is presented to the council.

THREE SONS ENLIST.

Ald. Willet McTaggart, of West Huntingdon, came to the city yesterday to bring his two sons, George and Percival here to take their places as volunteers in the Third Overseas Contingent. Mr. Clayton Murray, son of James Murray of West Huntingdon was a member of the same party and has also volunteered. Ald. McTaggart's eldest son, John, is now drilling with the Second Contingent at Montreal.

As far as we are aware Ald. McTaggart has the proud distinction of being the only father in Hastings county with three sons to take their places among the defenders of their country. —Belleville Ontario.

Board of Works Chairman Wants List of Hoped for Improvements

The aldermen were requested last evening by the chairman of the board of works to go over their respective wards, and at as early a date as possible bring in a list of the improvements requested. Citizens are invited to help their representatives in swelling these lists.

Housecleaning.

Ald. Green is very anxious to have several old matters of the board of works straightened out, and at last night's meeting he asked for the first one. It was the account of Engineer Chipman for services rendered during the construction of the Romaine street sewer. The Mayor, Ald. Johnston and Ald. Green were appointed as a committee to look into the matter and report.

NEW CHANCEL

During his sermon, Bishop Sweeny extended his congratulations. The splendid solidarity of the church of England in Peterborough was to him a source of much pride and pleasure. He hoped there would be liberal givings for the completion of the work, and the debt reduced, so that at some future time, he would come and consecrate the church. He urged increased attendance at church and at Holy Communion, thus assuring for the congregation the many manifestations of Christ.

God's Manifestations.

Bishop Sweeny's sermon was an eloquent discourse, dealing with the many manifestations of Christ. No season of the church was more important than that of Epiphany. The records everywhere in the gospels, manifested the power, wisdom, goodness and patience of Jesus Christ. There were all a series of moving pictures of the manifestations of Christ. In these He left an example for us to follow. "There should not be a single day," said the preacher, "or morning or evening of your life, but what you may find in the provisions of the Church of England, an Epiphany, a manifestation of the manifold features of the life of Jesus Christ, to stimulate your life. There is not a single day that has not its divine lesson to influence your conduct. This very church speaks to us of the Life of Lives and tells us of the deep mysteries of the things of God.

Speaking of the war, the Bishop said all the chastisement of these times will be wasted and lost if there was not some other realization that we shall be drawn closer to God and brought more frequently to His presence. He may be found in this house of prayer at any moment. God in His manifestations is the great message of the Epiphany. An incentive would be found in the records of Him who was meek and lowly.

amendment, his act being the first notch recorded in favor of Mr. Gordon. Mr. Eastwood said he did not want it to go before a tribunal of any kind. He also explained that he had had no communication whatsoever with Mr. Gordon concerning the trouble. Mr. Smith favored taking Mr. Gordon's implied charges one by one and having him explain them. Mr. Smith said that he was not included in any way but he thought that the best way to handle the matter. This attitude was unpalatable to Mr. Eastwood who declared rather warmly that it was simply a rotten excuse for Mr. Smith to try and wriggle out. However Mr. Smith said that he wanted to square himself as he had been accused of giving Mr. Gordon information about the board.

Mr. Hill: "There was nothing to give."

Colonel Miller said that if the matter was going to be threshed out around the board table it would inevitably cause an unfriendly feeling all around for all time. He was strong for a peacable settlement. Mr. Denne did not want it to go outside the city and even wanted the press to suppress it but his idea was not popular. By all means let the press go ahead and report it, was the popular feeling.

How the Vote Went.

Mr. Eastwood wanted to know if it would be satisfactory if Mr. Gordon were given thirty days in which to explain his charges. However at this juncture Mr. Gordon's amendment was put before the board also the motion. The amendment carried being supported by Messrs. Gordon, Eastwood, Smith, Denne and McGrath. The latter did not vote at first but was told that he was required to. Those who voted for the motion were Messrs. Crane, Burnham and Miller. Mr. Ackerman did not exercise his right to vote. Neither did Mr. Hill vote. Mr. Gordon's amendment was "That the Board of Education request the corporation of the city of Peterborough to take steps to have a judicial inquiry, under section 248 of the Municipal Act into the matters referred to in a memorandum addressed by myself on this date to this Board and that a copy of it be mailed to the City Clerk.

The motion was "That the charges laid by Mr. Gordon be referred to the Minister of Education and that he be asked to appoint a commission to ascertain if any of the money granted to the Board by the Provincial Government was improperly expended.

ITALY STAGGERED BY EXTENT OF CALAMITY

Loss of Life and Property in Earthquake, Which Devastated Central Districts, Far Exceeds First Estimates.

ROME, Jan. 15. — Demolished or partly demolished towns dot that part of Italy from Naples northward to Ferrara and crosswise the peninsula from the Tyrrhenian to the Adriatic Seas, over which the earthquake of Wednesday passed. Thousands of dead lie beneath the mounds of debris which once were dwellings, churches and public institutions which crumbled under the earth's vibrations.

Not even an estimate of the aggregate fatalities is yet obtainable, as numerous places are still isolated owing to the severance of telegraphic, telephonic and railroad communication. It is known, however, that Avezzano is a necropolis and that also in Sora, some twenty-five miles to the southeast, a large number of lives were lost. In Avezzano and vicinity it is estimated that 15,000 perished and that the dead in Sora will total 1,000.

So far as is known about twenty towns have been absolutely leveled while an almost equal number suffered serious damage. In all these places persons were killed or injured. In the ruins throughout the day volunteers worked heroically, endeavoring to extricate wounded or rescue the bodies of the dead. King Victor Emmanuel himself directed the work at Avezzano, where the piteous appeals of persons caught beneath wreckage could be plainly heard. It is estimated that in Avezzano four thousand persons are buried alive, some of them school children, in an institution which collapsed.

Sora, with its population of 20,000, was almost entirely destroyed. All the municipal and Government officers perished. Four hundred and fifty bodies have already been taken from the ruins there and a large number of injured are under treatment.

Trains arriving in Rome from the east are bringing hundreds of injured into Rome, where they are being taken to hospitals and private houses for treatment.

Among the towns which are said to have been virtually destroyed are: Avezzano, Sora, Capelle, Magliano, Marse, Massadalbe, Collarmele, Gerchio, Celano, Lelli, Paterno, San Felino, Giosamarsi, Scurcola, Capistrello, Antrosano and Castronovme, while Pescina, Ortonamarsi, Samtelimo, San Benedetto, Ortucchio, Gocullo, Bisegna, Balsorano, Canistro, Civitelladantino, Castellafiumi, Pagliotra and Sorbo are badly damaged.

Avezzano is filled with dead and injured and wrecked houses. It is like the ruins of a cemetery. Those who escaped the destruction of the earthquake went heroically to work to rescue those penned under the fallen walls. They could not seem to understand the delay in despatching aid to them from Rome and other centres, forgetting that more than 18 hours passed before knowledge of the gravity of the disaster reached the outside authorities.

Nearly all the civic officials of Avezzano, including the mayor, the under-prefect, the judges, the commands of the carabineers, and parish priests, monks and nuns perished. The college, with more than 100 girl students, collapsed. The governor of prisons, jailors and doctors and patients in the hospitals were carried down in the wreckage.

The only notable person who survived was the head of the police, Signor Ottavi, who though wounded, has labored since the first overthrow, to give succor to the injured. Desperate appeals are heard on all sides from under the wrecked buildings for help, but the efforts of Ottavi and the few hundred survivors have availed but little, for they lacked implements with which to effect a general rescue. But about fifty persons, all of them wounded, were taken out with great difficulty. They lay about without shelter and without their wounds being dressed, owing to a lack of medical supplies. Later, doctors appeared on the scene and operated on some of the injured under blazing torches.

At Sora, 60 miles southeast of Rome, in the Province of Caserta, another shock occurred yesterday. The populace, panic-stricken, fled from their homes. The town, which has a population of some 20,000 inhabitants was almost entirely destroyed. About two-thirds of the houses collapsed under the shock and others which were cracked tumbled down later. Rossi Palace fell in, burying twenty laborers who were working in the courtyard.

Four hundred and fifty bodies already have been recovered from the wreckage in Sora. There are large numbers of injured there.

Among the victims in Sora are many of the town authorities and persons of note in the district. Many soldiers have arrived in the town.

At Avezzano, while King Victor Emmanuel was making his rounds of the ruins he reached a spot where workmen were endeavoring to extricate a child buried in the debris. The King mounted a pile of fallen masonry and superintended the rescue.

Thus far 200 bodies and 160 injured persons have been taken out of the ruins in Avezzano.

Among the victims of the disaster there are the sub-prefect and his family, all the members of the Government and municipal services, 35 caribineers and Signor Cerri, a former member of the Chamber of Deputies.

Reports received here from Naples say that the fears that the Province of Potenza, which was isolated, has been destroyed, are unfounded. Some damage was done there mostly in the villages in the vicinity of the extinct volcano Vulcan.

MANY THOUSANDS HAVE BEEN KILLED BY EARTHQUAKES

One of the worst earthquakes of history was that at Lisbon on November 1, 1755. Within a few minutes the entire city was swallowed up, and it is estimated that 50,000 persons perished.

At Calabria, Italy, on December 16, 1857, 10,000 lives were lost by an earthquake.

One of the most recent of the great earthquakes of the past occurred at Kuchan, Persia, in 1893, when 12,000 people were killed. There was great loss of life in Japan in 1891, when violent shocks caused great desolation among the inhabitants, about 10,000 of whom were killed. Over 4,000 were killed in Yunnan, China, in 1888, and in the preceding year 170 people perished in Montezuma.

The town of Joana, in Java, was completely destroyed by an earthquake in 1890, and there were numerous destructive shocks in Greece, Constantinople, Macedonia, Sicily, Japan, and southern Italy, with great loss of life, notably in San Juan, Argentina, in 1894.

The last great earthquake that occurred in Italy was at Messina on December 28, 1908. The total number of victims was never properly accounted for. Some estimates run as low as 50,000, while others run up to 300,000. Much of the damage during this quake was done by a tidal wave.

The worst earthquake in recent years on this continent was at San Francisco in 1906, when 500 lives were lost, besides immense damage being done to property.

NEW ZEPPELIN IS TRIED OUT

GENEVA, Jan. 15.—(Via Paris.)—A new Zeppelin airship left Friedrichshafen Wednesday on a trial flight of an hour. After skirting Lake Constance the airship disappeared over the grand duchy of Baden, and later returned safely to its shed. Prior to making the trip a German aeroplane made a scouting tour in order to prevent a surprise by French aircraft.

It is reported that the new Zeppelin will depart shortly for service on the North Sea.

Shock Felt In Alps.

GENEVA, Jan. 15.—(Via Paris.)—Earth shocks were felt in the Mont Blanc mountain range and also in the Swiss and Italian Alps along the frontier Wednesday morning, and they caused huge avalanches, which have isolated the Alpine villages and hamlets and which destroyed the forests.

From five to seven feet of snow fell on the Brenina, Splugen and St. Gotthard passes, while the snow is three feet deep in the Engadine.

ASSISTANCE TO HORSEMEN

Help Will be Given to Breeders by Federal Government

The progress that has been attained in the past in Canadian horse-breeding has been due largely to individual effort. To the few who have done so much for the advancement of the industry every credit is due. Though the lack, however, of concerted action and co-operative measures on a large scale amongst breeders, the business has not progressed as rapidly as could be desired.

The want of proper organization, except in the more favored districts, has prevented the farmers generally from securing and retaining the services of good breeding sires. In a majority of sections, breeders wishing to grade up their horses are forced to use whatever stallions may, by chance, stand for service in their district. Many of these are faulty in conformation and lack in quality, while others, though of better type, remain, either through insufficient patronage or because of failure to leave colts, but a single season in each district. The fact also that there has been no systematic adherence to the use of one breed suggests another reason for the lack of progress in the breeding of high-class animals.

It must be recognized further that the owner of a valuable horse, after paying for maintenance, insurance, interest on investment, and the expense entailed in the collection of his fees, has frequently little left from his outlay, particularly in districts where he has to compete with grade and grub stallions standing for service at a very low fee. As a result, really high-class stallions can be maintained only in districts where the breeding of horses has been given serious and progressive attention.

In view of these considerations, the minister of agriculture proposes to enter upon a policy which may serve to place the horse-breeding industry in Canada in a position comparable to that which it has attained in Britain and other European countries. It is believed that by encouraging the organization of breeders' clubs and by enabling such clubs to procure the services of good breeding stallions under favourable financial conditions, the assistance in this direction can best be provided. The encouragement of community breeding will, naturally, of itself, be productive of useful results. The payment to community organizations of a part of the service fee will, it is expected, give a permanent stimulus to the hiring of the best stallions that may be procured and, at the same time, promote the development of a comprehensive movement in the interests of this important national industry.

Stated briefly, the scheme is as follows: The farmers of any district, wishing to work for the betterment of horse breeding, by encouraging the use of sound, individually excellent pure bred sires, may form a breeders' club for the purpose of hiring a pure bred stallion for the benefit of the members. These breeders' clubs, by organizing under and adopting the constitution and bylaws and conforming to the various rules and regulations governing this grant may participate in the federal assistance given to such clubs. This consists in paying practically 25 per cent. of the service fees on a guaranteed number of mares.

The Exception.

With a view to encourage the breeding of remounts, the portion paid by the Live Stock Branch to clubs hiring suitable thoroughbred stallions shal be 40 per cent. on all mares except thoroughbred mares.

For the booklet on federal assistance and all other information, address the Dominion Live Stock Commissioner, Ottawa, Canada.

ELLIOT'S

UNDER SIXTY FEET OF ICE

By M. QUAD.

In the year 1866 an English scientific society fitted out what was known as the Cherry island expedition. It was purely in the interest of natural history. Certain fish and birds which had become extinct in the south were still to be found up there, according to the reports of whalers, and that was the object in fitting out the brig Albatross for a voyage from London. Aside from a strong handed crew, three professors and four or five students accompanied the expedition, and after a voyage almost without event we reached Cherry island soon after the beginning of its brief summer.

The island, which is of volcanic origin, is a mere jumble of rocks. It is eleven miles long by five in breadth and at the time of our visit had no trees higher than ten feet. These grew between bowlders and on the slopes, with patches of coarse grass all about, but there was not a level spot half an acre in extent on the whole island. We had been on the island about thirty days and had pretty thoroughly explored it when Professor Saunders and my humble self met with an accident one day which led to a most strange discovery. We had set off together on a hunt after birds' eggs, and in walking along a slope we struck a spot overgrown with a short green weed. As we walked over this bed we suddenly found ourselves slipping. There was water under it, and the whole mass gave way and sent us sliding into a ravine. We went slipping, sliding, clutching and bumping a full fifty feet before we brought up, but neither of us was hurt beyond a few bruises. Owing to the wet grass we could not clamber out at that spot and so continued on down the ravine.

It was a toilsome journey we made, but it ended at last at a wall of ice within half a mile of the surf. At that point the depth of the ravine was about a hundred feet, and, though the sun was shining above, it was like evening down there. A few yards before we were brought to a standstill we found the body of a man lying against the wall of a rock on the right hand side and ten feet above our heads. It was caught and held fast on a point of rock. We were both a good deal startled by the grewsome sight.

"At some time or other," said the professor as he looked about, "this ravine had been a creek of considerable size flowing down to the sea. This man came up the creek from the beach, but we now find a wall of ice blocking it up. There should be a boat frozen up in the wall between us and the sea."

We had nothing to make a torch of, and, retracing our steps to a point where we could climb out of the ravine, we left the mystery to be solved another day. There was much discussion around the campfires that evening, and early next morning we set out to see if the ravine had once upon a time opened to the sea. We soon found that it had. Its mouth had been on a small bay, but a storm had filled it with bowlders and dammed back the waters flowing down. Between the sea and the spot where we found the body the ice was from fifty to seventy feet thick. If the sun melted it for a few feet in the summer the rains and snows of winter speedily replaced what had been lost. We found this ice as clear as glass and as hard as iron, but powder was brought from the brig and holes were drilled, and in a couple of days we had blasted out a great rift to half its depth.

Everybody had a suspicion of what was frozen in down there, but yet the discovery gave us a shock. When but thirty feet of ice lay between us and the bottom of the ravine we could see through it well enough to make out the hull of a ship standing on an even keel. It was the hull of a brig, with masts gone, but otherwise intact. We could even make out the ropes, which had been frozen stiff as iron while they streamed along her decks, but there were no bodies of dead men in sight. To blast out the remaining depths of ice and clear the ravine was a task requiring more aid than we could spare and more powder than we had aboard.

Years before, perhaps half a century, a merchant vessel had made that little bay in distress. Wave and tide had carried her up the creek, and wave and tide had blocked her exit.

If one of the crew got away up to the ravine, why not all of them? And yet no other body or remains were to be found on the island. This man, who may have been the captain, probably started out by himself to see if there was a chance of escape, but in making his way up the ravine he perished of cold and hunger. There was scarce a hope for the others. If they left the hulk they were forced to return to it for shelter and food. There came a day when food and fuel were exhausted, when avalanches of snow covered the decks and the cold of winter froze the marrow of their bones, and they hid away in forecastle and cabin and died with open eyes staring into the darkness. Upon our return to London the case was reported and made much of in the papers, but no government or individual has ever gone farther than we did. A hulk lies there full of dead men—a hulk which sailed the waters of the frozen seas half a century ago—and there it will lie until time is no more and chaos reigns again. It might be blasted out, but of what use? The solving of one mystery of the sea more or less would count for but little.

Don't Throw Away Goodwill!

◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆

A well-known expert and advertising man, and one who is the head of a large mercantile business, recently made the following statement in regard to the temptation to discontinue advertising:

¶"Probably more money is wasted in advertising by running consistently in a publication for a long time, and then suddenly dropping it, than in any other way.

¶"It amounts to deliberately throwing away the goodwill which the readers of that publication have built up for the advertisers' name and product.

¶"It is better to advertise moderately, but regularly, than to use large copy spasmodically."

◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆

The Voice of Successful Experience

Another well-known expert declares that persistent advertising pays, because:

¶"Advertising is friendly. It persuades.

¶"Slowly, but inevitably, it creates the attitude of goodwill and confidence.

¶"It brings customers—who stay.

¶"A business built up in this way is built on a firm foundation. It's the kind of success that lasts.

¶"But it cannot be done in a day—or a month. Nothing but persistent advertising will accomplish this sort of success."

AWARDS MADE TO BREEDERS

Scholarships at O.A.C. to Hog Raisers

TORONTO, Jan. 15. — Eighteen farmers of Ontario, who, during the year have applied their attention to the scientific raising of hogs were yesterday declared winners in a contest held by the Department of Agriculture, and will go to Guelph for two weeks' free tuition as a reward. Contestants were allowed to start the competition with four animals, finishing only with three. They were kept until 26 weeks of age, and a record of the food consumed was turned in to the judges. Prizes were granted on profit and type, 15 per cent. being deducted from the final weight and the market price allowed. Hogs were selected at six weeks of age and a value of $4 was placed on them then.

The three leading winners came from Grey, Oxford and Essex, respectively, with profits of $11.66, $11.26 and $9.94. The breeds were Yorkshire, Chester White and Duroc in order.

EAT CHEESE TO REDUCE BILLS

Professor Says Canadians Can Cut Down Cost of Living

ST. THOMAS, Jan. 15.—Canadians are not cheese-eaters, according to figures quoted in Prof. Dean's address given yesterday. The dairymen, as a result, think that cheese should be advertised from ocean to ocean in the manner that the apple has been advertised recently. So, instead of "eat an apple," it may be this year "eat cheese," and, as Prof. Dean contends, "thus reduce the high cost of living."

"Increase the Canadian consumption," appealed Prof. Dean, in his paper. "Let us advertise from coast to coast, and show what dainty dishes can be made from cheese. Selling according to grade would assist in getting the best cheese to the Canadian consumer. No other concentrated food is so cheap and nutritious as cheese. The Government might advertise it as it did apples."

Berlin newspapers, commenting upon the resignation of Count Leopold von Berchtold as Austrian Foreign Minister, speak highly of his career as a statesman, and lay particular emphasis upon his loyalty to the Austrian alliance with Germany.

Noel and P. Rensom, 11 St. Sacrament street, Montreal, that they were "officially delegated by the Federal Government to go over to France and Belgium in the interest of Canadian manufacturers, with a view to bringing about closer commercial relations between Canada and these countries."

THE MARKETS

Latest Quotations in Grain, Dairy Products, Live Stock, Etc.

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—Wheat jumped today to a point virtually 10 cents a bushel higher than on Monday last, when speculators were tumbling over each other to sell out, because of talk that the Turks were yielding control of the Dardanelles, and that hostilities by Italy implied a speedy end of the war.

At the summit, May wheat brought today $1.43 3-8, a price not equaled before in years. The chief reason was that exporters wanted more wheat than they could buy in all American markets. Feeling was much unsettled at the close, which varied from the same as last night to 2 1-8c above. Corn finished unchanged to 1-16c up; oats at a gain of ¼c to 3-8c, and provisions down 5c to 12½c.

WINNIPEG GRAIN MARKET.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 14.—New high records in wheat prices were registered today. Opening figures were ⅝c to ⅞c higher, and durig the first few hours of business further fractional advances took place. Previous to noon May wheat was sold at $1.40⅞, and July was bid at $1.41½, with trading fair and the most of the wheat going into strong hands. Overnight offers for export were all taken up, and inquiry was strong again today. One exporting house during the opening hours had fixed for over 150,000 bushels, and this at the highest price yet received. The cash situation is stronger than ever. One broker said that the demand for cash wheat was the strongest in the history of the market, and offerings were fewest.

Inspections on Wednesday were 159 cars, against 118 cars last year, and in sight today were 120 cars. Wheat futures closed ⅛c to ⅜c higher, cash ¼c to 1¼c advance, oats unchanged to ⅛c up, and flax 6¼c to 6⅝c higher.

There is a steady demand abroad for spring wheat flour, and sales of first patents were made to Liverpool at 43s 6d and export patent at 40s 6d. The local trade in flour is rather quiet, but the undertone of the market is strong. A fair trade continues to be done in millfeed at firm prices.

ERADICATE THE RAT!

A Disease Breeder and Carrier That Serves No Good Purpose.

Rats are dangerous. They have no legitimate business, nor can they serve any good purpose in any community. Sanitarians are well agreed that rats are a serious menace to health. They are so filthy in their habits as tenants of the sewers and as feeders on everything dirty and diseased that it is no wonder they are carriers of disease, parasites and plague infection.

That rats are afflicted with many diseases more than bubonic plague is confirmed by Dr. Rupert Blue, surgeon general of the United States public health service, who, speaking on this point, says: "Other infections of the rat are trematodes, or flukes; cestodes, or tapeworms; nematodes, or round worms; protozoa, insects and vegetable microbes." Of the rats examined in San Francisco 34 per cent were infested with tapeworms.

Plague is primarily a disease of the rat. It is communicated from the plague stricken rat to other rats and from rats to man by means of fleas, as the principal agent, yet it has been determined many times that handling a rat that has been dead of plague only a few hours gives the infection almost instantly. Two small boys while playing in an unused cellar found the body of a dead rat. The corpse was buried with unusual funeral honors. In forty-eight hours both were ill with bubonic plague. A laborer finding a sick rat on the wharf picked it up with the naked hand and threw it into the bay. He was seized three days later with plague. But the flea is the chief inoculator. Fleas abandon a rat dead of plague and go in search of living beings who still have warm blood circulating in their veins. Biting man they inoculate into him the living virus which starts the disease.

Since plague is a disease due to rats and rat fleas and not to filth or dirty habits, there's only one thing to do to avoid plague, eradicate the rats. This can be done by making war on them with traps, poison and starvation, and by "rat proofing" against them; that is by building them out. As a result of the Chinatown plague epidemic in 1907, so efficient was the ratproof constructions that followed, that rats and plague were entirely "built out" of that part of the city.

They Seldom Do.

A half witted fellow living in one of our country villages makes it his business to attend all funerals and comment on them for days afterward. Recently he received an invitation to the wedding of a relative. The next day after the wedding a neighbor asked, "And how did the wedding go off, Jim?"

"Oh, there was a pretty fair crowd turned out considerin' the weather," Jim answered solemnly. "Mary, she looked right nice, but I didn't think Bob looked very natural."—Indianapolis News.

HOCKEY CURLING ATHLETICS

GEORGE STREET TEAM WON FAST GAME AFTER OVERTIME

St. Andrews and St. Luke's Also Were Victors in Church League

The first game played last evening in the Senior Church League was a thriller from start to finish. Murray St. and George Street battled for an hour without either teams scoring and in the ten minutes of overtime George St. notched the winning counter. The attendance was a little better than a week ago and the hockey is also improved. The teams are working in a little more team play and in the course of another week all the septettes can be depended upon to put up a stiff argument.

The hour of no scoring hockey was featured by numerous bright flashes and had it not been for the goalers, who were above average, the score would have been considerably larger. Wade and Palmer were the bright lights on the George St. teams while Tully, who registered the goal that won the game, also played steady hockey. For Murray Street the most prominent player was Lewis in goal who stopped a hundred. His defence Eastwood and Brown also played well. Fitzgerald was the best man among the forwards.

The teams:—

George Street—Goal, Darling; defence, Wade and Lewis; rover, Stuart; centre, Palmer; wings, Doupe and Tully.

Murray Street—Goal, Lewis; defence, Eastwood and Brown; rover, Irwin; centre, Webb; wings, Lapp and Fitzgerald.

St. Andrews Won.

In the second game St. Andrews won from St. Pauls quite easily by 6-1. From the opening bell the result was never in doubt. The St. Andrews' defence was very strong while the forwards showed far more aggressiveness and team play than they did a week ago. The St. Paul's team was subject to numerous changes during the week and when the team which played last night are together for a week or so they will have to be seriously considered by the other teams.

The lineups:—

St. Andrews—Goal, Hamilton; defence, McWilliams and Swanson; rover, Brown; centre, McDonald; wings, Henry and Laing.

St. Pauls—Goal, Goodfellow; defence, Kerr and Turner; rover, Loucks; centre, Breckenbridge; wings, Taylor and Rainer.

St. Lukes Won Again.

The St. Luke's team won their second straight game between 10 and 11 when they defeated the team representing St. John's Church by 2-1 after a stiff struggle. The lateness of the hour had driven many of the fans home but those who remained witnessed a great battle. Condition is what makes hockey players and hockey teams. Condition is what the St. Luke's team won on. They were behind by 1-0 at half time but came stronger toward the latter part of the second half with the result that they scored 2 goals in the last five minutes.

It was a good game from every standpoint and if the church league team continue to play that class of hockey they will soon draw far larger crowds. St. John's who were making their first appearance have a nice team collected together and will be heard from later.

The teams:—

St. Lukes—Goal, Butcher; defence, Regan, Hagerman; rover, Carter; centre, Butcher; wings, Phillips and H. Stewart.

St. Johns—Goal, Clarke; defence, LeBar, Morphet; rover, Stevenson; centre, Pammett; wings, N. Pammett and Heard.

Mr. Huff refereed all the games satisfactorily.

CAN THE 1915 PETES REPEAT PERFORMANCE OF 1904 SEVEN

It was January 28, 1904, eleven years ago, that a hockey team representing Picton, last played at Brock Street rink. Those were the days when Peterborough was represented on the ice by the two Armstrongs, Fred Whitcroft, Chris Graham, Bill Cavanah, Eddie Howell and "Tough" Mercer. The Petes had played in Picton, where they were defeated by 6 to 3 and revenge was looked for.

Every inch of accommodation in the rink was taken up long before the teams appeared. The late Chaucer Elliott was referee.

The game went down in hockey history as one of the hottest contests ever waged. The sevens battled along for the greater part of the sixty minutes with honors about even.. But the Petes were great stickers and were always going strong at the finish. When the visitors had "shot their bolt" the locals showered shots at the Picton nets, the final count being 13 to 7 for the Petes. The teams were:—

Belleville and Picton fought it out for the honors of the district, Belleville winning the deciding game by 19 to 9. Reddy McMillan and Curly Maguire were then playing for Belleville.

PICTON TONIGHT

The cool weather of today has assured the hockey fans of the city that the ice will be in good condition for tonight's big intermediate game. Picton is coming to win, the Petes are out to tie up the district, so a real hockey game is expected. The Pirates have a young fast team who have been playing together for a couple of years, and under the care of the famous Walter Knox they are making a grand bid for the group honors. If they win tonight they practically win the district. If the Petes win, they and Picton are tied.

Peterborough will be represented by one of the strongest sevens which has donned the blue and white in years. Janes will be in the nets, Pethick and Hunter on defence, and the forwards will be selected from Halpin, Spratt, Park, Kelly and Moinse.

Lou Marsh of Toronto will referee.

PICTON TEAM HERE.

Confident of winning tonight the Picton Intermediates arrived in the city today noon via G.T.R. and registered at the Oriental. The party consists of K. W. Scott, W. K. Hubbs, T. Heffernan, R. Burns, V. Tafts, B. Burns, B. Hudgins, D. Carter, C. B. Morgan and Walter Knox.

Last night in the second game of the Junior Church League, St. Johns won from Charlotte St., by the score of 5 to 4. St. John's led at halftime by 2 to 0 but Charlotte Street tied it up in the second half at 4-4, only to lose the game by one of their own men banging the puck into his own goal. Cherrett, for Charlotte Street, was the fastest man on the ice, while Thompson and Williamson were also good. Pidgeon, the goalkeeper, and Heard and Parks were St. John's best. The line-up:—

ALLIED ADVANCE CLEARS THE NIEUPORT DISTRICT

Troops in Yser Region Have Been Making Rapid Progress With the Assistance of the British Torpedo Craft—Germans on the Aisne Make a Gain as a Result of Flooding of the River.

LONDON, Jan. 15. — A Morning Post despatch from Amsterdam yesterday, says: "The allies operating in the region of the Yser have lately been advancing more quickly than before, especially north of Lombardtzyde and Nieuport. They have bombarded heavily the German positions near Westende and Bains, acting in co-operation with British torpedo craft, which shelled German fortified positions along the coast. German batteries answered their fire and shelled one of the suburbs of Nieuport, from which it is clear that the German infantry has been completely driven back from the Nieuport region. The German fire did not cause much damage, but Germans are showing increased activity with their aircraft.

Both French and German official statements record a victory by the Germans on the heights of Vregny, northeast of Soissons. The Berlin statement claims that the Germans charging through rain and mud, took trench after trench at the point of the bayonet, clearing the heights and capturing more than a thousand prisoners.

The French official bulletin of last evening says:

"Last night our troops were successful in a sudden attack with the object of overwhelming the trenches recently constructed by the Germans to the northeast of Fouquescourt, north of Roye (Department of the Somme).

"The attacks of the enemy in the region to the north of Soissons have been stopped.

"As has been said in the communication of this morning, the flooding of the River Aisne, which destroyed several of our bridges, had rendered very precarious the communications of our troops operating on the first slopes of the right bank. We were thus prevented from sending them reinforcements. This has been the essential cause of the withdrawal of those troops which were fighting under difficult conditions.

"We were obliged to abandon several cannon as the result of the breaking down of a bridge. We have rendered all of them unfit for use.

"The Germans have made prisoners, particularly of wounded men, who, in the withdrawal movement, we were not able to take with us. On our side, we have made a number of important prisoners, not wounded, belonging to seven different regiments.

"To sum up, the success is a partial one for our adversaries, which will have no influence on the operations as a whole. In fact, by reason of obstacles presented by the Aisne and the dispositions which we have taken, the enemy will be unable to utilise the south of the river, the success of which is of purely local character.

"On the rest of the front there is nothing to report.

"In Belgium the firing of our artillery was interfered with by the fog; nevertheless the cannonading yesterday was very spirited in the vicinity of Nieuport and around Ypres. Certain detachments of Belgian troops blew up, at a point to the southeast of Stuyvekneskerke, the buildings on a farm which were serving the enemy as a depot for his ammunition."

"Between the Lys and the Oise, in the region of Lens, our artillery were successful in dispersing a group of German pioneers on the outskirts of the Hamlet of Angres, and it bombarded effectively the German trenches to the southeast of the chapel of Notre Dame de Loretto.

"To the north of Soissons there was determined fighting all day yesterday. The engagement was localized to a section of ground situated to the north of Crouy. We hold only the first slopes of these hills. On our left in this field our counter-attack made slight progress, but without succeeding in recording a material advance. On the centre we retained our positions around the Village of Crouy, in spite of the repeated efforts of the enemy to dislodge us, but on the east, in front of Vregny, we were obliged to yield.

"In Champagne, the region of Perthes continued to be the scene of local engagements for the possession of German trenches on the second and third lines of defence. To the north of Beausejour we blew up some of the enemy's positions, to make impossible the laying of mines. The Germans, believing they were being attacked, manned their trenches. We then opened a violent artillery and infantry fire on these positions.

"There is nothing to report on the rest of the front."

RUSSIANS MOVE ON LAST STRONGHOLD IN BUKOWINA

They Are Preparing to Take Petztekamisch Pass, the One Uncaptured Gateway of Hungary—Von Hindenburg is About to Make Another Grand Stroke Near Warsaw.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—The Russians are advancing in two columns, one by way of Guru Humora, and the other by way of Kimpleng, into southernmost Bukowina, according to advices reaching here yesterday. The Russians now hold Valepnotna and are preparing to march through Petztekamisch Pass, the last Austrian stronghold in Bukowina.

Information comes from the army to the effect that the Germans are preparing another grand stroke in the district north of Warsaw. The Germans have brought up their 11-inch motars to the Russian front, and on Tuesday began a general bombardment which lasted all night and the day following along the whole front from their artillery, heavy and light guns, maxims and rifles. That means an imminent attack, which probably is in course of delivery now. It is noticeable that the grand duke's bulletin, dated the last day of the Russian old year, for the first time includes in its phrasing, "the whole front,"—what hitherto has been kept separate, namely, the right and left banks of the Vistula, together as one front.

Evidently the Germans have again sent in a considerable force north of the Vistula. The Russians have made a counter move in East Prussia, where a whole series of villages eastwards from Rosog, have been captured. German cavalry, with infantry supports, failed to check the progress of the Russians. One of the villages was strongly fortified and was defended for some time by the Germans, who were eventually only driven out at the point of the bayonet. The position in which this Russian force operating in East Prussia now finds itself, seems to indicate that the German force guarding the Mazurian Lakes at Boyen, has been turned.

Four terrific attacks have been delivered by the Germans in central Poland in the past forty-eight hours. The Russians, it is said, have been driven back with considerable loss of ground.

"Indeed! Are the tea and coffee that bad?"

"He made a fortune."

"Who—Jenkins?"

"Yes; invented a chafing dish that can be used in a flying machine."

Vampire Bats.

Fairly large bats are the vampires of New Guinea, which alight on any projecting part of the body, in preference the toes, into which they bite a small hole, from which they proceed to suck the blood. They fan the wound with their wings—to deaden the pain, the natives say—and the victim seldom awakens before much harm is done. These horrible creatures suck as much blood as they can, fly away and disgorge it and then return for more.

Her System.

"It takes my wife so long to dress when we want to go to the city that we always miss the train," complained the first suburbanite. "How is your wife? I don't hear you kick much."

"My wife has a system that isn't so bad," said the second suburbanite. "She's so late for one train that she's generally on time for the next."—Pittsburgh Post.

TRAIN DERAILED BY EARTHQUAKE

Was Thrown off the Rails Passengers Were Hurt

ences of a passenger on a train which was thrown from the track by the earthquake are related in a despatch from Rome to the Central News.

"Our train was near Fucino when the earthquake occurred," he said. "There was one shock of great violence, followed by three others. The train was thrown off the rails and many of the passengers were injured.

"I climbed out of the train and gazed around on the lake and the surrounding mountains. Where there had been towns I could merely see enormous whirlwinds of dust and smoke. Apparently the towns existed no longer."

The despatch adds that almost all the way to Tivoli buildings along the railway were in ruins. Troops sent from Rome were able to rescue hundreds of persons at many places, but cries for help were heard from beneath the ruined buildings, in a large number of instances in which it was impossible to effect a speedy release of the victims. It is estimated that 4,000 persons were buried alive under the wreckage at Avezzano. Throughout the night shouts for help could be heard. In one instance a school building collapsed, burying 200 children, many of whom are still alive.

It is stated that 400 soldiers were in the barracks at Avezzano when it collapsed and that only four of them escaped.

Trains are running from Avezzano to Tivoli without interruption, taking the injured there for treatment. Survivors arriving in Tivoli say many persons are under the ruins in Avezzano. Thousands of cubic meters of debris are piled in the town, making rescue work very difficult.

DEATHS ARE PUT AT HUGE NUMBER

Measures of Relief in Motion by Italian Government

LONDON, Jan. 15.—According to The Rome Tribuna it is estimated that the victims of the earthquake number between 23,000 and 25,000.

A despatch to The Morning Post from Rome says:

"In the Marsi, the region around Lake Fucino, at Avezzano, there are 20,000 victims of the earthquake.

"Of the 12,000 inhabitants of Avezzano only 100 survive."

The estimates ran last night from 25,000 to 50,000 dead and injured, and yet there are several sections which undoubtedly felt the earthquake in full measure, from which no estimate can be obtained.

King Victor Emmanuel is on the scene at Avezzano, and 30,000 soldiers have been despatched to the various centres where the force of the disturbance was greatest.

Premier Salandra told his associates at the Cabinet meeting in Rome yesterday to provide relief for the inhabitants of the stricken area that he feared the loss of life might reach 20,000, and the number of injured 30,000. He said the disaster was second only to that of Messina.

Tremendous relief measures have been put in motion. King Victor Emmanuel has left for the vicinity of Avezzano to lead the rescuers. Queen Helena, deterred by illness, delegated the Duchess of Aosta to represent her. The duchess has gone to Monteroduni, where she immediately installed herself as a hospital nurse to care for the wounded.

Trainload upon trainload of injured are rolling into Rome. Every train arriving from the province of Abruzzo brings hundreds of persons who have been wounded. The refugees are distributed among the hospitals and private dwellings. The mayor of Rome, Prince Colonna, has placed at the disposal of the refugees several public buildings.

The latest information received here confirms previous reports that the greater parts of Samtelimo, Paterno, Pescina, Cerchio, Collarmele and San Benedetto were destroyed.

She Asks Too Much.

When a woman goes away to spend Sunday, if she would give her husband directions concerning the fourteen or fifteen most important things that ought to be done around the house in her absence, instead of concerning the whole fifty-seven, he would stand more chance of remembering at least some of 'em.

Sad.

"I heard Mrs. Talky broke her neck yesterday."

"Yes. She fell out of a second storey window while trying to see what kind of furniture the new tenants have."

Needlework.

When engaged on delicate needlework a good idea is to have a little flour in a saucer by you and to dip your fingers in it from time to time. This will keep the hands dry and the work beautifully clean.

Ousting Timbers.

A quiet wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Robinson, Lakefield, when their eldest daughter, Marion Evelena, was united in marriage to Mr. Thomas Sherman Rosborough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Rosborough of Smith. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. H. Slimon, pastor of the Baptist church, in the presence of the immediate relatives and friends of the contracting parties. The guests then adjourned to the dining room where a dainty repast was served after which the young couple left for their future home amid showers of confetti and best wishes. Mr. and Mrs. Rosborough will reside in Smith.

Mr. Harry Long left today at noon for Belleville to visit friends.

ASKS $100 FOR LOSS OF HORSE

Thos. Petrie's Team Was Frightened by Coasters

One hundred dollars, half the value of a horse he had killed when his team became frightened at children coasting on Robinson street, recently, and ran away, is the sum Thomas Petrie asked the Council in a communication read last evening. The matter was referred to the city solicitor and the legal committtee.

Bruce Johnston, clerk of North Monaghan, had a letter before the meeting, asking that a hole on Lock street, near the river, which was caused by the employees of the city working on the outfal sewer, be filled in. The matter was left for the chairman of the board of works to rectify.

Ald. Johnston brought up the subject of providing vault accommodations for the assessor, but Ald. McIntyre, chairman of the property committee, stated that he and the assessor have already given the matter their attention. It was left for him to deal with.

181 CHARLOTTE STREET

HE INTERFERED WITH CONDUCTOR

Also Placed Himself in Path of Engine

Particulars of the strange actions of a young man living in Smith township came out in police court today when he was charged with obstructing and impeding Conductor M McCarthy of the Port Hope train in the execution of his duty the night before Christmas.

By his actions that night he appeared filled with the spirit of recklessness and had no regard for his life. He placed himself directly in the path of the engine which was taking water at the Grand Trunk station and refused to budge. He fought off attempts made to move him by Conductor McCarthy and Harry Zealand, gateman at the Charlotte Street crossing, landing several blows on various portions of their person. When urged to stand aside and warned that he would be killed, he scornfully laughed at the idea and declared he did not care what happened to him. While the police were being summoned he clambored on the pilot of the engine and was only induced to come off when the constable arrived. He even flouted the police and said he did not care for any policeman.

His strange and senseless actions attracted a great deal of attention at the time and his gesticulations and jumping around made some think he was insane. He was under the influence of liquor at the time.

This morning he was charged with interfering with the conductor in the course of his duty, the latter declaring that the accused had struck him several times during the mix up. He was charged also with assaulting Harry Zealand. On each charge a plea of guilty was put in by his counsel Mr. Widdifield. He was fined $5 on the assault charge and $5.10 on the other. Detective Tisdale of the Grand Trunk railway was present in court.

On December 24th, the Smithonian was also arrested and fined $5 and costs or $5.75 for being intoxicated, making a total assessment of $15.85.

DEATH FOLLOWED BLOOD POISONING

Herbert John Reynolds, 593 Patterson Street, died at twelve o'clock today from blood poisoning which developed in his heel, following a wound inflicted by a tight hockey boot. He was eleven years of age and a regular attendant of Park St. Baptist Church Sunday School, where he took part in a concert last week. He leaves three brothers and one sister.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

CHAIRMAN TO USE HIS JUDGMENT

As to the Area Where Sidewalks Are to be Sanded

At the meeting of the council last evening Ald. Green, the new chairman of the Board of Works, endeavored to get the opinion of the city dads, as to how much of the city should be included in the district where the streets are sanded when slippery. Ald. Duffus expressed himself as being in favor of having the matter left entirely with the chairman, to use his own judgment. He pointed out how there may be sections of the city outside any specified district, which would have slippery walks. In his opinion it was not a case of being able to afford doing them but rather could the council afford not to do it? The matter was left with Ald. Green.

An Old Problem.

Ald. Johnston unearthed an old one, when he asked if anything was being done along the lines of providing sewer facilities for the residents on Bethune Street north. The chairman of the Board of Works was asked to look into the matter and bring in a report.

NEGLECTED POOR OF MONAGHAN

Statement From the Council Gives Sample of Bills

GOOD LIVING

As there has been a great deal of fault found by people living in the city, in regard to the way the poor of North Monaghan have been provided for, one bill is published to show the amount of provisions one family in North Monaghan received. Supplies to other needy families are practically the same. The statement comes from the council. The bill as presented to the council is as follows:—

December 12—sugar 25c., two pounds butter 88c., baking powder 15c., cabbage 15c., soap 5c., beans 25c., half bag potatoes 40c., three loaves 36c., meat 50c., onions 15c., turnips 10c.

December 19—Potatoes 30c., sugar 25c., two pounds butter 68c., three loaves bread 36c., flour 27c., pork 50c., cabbage 10c., soap 5c., turnips 10c., pork and ham 25c., rolled oats 25c.

December 24—Apples 30c., sugar 25c., meat 50c., half pound tea 18c., butter 32c., potatoes 15c., bread 12c., rolled oats 25c.

December 31—Potatoes 30c., butter 34c., sugar 25c., head cheese 30c., meat 25c., bread 12c., half pound tea 18c., flour 27c., rolled oats 25c.

"This goes to show that the township officials have been criticized unreasonably and not only criticized, but in some respects slandered, for the meagre allowances to those applying for help. Those parties who have made it their business to ridicule the township officials for not doing their duty, are given to understand that the officials are quite capable of attending to their own business.

The township council does not intend to be so generous in the future or we might have an influx of newcomers of this class into the township from other municipalities.

Reeve McIntosh has devised a fine scheme for the elimination of a certain part of this charity. He is offering wood cutting in a swamp to those unemployed and who are asking assistance from the township."

C. O. C. F. OFFICERS

At the regular meeting of Peterborough Council, 423 C.O.C.F. on Thursday evening, Jan. 14th, Mr. R. E. Harding occupied the chair.

The following new officers were duly installed in their new offices:

Past Councillor—H. Easterbrook.
Chief Councillor—D. McQuaig.
Vice- Councillor—C. Whatley.

WAS PASTOR HERE FOR TWO YEARS

Rev. M. L. Pearson Passed Away at Toronto This Morning

His many friends in Peterborough will learn with feelings of regret that Rev. Marmaduke L. Pearson, a former pastor of George Street Methodist Church died today. He ministered the congregation of George Street from 1886 to 1890, and will be well remembered by the older residents of the city. Of late he had been on the retired list of the Methodist ministry, but it is worthy of note that a son, Rev. E. A. Pearson was destined to take charge of the pastorate so capably taken by his father before him. Rev. E. A. Pearson was pastor of George Street Church from 1907 to 1910.

The late Rev. M. L. Pearson died in Toronto at the residence of his son, H. W. Pearson. Another son, W. T. Pearson, is at present in South America. There are also two daughters, Mrs. Edson White of Chicago, and Miss Kathleen at home.

His death occurred at one o'clock this morning after being taken suddenly ill thirty minutes before. About two years ago he suffered a bad attack of paralysis. He was one of the old school Methodists and was born in Ireland, coming to this country early in life. He was eighty-four years of age and one of the most venerable and beloved desciples of Methodism.

CELEBRATE FIRST SETTLEMENT IN SMITH TOWNSHIP

Council in Favor of Suggestion by J. H. Burnham M.P.

Members of the council of the township of Smith met in the County Council chamber on Monday, Jan. 11 at eleven o'clock. After making the necessary declarations of qualification and of office, the members took their seats. Those present were Reeve McKee, Deputy Reeve Jobe and Councillors Northey, Moore and Nichols. The minutes of the last two meetings were read and confirmed.

Moved by Councillor Moore, seconded by Councilor Nichols, that the communication of Mr. J. H. Burnham, M. P., re holding a celebration or some fitting memorial in 1918 of the first settlement and survey of the township, which took place in 1818 be received and approved of by the council.

Mr. F. W. Scott addressed the council and outlined his work as commissioner of the Communication road. The policy adopted during the year had been one of economy, and it was the intention to draw gravel during the winter, and to expend the balance of the commuted statute labor the next season. Mr. Scott said that he did not wish to retain the office any longer, and his resignation was reluctantly acepted by the council.

Moved by Councillor Moore, seconded y Councillor Northey, that the communication of Andrew Montgomery be received and that the reeve and Councillor Nichols be a committee to see after the sale and cutting of timber on the 18th and 9th concessions.—Carried.

Moved by Councillor Nichols, seconded by Councillor Moore, that the reeve and Councillor Northey be a committee to expend $150 on the 16th concession, near lot 40. — Carried.

Moved by Deputy Reeve Jobe, seconded by Councillor Moore, that the treasurer be instructed to pay the following accounts:

William Elliott, refund of taxes, $11.75; Louis Fowler, 2½ days on grader, $11.25; Francis Pearson, refund dog tax, $2; J. D. Tully, repairs to grader and crusher, $7; R. J. Edmison, D. R. O., $4, rent of school, $3; Alex. Edmison, services as poll clerk, $2; T. N. D. Kelly, D. R. O., $4, rent of hall $3; J. H. Forsyth, services as poll clerk, $2; Jno. Chittick, D. R. PASSED AWAY AT WINNIPEG

Peterborough Young Man Was Stricken With Peritonitis

Unusually sad news reached the city this morning, to the effect that Mr. John Lightfoot, formerly of this city, had died from peritonitis in Winnipeg, where he was stationed with the soldiers mobilized there, from the western provinces. The telegram was received by his mother who residest at 405 Walton Street.

Late last night his mother received a telegram stating that he was dangerously ill in Winnipeg from peritonitis but giving no particulars. Her worst fears were realized this morning, by the arrival of a telegram, saying he had passed away. Mr. Roland McWilliams of Winnipeg formerly of this city is taking charge of the body and will arrange to have it brought to Peterborough for interment.

The deceased was widely known in this city having been employed here about three years ago with Merrell and Meredith, clothiers, George Stt. From there he went to Toronto where he was employed as salesman by the Simpson Company. He later assumed the position of western representative for Score's clothing, making Saskatoon his headquarters and where he established a large circle of friends. He remained in Saskatoon nearly one year and when the war broke out he answered the call and enlisted. Shortly after he was sent to Winnipeg as a non-commissioned officer and was quartered there along with other western battalions awaiting orders. It was there however that he contracted peritonitis which resulted in his untimely death.

Mr. Lightfoot was about twenty-eight years of age. When in Peterborough he was a member of the 57th Regiment, holding the rank of sergeant and always took a keen interest in military affairs. He enlisted in "F" Company in April, 1905, and served here three years altogether.

Surviving him, besides his mother, are two sisters, Mrs W. H. Collier, of Peterborough, and Mrs. Ellis H. Jones, of St. Catharines, and one brother in the West. Another telegram was received by Mr. Collier this morning requesting instructions as to whether a military funeral should be accorded to the deceased in Winnipeg, or the body forwarded to Peterborough. It is probable that a military funeral will be held in Peterborough.

CONTINUED PROGRESS IS MADE NEAR ARRAS

French Artillery Checks Vigorous Infantry Attacks on Trenches by Germans.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Jan. 16. — The French official statement this afternoon announces continued progress near Arras. A vigorous infantry attack against the French trenches at Flirey was completely checked, and the fire of the French artillery compelled the Germans to evacuate a hill to the north of Clemery, east of Pont-a-Mousson.

Elsewhere, fighting was confined to artillery fire.

BERLIN'S STATEMENT FOUND TO BE FALSE.

LONDON, Jan. 16. — An official announcement given out in Berlin yesterday relating to the capture of 5,200 French troops at Soissons, and saying further that from 4,000 to 5,000 French dead were found after the battle, concludes with the unusual assertion: "This is the truth."

A wireless despatch from Paris, copied in London, categorically denies these German figures. It says French troops engaged in the Soissons battle were less than three brigades, and consequently the Berlin figures cannot be correct.

RUSSIA'S NATIONAL DEBT THE LEAST OF BELLIGERENTS

London, Jan. 16. — The national debts of the five principal belligerents are thus given by the London Statist, with the population, total debt, and debt per capita in order:

France—Population, 39,600,000; debt, $6,580,000,000; per capita, $166.

Belgium—Population, 7,450,000; debt, $812,000,000; per capita, $109.

Austria—Population, 29,000,000; debt, $2,650,000,000; per capita, $91.

Germany — Population, 66,500,000; debt, $5,400,000,000; per capita, $82.

England—Population, 46,035,000; debt, $3,580,000,000; per capita, $78.

Russia—Population, 171,200,000; debt, $4,500,000,000; per capita, $26.

The amounts are those of the total debt at the time of the outbreak of war. In the case of Belgium, a very large proportion of the debt is chargeable to the railway system, which was state-owned and the profits from which met the entire interest charge on the national debt.

MASKED PATIENT MAKES MYSTERY

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

London, Jan. 16.—Paris despatches to the Daily News says "A remarkable story is published by the Belgian Vingtieure Siecle about a masked patient in Strassburg, whose identity is being kept secret by the Germans. The story goes that Dr. Debaisieux, professor of the University of Louvain, was recently summoned to a consultation at Strassburg, a motor car being placed at his disposal by military authorities. When he entered the patient's room, he noted with astonishment, that the sufferer, who he was told was an officer, who had been grievously wounded on the battlefield, was wearing a mask, which completely concealed his features.

Dr. Debaisieux himself keeps the matter a profound secret and when one of his friends tried to prevail on him to throw some light on the identity of his patient, he declined.

It was through the indiscretion of men of the headquarters staff at Louvain that the people there got wind of the affair. At Louvain, it is generally believed the mysterious patient was the Crown Prince.

A correspondent of Vingtieure Siecle has however been assured by a German officer with whom he is on friendly terms, that the man in the mask is not the Crown Prince but another personage of highest importance.

BETTER SHOES FOR SOLDIERS

Will be Heavy and Protected by Hob Nails

OTTAWA, Jan. 16.—The sub-committee of the Cabinet on army contracts yesterday afternoon discussed the matter of better shoes for the Canadian troops and a new committee was appointed to recommend specifications for the best shoe that can be designed including the chief features of the British and French army shoes. The French shoes are longer than the British shoes and fit well. Besides being very heavy they are protected by hob nails. George Slater will advise the committee and the report will be submitted to the sub-committee the next Wednesday. The new shoes will cost more than the $3.85 paid for those for the first contingent, but they will be much superior for the kind of usage they must stand.

Munro expressed himself as being highly pleased with the number and quality of the men in Peterborough's quota and with the maner in which the work is progressing under Major Johnston's supervision. Asked if he knew how long it would be before the local men would move, he stated that he knew nothing definite, nor could he tell whether the men would be equipped here or not. If the men are equipped here, they will remain and drill for some time; if not, they will be transferred ot a mobilization centre in the course of two weeks.

Major A. E. McLaughlin of Bowmanville, who is second in command of the regiment, was also in the city for the purpose of interviewing Lt.-Col. Munro on matters relative to the C. M. R. Lt.-Col. Munro leaves this afternoon for Toronto.

Twenty Nuns Were Killed While in Act of Taking Communion

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

London, Jan. 16.—Special despatches received here from Rome say casualties in the earthquake scene are today estimated at thirty thousand. Further reports doubtless will increase this number. In a number of directions, communication has not yet been recorded. The government has not yet heard from many mountain towns.

One hundred persons were crushed to death in a church at Castellirl, while attending a funeral service. The village of Boccarescio was totally destroyed and the population is homeless. Soldiers searching ruins of the church at Sora, found bodies of twenty nuns who had been crushed to death while in front of the altar in the act of receiving communion.

London, Jan. 16.—A despatch given out by the Central News describes the situation in Sorra district as terrible. Although ten thousand persons in this district escaped with their lives, many of them are dying of hunger and cold.

NO FLOUR FOR THE ENEMY.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT that Canadian flour was finding its way to Germany via American routes is creating discussion. Canada wants to be sure that she is not aiding Germany in any way, directly or indirectly. The British Empire is fighting Germany with men and ships, but also with money and food. It is trying to keep any food stuffs from getting into German ports and to prevent any German exports from getting out. It is manifestly a suicidal policy to send men to fight Germany and at the same time allow Canadian food stuffs to find their way to Germany, and this matter should be taken up by the Dominion Government. The Toronto Mail and Empire says:

> "The demand from Britain and France for Canadian flour now is heavy enough to require all our exports and also a large part of the United States supply. The presumption is, therefore, somewhat against the theory that much of our output of flour is passing in to American hands for final disposition. Canadian flour going to Britain via the United States would be shipped in bond, and oversea destination would be known to the exporter here. There is certainly not much direct trading by Canadian millers with neutral countries contiguous to Germany and Austria. What should be ascertained is whether Canadian shipments to the United States are swelling that country's reserve stocks for supplying the enemy. If the trade is considerable, there should be prompt action to keep Canadian flour in British channels."

MAJOR MEDD FOR THE THIRD CONTINGENT

THE EXAMPLE of Major S. T. Medd in volunteering for Imperial service is one worthy of the highest praise. Major Medd is withdrawing from the law firm with which he has been connected for a number of years. While he offered his services for the first contingent, they were not needed, but now, since they are required, he is going to the front with the third contingent. What an efficient body of soldiers requires as much as anything is good officers, and Major Medd's training of long standing in the Third Prince of Wales' Dragoons should fit him in an eminent degree for an officer's place in Canada's third army for Imperial service. Major Medd makes many sacrifices of no small nature in answering the call to the colours. When he has succeeded, after years of work, in building up a good law practice, he withdraws from the firm. He had splendid prospects before him in his chosen profession, but he leaves all these, together with his wife and family, in order that the integrity of the British Empire may be maintained.

POSTERS AND BILL BOARDS SHOULD BE SUPERVISED.

A WESTERN ONTARIO town has instructed its solicitor to procure an amendment to the Municipal Act, so as to extend to all towns the right to control and regulate within the town limits all poster distribution, bill boards, bill-posting, sign-painting, etc., and to prohibit the distribution or posting up of all bills or pictures which might be classed as indecent or liable to corrupt morals. This move is worthy of support, but should be made to apply to all municipalities, cities as well as towns. There is no doubt that some local supervision should be given this kind of advertising, because there are times when it is a distinct offence to good taste and morals. As long as there is no supervision, there is no check on ugly and disgraceful bills being displayed to public view. The amendment to control these is one that should be extended to all municipalities—cities as well as towns—because there are places which regard these things as eyesores, and they should be given the right to say whether they will have them or not.

THE NEED TO BE CIRCUMSPECT.

THE TORONTO STAR takes up a letter of a disgruntled Englishman of Winnipeg that there are not proper recruiting facilities in Canada. This is the first instance of the kind we have heard of since the war began. There has been some complaint as to the severity of the tests for physical fitness and as to laxity in medical examinations, but not as to recruiting. While there has been no lack of recruits, there has not been complaint of over-supply, save perhaps in the French regiment recruited in Montreal. The Star needs to be careful and not become too bellicose. Its protestations for peace and platitudes against emergencies, dreadnoughts, and militarism, are not forgotten. Besides, when the war is over, some of its battle cries may not be in accord with much that has and likely will form a large part of Liberal policy in Canada.

MODERN BOOKS AND GOOD READING.

NEW BOOKS are coming out all the time in thousands. Of their authors, some are well known writers, and among them is Ralph Connor. But to ask anyone if they have read one of the late books, even of Ralph Connor, is no compliment to their literary taste or accomplishment. There are many standard books that the reading public of today are not reading, and which are worth a score of "late books" that will be largely forgotten in a couple of years. Ralph Connor's latest book, "The Patrol of the Sun Dance Trail," is not of the kind that lives. It will not hurt anyone's literary lore if they never read it. Here is what Toronto Saturday Night says of Ralph Connor and his new book:

> "Ralph Connor is doing about as well as he can. He will never write a big thing, for the good and sufficient reason that he hasn't it in him. His proper line is this one of conventional adventure not unmixed with moral purpose, and he is wise to stick to it. One can hardly blame a Plymouth Rock rooster for not being a phoenix.
>
> "'The Patrol of the Sun Dance Trail' is another story of the Northwest and the Northwest Mounted — that sterling body of 'cops' ought to draw royalties from the several thousand novels dealing with their heroic qualities. Allan Cameron, who was the 'Corporal Cameron' of an earlier romance, figures once more in this account of the second Northwest Rebellion. He had married, and retired to the comparatively peaceful life of a rancher, but the uprising of the Indians and half-breeds brings him forth once again.
>
> "Of course, he proves to be the one man for the emergency. Of course, he escapes deadly peril after deadly peril. Of course, single-handed, unarmed and wounded, he still manages to vanquish the great Sioux chief, Copperhead, the villain of the piece. And, of course, all the good people in the book are happy at the last, especially Allan's sister, Moira, and the Doctor, who furnish forth the heart-throbs, without which no story of wild life in the Northwest is complete. A good-enough yarn of the sort we have all read hundreds of times before."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

SIR ALEXANDER LACOSTE, who has just celebrated his seventy-third birthday, was born at Boucherville, Quebec, educated at St. Hyacinthe College and Laval University. He was called to the Bar in 1863, and practised his profession in Montreal. He was successively a Legislative Councillor of the Province of Quebec and a member of the Senate at Ottawa, being appointed to the latter position in 1884 and made Speaker in 1891. In the same year he was made Chief Justice of the Province of Quebec, and retired on a pension in 1907. He was knighted by the late Queen Victoria. He is a director of the Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company and president of the Board of Directors of La Banque Provinciale.

SAYS the Toronto Globe: Armand Lavergne is out against Bishop Fallon and the Orangemen of Ontario. He told the members of the Legislature of Quebec on Wednesday of the Bishop's "tyrannical spirit." Armand Lavergne would do a lot more good in Northern France just now than he is doing in Quebec. There are a heap of Irish Catholics and Orangemen fighting in defence of the France that Master Armand loves so well—at a distance.

WHEN SPRING comes, so that the heavy artillery will be able to move, and when the Allies will have big reinforcements, the public can expect some big and terrible battles. Besides Kitchener's army, there will be on the firing line, 30,000 Canadians, 200,000 Indians, 20,000 Australians, and thousands more in preparation.

SAYS the Orillia Packet: 555 was the majority in the mayoralty contest in Peterborough. It is hard to beat "three of a kind" like that!

THAT Italian earthquake was just about as efficient in loss of life as a defeat of the Austrians by the Russians.

Are French-Canadians Getting Bumptious?

(The Brockville Times.)

Cardinal Begin must know full well that the only undeniable rights which the French-Canadian language has are in Quebec and as the semi-official language of Ottawa. Out side of Quebec and as a formal official language it has no official recognition in Canada.

From the date of the battle on the Plain of Abraham to the present day, the British have treated the French-Canadians with the greatest generosity and justice. But the trouble with the French-Canadian political leaders—both secular and religious—is that if you give them an inch they want an ell. They are insatiable. Not content with being given full liberty of their own mother tongue and religion, they have squeezed the English-speaking people out of rural Quebec, and now seek to gain the balance of power in every province in Canada. Their writers make no secret of it. Part of their propaganda is to impose French upon Ontario public schools. A generation ago the little element of French-Canadians in Ontario were, as a special privilege and in order to expedite the teaching of English to French-Canadian children, allowed to have public school teachers who could speak French as a means of instruction. Today this little privilege has been distorted into a magnified and unalienable right to have French teachers and the French language taught in Ontario public schools!

What next will Quebec be demanding from Ontario and the rest of Canada?

If ever a minority has ample justice given it, certainly it is the French-Canadian minority in Canada. But the time has come when their leaders, such as Cardinal Begin and Premier Gouin, must be given plainly to understand that not one iota more of concession will be given to them. In Ontario, the popular feeling is very strong and is growing stronger daily on the bi-lingual school question. No Ontario Government could survive if it made any concessions to the French-Canadian demands. French-Canadians who settle in Ontario may speak French as much as they care to do, but they must not seek to impose their tongue upon the schools of the Province.

RIDING TWO HORSES.

Editor of the Review:

Sir,—"Old Citizen," writing in the Examiner last night, is certainly one of those fellows who is trying to ride two horses, and he makes about as successful an attempt to do so as is usually done by such an individual. This whole screed appears to me to be an attempt to "knock" the Review and "stand in" with the boys who went to Ottawa at the public expense on a wild-goose chase. It is quite possible he is one of the gang—and thus tries to square the job. But he has this to contend with, that the blame is placed on one of the number of the deputation, who couldn't get home fast enough to tell of the escapade. Certainly the Review said nothing about it until one of "the boys" told it. I am surprised that the Examiner countenances the jaunt, but then the fact that the one who is blamed for giving the whole thing away stands high in the councils of the Examiner, may have something to do with its attitude on this matter. We want honest expression on this, as well as on all other matters, but we will apparently have to look elsewhere than in the Examiner.

Then "Old Citizen" lauds the two men from the South Ward for the resolution introduced in Council to cut the salaries of city officials. "Old Citizen" would like to make his readers believe that he is a good Tory, but his attempt is too apparent. Why don't he have the honesty to state who are the eight or ten officials that should have their salaries reduced? What a howl he would put up if his salary was cut. If he is honest in his opinions and really desires to see the city officials' salaries chopped down, and at the same time approves of civic jaunts, such as the last one, let him sign his name, and then the people will know how much value to put on his advice. He's a fake.

Yours,
I. CANHIM.

THOSE CHARGES.

Editor, Review:

Sir,—Please inform me, if you can. 1. Who asked the City Council to investigate the School Board? 2. Is there any insurance now alive on those schools and school properties included in the charge made? 3. Why did any of those "charged" vote on the resolution to ask the Council to investigate? 4. Will not the City Council ask the advice of Mr. Gordon, city solicitor, as to what they ought to do with the resolution moved by him at the School Board meeting and referred to them, before putting the city to the expense of legal proceedings?

INQUIRER.

(Answers.—1. The School Board asked, by resolution, the City Council to have Judge Huycke investigate the School Board.

2. In view of Section 119, R. S. O., Chap. 266, Sub. Sec. 1, which reads: "A trustee shall not enter into any contract, agreement, engagement or promise, either in his own name or in the name of another, and either alone or jointly with another, in which he has any pecuniary interest, profit, or promised or expected benefit, with the Board of which he is a member, or have any pecuniary claim upon or receive compensation from the board for any work, engagement, employment or duty on behalf of the board, and every such contract, agreement, engagement or promise shall be null and void, and a trustee violating the provisions of this section shall ipso facto vacate his seat." It would appear that if the charge is a proper one, there is now no insurance on the school property referred to.

3. Do not know.

4. Very likely.—Ed.)

CONSISTENCY.

Editor, Review:

Sir,—A correspondent of the Examiner, signing himself "Old Citizen," thinks the jolly trip of the aldermen to Ottawa was all right. In these war times, to go ahead and spend between two and three hundred dollars of the people's money on such an affair is little short of criminal. This is especially so when the member, Mr. Burnham, warned them that it was all nonsense, and no use. It was a trip at the expense of the ratepayers they wanted. But they waited until after election to put the job over. Then this smart fellow in his next sentence wants the salaries of faithful city officials cut, to make up, I suppose, for the waste of money. Verily, this is consistency.

Deaf Mute Church Work.

Religious work among deaf mutes was established in 1849 by Dr. Gallaudet, who started a small Bible class for them in a room in the University of New York. The Churchman, an Episcopal weekly, says that at the present time there are thirteen ordained clergymen, twelve of whom are themselves deaf, ministering to the spiritual needs of 85,000 deaf mutes in the United States of whom there are fully 20,000 in the southern section. The salaries of the missionaries to the deaf range from $1,000 to $1,800 annually, and a very few of them have their expenses, in addition, provided.

An Event in Telephone History

Much favorable comment has been heard lately among business men on the marked improvement they have observed in long distance telephone service. This has been especially noticeable in conversations carried on over great distances, the transmission being so perfect as to carry the tones of the voice with marvellous distinctness.

Enquiry at the Bell Telephone Office reveals one of the most interesting developments in the history of speech transmission. It appears that during the past few weeks the company has been equipping its long distance lines with a recently invented device called the Pupin Coil. This coil, which resembles in appearance the transformers we see on the electric light lines, is attached to the long distance telephone wires approximately every eight miles. Just as the electric lighting transformer changes the pressure of the lighting current that flows in the electric light circuit, so the Pupin Coil changes the pressure of the weak electric current that carries the voice over the telephone wires. The result is a marvellous strengthening of the sound waves, so that a 500-mile talk is much the same in the quality of the sounds produced as a chat with one's next door neighbor. The device is the invention of Prof. Pupin, of Columbia University. The process of attaching the coils to the telephone lines is called "loading."

The invention of the Pupin Coil has brought a fortune to Prof. Pupin, who not so many years ago landed in America a poor Hungarian immigrant. He has worked wonders in long distance speech transmission and his invention now being used with such marked results on the Bell Telephone Company's lines marks an epoch in the history of the telephone.

For selling butter not properly put up and correctly branded.

Government dairy regulations require that when DAIRY BUTTER is put up in blocks, squares or prints and wrapped in parchment paper, the paper shall be printed or branded with the words "Dairy Butter" in letters at least one-quarter inch square.

Imitation Parchment paper (which some sell) is no better than common tissue as soon as it becomes damp; and cheap inks stain the butter, making it unsaleable. We use only PURE PARCHMENT printed with SPECIAL INDELIBLE INK.

A Change of Heart

By WILLIAM CHANDLER

Jim Edwards was young and frisky and full of Old Nick. He was riding on a suburban train one day on his way to the city when an old gentleman of eminently respectable appearance came into the car and took a seat beside him. Jim was reading in a morning journal an account of a prizefight. The gentleman took from his pocket a copy of the Missionary Intelligencer, opened it and began to peruse it.

"Have you seen an account of the bout between Andy Sheehan and the Philadelphia Kid, sir?" asked Jim in a deferential tone.

"No. I don't read accounts of such inhuman transactions."

"I suppose you wouldn't care to see a fight of that kind. But don't you think if we kill off all blood spilling affairs it's bad for the military spirit? We must have wars, you know, even if to protect ourselves from a foreign enemy, and if we young fellows should get too soft we'd all have to knuckle under in case of an invasion. For my part I think the way the Kid stood up against Sheehan was admirable. He broke the big man's jaw and let a pint of blood from his nose."

At this the gentleman turned his back squarely on the young man and buried himself in his journal.

Jim, who had been amusing himself with the old man, smiled inwardly, much pleased at the shock he had given him. When they reached the city Jim waited till the passageway to the door was cleared of the outgoing passengers, then arose to go himself. On the seat beside him he espied a pocketbook. It must have belonged to the gentleman who had sat beside him, and Jim hurried after him, but failed to catch him. An examination of the contents of the pocketbook revealed the name of Howard Spingler and his address, besides some $20 in bills. In a pocket by itself was a small photograph of a girl evidently in her teens. Jim fell in love with it on sight.

Instead of sending the find to the address Jim waited till evening, when he thought he might possibly get sight of the original of the photograph, then went to the house, rang the bell and told the butler who answered it that he would like to see Mr. Spingler. He was ushered into the library, where sat the owner of the pocketbook and near by, doing some fancy work, the girl of the photograph. When the old gentleman saw the advocate of prizefighting he frowned. Jim handed him the book and said:

"After you left the train this morning, sir, I found this where you had been sitting. It contained your name and address, so I am enabled to return it to you."

Mr. Spingler, without unbending, took the pocketbook. He was too much of a gentleman to examine the contents to see that all had been returned, but he was not cordial. He simply thanked Jim and waited for him to withdraw.

"Don't you think, father," said the girl, surprised at her father's want of warmth in acknowledging his obligation, "that inasmuch as the gentleman has taken the trouble to return your pocketbook in person we should ask him to rest before going?"

The father's mind was on Jim's prizefighting proclivities, and he was not to be moved to any courtesy to one of that kind.

"Young man," he said, "I have thanked you for returning my pocketbook. I do not offer you a reward, for you do not look like one who would accept it. Indeed, I was surprised to meet with one having the appearance of a gentleman advocating the barbarity of prizefighting."

Jim colored under the reproof to the roots of his hair. He had had his fun with the old gentleman, and he was now paying the price. The young lady took pity on him.

"Why, papa," she said, "so many persons take an interest in such matters that you can't blame one young man for doing so. After all, I don't think as many persons are killed in the prize ring as at football, and you know you shouted and waved at brother when he knocked down five men and broke the leg of one carrying the ball to goal."

Mr. Spingler looked embarrassed. Jim, bestowing a silent blessing on the young lady, with regained courage pushed on to undo the damage he had done by his facetiousness on the train.

"Ralph Spingler!" he exclaimed. "The great Pennsylvania football player?"

"My son," said the old man proudly.

"I've seen him play some of his best games. During his supremacy on the gridiron there was no man who could down him. I congratulate you, sir, on having such a son."

"You've seen him play!" exclaimed the old man, his eyes lighting at the mention of his son's prowess.

"Indeed I have. I witnessed the game in which he fell—accidentally, of course—on Simpson and crushed him. That was a glorious game. Your noble boy carried the ball to goal amid the huzzas of every person present."

"He won the game!" cried Mr. Spingler. "Polly, bring a decanter and some glasses. Our friend must drink to your brother's health."

That is the way Jim Edwards made his wife's acquaintance. It looked squally at first, but it came out all right.

Hats On.

It is customary in Quito when a visitor takes off his hat upon entering a room to beg him to put it on again, and, in the absence of permission, leave is generally requested. This, it is said, arises from apprehension that cold will be taken by remaining uncovered.

Superoptimist.

"What a cheerful woman Mrs. Smiley is."

"Isn't she? Why, do you know, that woman can have a really good time thinking what a good time she would have if she were having it."—Boston Transcript.

BASQUED SUITS.

The Vogue For This Style of Garment Continues to Grow.

SMART BASQUED SUIT.

Basqued effects are favored even for street costumes. An example of this is shown in the picture. This suit is of dark blue crepe de chine, with basque and accordion plaited skirt. Worn with it is a velvet stove pipe hat adorned with white love birds and black and white ribbon. Arrayed in a gown of this sort, milady, wending her way to church to hear the Thanksgiving sermon, would be assured of the fact that she was modishly and elegantly attired.

FUR COATS.

Handsome New Models That Are Comparatively Inexpensive.

Many of the most charming new fur coats are of black pony skin, which, as now treated, has an exquisite moire surface, closely resembling the costly broadtail. Moreover, these coats are not at all expensive, considering their handsome appearance and well wearing qualities. Some are finished with collars and cuffs of ermine, the tails arranged as a fringe or with less costly white fur, velvet or plush.

Other long coats and cloaks are of electric seal, musquash and mole; also of striped lynx and civet, though these pelts are rather too barbarous looking for the taste of most women. Scarfs are longer and broader than ever, and muffs are either huge in size or tiny, while lovely little crossover pelerines are of mole or seal or of velvet trimmed with fur.

Vogue of the Apron Tunic.

It is odd how some styles that never become popular persist for several years. There is the apron tunic, for instance, at the present time. Two years ago we had a glimpse of a few imported lingerie models with apron tunics quite like real aprons, in the front of the skirts.

Cheruit's apron tunic last year was another manifestation of the same idea. Now, there are long tulle aprons on metallic evening frocks.

Sometimes these aprons are longer than the foundation of heavy metallic silk and edged with metal fringe, monkey fur or flowers.

HOW TO COOK MEATS.

Saute tough meats to keep the juices in and then stew until tender. Serve with thick gravy.

Roasted meats have a better flavor than baked ones. The meat should be first placed near the coals to sear and then drawn back to cook at lower heat.

Remember that the success of frying depends upon two things—having enough fat to completely cover the articles cooked in it and having the fat smoking hot.

Dry or tough meats can often be made tender and of a good flavor by braising. They are shut in a close covered pot with salt pork, stock and chopped vegetables and cooked slowly in the confined steam.

Meats for broiling should be cut very thin and turned over a clear hot fire as often as one counts ten. When the puffed appearance of broiled meat begins to disappear it means that the moisture is evaporating and the meat will be hard and dry.

When baking meats the oven should be very hot at first, and then the heat should be slowly lowered to allow the cooking to be done slowly. Keep a piece of asbestos on hand to interpose between a dish and the hottest part of the oven when there is danger of burning.

THE BLOOD IS THE STREAM OF LIFE

Pure Blood Is Absolutely Necessary To Health

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" PURIFIES

These Wonderful Tablets, Made of Fruit Juices, Are The Best Of All Tonics To Purify And Enrich The Blood.

Pure, rich blood can flow only in a clean body. Now, a clean body is one in which the waste matter is regularly and naturally eliminated from the system. The blood cannot be pure when the skin action is weak, when the stomach does not digest the food properly, when the bowels do not move regularly, when the kidneys are strained or overworked.

Pure blood is the result of perfect health and harmony of stomach, liver, bowels, kidneys and skin.

"Fruit-a-tives", by their wonderful action on all these organs, keeps the whole system as clean as Nature intended our bodies to be clean.

"Fruit-a-tives" tones up, invigorates, strengthens, purifies, cleans and gives pure, rich, clean blood that is, in truth, the stream of life.

"Fruit-a-tives" is sold by all dealers at 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50 trial size 25c. or sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

TESTING YOUR DRESS FABRICS

If you want to know whether the goods you buy for wool is "all wool" or just a shoddy imitation apply the following test:

Hold a lighted match to the material and watch it burn. Wool burns slowly, goes out quickly, leaves a gummy residue and has a very disagreeable odor.

A good way of testing any material is by pressing the two thumbs together on the fabric and then pulling the cloth straight, first lengthwise way and then crosswise way. If it tears or pulls apart in either direction it shows a lack of strength and will not wear.

Can you tell real silk from near silk? Can you tell when silk is weighted with tin? Can you tell how much cotton there is in a piece of shimmering, silky taffeta?

If you don't know the real silk from the shoddy material try this test:

Silk is very apt to be heavily weighted, especially in taffetas and heavy black silk. A great many so-called pure silks are a mixture of mercerized cotton and silk.

The burning test is the best.

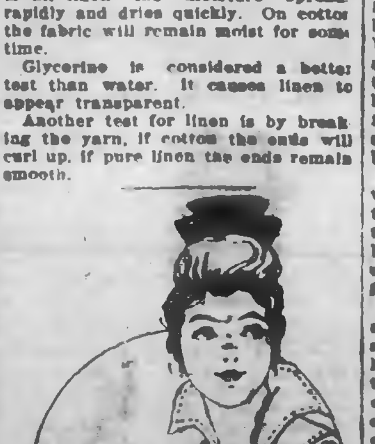
Artificial and mercerized mixtures burn the same. They will burn slowly. Pure silk will burn so there is nothing but ashes left.

Everything that's labeled linen isn't linen. It may be part cotton and part linen, and it may be mercerized cotton with a very small portion of linen in it.

To test the material you buy for linen, drop water on the goods—if it is all linen the moisture spreads rapidly and dries quickly. On cotton the fabric will remain moist for some time.

Glycerine is considered a better test than water. It causes linen to appear transparent.

Another test for linen is by breaking the yarn, if cotton the ends will curl up, if pure linen the ends remain smooth.



Spanish Comb Like Grandma Wore

The high Spanish comb is quite popular. If you have one that great grandmother wore, so much the better, but if you must buy one let it be heavy and carved about the edges.

Bamboo furniture is best cleaned with a damp cloth.

SNOWY WHITE HAIR NEEDS SPECIAL CARE

There Are Ways of Preventing it from Being Tinged With Yellow.

No kind of hair is prettier than white, but no other hair is so delicate or so likely to change color quickly. It is something of a task to keep white hair really white, and it needs most careful handling.

Absolute cleanliness of everything that comes in contact with it should be the rule, as the least dust will make it dull-looking. Brushes and combs must be kept scrupulously clean, and as this hair is far more brittle than any other, the greatest care must be taken not to pull it with a comb or brush it too roughly.

The woman with white hair should avoid shampoos and tonics suitable for blonde or dark hair. Though these may be white and quite harmless in appearance, they so often leave the hair streaked and yellow. White hair is in a class by itself, and anything used to cleanse or strengthen it must be colorless and perfectly harmless.

Rain water is by far the best to use for washing purposes, but if this is not procurable, filtered water makes a good substitute. Ordinary water especially if it contains much iron will leave a yellow tinge on silver hair when it is dried. Colored soaps too, no matter how fine their quality should not be used. Pure soap is the only thing which will really preserve the color.

Eggs in Shampoo Mixture

To prepare a shampoo solution shave the soap and pour over it about three quarts of boiling water to a fairly large cake of soap. Allow it to stand in a warm place until the soap is completely dissolved, then set aside to cool. Add to it a tablespoonful of lime water, and bottle for use.

An excellent shampoo consists of the whites of two eggs whisked to a froth and well beaten into a pint of the soap solution. After wetting the hair and scalp with warm, soft water dip the fingers into the mixture and massage the scalp with it. The long hair may also be washed with the solution.

White hair must be rinsed perfectly clean, and several soft waters should be used for the purpose. A few drops of indigo blue, to be bought at a chemist's, will give the proper tint to the final rinsing water.

Extreme heat for drying is injurious to any hair, and it is doubly so to white hair. It should be dried slowly with warm towels; on no account must the towels be allowed to get hot.

Another shampoo may be used if the hair is greasy and heavy. Cut a lemon in half, and tie one piece in an old soft handkerchief. Divide the hair into several partings, and rub the scalp gently and firmly with the lemon. Thoroughly rinse the scalp, and massage it gently with a mixture of beaten white of egg, a teaspoonful of glycerine, and a teaspoonful of rose water, finally rinsing the head through several waters, including one slightly tinted with blue.

Food for the Scalp

If this process is properly carried out, the hair should be soft with a beautiful silvery tint when the shampoo is completed.

A tonic of some kind is quite necessary to keep white hair pliable, but on no account should any tonic of which the ingredients are colored be used. Ordinary red vaseline is good for massaging the scalp, as a rule, but it will turn white hair yellow. White vaseline should be used instead, and it will be found a good tonic and food for the roots of the hair. A little massaged occasionally into the roots of the hair keeps it soft and pliable, and relieves the brittle condition.

Pure glycerine, diluted to one-half with rose water and a few drops of tincture of cantharides, is also a good tonic. The mixture has a green tint, but it will in no way harm the color of the hair, and it is a good stimulant for the roots.

Any sort of tonic for the hair should always be applied to the roots only, and not be allowed to run down the hair. A small oil can is just the thing to use for the purpose, for with this one or two drops can be put on the scalp and massaged in with the tips of the fingers.

White hair slightly waved is generally much more becoming to the average woman than straight, but curling tongs must be avoided, unless white tissue paper is placed between the tongs and the hair. The iron should be tested on tissue paper before use, and it must be just hot enough to wave in quite a short time.

Fish Rolls

Fillet some fresh haddocks, and on each fillet lay a thin slice of uncooked bacon, roll up the fillets, bacon inside and tie each with a thread; put them upright, packed closely in a dish, and cook them in a steamer until done, but still firm. In about ten minutes remove the thread, egg and crumb the roll, and fry in boiling fat till crisp and brown. Serve each roll on a piece of toast. They can be prepared and steamed the night before if wanted for breakfast.

Try Water in the Oven

To make meat cooked in a gas oven juicy, place a jam jar half filled with cold water at the bottom of the oven. The steam rising from the water makes the air in the oven moist and prevents the meat from getting hard.

TWO CENT TROUBLES

The little tragedies of life
 In silence must be borne,
For were the world to notice them
 It would but be with scorn.
When Mrs. A. snubs Mrs. B.
 And almost breaks her heart
She'd have the neighbors understand
 That it has left no smart.

When Mrs. C. is counted out
 When some exclusive set
Is getting up a fancy ball
 Big tears her eyes may wet
When in her little sitting room
 And no one else is there.
But to the world her attitude
 Is one who doesn't care.

When Mr. X. desires to take
 A swift and running start
And in a pleasant office lands
 It almost breaks his heart
To find the voters do not his
 Ambitious notions share.
But out in public he must smile
 And say he doesn't care.

And so it is. The little things
 That touch us to the quick
And make us feel we have been hit
 Amidships by a brick
Get very little sympathy.
 Roughshod the critic rides.
The little tragedies of life
 Make others split their sides.

Best Quality Linen Is the Cheapest In the End.

Buy the very best quality of bed linen your allowance will admit. The sheets made with a seam through the middle outwear the seamless ones. If the supply is to be homemade it is preferable to use half white rather than unbleached, though neither will really outwear a good quality of bleached. The latter is less soft and consequently harder to handle in laundering, and this is worth remembering if laundry work is to be done in the home.

For a pair of sheets allow five yards of wide sheeting, and six will be more satisfactory because of the good allowance for tucking firmly at both head and foot of the bed; also a deep hem may be turned on both ends, making possible longer wear of the sheet, because it can be used "turnabout," foot for head.

When buying material it is not unusual to have the salesman cut off the proper length for each pair, thus necessitating only one tearing at home for each pair.

If a seam is to run through the middle top sew over and over the selvages using a cotton as coarse as the coarsest thread in the weave of the cloth. Determine this by examining the ravelings.

When the seam is finished cut it open with thumb and finger nail or thimble thrust upon forefinger. At the top turn down a two inch hem and one a quarter of an inch at the bottom, unless it is desired to have both of the hems of two inch width.

It is of course a matter of taste whether the hemming shall be by hand. Certainly hand doing makes a nicer, more finished article. But where time is limited the machine must be used.

RUSSIANS HAVE BEGUN NEW MOVE IN POLAND

New Army of Nearly 1,000,000 Men is Forcing its Way Into German Lines Along the Lower Vistula Towards Thorn to Threaten Enemy at Mlawa and Force Attacking Warsaw.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—The latest official reports from the Russian General Staff disclose a new operation on the part of the Russian army which may have far reaching results.

Starting on their new year the Russian cavalry commenced a forward move in Northern Poland on the right bank of the lower Vistula river and have reached Skrwa river, some 40 miles east of the German fortress of Thorn, West Prussia, driving a small force of German cavalry and infantry before them. It is believed that Grand Duke Nicholas, commander-in-chief of the Russian forces, intends to use an entirely new army consisting, according to Petrograd despatches, of from 800,000 to 1,000,000 men in this region, operating in conjunction with an army which is advancing in East Prussia. This army would place the German troops at Mlawa in a vise and at the same time threaten the rear of the Germans in front of Warsaw. The latter still are making occasional attacks on the Russian line and, according to a Berlin report, have taken a Russian vantage point northeast of the Rawka river.

A Daily News despatch from Petrograd on Friday says:

"An advance of the Russian army in Northern Poland above Plotz which is of great strategic importance threatens the German communication at a point where the main source of men and supplies have reached Gen von Hindenburg to fill his positions along the river courses of Central Poland. Stragglers from the civilian population who entered the Russian lines during the last few days speak of many kinds of activities pointing to preparations for a German withdrawal westward.

"Likely Gen. von Hindenburg prefers to suffer another ruinous waste of men rather than order a full retreat at a time when the German troops are still gathering in Hungary This German-Hungarian combinations, evidently is to be nursed even at the expense of the entire campaign in Poland."

PRINCESS PATS WIN SIGNAL HONORS IN BAYONET CHARGE

For Canada and Old England Their Battle Cry as Germans Break and Flee Before Them.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—The Canadian regiment at the front has distinguished itself in a stirring bayonet charge at a place near Ypres, known as 'Dead Man's Alley," according to The Daily Chronicle's correspondent in northeastern France.

"The Germans," the correspondent says, "had moved a great mass of men against this spot on the British front. Mud helped the thin British line to hold, but the honors were barely even until the Canadian regiment hurried up from the rear.

"Suddenly there was a roar of voices and a long line of slouch-hatted men with fixed bayonets rushed forward with the battle cry, "For Canada and Old England."

The Germans broke before the charge, which carried everything before it. Trench after trench fell and the Canadians did not cease until the Germans brought up their artillery. The ground gained extended over a mile in front."

The correspondent speaks in the most enthusiastic terms of the Princess Patricia's, speaking of them as "these fine athletic fellows of the Dominion, of whom 900 out of the battalion have medals for previous service." The Chronicle man concludes:

"According to my informant, a corporal sent back for a frost-bite, the ground gained extended over a mile, something to gain in these days of battles for a hundred yards. The Princess Patricias lost only two killed and 14 wounded."

HINDUS MISLED

Ringleaders Caused Trouble at Vancouver

LONDON, Jan. 16. (Through Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—A special despatch from Delhi, India, give the result of the enquiry ordered by the Indian Government into the riot at Calcutta by Indians returned from Vancouver, B.C., after deportation by the Canadian immigration authorities. The despatch says:

"The report of the committee of enquiry into the voyage of the steamer Komagata Maru and the riot at Calcutta finds that most of the emigrants believed they would be allowed to land at Vancouver. The leaders, however, were aware of the law, and deliberately misled the more ignorant passengers. The judgment of Chief Justice Hunter of the Supreme Court of British Columbia, the committee finds, was also an important factor in the emigrants' belief that they would be allowed to land in Canada.

"Owing," the report says, "to successful efforts, made during the voyage, by emissaries of revolutionary organizations outside of India to promote disaffection among the emigrants, they were in a dangerous frame of mind when they left Vancauver, and intended to cause trouble on their arrival in India. In accordance with the law the emigrants were refused admission at Calcutta, after which they fired upon the police with firearms which they had concealed when their luggage was being examined, the troops firing in reply. The committee considers that the emigrants should have been effectually searched for arms before being permitted to land.

"It is not intended to institute any prosecutions in respect to the riot, and the majority of the men who were confined pending the enquiry are being returned to their homes. The minority, comprising the dangerous ringleaders, will be kept under restraint for the present."

To Consider Pension Problem.

OTTAWA, Jan. 16. — The pension system for the Canadian Expeditionary Force has been prepared by the Militia Department and will be dealt with by the Cabinet at an early date. It can be adopted by order-in-council and without new legislation. If the war continues for any length of time this will be one of its serious, though necessary financial results. It has been estimated that the annual pension list may run up to eight millions a year.

A WARNING TO CARRANZA

Must Keep His Hands off Tampico Oil Workings

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. — The United States Government has sent a warning to Gen. Venustiano Carranza, pointing out that "serious consequences may follow" his threatened confiscation of foreign-owned oil plants in Tampico. This announcement was made by Secretary Bryan after the latter had conferred with Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British ambassador, and representative of American oil concerns. Already the Carranza officials have practically enforced an embargo on the exportation of oil by a big English company. The British ambassador, at the suggestion of Mr. Bryan, sent an urgent telegram to the British consul at Vera Cruz, which he was instructed to show to Gen. Carranza. As the British fleet obtains much of its fuel from the Tampico oil fields, the possibility of serious complications over the Carranza Government's attitude is fully realized by the American Government.

ACCIDENT THE CAUSE OF FIRE

Loss in Hardware Warehouse is $100,000

SHERBROOKE, Que., Jan. 16.—The business section of Sherbrooke was yesterday afternoon visited by one of the most serious fires in the history of the city. About 4.30 an employe of Codere, Sons & Co., one of the largest wholesale hardware firms in the townships, tipped over a bottle of wood alcohol on a gas stove, causing an explosion. In an instant the whole building was in flames.

Jos. Coderre, managing director of the firm, was overcome by smoke while trying to throw the books into the fireproof vault. He was taken to the hospital, but is not seriously injured.

When the fire was at its height a tremendous explosion took place, which shook all the buildings in the vicinity. It was only with the greatest difficulty that the buildings owned by C. O. Genest and L. A. Codere, as well as the Edwards' Furniture Co.'s store escaped. The loss to property and stock will amount to about $100,000, which will be well covered by insurance.

REVERSE RELIEVES PRESSURE

LONDON, Jan. 16—That the check suffered by the French troops in the battle of Soissons is important is admitted here by British military critics, though all agree they cannot determine the object of the German drive except as it furnishes a diversion, relieving the pressure in Flanders and in Alsace.

The violent German attack conducted under the direction of the Kaiser and the German General Staff by Gen. von Kluk is easily the most striking news from the western theatre.

Strong reinforcements drawn from the right and left flanks of the German centre army combined with the intervention of the flood stage of the River Aisne, which imperilled the lines of communication of the French, preventing them from bringing up added forces to meet the increased superior strength of the invaders, made possible the German success, say British students of the progress of the revival of the Aisne battle.

A victory of great strategic value has been won by the British army in a furious drive against the German battlefront near La Bassee. The British troops stormed the strongly-entrenched positions held by the Kaiser's forces, captured the first line of trenches and pressed on with magnificent spirit until they had driven the invaders back a mile. The Germans suffered heavy losses, but the British had few casualties.

The battle opened with a vigorous artillery fire from the British heavy siege guns; a rain of shells demolished several of the defence field works of the Germans and threw their ranks into disorder. When this preliminary success had been achieved the British infantry swept forward in great numbers and overwhelmed the Kaiser's troops before they could organize an effective field resistance.

The importance of this victory of the British forces can hardly be overestimated. La Bassee has been for many weeks the scene of violent battles, owing to its commanding position at the intersection of both canals and highways, which give access to the French sea coast. The German battle line at this point was one of the more thoroughly organized along the German front, the Kaiser's commanders having massed large forces in that region.

The battle took place Jan. 10, but owing to a delay in the telegraph service and the strict censorship the despatch bearing the news only reached Paris yesterday.

The following official communication was issued last night:

"There is nothing of importance to report."

Yesterday afternoon's bulletin issued by the French War Office said:

"From the sea to the Lys there were yesterday artillery engagements, some of them, quite spirited. We made progress near Lombaertsyde and near Beclaere. To the north of Arras a brilliant attack by Zouaves resulted in the capture at the point of the bayonet of the positions of the enemy near the road between Arras and Lille.

"In this same region, at Targetts and at St. Laurent, as well as at a point to the north of Andechy, in the region of Roye, our artillery secured the advantage over that of the enemy. German batteries were reduced to silence, two pieces of artillery were demolished; a depot of ammunition was exploded, and field works in course of construction were destroyed.

"At a point two kilometres (a mile and a quarter) northeast of Soissons, the Germans yesterday attacked the village of St. Paul. They entered the village, but we lost no time in recapturing it.

"In the region of Craonne and near Rheims there were yesterday violent artillery engagements, during the course of which the batteries of the enemy were frequently reduced to silence.

"In the region of Perthes, in the Argonne, and on the heights of the Meuse, there has been nothing important to report. We have destroyed the foot bridges set up by the Germans over the River Meuse at St. Mihiel and in the forest of Ailly we repulsed an attack upon the trenches taken by us Jan. 8.

"In the Vosges, to the south of Senonnes, we repulsed the Germans after a spirited infantry engagement. We broke through their barbed wire entanglements and occupied their trenches.

"Along the rest of the front there 's nothing to report."

MANY QUAKE VICTIMS ALIVE AFTER THREE DAYS

Large Number of Those Pinned Under Wrecked Buildings Are Believed to Have Perished From Cold and Fires or to Have Starved to Death—Relief Work is Hampered by Lack of Facilities.

ROME, Jan. 16.—From 20,000 to 50,000 still remains the unofficial estimate of the casualties resulting from the earthquake which rocked Southern and Central Italy early on Wednesday morning.

As yet it has been impossible to determine from the brief descriptions of the catastrophe that have reached Rome over hampered lines of communication the amount of the damage done by the disturbance, but such details as have come through leave no doubt that nearly 100 towns and villages have been utterly demolished or badly wrecked and that a great loss of life resulted.

Thousands of persons now have lain for nearly three days beneath crumbled buildings throughout the earthquake zone—some of them dead and others alive—while others have been removed from the twisted wreckage and brought to Rome hospitals for treatment of injuries or are being cared for in temporary structures.

It is believed that many of those who were caught in the wreckage and were injured, perished later from cold or lack of nourishment, or else were burned to death in fires which broke out in various places amid the ruins. This is especially true of Avezzano and Magliano-di-Marsi, where fires started, and their seemed little chance of quenching them owing to lack of water.

Avezzano, from all accounts, still holds the position of chief sufferer through the disaster. Ten thousand persons in that district are said to have perished.

Sora and Pescini each has 4,000 dead. while the fatalities at Gioso-marsi reached 3,500, and at San Benedetto 3,000. Numerous other towns report fatalities running upwards from 10 to over 2,000.

In the stricken districts the people are camping in the open.

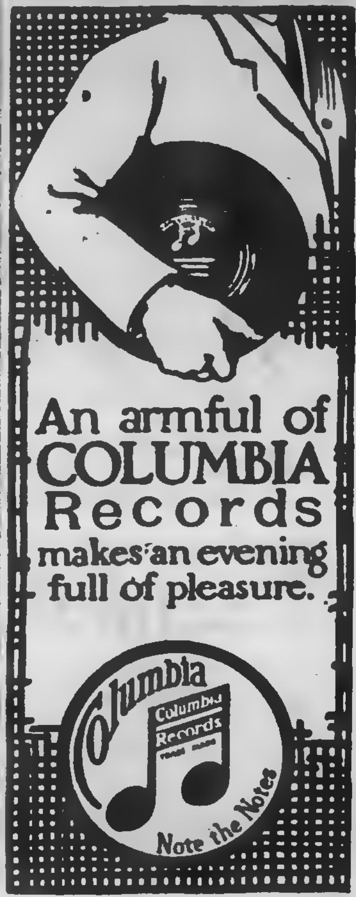
William Marconi, who returned here yesterday from Avezzano on board the train with King Victor Emmanuel, declared that words were insufficient to describe the horrors he had witnessed. The town had been absolutely leveled, he said, and those of its populace who had escaped death in the disaster were now destitute.

"King Victor Emmanuel told me," said Mr. Marconi, "that he had visited the scenes of all the earthquake disasters in Italy since he was a child, but that this one surpassed all others, even including Messina. The King said the survivors of Avezzano were only between two and three per cent. of its population, while in Messina one-third of the people escaped."

Describing the damage done in Avezzano, Mr. Marconi said:

"Avezzano has absolutely ceased to exist. In Messina some buildings, especially the palaces along the sea front, give one the impression that they are still intact, their facades having survived the shock while only their interiors fell in. Not so with Avezzano. No wall there remains erect. It seemed as though the town had been ground to powder by some gigantic machine."

Angelus McAlester, of the Royal Engineers, one of Vancouver's best known golfers, was wounded at the front on Dec. 18, and had his right arm amputated two days later.



An armful of COLUMBIA Records makes an evening full of pleasure.

MADE IN CANADA.

Col. Hume, officer commanding the 6th Regiment, Vancouver, has received a cablegram from Salisbury stating that Lieut. C. T. Parker had been killed in action on Jan. 1.

Two long resolutions strongly in favor of free trade between Canada and England were passed by the Manitoba Grain Growers' convention, and one upholding the Provincial Government for closing the bars.

Strengthening the Sound Waves

AFTER travelling a certain distance the electric wave which carries the human voice along the telephone wire becomes attenuated and speech becomes too faint to be heard.

Just as in the old stage-coach days fresh relays of horses at regular intervals along the way, enabled the traveller to continue his journey with undiminished speed, so by means of the newly invented "loading coils" inserted at proper intervals, the electric waves are strengthened and long distance telephoning is made easy.

We have lately finished the "loading" of our long distance lines and speech transmission has been very greatly improved. This is especially noticeable on extra long talks. Our "long-haul" transmission is better than ever.

Begin the New Year by making systematic use of the Long Distance Telephone in your business. It will save you time and labor, as well as much money in the shape of travelling expense.

Every Bell Telephone is a Long Distance Station.

ENOUGH ARMS FOR WHOLE ARMY

Russians Fight Enemy With His Own Weapons

LONDON, Jan. 16. — The Times this morning has the following from its Petrograd correspondent:

The Russians hold all the important passes in the Carpathians, owing to a brilliant feat of one of the regiments of Grand Duke Michael's Caucasian native divisions. Holding to the trails with their hardy mountain ponies the men scaled during the night an apparently impassable summit, and getting to the rear of the Honved battalion the latter was surprised and surrendered.

Grand Duke Michael himself was present at the achievement of this feat. He has been in the thick of every fight since the division took the field.

In order to obviate the labor of transferring huge quantities of captured Austrian guns, rifles and ammunition, the whole Russian corps operating in Galicia is fighting the enemy with his own weapons." The Austrians were entirely surprised at noticing the peculiar color of the smoke of their own shrapnel emitted by shells which flew into their midst from the Russian side.

The Manitoba Legislature will meet Feb. 9.

St. Gaudens' Gold Coins

All the arts but one, says Layton Crippon in his book, "Clay and Fire," show degradation today, in many cases degradation so great that they have virtually ceased to exist. We have not only forgotten how to make beautiful things, but we have even acquired an instinctive dislike of beautiful things. They seem to have become offensive to us.

"There was recently one curious little instance to which I am tempted to refer showing as it did that in our present stage of degradation beauty is not only ignored, but has actually become offensive, causes instinctive dislike. The St. Gaudens ten and five dollar gold pieces were undoubtedly the noblest coins produced in any country in 200 years. Within a couple of months the American public had howled them out of circulation.

"The explanation was afterward made that the coins were disliked because the relief was inconveniently high, but a reference to the files of the New York or Chicago papers will convince anybody that the original outcry was against the design and only the design of these exquisite examples of die cutting. But America has no monopoly of this instinctive hatred of beauty. It is exemplified in the vandalism that is now common all over Europe, the destruction of ancient and glorious buildings, usually without valid excuse."

Lieut. Sharpe of Ottawa Returns to Salisbury

OVER GERMAN LINES

LONDON, Eng., Jan. 16. — Lieut. William Sharp, of Ottawa, returned to Salisbury camp last night after scoring several successes in aeroplane flights over the enemies' lines, which extended over eight days. He was accompanied by Poulet, the famous French aviator, and their trip was one of thrills, hairbreadth escapes and other startling experiences. Sharpe and Poulet flew over the German trenches in the eastern theatre of war and noted operations there. That they returned safely was due chiefly to their skill in manipulating their machine. Many times they were attacked by batteries, and one time two German Taubes forced them to descend to earth with holes in their wings. It was found that eight bullets had pierced them. They dropped bombs and arrows into the trenches with good results and it is believed that considerable damage was done. On several occasions they were forced to loop the loop and do other fancy flying stunts to evade the fire of the enemy. The trips were made daily, returning to the French lines at nightfall, and their eight-day trip is one of the most successful that has been attempted so far. Sharpe has been made senior Canadian aviator, and he has the special distinction of being the first Canadian airman to enter into action in the present war.

FARMERS HEARD PRACTICAL TALKS

West Peterborough Farmers' Institute Winter Sessions at Ennismore

The regular meetings of the West Peterborough Farmers' Institute at Ennismore were held on Friday afternoon and evening in St. Martin's parish hall. The addresses were decidedly practical and interesting. Mr. Clark Hamilton of Iroquois, Ontario, spoke in the afternoon on the subject "Corn, and How to Grow It."

The failure of the feed crops this year has demonstrated the value of ensilage, and the number of silos on the Smith and Ennismore farms testifies to the fact that the farmers of this district are keenly alive to the value of corn for winter feeding. Mr. F. E. Ellis, of "Farm and Dairy," and Mr. F. C. McRae, district representative at Norwood of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, were the other speakers.

In the evening Mr. Ellis dealt with "Rural Problems," showing the trend toward tenantry, its causes and results, and a proposed remedy. His treatment was convincing and made a deep impression upon the audience of two hundred which attended in the evening. Mr. McRae dealt at length upon the benefits of the six weeks' short course, which will be held at Ennismore from January 25 to February 27.

Not the least enjoyable portion of the evening program were several musical numbers, including orchestral selections, a vocal solo by Miss Lloyd Killen, and Clayton Telford's singing of "Tipperary," with everybody swelling the chorus. Mrs. Telford ably accompanied at the piano.

Mr. Chas. E. Moore, president of the Institute, acted as chairman at both meetings. He emphasized the farmers' opportunity of assisting the Empire in the present crisis by producing all the crops they can this year. In this way they can refute any statements which impugn the loyalty of the farmer. Peter McArthur recently investigated the rural sections of Middlesex county and found that on fifty farms there were just eighty-nine men, and of these only eighteen or twenty were suitable for military work. And the eighty-nine was a very inadequate number for the work on these farms. Mr. Moore made a kindly reference to the late secretary, Mr. Wm. Collins, who he said had retired from the Institute after many years of service. It might be remarked that many inquiries were made about Mr. Collins, indicating that he is missed around the circuit. His successor, Allan B. Mann, is throwing a great deal of enthusiasm into the work, and is proving a valuable assistant to Mr. Moore. Young men in the two townships are noticeable among those keenly interested in agricultural questions, a sign that may be regarded as most encouraging.

Both meetings were well attended, many questions were asked during the afternoon session, and altogether it may be remarked that all seems well with the Institute's affairs, as at present administered by the younger element. Of course, they are receiving the encouragement of the elderly men, and the women manifest a lively interest, too, but it may not be out of place to remark that the young men are providing interesting meetings and deserve commendation upon the energy and interest they are displaying toward the general questions of better rural conditions.

Mr. McRae made a short plea to the Ennismore people to send their sons and also the older men to the six weeks' short course about to be opened.

Some people, he said, are inclined to laugh at the book farmer, but when they are ill they call in a doctor; if they fall into legal trouble they engage a lawyer. And these professional men obtained their learning from books. No matter how long his experience a man cannot learn all the facts about his work from his experience alone. The same applies to agriculture. Men who won names for themselves in other lines, are familiar to nearly everyone, but very few of those who have made a success in agriculture are widely known. More attention must be paid to farm work and a higher opinion must be obtained for it before agriculture reaches the high position it deserves.

Any farmer's son may attend the Short Course classes. It is required, however, that attention must be given to the work and there must be regular attendance at the classes. The hours will be practically the regular school hours, or as near them as possible. There is no expense whatever and the course is absolutely free.

Outline of Course.

Mr. McRae gave a brief outline of what would be taken up in the course.

Live Stock and Principles of Breeding.—A study of the types and breeds of farm animals. Principles of breeding. Practical work in judging horses, cattle, sheep and swine. Local stock farms will be visited.

Feeds and Feeding. — Food requirements of farm stock. How to prepare rations and how to feed for best results.

Field Crops.—A study of the principal field crops of the County with practice in judging seeds of all kinds; principles of crop improvement; Rotation of crops, etc.

Dairying.—Feeding, care and management of dairy cows. Improvement of the dairy herd; Production, care, and handling of milk; Testing milk and cream.

Poultry—Breed characteristics of different classes of poultry; Feeding, and general management; Marketing of poultry products. Common diseases and their treatment.

Veterinary Science. — Causes and treatment of common ailments of farm animals.

Soils. — Study of the important constituents of soils, care and application of barn-yard manures, fertilizers, their nature and use, etc.

Underdrainage.

A study of chemical and physical effects of underdrainage. Methods of taking levels, determining grades, size of tile to be used and general principles in laying the tile.

Horticulture.—Planting and general care of orchards, pruning, spray materials and spraying, cultivation, etc.

Agricultural Botany.—Eradication of weeds, identification of weeds and weed-seeds. The Seed Control Act. Study of plant diseases, their prevention and cure, etc.

Acre Profit Competition.

To the young man in Peterborough County showing the largest net returns from an acre of land the Department will provide transportation and living expenses to attend the two weeks' course in Live Stock and Seed Judging at Guelph in January, 1916.

Appreciation.

"I gave Charley a beautiful new alarm clock for a birthday present," said young Mrs. Torkins.

"Did he appreciate it?"

"Yes, indeed. He thought so much of it that he took it down to his office and locked it in the safe."—Washington Star.

GERMANS ROB BELGIAN TOWN

Citizens Fined When They Executed Order of Foe

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The Belgian Legation here issued the following statement last night:

"According to a cable received by the Belgian Legation yesterday, the City of Courtrai, Belgium, has been fined 10,000,000 marks (about $2,500,000) by Germany, not for disobedience; but for obeying the orders of German commanders.

"The circumstances are as follows:

"Two German officers, Commander Maxeman and Commander Pachors, arrived at Courtrai and ordered the municipal authorities to have all arms deposited in the tower of Broel, under threat of a heavy penalty. In compliance with these instructions all arms were deposited in the place named. Then there arrives a new German commander, Commandant von Kneesebeck, who goes to the tower of Broel, sees the arms in the place where the other German commanders had ordered them put, and fines the city of Courtrai 10,000,000 marks under pretext that it is a clandestine deposit of arms, in spite of the fact that the orders of his predecessors to place the arms in the tower of Broel was well known to everybody and were even placarded on the walls of Courtrai."

The German Method.

A young man in a prominent home in Toronto has heard from his old home in the British Isles to the effect that a brother who was a professor in a German university had been arrested soon after the war broke out and had ever since been detained in that country. His wife and children were allowed to return to England under hardship. But the husband has been kept there for months and cannot get away. He had been guilty of no overt act by word or deed, but on general principles he was arrested and then forbidden to leave.

The Mill Grinds the Coffee

And then—

Coffee begins its Grind with the human system, and usually turns out nervousness, sleeplessness, headache, heart flutter or some of many other aches and pains.

It's caffeine in the coffee (also in tea) that does it—a poisonous drug, cumulative in its effects, and too powerful for most systems to thoroughly eliminate.

Perhaps coffee hasn't finished with you, but wouldn't it be wise to quit it before results are serious, and instead use

Above will be found the picture of a modern gun of the kind that is being used in the present war. At a glance the gun and some old trees appear to be all there is in the picture, but by careful scrutiny some soldiers' faces will be found. There are 19 of them in all. Can you find them? It is no easy task, but by patience and perseverance can be accomplished.

You may win a cash prize by doing so. Many have done this as will be shown by the names and addresses published below. If you find the faces mark each one you find with an X cut out the picture and send it to us, together with a slip of paper on which you have written the words "I have found all the faces and marked them." Write these nine words plainly and neatly, as in case of ties, both writing and neatness will be considered factors in this contest.

This may take up a little of your time, but as there are TWO HUNDRED DOLLARS in cash and One Hundred premiums given away, it is worth your time to take a little trouble over this matter. Remember, all you have to do is to mark the faces, cut out the picture and write on a separate piece of paper the words, "I have found all the faces and marked them."

We do not ask You to Spend One Cent of Your Money in order to enter this Contest.

Send your answer at once; we will reply by Return Mail telling you whether your answer is correct or not, and we will send you a complete Prize List, together with the names and addresses of persons who have recently received over Two Thousand Dollars in Cash Prizes from us, and full particulars of a simple condition that must be fulfilled. (This condition does not involve the spending of any of your money.)

Winners of cash prizes in our late competitions will not be allowed to enter this Contest.

This competition will be judged by two well known business men of undoubted integrity, who have no connection with this company, whose decisions must be accepted as final.

Below will be found a partial list of the names and addresses of a few persons who have won some of our larger prizes in recent contests. Although these persons are entirely unknown to us, they are our references. An enquiry from any one of them will bring the information that our contests are carried out with the utmost fairness and integrity. Don't Throw Away Goodwill!

A well-known expert and advertising man, and one who is the head of a large mercantile business, recently made the following statement in regard to the temptation to discontinue advertising:

¶ "Probably more money is wasted in advertising by running consistently in a publication for a long time, and then suddenly dropping it, than in any other way.

¶ "It amounts to deliberately throwing away the goodwill which the readers of that publication have built up for the advertisers' name and product.

¶ "It is better to advertise moderately, but regularly, than to use large copy spasmodically."

The Voice of Successful Experience

Another well-known expert declares that persistent advertising pays, because:

¶ "Advertising is friendly. It persuades.

¶ "Slowly, but inevitably, it creates the attitude of goodwill and confidence.

¶ "It brings customers—who stay.

¶ "A business built up in this way is built on a firm foundation. It's the kind of success that lasts.

¶ "But it cannot be done in a day—or a month. Nothing but persistent advertising will accomplish this sort of success."

A Bit of Advice

It might be well for you, Mr. Merchant—Manufacturer—or whatever your calling—to take the advice of these experts—the experience of every successful business man, and use the columns of The Review moderately and consistently.

DRESSING AND SHAPING FOWL

If chickens are not properly feathered up, some trouble will be experienced in getting the pin feathers all removed after killing, says The Farm and Ranch Review. A dull, round blade, something like a paring knife, may be used to good advantage. That the bird may present an attractive appearance when dressed care should be taken not to tear, rub or break the skin. Each bird should be picked clean. It decreases the chances of selling at the best price when a dirty job is done, pin feathers and even larger feathers being left scattered over the body. After picking carefully wipe all blood from the mouth, wash the feet, and clean the bird as well as possible. It pays in the long run to be particular. If the highest class trade is to be catered to birds should be placed in shaping boards after being plucked, and a weight placed on the top of the chicken to give it a compact appearance. A brick will answer very well for this purpose. It is folly to pack chickens for shipping or crating to market before they have been properly cooled. It would be safer to leave the birds in a cooling room for twelve or fifteen hours before attempting to box them. Where chickens are to be shipped a long distance they should be wrapped separately in paper. This prevents injury from bruising, and is said to decrease chances of decomposition. Parchment paper is the only paper that should be used for this purpose, and boxes, to make them attractive, should also be lined with this material. The market price, more than many believe, depends upon the care taken in the killing and dressing of the birds.

Selling Souvenir Bags.

The distribution of empty sacks which had contained the Canadian gift flour has begun in London. The sacks are being sold as souvenirs at five shillings apiece, the proceeds being divided between the National Relief and the Belgian Relief Funds.

The original enthusiasm which greeted the scheme has rather faded owing to the lengthy wait before the sacks were available, but up to date about 1,500 applications have been received, which means that the two funds will divide nearly $1,900. Some applicants expected to get a full sack of flour for their five shillings, and the money was returned to them, but most of them remitted again.

Various uses will be made of the sacks. Several teachers propose to use them in giving their pupils object lessons in patriotism and geography, others will make cushions and pillow covers of them for home or hospital use, and still others will use them as Christmas pudding cloths. The Canadian applications were not numerous.

MEATS WERE PLENTIFUL AND OF GOOD QUALITY

There was an abundance of beef and pork offered on the local market today, and on a whole it was of a much better looking quality than what was shown last week. There were turkeys and chickens that could hardly be surpassed in firm, healthy flesh and size.

Butter was a standard price today, fetching 33 cents. Eggs varied, but 45 cents would have bought a dozen of guaranteed fresh ones. There was a surplus of beef and pork and a great deal was unsold. A nice hindquarter of lamb went for 18 cents a pound. Anything that was offered below that did not look particularly appealing. Pork sold by the dressed carcass at 12 cents and cuts at 13 and 14 cents.

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—European demand, with no sign that American farmers were yet ready to part with reserves, sent the price of wheat up again today. The corn market also was affected. The May wheat option commanded a phenomenal value, $1.45½ a bushel. Closing prices were unsettled at 1½c to 2½c above last night. Corn finished 3⅛c to 3½c up, oats at a gain of 1⅛c to 1¼c and provisions finished unchanged to 30c to 32½c higher.

WINNIPEG GRAIN MARKET.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 15.—Wheat creates new records daily; in fact, almost hourly, as values keep on creeping upward on all important transactions. Shortly after midday May wheat sold at $1.42¼, July was $1.43½ bid. Oats and flax have also entered the lists for record-breaking. May selling at 60c. May flax sold at $1.74¾, which, it is claimed, make high records for these grains for some years.

Exporting houses state that all offers for export are accepted, and still enquiries come for more. The demand by foreigners apparently is without a limit, and the question is to procure wheat, despite the price that may be asked for it. Heavy sales have been made for May and June delivery. The cash situation is getting out of the rut to some extent. One trader sold today over 200,000 bushels of the various grains, and grades for opening of navigation, and he reports offers in this line are being put on the market more freely.

Inspections Thursday were 153 cars, as against 275 last year, and in sight today 120 cars.

Wheat futures closed 2⅝c higher on all months. Cash closed 3⅛c up for contract grades, oats ⅝c to 1⅛c up, and flax 7½c to 8c up.

MONTREAL GRAIN MARKET.

MONTREAL, Jan. 15.—A fair trade was done today in Manitoba spring wheat for export, No. 2 northern for Feb.-March shipment to London being most in demand. Oats were in good demand with prices ½c to ¾c per bushel higher for car lots. Manitoba feed barley is also stronger and 1c per bushel higher. The sharp advance in prices for corn in the Chicago market today tended to check the demand here. A feature of the flour situation was an advance of 25c per bbl. for winter wheat grades. There is an improved demand for these grades of flour, but on account of the small offerings from millers buyers find it difficult to fill their wants. Spring wheat flour is strong and another advance in prices may be expected in the near future. Millfeed is firm under a good steady demand.

The tone of the market for butter is firm with a steady trade passing.

Cheese is strong on account of the limited supplies now available in Canada.

The demand for eggs is good.

MINNEAPOLIS GRAIN MARKET.

QUEER UNITS OF MEASURE.

Those in Use Among Some of the Barbaric Tribes of India.

The inhabitants of the Lushai hills, like other barbaric and savage peoples, have standards of weight and measure that they find simple and intelligible, but that are very confusing to the stranger who encounters them for the first time. In his book on the Lushai-Kuki clans Lieutenant Colonel J. Shakespear tells about their units of measure.

In every village there is a small flat basket, the size of which is fixed by the chief, which is used for all retail dealings in rice and the like, but they measure large quantities in loads, a load being about fifty pounds. After the harvest the unhusked rice is piled in a conical heap. A Lushai will tell you his crop is chip zawn, meaning that the heap is level with the top of his head, or silaj zawn, when it is level with the end of the gun held up perpendicularly over his head. That is about the record crop; lesser quantities are denoted by the height of his hand or hoe or ax held up. He measures time by the cooking of a pot of rice—about an hour—or by the time he can hold a sip of nicotine in his mouth. He has names for each period of the day, denoting his usual occupation at that hour; he also divides the year according to the agricultural occupation proper to the different seasons.

Short distances are measured by parts of the human body, as we speak of a span; but the Lushai has sixteen or seventeen of these, extending from chang khat—that is, the distance from the tip to the first joint of the first finger—to hlam, which is the distance a man can stretch, with both arms extended. Longer distances the Lushai describes by such terms as the distance of the nearest jhum, the distance of the farthest jhum, the distance a mithan will wander during the day, the distance a man can travel before his midday meal, terms that perplex strangers, although they are well understood by the people.

There are few measures of weight. One is chuai—as much as a man can support hung from the tip of the first finger, palm downward. Many of the stars and constellations have names; most of them have some story attached to them. The months are lunar months and some have names, but these are not widely known or used.

PETES STOPPED PICTON

Four Goal Win for Hunterites After Hard Battle on Sticky Ice

OVER 2000 FANS WITNESSED GAME

The Peterborough Intermediates took their first straight step toward district honors last night, when they defeated the Picton Pirates by 6 to 2. It was a grand battle in which the better team won, after plugging on gamely for the whole sixty minutes, on ice that was far from being good. The crowd exceeded all anticipations and records for the past couple of years. Upwards of 2,200 were on hand and they went wild with excitement as the Petes fought victoriously.

Picton put up a far stronger argument than anyone expected. They had weight and speed but their usual team play was missing on account of the soft condition of the ice. Had it been a hard surface it is very dubious what the outcome would have been. The blue and white went out with the determination to win by as many as possible and it took considerable effort to win by the margin of four.

Bert Janes put up his usual good exhibition and a little more. Time after time he connected with wicked shots and cleared perfectly. It would seem that he is improving every game and if he continues, he is going to go down in the history of the game as "the" netman of 1915.

Pete Spratt and Jack Pethick composed the defence and although they are a pair of speedy boys who like the hard ice they put up a great game. Spratt surely is a wonder on skates. Time after time he tore up the boards for long rushes and relieved his team when in a tight corner. Pethick was very strong on the defensive and also rushed well.

Probably the most prominent of the forwards was Grover Halpin, who roved on account of the absence of McInnes. The latter's toe, which was broken in Belleville, was too badly injured to permit him playing. Halpin went well in Belleville but he showed up even better last evening. Maurice Park was at centre as usual but the Pirates were all looking for the "school teacher." As soon as they hit the city yesterday noon they were enquiring about the fair haired goal getter and took mighty good care to keep him watched..

Fred Kelly, whose deadly shooting accounted for four of the six goals, had a big night. "Kell" is playing good hockey this winter. He was always in the thickest of the fray and easily outshone his check who was by no means a slow one. "Ack" Hunter was on right wing and although checking Bert Burns, the captain of the visitors, he played a good game. Burns is reckoned about the most reliable of Walter Knox's seven.

Reports had stated that Scott, the goal custodian of the new entry, was weak. A little more light, please—we cannot see it. If he played the hockey all season he did last evening the wins of the Picton team are accounted for. He is in our estimation the only rival Bert Janes has in the district.

Perhaps there was only one man who outpointed Scott and he was Hubbs, the big nineteen year old defence man. He is the backbone of the Picton team. Fast and steady and his rushes always dangerous. At the opening of the second period he sprung prominently before the spotlight by scoring two goals and making it 2-2. A few seconds afterwards he was struck in the face with the puck and when he retired with Halpin it was easily shown just how much he is to the team. Heffernan the other defence man was likewise good and like his namesake "Moose" he had speed galore.

R. Burns at rover and Taft at centre played a good brand of hockey but their style did not go in last night's game. They were keen on combination and it was impossible to pass the puck with any accuracy or result. Hudgins the other wingman was good but Kelly was better.

The teams:—

Peterborough.		Picton.
Janes	goal	Scott
Pethick	l. def.	Heffernan
Spratt	r. def.	Hubbs
Halpin	rover	R. Burns
Park	centre	Taft
Kelly	l. wing	B. Burns
Hunter	r. wing	Hudgins

The Play.

The opening pace was very fast. Both teams had an even share of the play but it rested with Pethick to secure the first shot. Scott blocked cleverly. Halpin drew a penalty for hooking Picton's goaler during a scrimmage in front of the nets. Both netmen were given a few to handle but no one registered. When Scott stopped one with his skate Gene Hurtubise, the goal umpire, thought the puck went in and raised his hand. Referee Marsh was standing directly in front of the net however and would not allow it. The difference of opinion could easily be overlooked on account of the abundance of slush in the nets. Peter Spratt contributed a nice rush but with no result. After a face-off near centre Park passed to Kelly who shot and Scott evidently did not see it coming. It lodged in the corner and the Petes were one to the good. This 13 minutes.

After the face-off the local forward line rushed the play into Picton's territory and from a scrimmage at the side of the net Kelly passed out and Halpin slammed the rubber in. It was one of the niftiest plays of the game. Time, 1 minute. Peterborough 2, Picton 0.

Spratt and Hunter served penalties on the fence for cross checking opponents into the boards. Heffernan came through with an end to end rush but Janes blocked. The first period ended with the score 2-0 in favor of the Petes.

Second Period.

Pethick broke his skate and was compelled to go off. Taft accompanied him. The play was real hard with both teams checking closely. Hubbs, who was much in the limelight, broke away for a long rush and scored. Time 6 minutes, Peterborough 2, Picton 1.

Just two minutes later the big defence man repeated the performance and tied it up on a shot from the side. Peterborough 2, Picton 2.

With the score a tie the men went at it furiously. Hubbs was struck in the face with the puck and went off for repairs, with Halpin. This left the teams playing five men aside. Hudgins and Heffernan played the defence for Picton and were very prominent. To add to the anxiety of the fans Hunter drew a minute in the penalty box for tripping but Spratt, Kelly and Park held the visitors at bay till the captain returned. Amid all the urging of the spectators Peter Spratt scored from outside the defence. Time, 4 minutes. Peterborough 3, Picton 2.

Hubbs and Halpin returned and both made their presence felt. Halpin went particularly strong at this period. The crowd begged for another goal and they were gratified. Fred Kelly did the trick on a shot from the side. Time 3 minutes. Peterborough 4, Picton 2.

Third Period.

The water was quite deep in spots when the players came back for the last twenty minutes. Both teams were in full strength. Seven minutes of play passed before Fred Kelly notched a beauty from "deep centre." It was a brilliant shot. Peterborough 5, Picton 2.

Hunter drew his third penalty of the evening for holding and while he was off Heffernan beat everyone but Janes. The netman sailed out to meet him and "Heff" shot wide. The Picton goaler was injured in a scrimmage and the game was delayed. The play centred around mid-ice for a few moments with all the players roaming. Kelly drew the rubber to the side and after a short rush shot and scored the sixth goal. Time 2 minutes. Peterborough 6, Picton 2.

Scott was struck near the heart by one of Kelly's shots and went down in a heap. He received much applause from the fans when he gamely stuck to his job. Park and R. Burns held each other at the end of the rink and were banished. Just before full time Hubbs broke away for a brilliant rush but Grover Halpin was right on his heels and when a couple of feet from Bert Janes' door, Halpin succeeded in securing the rubber. There was no further scoring the final figures being Peterborough 6, Picton 2.

The scoring:

Kelly	Peterborough	13.00

Last night, after the O. H. A. game, Knox won from Mark Street in the Junior Church League by 4-0. The score at half-time was 2-0. The condition of the ice rendered team play impossible. JUNIORS LOST AT LINDSAY

Midgets Made Strong Finish and Doubled the Score

LOCALS LEAD TWICE

Minus their usual team play and speed, the Peterborough Juniors met defeat at the hands of Cap Simpson's Lindsay Midgets last evening. Despite the big disadvantage in the form of soft ice, the Petes put up a grand little battle and split about even for the honors till nine minutes before full time. The score stood 4-4 when A. Carew drew the puck from a face-off near centre and scored. Morrow drew a penalty and Lindsay notched another. This caused the blue and white to lose confidence and before they could get pulled together again Lindsay made the total 8. The final figures were Lindsay 8, Peterborough 4. The home team were ahead at the close of the first two periods by 3-1 and 4-3.

Peterborough secured the first goal and had the better of the play for the first few minutes but Lindsay came strong and took the lead. The home team gave way to considerable rough stuff toward the close of the first twenty minutes and much to the surprise of the Petes, Referee McCord let them get away with it. Sandercock the big defence man was the chief offender. At the resting period "Cap" Simpson delivered a talk to his men and for the rest of the game they played fairly clean hockey.

Legros, Morrow and Knapman were about the pick of the Petes while the Carews and Flavelle went strong for Scugog. Lornie Rose and Jackson were greatly bothered by the soft ice and were not as brilliant as usual.

If the Petes defeat Port Hope in Port Hope and defeat Lindsay here they will tie up the district. Both Port Hope and Lindsay have lost one while the Petes have dropped a brace.

The teams:—

Lindsay.		Peterborough
O'Loughlin	goal	Legros
Sandercock	r. def.	Morrow
Flavelle	l. def.	Long
C. Carew	rover	Rose
McElroy	centre	Jackson
Griffis	r. wing	Knapman
A. Carew	l. wing	Richardson

CONCESSIONS NOT MADE

British Government Adheres to its Position

DETAINED SHIPS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. — "Great Britain up to last night has made no concession to the United States as to ships or shipping which has not been made on terms dictated by the British Admiralty."

This statement was made last evening by a State Department official who is thoroughly familiar with the Dacia case now pending and every case of seizure or detention made up to this time by British cruisers.

Release on bond of ships detained in British prize courts will be permitted by the British Government if the judge of the court is willing, according to a statement issued yesterday by the British Embassy.

The owner says that this particular fox was out in the middle of the afternoon, but that shortly before dark when he visited its kennel it was stretched out dead. He at once had it skinned and the hide taken care of, and proceeded to Guelph, where he laid a complaint with the authorities.

MONTREAL, Jan. 16. — The Herald-Telegraph yesterday says: "The fact that the Canadian Vickers Co. of this city is engaged in constructing submarines for the British Government has been known here for some time, but at the request of the Government the newspapers refrained from announcing the fact.

"Evening papers of Wednesday throughout the United States carried the story that the submarines were being built here, showing that the censorship established by the Government was unable to prevent the story from being published.

"The Militia Department now says that the boats are as follows:

"'The keels for eight first-class craft of the submarine class have already been laid down by the plant, and it is expected that several will be ready by August next. The plant is now running at full capacity. Rumors that the Schwab interests are in control are unequivocally denied here'."

DEAD MILLIONAIRE BORN NEAR OSHAWA

OSHAWA, Jan. 16. — A telegram received here yesterday morning by Mr. McGreese, gives news of the sudden death of Mr. William Beggs, manufacturer-millionaire, at his home at Meredith, N. H., U.S.A.

Without any previous knowledge that he was ill, and with only the most meagre information contained in the wire, his many friends here were greatly shocked to learn of his sudden demise.

Deceased was born in Ontario county, near Oshawa, in 1845, of a family of pioneers. He attended both the public and the high school here, and in 1890 left for Chicago. After a year or two in the carriage manufacturing business there, he went south. He had lived at Meredith since, and at his death was in the leather manufacturing business.

Mrs. Bambridge, of this village, a daughter, and Miss Bambridge, a music teacher, a granddaughter, are the only relatives surviving.

Woman Soldier In Austrian Army.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—A young woman well-known in Vienna society has been discovered serving in the ranks of the Austrian army. For her remarkable bravery she was recommended for a commission. Fraulein Marie Weissman, the woman, obtained the documents of a young male friend, a one-year volunteer, who wished to get over the frontier. He gave her his sword and uniform. She fought with the Austrian army on the Russian frontier for two months, and her extraordinary zeal and uncommon bravery resulted in her being recommended for promotion to officer's rank. The slim young hero was sent to headquarters when the secret was discovered. Fraulein Weissman is now doing splendid work with the Red Cross.

Dr. Griffeth Thomas to Preach at All Saints

The re-opening services of All Saints' Church will be continued on Sunday. The special preacher at both services will be the Rev. Dr. Griffeth Thomas of Wycliffe College Toronto. Dr. Thomas was formerly principal of Wycliffe Hall, Oxford and has an international reputation as a writer of religious books and also for his department in the Sunday School Times. He is also a very powerful preacher. His coming to Peterborough will be of interest to very many and he will doubtless be heard tomorrow by large congregations.

COLLECTIONS FROM BOTH SERVICES FOR HELPLESS BELGIANS

On Sunday last the pastor of Murray Street St. Baptist Church announced that tomorrow's collection will be sent immediately to the fund being raised by the Baptist convention for the relief of the Belgian people.

The announcement met with the hearty approval of the congregation while the facts recited by the minister came as a revelation to many who had no idea how serious the conditions are.

The situation in Belgium in brief is this, that a population of nearly 7,000,000 people is shut off from the rest of the world, ringed in with German steel. The industries of the kingdom—and Belgium was a hive of industry—are paralysed and dead and the people who were dependent on them are unable to earn a livelihood. The food supply of the country, including the grain and cattle disappeared months ago, commandeered to support the German army. There is no food in the country and the people are faced with the gaunt wolf of starvation. The guns and bayonets of the soldiers have killed their thousands in the last few weeks, but famine's ravages will, unless mitigated, destroy hundreds of thousands before the winter is over. The sorest suffering will be among the most helpless, the women and children of the population. Mothers are not receiving proper and sufficient food to nourish their infants, and infant mortality is therefore alarmingly great. 40,000 infants have been born in Belgium since the war began, and of these thousands have died because of lack of necessary food. "How many of the coming 40,000 will die this winter," says a writer in the Springfield Republican, "depends upon us in America—upon how much food we send to the nursing mothers, how much milk to the babes."

No doubt the people of Murray St. will as usual do themselves credit as they come up tomorrow with their gifts.

The Royal Canadian Horse Artillery will be recognized in the near future and established, so that drafts may be sent overseas as required, after the present batteries which are on Salisbury Plain are sent to the front.

Six Molars Needed

Toronto dentists, if the Government and General Sam Hughes approve, are shortly to establish a dental clinic at the Exhibition Camp, in Toronto, which will make it thereafter impossible for a man to be rejected on the count of bad teeth. Many Torontonians have complained that they were not allowed to go and fight the Kaiser because their molars weren't mates, and the public has been examining its own outfit and wondering just what kind of teeth the Germans like. This is the regulation: A man must have on each side of his mouth three molars in opposition, either two in the upper jaw biting on one in the lower jaw, or one in the upper jaw biting on one in the lower jaw. That makes six molars in all. Partial plates are allowed, and bridges, but no entire plates.

As their share of patriotic work a number of local dentists have volunteered their services to remedy the teeth of the rejected, and the officials of the Toronto Dental Society are now in consultation with Dr. Fotheringham, who represents the militia, regarding the establishment of a dental clinic. Here recruits who have been rejected solely on account of defective teeth will be made perfect again. But the dentists must first be assured that the patients were rejected entirely on account of their teeth. They do not wish to repair a man's teeth and then find the total result rejected because his eyes or feet aren't working correctly. It is also necessary that the man be not able to pay for the work himself. Another and important proviso is that the army dental surgeons be consulted.

The Canadian army has for some years past had army dental surgeons on its staff, though in England this has not been the case. The dental condition of England is deplorable. Among the poorer people teeth are seldom filled, but are extracted on the first pain, which accounts for the almost toothlessness of many quite young men and women who migrate to Canada.

"They are realising that now," said a local dentist. "They are having big dental clinics at all the concentration camps, and plates and bridges are being made for the rejected men."

If the dentists' offer is accepted it will mean that hereafter any volunteer need only present a certificate from the medical examiner, approved by the dental surgeon of the army, and his teeth will be treated free of charge. There is a rumor to the effect that men examined merely by a medical examiner are ordered to have strange and wonderful things done to their teeth, which do not need doing at all.

"It stands to reason that a dentist would know better when a man's teeth were in good condition, than a doctor would," explained one dentist. "Men have been going to the clinic at the college asking for most absurd things to be done for them. But with a dental clinic all that difficulty would be obviated."

Coats the Monkeys Wear.

Have you ever wondered why nearly all the monkeys which accompany the foreign organ boys should be dressed in a red coat, with a sort of jockey cap?

The explanation is very simple. This costume is no fancy one, but is an almost exact copy of the winter dress worn by the organ boys' fathers in the distant valley of Piedmont, where the peasants usually wear a red coat, rudely cut, with very stiff little tails, and knickerbockers and jockey cap of the same color.

These clothes are spun and woven by the peasants and dyed red with the madder which grows in the valleys. The long roots are boiled, then mixed with alum and tartar, and the result is a red dye, which, though not very bright, does not fade. The monkeys' coats are made of the bits which are left over when the peasant's coat is cut out.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

FIELD WORKS TAKEN IN LAPRETRE FOREST

Little Change is Reported in Paris Statement — Foe Bombards Thann But no Serious Damage is Done

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Jan. 18. — The official afternoon statement says: "From the sea to the Oise there was yesterday a violent storm, particularly in Belgium. The day saw artillery fighting at certain points.

Near Autreche, to the northeast of Vic Sur Aisne, two German attacks were repulsed.

In sections of Soissons and Rheims there was no change.

In the region of Perthes there was very efficient marksmanship by our artillery on the positions of the enemy.

In the Argonne, German attacks on Hill 263, to the west of Boureauilles, brought no results.

We took possession of several German field works northwest of Pont-a-Mousson, in the only part of the forest of Lepretre which is still in the hands of the enemy.

We here later repulsed a counter-attack and maintained all our gains.

In the Vosges there has been a heavy fall of snow.

The enemy bombarded Thann, but without inflicting serious damage."

BRITISH DID NOT ATTACK LA BASSEE.

LONDON, Jan. 18. — The observer with the British army in France, who writes the day by day reports of events given out to the press, is authority for the statement that British forces did not recently capture certain German positions near La Bassee and make an advance of one mile.

POSITION TAKEN BY MUSICIANS AT OPERA HOUSE IS APPROVED

At the annual meeting of Local 191 American Federation of Musicians, a very large attendance of members resulted in a splendid meeting. The various reports showed the local union to be in a very healthy condition, both numerically and financially, and 12 names were submitted to this meeting for approval, as prospective members. Much business of importance was transacted, one item in particular caused much interest and the unanimous approval of members present. This was a resolution to the effect that "Local 191 A. F. of M., Peterborough, go on record as being entirely unanimously in sympathy with the musicians employed at the Grand Opera House in the position taken by them during the stage hands' dispute." This resolution was deemed necessary in view of the villifying tactics adopted by the members of the Stage Hands' Union. Local 191 further pledge themselves to support the theatre musicians by every means in their power.

A rally of the congregation will be held in All Saints' Church parish hall tonight, when several ministers of the city will speak.

The re-opening services were continued yesterday, when Rev. Dr. Griffeth Thomas, of Toronto, who preached at the opening of the church four years ago, delivered splendid discourses.

Rev. Dr. O'Meara, principal of Wycliffe College, Toronto, preaches next Sunday.

EXCHANGED PULPITS.

Rev. A. J. Terrill, M.A., B.D., of Stirling, occupied the pulpit at both services in George Street Methodist Church on Sunday, exchanging pulpits with Rev. Mr. Peever who delivered missionary sermons in Stirling.

LARGER ENTRY LIST FOR THE NEXT MATCH

County Plowmen Look Forward to Successful Competitions

OFFICERS ELECTED

Vice-President Will Attend Provincial Association at Toronto

The first annual meeting of the County of Peterborough Plowmen's Association was held in the office of Farm and Dairy Saturday afternoon. The financial statement presented by the secretary-treasurer, Mr. Fred L. Campbell, showed that the association for its first year had had an unusually prosperous year. The total receipts amounted to $200, and the total expenditures to $158, leaving a balance on hand of $42.42 after all accounts had been paid. The large balance on hand was due to the fact that the government grant amounting to $26 was received a few days before the annual meeting. It was not known how much the government grant would amount to, and therefore pleasure was expressed that the balance was as large as it was.

Hearty appreciation was expressed of the generosity of the citizens of Peterborough who contributed to the prize list, both in cash and in the form of special prizes.

Mr. Joshua Smithson of Otonabee was appointed to attend the meeting of the Provincial Association in Toronto. The feeling was freely expressed that the match held last fall had been a most gratifying success and that the match which it is proposed to hold next fall will be even more successful because it is anticipated that the entry list will be much larger. The last match was a starter, and this year it is proposed to branch out and introduce new features. These matters will be dealt with by the new board of directors.

Officers Elected.

The following officers were elected:

President — J. H. Garbutt, Peterborough.

1st Vice-President—Joshua Smithson, Otonabee.

2nd Vice-President—John Gillespie, Otonabee.

A STRONG PLEA FOR BELGIANS

Special Appeal by Rev. J. R. Webb Went Home

A strong plea for men and women to rally to the assistance of the stricken Belgians was made in Murray street Baptist church on Sunday morning, and the congregation both morning and evening responded liberally. The entire collections, which amounted to $255.45, will be handed over for Belgian relief.

Rev. Mr. Webb laid special emphasis on the pitiable condition of the women and children of Belgium and pointed out the necessity of urgent action.

Inquiries this morning elicited the statement that there was perhaps the largest number of givers of any offering yet taken in the church. While there were a number of large amounts, very mnay $1 and $2 bills werer eceived.

It is assured that the offering will reach its proper destination, as it will pass through the Baptist denomination channels.

BAKERS BOOST PRICE OF BREAD ON THE GROCERS

GENERAL SIR DAVID HENDERSON

Commander of Britain's Royal Flying Corps. He organized the aviation branch of the service and his excellent work has been praised by both General French and General Joffre.

Retailers Not in Favor of Handling Staff of Life Just for Fun

The grocers of the city have called a meeting tonight to protest against the action of the bakers in raising the price of bread on them. One prominent grocer informed the Review today that they did not propose to handle bread if they were not allowed to make something on it. They have been getting two cents, but today the bakers raised the price so that only one cent of a margin of profit remained. On this the grocers claim they can make no profit, as it costs them one cent to prepare a large loaf for delivery, counting paper, twine and cost of delivery. They will meet tonight in the Y.M.C.A. to discuss the matter and decide what action to take.

WHY THE YOUNG MANS HOULD BE A CHRISTIAN

Failure for Man Who Thinks he is Master of His Individuality

"Every young man should be a Christian, because Christ is a maker of men; big, good, wholesome men, and just as good and wholesome and lovely womanhood," said Rev. Mr. Rollins last night, when preaching a sermon on "Why a Young Man Should be a Christian."

Mr. Rollins emphasized the value of individuality in a man's make-up as long as it was under the control and guidance of the Master. If a man recognized only himself as master of his individuality and his being, he would assuredly fail.

Touching on education in its relation to the building of manhood, he said that one of the advantages of poverty, if it could be termed such, was that it enabled a man to know what he wanted to be by the time he was ready to choose his life occupation. In the old days, it was considered disrespectful by parents if their sons and daughters refused to be what their parents desired. However, when one is poor and has to pay for his own education, he finds out during the toilsome days of earning the money, what he wants to be, and is ready to choose when he is financially prepared. Nowadays, when fathers often pay for the education of their sons and daughters in college, they are not required to study for the ministry if they incline to the law, or vice versa. They are permitted to follow the natural bent of their inclinations.

A duet was contributed after the service by Miss Helen MacLarren and

WAS LOCKED IN A VAULT

Everett Glover was a Prisoner for Fifteen Minutes

In regard to the somewhat thrilling account of Everett Glover, a draftsman, being locked up in a vault, which appeared in a morning paper, no small degree of imagination was drawn upon by the scribe who manufactured most of the story. The true facts of the incident are that Glover entered the vault shortly after 7.30, and was not confined three-quarters of an hour. Of this period, the door was only locked for fifteen minutes before he was released, feeling none the worse except for a slight scare, as he felt somewhat appalled by the prospects of having to spend the night in such a predicament. Even at that, he would have been able to breathe and live for an indefinite time, as there was a small hole through which air had access.

Glover went into the vault, which is in the Bradburn block, on the second floor, just next to License Inspector Stewart's office. He wanted to change the covers on some camera plates which he had placed in the vault, and became so absorbed that with his back turned to the door, he failed to hear Mr. J. E. Murphy, another employe of the office, lock the outer door as he left the building. Glover discovered that he was locked in, a few minutes later, and commenced to shout, his cries being heard by Mr. Ed. Donahue across the hall, who, after ineffectually trying to unlock the door with a key which Glover shoved out, ran out and found that Murphy, who had another key, had gone to the curling rink. P. C. Cookman was notified, and went to the rink and brought Mr. Murphy back. It was but the work of a minute to release the imprisoned man, who was more frightened than anything else.

UTILITIES COMMISSION WILL SETTLE ACCOUNT AT $128.90

The Utilities Commission met Saturday evening and were waited upon by Mr. G. H. Thompson of the Toronto Savings & Loan in reference to an account of $193.35 which that company held against the Commissinon. The account accrued from a break in the water service to Warne's drug store, which filled the basement of Richard Hall & Son's building with water. As the city did not take action, the company went to work and endeavored to overcome the trouble. The cost of this work was $193.35. The work they performed, however, was not the correct step, and was futile. When Superintendent Dobbin assumed charge, he found where the trouble was, and fixed it at a cost of $17.

In view of the fact that former Superintendent Mr. Fawcett had not taken proper steps to overcome the trouble, and the water was allowed to remain there for several months, the Commission decided to pay $128.90, or two-thirds of the account. To do this it was necessary to rescind a former motion by which the Commission offered to settle it for $98.68.

LOUIS HOUEDRY SAYS WE'LL GET TO BERLIN YET

Mr. Geo. Mather, grain merchant, has received another card from Louis Houedry, French reservist, who left Peterborough at the outset of hostilities and is now in France. He writes: I cannot let Christmas pass without sending you my wishes, the best. We are getting there slowly but surely. I am interpreter in the English army under your own flag, and am proud to be there. We will get to Berlin yet. Don't worry.

The eight-months-old babe of Peter Rochan of Alexandria was suffocated when fire broke out in the house.

THE SCOTCH PART OF HIM.

Have you heard the story of the right lad who tried to get into the London Scottish? He passed all the measurement tests and the medical examination. Then the recruiting ofcer said to him:

"Were you born in Scotland?"

"No."

"Well, were your parents born in Scotland?"

"No."

"Your grandparents?"

"No."

"Then what do you come here for?"

"I've property in Scotland."

"Good gracious me — why didn't you say that first! Where is it?"

"In Perth."

"Tell us something about it."

"Well, I have a suit being cleaned up at the Perth Dye Works!"—London Mirror.

PETERBOROUGH, MONDAY, JANUARY 18, 1915

TOO MANY LAWYERS.

WE WERE TOLD once, in conversation, that the trouble with politics in Canada is that there are too many lawyers in Parliament and in Legislature. We did not agree with this criticism, because an analysis of the members shows that business, manufacturing and farming are well represented. What probably causes this criticism is that lawyers take, as a rule, a more prominent part than do members following other callings, because their training fits them well for politics. Being accustomed to speak in courts, they have a natural aptitude to speak in public, and a man who can make a good public address is due to receive prominence in the practice of politics.

But, even were the criticism true, that Canadian politics is dominated too much by lawyers, which, apparently, it is not, the criticism is a fine tribute to the legal profession and a serious reflection on other callings. Time was when it was not thought necessary for a business man to have much education. So long as he knew the details of his own business well enough to operate it at a profit, that was all that was required. His object in life was to make money. As has many times happened, the business man who had made a great success in his own business, looked for other worlds to conquer, and then found himself quite deficient to occupy that social position or perform that public service which he had the ambition to accomplish. While he knew thoroughly all the details necessary to operate, say a boot and shoe factory, he had no literary training, no ideas on taxation, municipal or otherwise, little knowledge of history or historical criticism, or of the conduct of public bodies, like councils or commissions. The result is that men who occupy a prominent business place in a community are often not well fitted for public service—they make breaks and show such a loose grip of affairs and public questions, that many bad mistakes of policy are committed that must be paid for by the public.

This narrow attitude is, we think, giving place to one of broader outlook. In fact, the very nature of modern business has made it necessary that a business man should have other interests than those of his own particular occupation. It is being recognized that a boy who takes up business as his life's work should be trained also for the duties of citizenship.

One thing pointing to a better public spirit, particularly in regard to municipal politics, is the calling in of expert opinion, but not necessarily accepting it. Men in charge of affairs, while utilizing expert opinion, are thinking out the problems that arise, on their own account. They know why the engineer recommends such a course, and if it appears the best way in which to solve the problem, that course is pursued. As an example, take the problem of providing against shutdowns in the waterworks system of Peterborough. The manner in which this question is being handled and considered by the Commissioners is just the manner of handling questions for which this country has waited for a long time.

The charge that there are too many lawyers in politics is not, we think, well founded. The men in other callings are equipping themselves for public service, and are gradually working into affairs, so that the outlook for a better solution of political and civic problems is bright.

THE MANITOBA CONVENTION.

THE GRAIN GROWERS of the West have declared in favour of Henry George's system of land value tax. They want free trade also. Having no local markets worth speaking of, they look wholly to the foreign market, and so long as they get sale for western wheat they care very little about the rest of Canada. The local or home markets of Eastern Canada are the greatest source of wealth and happiness yet devised, for the Eastern farmer. All callings are about evenly balanced here. Each supplies the other, and in that way there is no speculation, no slump, and no despair. It is true that Eastern Canada has gone a little too much, for a perfect balance, into manufacturing, just as Western Canada has gone too exclusively into farming, but in the end both will be all right, the West when it supplies its own manufactures, and supplies its own local market, and the East when it does a little less of looking for markets not open. We have learned the lesson in Canada that, as Sir Wilfrid Laurier frankly admits, the best market by all odds for the farmer is the home market, and he cannot have that by giving it away to someone else. The ideal prosperity is that of a community which supplies all its own wants and is at the mercy of no other. So is it with a man, or a nation. When local interests seek to "grab," we can "control" them, but when foreign interests dominate us, there is no hope but to shake them off altogether.

VERILY, with war and earthquakes, these are troublous times.

WHAT INDIA IS DOING.

INDIA is keeping well to the fore in providing assistance in the struggle with Germany. When it is remembered that India has a population of over 300,000,000 people, the large force of 200,000 men she is sending overseas is only a very small part of the forces she can put in the field should necesity arise. Lord Hardinge, the Viceroy, in his address, delivered a few days ago at Delhi, at the opening of the Vice-Regal Council, said:

> "What has been particularly satisfactory to us all has been the splendid behaviour of the Indian troops at the front. No troops could have behaved more gallantly. This is recognized by all. We knew it could not be otherwise. It has also been a source of pride to us all that, in accordance with the boon announced at the King-Emperor's durbar, two Victoria Crosses have already been awarded to brave Indian soldiers, this much-coveted decoration having in one case been bestowed by the hand of the King-Emperor himself.
>
> "On a previous occasion, I announced that India would send forces of over 70,000. Since then we have done much more, thanks to the energy and powers of organization of the commander-in-chief and the military authorities. British and Indian troops have been fighting side by side in five theatres of the war: France, Egypt, East Africa, the Persian Gulf, and China. We have despatched, or are despatching, nearly 200,000 men overseas to fight for the Empire of which we are proud to be a virile, living unit. These have been relieved by a certain number of fresh troops from England, so that at the same time we have maintained our military forces on the frontier unimpaired.
>
> "We are all proud of our military forces and of their gallantry. The fact that the Government of India was thus able to help the Mother Country is the supreme mark of my absolute confidence in the fidelity and gallantry of our troops and in the loyalty of the Indian people. That confidence is being every day more and more justified. We need feel no doubt regarding the ultimate triumph of right over might."

HERE AND THERE.

ONE OF THESE FINE DAYS we expect the armies of Russia will camp among the tall chimneys and power-houses of West Prussia and Silesia. Slav soldiers will likely light their pipes and look over the deserted magnificence of great factories that for many weeks have not turned a wheel or consumed a ton of coal. Cossacks will probably picket their horses on the boulevards and watch the wives and children of the workers who have gone to the war, because they were a thousand times more needed in the trenches than in the boiler-rooms and the workshops. They will know that Germany's greatness as a manufacturing nation has become a memory; that for long years to come, this nation of great workers will be just catching up to where it left off when the war began.

Perhaps some of our Canadian soldiers will have an opportunity to look over some of these manless, powerless, smokeless Stonehenges of decrepit industries. And if they do, there may come into their imagination, along with the keen memories of home and a greater potential country than Germany, the picture of great factories and little factories and little-sized factories, all plugging away, as they have been doing since the war began, to make things that Canadians eat and wear and put into their homes. And it will be some cause for national pride in these men to reflect that, although England and Canada and the rest of the Empire went to the front in this war, the basic industries of the Empire are as flourishing as ever. They will be proud to remember that, united as the Empire is in war, the people of the overseas dominions are just as united at home to keep up work and wages and good times.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THE DEATH of John Lightfoot, of this city, who was in training in Winnipeg for the second contingent, brings the war home to the people here. Disease is often as fierce an enemy to soldiers as powder and shot, and those who go down before it have died as much in the country's service as if shot in battle.

A MAN in Calgary, about to be married, escaped the nuptial bonds for at least a year by stealing several overcoats. And so the suffragette would say: "What luck some women have."

WE WISH to state that when speaking of Premier Viviani of France, we are not referring to any breakfast food or to a course of lectures on health.

AS TO EARTHQUAKES, the chroniclers should not forget the one that overtook the Liberal party in September, 1911.

WHILE Italy has up to the present time escaped the ravages of war, she has been despoiled by earthquakes.

International Law.

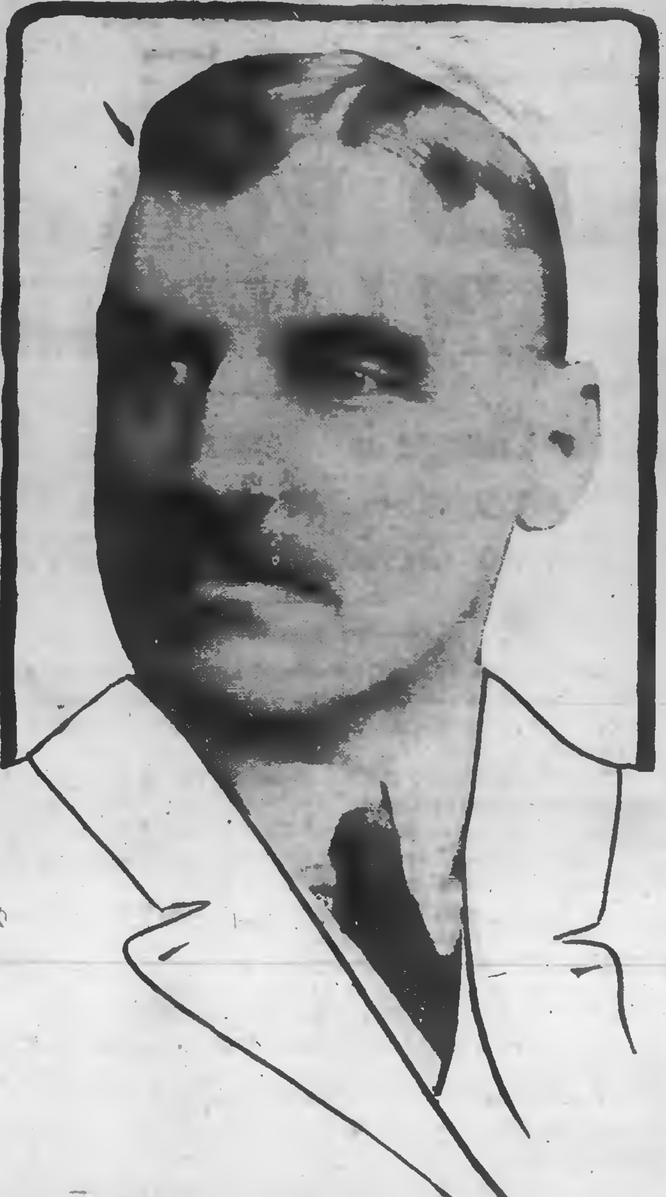
(Brantford Expositor.)

Just what is international law? If a nation violates all its agreements, is it in a position to demand of us that we stick to what is fair in fighting? At the ringside the man who fights foul is never accepted as the umpire by the crowd.

The Calf Had Become a Cow.

(Exchange.)

An English clergyman was preaching in a country church in Scotland, says the Los Angeles Examiner. He had as his subject "The Prodigal Son." "And the Prodigal son went away from his poor old father and remained in a far country for years and years. But after years and years he came back to his poor old father, and his poor old father said unto his servants, 'Bring forth the fatted calf, which has been kept for my son these years and years.'" An old farmer in the audience could contain himself no longer. "Yer a eler: it wod hae bin a coo," he exclaimed.



Mr. Grant Hall

LIKE so many of the higher officials of the C.P.R., Mr. Grant Hall, the new Vice-President in charge of Western lines, has risen by sheer merit from the ranks. An official circular was issued a few days ago by Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the company, announcing the appointment of Mr. Grant Hall vice-president and general manager, at Winnipeg, of lines west of Port Arthur, reporting to Mr. Bury, who has been elected vice-president of the company, with headquarters at Montreal. Mr. Grant Hall who has for the past two years been the general manager of the Western lines of the Canadian Pacific, was born in Montreal on November 27th, 1863, and was educated at Bishops' College School, Lennoxville, Que. He entered the railway service in 1883 as apprentice machinist at Montreal, and in 1890 he joined the ranks of the Canadian Pacific. In 1893 Mr. Hall left the C.P.R. and became general locomotive foreman at Moncton for the Intercolonial Railway, but in 1898 he returned to his old love and was locomotive foreman at Montreal for twelve months. He was transferred to McAdam as general foreman and remained there for another twelve months when he went to Winnipeg in a similar capacity and from there he was transferred again as master mechanic of the Pacific Division at Revelstoke. He became assistant superintendent of rolling stock of Eastern lines of the C.P.R. in 1902 and two years later went back to the West as assistant superintendent of motive power of Western lines, a position he occupied until he was made superintendent in 1908, which position he held until 1911, when he was elevated to the position of assistant general manager of Western lines. In 1913 he rose to the general managership, which he still holds with the additional honor of being vice-president of Western lines.

THEY WANT TO KNOW.

Editor, Review:

Sir,—The following is addressed to Mr. G. N. Gordon:

Would you settle a discussion that has arisen among a crowd of your supporters? Tell us, is it so that the School Board have a secretary for their meetings who receives $600 per annum for about eighteen or twenty meetings, and are said meetings often held so as to be convenient for him? Is it so that the Board also have a man appointed, under salary, to look after and buy supplies of books, etc? Is there any truth in the rumors about the city that you cannot legally sit on the Board, being city solicitor? We are looking to you to make good, or you will get fired next time.

The Devil's Inn

By M. QUAD.

If you have ever visited the city of Zacatecas, Mexico, you have heard the story of "The Devil's Inn" and have been mystified over it. If you have not heard the story by word of mouth you will be interested in it.

On the highway to San Luis, about four miles out of Zacatecas, are the ruins of the inn. They have been ruins since 1884.

The landlord and most of his customers were a hard lot, and during the four or five years the place flourished it had a bad name. The authorities had about determined to close the inn when it was suddenly abandoned by the owner. The most that could be learned from the servants was that a stranger came there one night and had a long and confidential conversation with the landlord and next morning both were missing. The place was overhauled, but no traces of murder were found. The servants scattered, the doors were nailed up, and the Holy Rest was left to darkness and the bats. Of course it soon had the reputation of being haunted, and after a couple of years an incident occurred that gave it a still worse name. A young man belonging to one of the best families of Monterey, who happened to be in Zacatecas on a visit, made a wager that he would pass a night alone in the inn. He rode out before dark, well armed and provided with lights, and was seen to enter the place by a window. Next day his naked body was found on the highway in front of the house. He had been dead for hours, and it was the opinion of the doctors that he had been attacked by a wild beast.

A company of fifty soldiers went out and searched the inn. The search was a thorough one, but no trace of man or animal could be found.

I was one of the four American civil engineers employed by the local government of Zacatecas in the years named to make surveys for a drainage canal, and, of course, I heard of the devil's inn, as it had long been called. That the people were earnest and sincere in their talk made no difference to me. I had no belief in haunted houses, and my sarcastic reflections made me enemies. Perhaps things would not have gone as far as they did but for the chief of police of Zacatecas. He called on me one day in serious mood and said:

"I want to warn you against making any foolish move in connection with the devil's inn. The place is surely haunted and dangerous to life, no matter what you think. Don't be silly enough to pay it a night's visit, as I hear you contemplate doing."

I had contemplated nothing of the kind, but the chief had scarcely finished when I was resolved to take that very step. My chum was named Clark, a young man from Chicago, and I had no sooner broached the subject to him than he was ready for the adventure. For fear that the authorities might stop us we let only a few people into our plan, and one Saturday afternoon, equipped with everything deemed necessary, we were driven out to the inn.

Our first step was to carefully inspect every room and the cellar, and we did not find so much as a rat. We had brought our pipes, wine and luncheon, with a pack of cards to divert ourselves, and neither one of us had the slightest idea of anything coming to alarm us. As we sat down to the cards our revolvers were laid on the table, and we laughed and joked without restraint. We had braced the doors shut with stout boards, and our first alarm came when one of these boards fell down and the door swung wide open, so that we could look into the kitchen.

This incident happened about 10 o'clock. Three-quarters of an hour later the door leading to the office was tried from the far side. We not only heard it creak and give, but we could see the brace quiver under the strain. There was no sound of footsteps or whispering. Rising with the utmost caution, we grasped our revolvers and tiptoed to the door. When we reached it we suddenly jerked the brace away and sprang back. The door flew back with great violence, but there was nobody on the other side.

When the door had been secured as before we returned to our game and spoke in whispers and kept very quiet. After half an hour we abandoned the cards and sat listening. I think it was half an hour after midnight and we were both probably nodding in sleep when both doors were suddenly burst open with a crash, our candles were blown out by what seemed a strong wind, and the next instant I was seized, lifted off my feet and carried to the broken window of the office and flung out. While I lay on the ground Clark followed me, and we heard a queer sort of chuckling from the window above. We both scrambled up and ran for our lives and in time reached the city. Neither of us was much hurt, but we had received a great fright. What had attacked us we could not say.

We went at once to the police, but even as we told our story we saw a red glare on the sky and knew the devil's inn was on fire. Next day we visited the place with a strong detachment of police. We found nothing but the walls standing. The unknown something that had flung us out had fired the place by accident or design, and the smoke stained adobe walls are yet there for you to see and wonder over.

HOW TO MAKE BUTTONHOLES

No Garment Looks Well Unless Attention is Paid to Smallest Details

The buttonhole can make or mar a lingerie gown, a clumsy buttonhole can spoil a tailored gown, and the raveled threads of the buttonhole add nothing to the attractiveness of children's clothes.

So it's well to learn something about buttonhole making, and here are some very helpful instructions in the are by an expert in needle work.

Buttonholes should be worked on the right side of double material, at least one-fourth of an inch from the edge of the garment. The distance between them is regulated by the material and by the size and location of the buttons.

Make buttonholes with a fan at the end receiving the strain, and finish with a bar on the other end.

To make a buttonhole cut a slit the required length through both thicknesses of cloth, being careful to cut between two threads. Knot the thread, insert the needle half an inch above the right end of the slit, bring it out three or four threads below the right end of slit; insert the needle half an inch above the right end of the slit, bring it out three or four threads below the right end of slit; insert the needle three or four threads below the left end of the slit, bring it out three or four threads above; insert again above the right end, coming out at starting point, three or four threads below the right end of the slit.

Begin the buttonholing by bringing the needle about half way out of the lower right end just below the long stitch. Throw the double thread from the eye of the needle to the left and under the point of the needle with a circular movement to form a loop, draw the needle through the loop formed and pull up the thread away from you at right angles to the edge of the buttonhole, thus forming a double knot on the edge called a purl. Form the following stitches in the same way, leaving a thread of the cloth between each stitch and bringing the needle out under the same thread of the cloth each time to make the stitches the same length.

Five cars on the T. and N. O. Railway were ditched at Uno Park, near Cobalt, and traffic was suspended for several hours.

Pointers For Housekeepers

Some Delicious Purees.

A puree may be either an accompaniment to meat or form the foundation of a substantial soup. Whatever vegetable is turned into a puree must first be well boiled, then passed through a sieve, a work demanding patience, it is true. The puree will then have a little butter and seasoning added to it, cream or the yolks of eggs or some gravy sauce, according to what meat it accompanies.

A puree of chestnuts accompanies veal or poultry and requires the addition of a little thick cream. A puree of white haricot beans accompanies roast mutton.

A puree of sorrel or spinach or both combined is really nicest when served without meat and placed in individual cocottes or in shells of fried bread. After passing the spinach, etc., through the sieve it is beaten up with a little butter and cream and liberally seasoned. It should not be boiled more than just enough to cook it tender, and then it will keep its color and flavor.

Marrows, turnips, artichokes and pumpkins all make delicious purees, sweet or savory. Another delicious puree of small white onions and new potatoes makes a dainty dish if sufficient cream is added and the mixture is put into small china dishes and browned on top.

The puree destined for serving alone or as an accompaniment to meat must be kept thick, yet smooth. The puree that forms the foundation of a soup is lengthened out to make a sufficient quantity by adding to it meat or vegetable stock and milk or cream or yolk of eggs, etc. The eggs and cream should not be put in until after the puree is cooked and taken from the fire.

Canning Chicken.

For quick lunches, unexpected guests and many occasions when she might not be prepared with needed food an enterprising housewife cans chicken each year, when the fowls are young, tender and wholesome. She cuts the chickens as for frying and stews until tender enough to slip off the bones. She packs glass jars which have been sterilized and are boiling hot with the chicken, fills up with the hot broth, then seals. Chicken canned in this way is delicious for salad, sandwiches, chicken pie, croquets, or may be used in any of the other many ways in which chicken is served. The broth will make fresh gravy or may be cooked down and jellied for many other ways of serving. The chicken of course must be thoroughly cooked, the jars and the meat hot and the jars perfectly air tight.

The Ever Useful Casserole.

Cold roast lamb, beef, veal, chicken, kidneys, etc., may be warmed up in the casserole. Heat any gravy that is left over to almost boiling point and then put in slices of lamb or beef and let them get warmed through. Do not cook them.

In the absence of gravy a rich beef juice could be used. For boiled or fricasseed chicken have ready some boiled rice and put this first in the casserole.

Take off the skin of the chicken and bone it, place the bits on top of the rice, pour over gravy or bits of butter, add seasoning if needed and a dust of curry powder.

Then cover the casserole and let the rice and chicken heat to the cooking point. When heating the lamb and beef slices the casserole must not be covered, as the steam toughens the meat.

PRIVATE CAPTURED STAFF.

French Soldier Almost Got the German Crown Prince.

PARIS, Jan. 18.—A French private has just been decorated for an exploit which, while it missed the capture of the German Crown Prince by a few hours, led to the rounding-up of the entire staff of one German regiment.

After the battle of Charleroi the private was taken prisoner. At the German general's request he served as the latter's orderly for a fortnight at a village near Sedan, where the Crown Prince had taken up his headquarters. Eventually the private escaped and carried the intelligence of the Crown Prince's presence to the French lines.

Early one morning the village was surrounded and the garrison capitulated. The Crown Prince, however, had left on the previous night for an unknown part of the front.

Steamer In Distress.

HALIFAX, Jan. 18.—The steamer Camino, flying the American flag is reported by wireless in distress 150 miles southeast of Sable Island. The steamer lost her rudder and has asked for assistance. She is from San Francisco via the Panama Canal for Rotterdam with a cargo of supplies for the Belgians. The Government steamer Lady Laurier has been sent from Halifax to the Camino's assistance.

A "SCRAP OF PAPER"

At ten minutes past seven in the evening of the fourth of August, 1914, within the four grim walls of the Berlin Foreign Office, there transpired a twenty-minute interview, the most dramatic of which history holds record. • "Will Britain," queried the German Chancellor, "fight just for a scrap of paper?" The British Ambassodar made terse reply. "That solemn compact simply has to be kept." For that "scrap of paper" was the public law of Europe guaranteeing the independence and neutrality of the Belgian nation. • Eighty-three years ago Britain had signed. And, whatever the consequences, the mightiest of empires was tossed into the melting-pot of a world-war. Belgium also had subscribed. Would she, too, risk all for honor? Her reply was sealed in blood on the ramparts of Liege; and, forthwith, Devastation laid waste her smiling fields and piled her cities in smoking ruins. An empire in arms, a country in ashes, a nation homeless—and all for a "scrap of paper!" • Magna Charta, too was but a "scrap of paper," but it was the earliest monument of Anglo-Saxon freedom. The Declaration was only a bit of parchment—but it heralded the birth of the American nation. Just such scraps of paper have marked the milestones in mankind's upward climb to freedom. • Mortgages, bonds, debentures, promissory notes—all are but scraps of paper. But no self-respecting man and no honest corporation can wantonly repudiate such commitments. • As it lies in your drawer or your safe, your life assurance policy measures but four inches by nine. It, too, is only a "scrap of paper." But the scrap of paper bears on its face the corporal seal of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada. It is backed by over Sixty Millions of Assets and nearly five decades of honorable dealing. In times like these it may easily spell the salvation of your business. Should you die, of all your scraps of paper it alone may be worth one hundred cents on the dollar. In years to come it alone may be left to buy bread for your mother, your wife, or your children. • That "scrap of paper" represents the most sacred of your obligations. Respect for it is the measure of your honor. • Keep it inviolate, whatever the cost!

GO TO FRANCE IN THREE WEEKS

Gen. Alderson's Announcement Received With Cheers

SALISBURY, Eng., Jan. 18.—During his inspection tour through the camp Saturday afternoon, Gen. Alderson congratulated the men on their splendid work. When he made the announcement that he expected they would leave for France within three weeks he was vigorously cheered. The impression prevails that the division will go to southern France for sound training which has been greatly hampered here.

The following casualties among the Canadian Expeditionary Force are announced:

Deaths—Jan. 16, Pte. Robt. Lamb, 4th Battalion, at No. 1 Canadian General Hospital, Netheravon, from heart failure. Next of kin, John Sidey, 144 John street, Toronto.

QUAKE NOT OVER

Slight Tremors are Felt at Sora, Italy

SORA, Italy, Jan. 18—(Via Rome)—Slight earth tremors have not ceased, and the local authorities declare not a single house in town is safe for occupancy. Capt. Fusi, who is directing the work of rescue, is convinced that more than 1,000 victims are buried in the debris.

Rescue work is progressing slowly, and there now is very little hope of finding persons alive, because in most cases bodies are buried beneath immense piles of masonry. The authorities are devoting most of their attention to caring for the few persons who escaped death. The Red Cross has opened an emergency hospital, where the less dangerously injured are being cared for. Those most dangerously hurt are being taken to Caserta.

The sufferings of the homeless population have been intensified by a cold drizzling rain, which began Saturday afternoon and has continued steadily. The people have been warned not to occupy the houses which remain standing until the buildings have been carefully inspected.

Ottawa Discredits Story of Charge by the Patricias

OTTAWA, Jan. 18. — The Militia Department has received no word of the reported charge of the Princess Patricia Regiment in which they are said to have driven the Germans back a considerable distance. While two men are said to have been killed and others injured no casualties have been received here.

The report of the engagement is not credited at Rideau Hall.

DETAILED REPORTS SHOW THIRTY THOUSAND DEAD IN DISTRICT OF ABRUZZO

WORSE THAN FIRST REPORTED

Frantic Calls For Help Have Come From Destroyed Town on Mount Arungo, Where Survivors of Earthquake Are Perishing of Cold and Hunger—Mountains Near Luco Are Cracked by Shock.

ROME, Jan. 18.—Detailed reports received in the capital regarding Italy's stupendous earthquake assert that the number of dead and injured in the Abruzzo province alone is 30,000 without including the Sora district.

San Atolio has 200 dead and 500 injured, Norino 1,500 dead, Canistro 600 injured, Cervaro 300 victims, Borgo 50 dead, and Valleroveto 1,800. At Civitella Roveto almost the entire population escaped, because they were working in the fields when the shock occurred.

Frantic appeals for help have been received from Petrellaliri, 3,500 feet high on Mount Arungo, eight miles from Tagliacozzo. The village was almost destroyed, and the survivors say they are perishing of cold and hunger.

In the highway near Ortucchio the earth has opened, causing an immense pit filled with water, the depth of which is unknown.

The terrific force of the earthquake cracked the mountains near Luco. Huge pieces of rock, each of which weighed several tons, rolled down the hillside, burying the vottages of peasants, killing cattle and obstructing the road. Mount Pizzodeta, 6,450 feet high, between Balsorano and Rocacerro, was cut into two parts in an immense fissure, which is visible at a great distance.

The Government has appropriated $1,000,000 to relieve suffering.

LITTLE HEADWAY MADE IN ADVANCE ON WARSAW

Freezing Over of the Lower Vistula Will Enable Russians to Cross the River in Rear of Von Hindenberg's Army—East Prussian Operations Are Again Resuming a Position of Chief Importance.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—Field Marshal von Hindenburg has not succeeded in making any headway in his attacks on the Russians holding the road to Warsaw despite his vigorous attacks. To the north the Russians have reached points where they are seriously menacing the Germans attacking on the Bzura front. With the freezing of the lower Vistula, the ice will afford an easy passage across the river in Von Hindenburg's rear.

The Germans are using heavy artillery to a great extent to hammer the Russian lines, especially on the front before Warsaw. Further to the south the Austrians are also depending on their artillery to hold the Russians in check. The fighting has been heavy on the Dunajec river, where, if the Austrians fail to hold their present lines, an advance by the Russians will again threaten Cracow. The new Austro-German forces are reported to have been organized to repel the Russian invasion of Hungary, but Russians hold the Carpathian passes and have placed artillery there on crests commanding the passages. Any Austro-German force advancing in Hungary will be caught between the Russians operating south from Galicia and those which have swept through Bukowina.

The East Prussian front and north or right of the lower Vistula are daily assuming more importance in bulletins of the grand duke. The Polish front to which the Germans have attached sole importance, is relegated to the third place, being considered sufficient merely to note that the Germans have been making their customary attacks and meeting with customary failures. It appears that the Germans made arrangements to take full advantage also of New Year's Eve, as they had done of the Russian Christmas, but on the whole both passed off in comparative quiet as the first attempt at an attack revealed the perfect readiness of the Russians for anything that might turn up, notwithstanding the festivals of the Russians.

The Russians before the fortress of Boyen, near Letzen, which protects the passage through the Mazurian Lakes, were attacked by the Germans on New Year's Day, but the only result was serious losses to the Germans. On the right bank on the north of the lower Vistula, the Germans, after being turned out of Selepez, attempted to hold the line of the River Skawa. The Russians continued their steady advance and the Germans failed to hold their positions and continued their retirement in a northerly direction.

While the main Russian army has been busy repelling what Grand Duke Nicholas in his official report describes as a series of violent attacks by Field Marshal von Hindenburg, to break his way through to Warsaw, other Russian forces have stormed and taken Kirlibaba Pass, on the borders of Transylvania, and have made further progress in their advance along the right bank of the Vistula toward the German frontier.

The Germans in force have delivered seven successive attacks, which developed into desperate bayonet fighting, on the Russian lines on the left bank of the Vistula, and have succeeded in taking one of the Russian advance trenches.

Further south there have been similar attacks, in each case preceded by heavy artillery engagements. The Russians have succeeded in silencing the heavy Austrian guns, which, from the banks of the Dunajec, have been bombarding the town of Tarnow.

GERMANS ARE DRIVEN FROM THE GREAT DUNE

Mountain of Sand Has Been Violently Assaulted by the Franco-Belgian Forces and the Enemy Dislodged—Movement Has Drawn German Forces From Further South and Has Relieved Pressure.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—Having effectively checked the German drive upon Soissons, the allies have plunged forward along the Belgian littoral in a violent offensive movement calculated to relieve the pressure along the Aisne by attracting to the seacoast once again the important bodies of first-line troops which were thrown to the southeasterly elbow of the German line to aid Von Kluk in his temporary triumph.

The Great Dune, a mountain of sand to the east of Nieuport and northeast of Lombaertzyde, was violently attacked by the Franco-Belgian forces on Saturday afternoon, and to-day has been entirely cleared of the invaders, who were routed from their trenches by a spirited infantry attack, preceded by heavy artillery fire. Shells burst in the front and rear of the German trenches, hurling great drifts of sand into the air and blinding the German defenders until they were unable to reply to the allies' fire, while showers of sand poured into the ditches, burying not a few of the occupants.

Continuing their attack to the north of the Great Dune, the allies completely destroyed the hamlet of Rodan, and right on the Cruesot guns bombarded the German earthworks and trenches to the south of St. Georges along the canal.

The official announcement given out in Berlin relating to the capture of 5,200 French troops at Soissons, and saying further that from 4,000 to 5,000 French dead were found after the battle, concludes with the unusual assertion: "This is the truth."

A wireless despatch from Paris, copied in London, categorically denies these German figures. It says the French troops engaged in the Soissons battle were less than three brigades, and that consequently the Berlin figures cannot be correct.

Last night's bulletin issued by the French War Office said:

"There is nothing to report. From the Argonne to the Vosges there have been snowfalls."

The afternoon communique was as follows:

"We have continued to progress in the region of Nieuport and Lombaertzyde along a depression about 200 yards in length. Our artillery forced the Germans to evacuate their trenches in the Great Dune, destroyed Rodan, which lies to the north of the latter, and bombarded the enemy's works in this part of the battlefront and to the south of St. Georges.

"In the region of Ypres, as in that of La Bassee and Lens, there have been artillery engagements.

"At Blangy the action has been vigorous. The Germans seized the foundry of Blangy, which we soon retook by an energetic counter-attack. We have maintained our position there.

"Our artillery continues to demolish the enemy's trenches near La Boisselle.

"In the Sector of Soissons there is nothing to report.

"Between Vailly and Craonne the enemy delivered without success an attack near the sugar refinery of Tryon, and another against our trenches at Beaulme, both of which were repulsed. In the region of Perthes and Beausejour our progress continues, in spite of a violent storm. In the Argonne, on the heights of the Meuse, there is nothing new. In the woods of Le Pretre, near Pont-a-Mousson, a German attack was repulsed.

"In the Vosges we have gained ground to the west of Orbey. Snow fell in abundance all day."

MIGHT HAVE GONE INTO THE RIVER

C.P.R. Train From Goderich Left the Rails

GUELPH, Jan. 18. — When the C. P. R. train from Goderich was pulling into Guelph station at 3.22 on Saturday afternoon, the engine jumped the track. The train was under fair headway, and had it gone two or three feet further would have tumbled over the bank into the river. The line was blocked and a train was sent into the city from the junction and the passengers transferred. The auxiliary from West Toronto worked till 11.30 p.m. to get the engine back on the line and the track cleared.

CARRANZA HAS BACKED DOWN

Mexican Dictator Gives in to British Demand

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18. — While Secretary of State Bryan and other officials of the State Department waited there yesterday for an answer from Carranza in reply to Mr. Bryan's protest against the confiscation of British oil wells in the Tampico district, the matter had already been settled by Carranza direct with the British Embassy at Washington.

Carranza answered promptly and definitely to the British Ambassador through the British Legation at Mexico City before one o'clock Saturday explaining away the difficulties and making a surrender to the British contention.

This evening, after Secretary Bryan and other State Department officials had gone home, Elise Arredondo gave out at Carranza headquarters Carranza's oil decree of Jan. 7 and a message to Secretary of State Bryan saying that no confiscation was menacing foreign oil properties, and that the only legal provision that had been enacted referred to the general suspension of such work as was being conducted without authority from his Government and to companies that were not paying taxes.

FOLLY OF THE WAR

Socialists of Neutral Nations in Conference

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 18. — (Via London.)—The conference of Socialists of neutral countries, which opened here yesterday, was very slimly attended. Denmark, Norway, Sweden and Holland were represented by four delegates each and Italy by one. Neither the United States nor Switzerland sent delegates.

The real object of the conference is to draw general attention to the folly of making Europe bankrupt and crippling her manhood, and to draw up plans for approaching the belligerents with arbitration proposals when an opportune moment arrives.

The Socialists want to bring home to all peoples the uselessness of fighting to the "bitten end."

One of the subjects under discussion is arbitration on the lines that no frontier changes be made without the consent of the peoples concerned.

Many a great man is but a wart on a pickle in the eyes of his wife.

Strengthening the Sound Waves

AFTER travelling a certain distance the electric wave which carries the human voice along the telephone wire becomes attenuated and speech becomes too faint to be heard.

Just as in the old stage-coach days fresh relays of horses at regular intervals along the way, enabled the traveller to continue his journey with undiminished speed, so by means of the newly invented "loading coils" inserted at proper intervals, the electric waves are strengthened and long distance telephoning is made easy.

We have lately finished the "loading" of our long distance lines and speech transmission has been very greatly improved. This is especially noticeable on extra long talks. Our "long-haul" transmission is better than ever.

Begin the New Year by making systematic use of the Long Distance Telephone in your business. It will save you time and labor, as well as much money in the shape of travelling expense.

Every Bell Telephone is a Long Distance Station.

Don't Throw Away Goodwill!

A well-known expert and advertising man, and one who is the head of a large mercantile business, recently made the following statement in regard to the temptation to discontinue advertising:

¶ "Probably more money is wasted in advertising by running consistently in a publication for a long time, and then suddenly dropping it, than in any other way.

¶ "It amounts to deliberately throwing away the goodwill which the readers of that publication have built up for the advertisers' name and product.

¶ "It is better to advertise moderately, but regularly, than to use large copy spasmodically."

The Voice of Successful Experience

Another well-known expert declares that persistent advertising pays, because:

¶ "Advertising is friendly. It persuades.

¶ "Slowly, but inevitably, it creates the attitude of goodwill and confidence.

¶ "It brings customers—who stay.

¶ "A business built up in this way is built on a firm foundation. It's the kind of success that lasts.

¶ "But it cannot be done in a day—or a month. Nothing but persistent advertising will accomplish this sort of success."

It might be well for you, Mr. Merchant—Manufacturer—or whatever your calling—to take the advice of these experts—the experience of every successful business man, and use the columns of The Review moderately and consistently.

TWO MINISTERS DIE WITHIN HOUR

Widely Known Presbyterians Dead at Ottawa

OTTAWA, Jan. 18.—The Presbyterian Church in Canada lost two of its most distinguished members in the deaths yesterday afternoon, within one hour of each other, of Rev. Dr. W. D. Armstrong, pastor emeritus of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, and of Rev. Dr. William Moore, pastor emeritus of Chalmers Presbyterian Church. Both were ex-Moderators of the General Assembly and both for more than a quarter of a century had held high positions of trust and honor in the church organizations.

Dr. Armstrong, who was in his seventieth year, died at his family residence on Daly avenue, after an illness of about three weeks, from a stroke of paralysis. Rev. Dr. Moore, who was in his seventy-seventh year, had been ill for several months, and his death at his residence on O'Connor street yesterday afternoon was not unexpected. Both the deceased ministers had been pastors of their respective churches in Ottawa for nearly forty years, both having been the first pastors of those churches.

PREFERENCE INCREASED.

Australia Gives Further Advantage to Britain, But Not to Canada.

OTTAWA, Jan. 18.—The first increase in the new Australian tariff, information concerning which has been received by the Trade and Commerce Department is the general advance of from 5 to 10 per cent. in the preference upon goods manufactured in the United Kingdom, by advancing the duties upon goods imported from all other countries to that extent.

This preference does not extend to Canadian products and manufactures so that Canadian exporters will have to face increased duties.

The second increase is in the duties from which increased revenue is desired and the third increase covers the increased protection to Australian industries promised prior to the recent general election. In the order named the principal articles of goods and products imported into Australia are agricultural implements, motor cars and vehicle parts, printing paper lumber and fish in tins.

Paris Darkens Down.

PARIS, Jan. 18. — The military government has submitted to the authorities a suggestion that there be a diminution in the number of lights in Paris and its suburbs as a precautionary measure against aerial incursions by the Germans. The military authorities strongly urge the extinction or the strict limitation of lights in shops, factories and elsewhere, and say that it is even desirable that window shades be used to conceal lights.

Canon Sloan Succumbs.

OTTAWA, Jan. 18. — Very Rev. Canon Sloan, parish priest of St. Bridget's Roman Catholic Church here, died last night as the result of a shock from injuries received several weeks ago when a vehicle in which he was driving was overturned by a street car. He was 60 years of age.

HOCKEY CURLING ATHLETICS

COMMENT
As You Like it

GRANTLAND RICE, the famous sport writer pays great tribute to Larry Lojoie, the famous Cleveland slugger, recently secured by Connie Mack, in one of his late "grandold-dope" donations. He claims Lajoie to be the greatest hitter he ever watched step up to the plate for he had to make his hits cleanly, not having Cobb's speed to beat out the infield tap. He was also a great or in fact the greatest infielder the game has ever known, when it came to making a hard chance look easy as an accommodation bounder. Eddie Collins or no other man had that knack of shuffling over easily and half lazily in front of a hard chance and picking it up without even the semblance of an effort. "But above all this," writes the famous dopester, "there was one other point which impressed us most—and which still is an outstanding part of the Frenchman's career. We have seen Lajoie in at least three hundred ball games—possibly more. We have kept track of him for ten years. But we have yet to see him make a bone-head play and we have yet to hear of him making one. We have seen Evers make a slip or so, and Johnny is more brains than anything else except courage. We have seen Collins, the alert, make his slip and we have seen Cobb outguess even himself in trying to start something. But, as far as we have known, Lajoie has been flawless in this respect.

With reference to the prospects of the eminent Frenchman when joining the Athletics, Rice says: "He is more than likely to pass .300 again this year, for the greatest battting eye the game has ever known isn't quite dimmed yet. He has been over the hurdles for nineteen years—but we'll still travel a long way to see him make the hard ones look easy—and hit 'em where they wished they weren't."

Truly a great tribute to the idol of the Cleveland fans!

LOU MARSH, who handled the Peterborough-Picton game the other evening, stated as follows in the course of his write-up in the Toronto Star:—

It is hard to select the best players. After Hubbs and Scott were hurt Hudgins was probably Picton's most useful man, with Ralph Burns doing good service. The others were not weak.

Janes in goal was the star of the Peterborough team. He gave a great exhibition of goal-tending. Pete Spratt and "Ack" Hunter, who alternated at right defence and right wing, both played lively hockey, but they hadn't anything much on Pethick, Kelly and Parks. Little Halpin at rover pestered the life out of the Picton defence and nailed a couple of nice goals.

ALBERT LEROUX, the Berlin centre man, is a "game one," through and through. He had his backbone displaced during a practice early in the season and after having it righted went out again last week. He has continued playing although suffering much pain, and is now about better again.

ST. MICHAEL'S are still in the ring. The "green shirts" have won two games already and Toronto fans are believing that the championship will not be decided till "the old guard" is vanquished. Frank Rankin is really one of the "grand old men of hockey."

"EDDIE" FITZPATRICK is looked upon as the possible manager of the Toronto Internationals should Joe Kelly land Arthur Irwin's job with the New York Yankees. "Fitz" was always pretty popular in the Queen City.

THE RIVERSIDES meet the Victorias in Toronto tomorrow night and according to reports the outcome is very uncertain. Frank Heffernan is playing for the Vics and Ken Crane and Fred Denison for the Riversides.

Morgan, Grenfell and Company will likely be apointed financial agents to the British Government.

JUNIORS AT PORT HOPE

Local Squad Confident of Winning Tomorrow Evening

The Juniors play in Port Hope tomorrow night, and if they succeed in winning and can defeat Lindsay here a week from next Friday, the group will be tied up, with the Petes, Port Hope and Lindsay battling for first honors. Port Hope won the opening game here, but it was generally acknowledged that the Peterborough team played away below form that evening, hence the hope and chance that they will secure a victory tomorrow evening. In all probability the lineup will be as follows:

Goal—Legros.
R. Defence—Long.
L. Defence—Morrow.
Rover—Rose.
Centre—Jackson.
R. Wing—Knapman.
L. Wing—Richardson.

MIDGETS CALLED TO BEAT PETES ON LOCAL ICE

The Lindsay Warder gives the following report of the third period of the Lindsay-Peterborough junior game:

"The Petes came on the ice in the third period aparently as fresh as daisies and the big fellows bumped their way through the Lindsay ranks almost at will. Their "com." was good, and for a space the home crews were disorganized and caught off their guard. The Petes had the nerve, the backbone and the goods for after a terrific onslaught they managed to slip through a counter. At this stage of the game they displayed excellent combination and worked hard to slip over two or three counters. They tied the score, and had some visions of district honors, but while they were still dreaming and sighing the speedy locals got back to their stride, kept pushing ahead and completely reversed matters. It was good to watch them go. The Peterborough citadel was assailed. For a brief period they peppered away, elbowing and rushing, while all obstacles seemed to vanish and their enemies quail before the onslaught. Their efforts were not without results, and the tie was broken by A. Carew with a fast shot from left wing. Lindsay came back fast and it was not long until Griffis scored from right wing, and followed a few minutes later with a staggering shot which eluded the Petes. Sandercock followed with the eighth counter, scooping the puck in from several feet out, after a combined rush.

The game was over and the boys were pretty nearly all in after the gruelling contest, and like the bird with the broken pinion, the Petes will, in the opinion of many of the fans, never soar so high again, for on keen ice the locals should repeat the trick, even on Peterborough ice."

PETERBOROUGH SHOULD WIN TONIGHT'S GAME AT WHITBY

Same Team as Played Against Picton Will Line-up Against Whitby Who Will Likely Prove a Tough Proposition

Encouraged by the win over Picton on Friday evening and the fact that the group is tied up, the Peterborough Intermediates left today for Whitby via the G. T. R., where they will endeavor this evening to add another to their total of victories. The Petes cannot afford to lose, so they will be prepared to go "full steam ahead" for the sixty minutes. The Whitby team were always to be reckoned on in former years, so it is quite likely that they have a strong septette again this season.

The Peterborough management telephoned Whitby to see how the ice was, and the lakeshore club told them to "come on down, the ice is fine." At that, the Petes are the style of team which can play on any kind of ice. Soft ice should favor Oshawa in their game in Picton with the Pirates tonight.

The Peterborough team will line up as follows:

Goal—Janes.
R. Defence—Spratt.
L. Defence—Pethick.
Rover—Halpin.
Centre—Park.
L. Wing—Kelly.
R. Wing—Hunter.

Here's to One of The Lesser Lights

To keep Canada's great winter pastime, hockey, booming it is not only necessary to have the game prominent in the larger towns and cities but the smaller towns and villages must also be cared for. When some of the big guns such as a Livingstone, a Murphy, a Quinn, or an R. J. Jeffs organize a club the pencil pushers all over the country use one superlative after another boosting him, but, how much is said of the man who goes into a small place, opens a locked up rink, organizes a league and provides several places of similar size with real hockey? Of him there is little mention unless by way of a joke. In consideration of this we call on the fans of Peterborough, to second a tribute to a Peterborough mon who went into the village of Marmora, opened a locked up rink, re-organized the Trent Valley Hockey League and further more—is making it go.

The man in question is none other than Mr. T. B. Moffat, the self same Tommy who with "Goke" Harris nursed the Mercantile Hockey League through its infancy in this city a few years ago. Tommy went to Marmora and found the crepe on the door. The rink was closed and the prospects of it being opened about as bright as a penny dated 1860. He went at the big task with a determination and an energy that would rival Frank Shaughnessy and the results are now being realized. The opening of the rink was quickly followed by the organizing of a hockey team and the spirit drifted from Marmora to Stirling to Madoc and to Tweed.

Four hockey teams ready for action required but one thing to create real live interest. That was a league and Tommy began planning and figuring again. The relics of the old Trent Valley were almost forgotten but he dug them up, painted them anew and now if one should drift into one of the above villages there is LIFE to be found. "Where there's sport there's business," one man has remarked and the change which has come over the centres represented in the Trent Valley Hockey League seems to bear out the fact.

The value the smaller leagues are to the game and to amateur sport in general cannot be estimated. They keep interest alive, raise the standard of hockey and develop young players. The old Trent Valley brought out men whose names went down in the history of the game as stars—some of them are still chasing the rubber in fast company—and it is but proper to expect the rejuvenated Trent Valley to do likewise. Time alone will verify the last assertion in this feuilleton but in the meantime, let's doff our lids to one of the lesser lights, one who without any publicity or noise has worked and is working for the good of the grand old game—T. B. Moffat of Marmora, secretary-treasurer fo the Trent Valley Hockey League, 1914-1915.

CAPTAIN HUNTER STILL WITH US

Report That he Was to Join Torontos Incorrect

A Toronto paper intimated Saturday that "Ack" Hunter, the Peterborough defence player, would sign with the Torontos of the N. H. A. Admirers of the local captain can banish all fears that Hunter will forsake the ranks of the amateurs. He had an offer from the management of the Toronto club early in the season, and turned it down, and it is thought that when the Star scribe saw Hunter in Toronto on Saturday and knew that a new defence player was expected out with the Torontos, he put two and two together and then took the chance. Hunter's presence in Toronto meant practically nothing, as he makes a trip up to his home every other week. He will go to Whitby from Toronto today.

NUMBERED PLAYERS.

An energetic piano firm as a means of advertising pulled a new one on the hockey fans at Elmira Saturday night. They furnished the players of the Elmira and Berlin teams with large numbers, which they wore on their backs, and distributed score-cards among the spectators, giving the names of the players with their numbers, also the names of the visiting team's officers and the referee. The cards made a big hit.

ADDRESSED LIFE PROBLEM CLUB

Before the Life Problem Club of the Y. M. C. A. yesterday an excellent address was delivered by Mr. J. E. Smith, of the Farm and Dairy staff, on "How to Be Good to Yourself." About twenty boys and young men were present.

Tomorrow night the annual business meeting of the Association will be held, when reports from the various departments will be read, and a financial statement submitted. Election of officers will also take place.

Tea growing is a fine art. The quality of tea depends on the elevation of the land and the nature of the soil. Cheap teas are produced in vast quantities in the low lying valleys where the humidity encourages the growth of large coarse leaves. On the breezy hill-tops are found the most delicate and tender growths. Salada tea is grown entirely in hill-top gardens, hence its distinctive charm of flavor.

In The Bishop's Carriage

Canadians are always glad to welcome one of their own who has been out in the world and made good—and such is the case with Mr. Paul Doucet who plays the leading male role in "In the Bishop's Carriage" now touring Ontario and which will be seen at the Grand Opera House Thursday night, Feb. 4th. Mr. Doucet was born at Ottawa and educated for a lawyer at McGill College, Montreal but he forsook the bar for the stage and has been most successful. While manager Cummings was stage director at Daly's Theatre, New York, Mr. Doucet came to him for a position highly endorsed by Henrietta Crossman, Mrs. Fiske and other high class actors with whom he had made good and he was at once engaged and has made and is making good in the character of William Latimer, the student of criminology. Seats for the performance may be had at 25c., 50c., 75c. and one dollar.

LITTLE JOBS WELL DONE, OPEN WAY TO LARGER SPHERES

The Only Way We Can Prepare Ourselves for Bigger Things of Life

There was a very large congregation on hand in Charlotte St. Methodist Church yesterday evening. The musical part of the service was good. Mr. Staples sang the solo part of an anthem in a way that was a pleasure to all and Miss Ada Richardson sang in her usual fine manner "The Lord is My Shepherd." Rev. J. P. Wilson, B.A., the pastor, occupied the pulpit and took his text from Judges 7-7.

Israel had lapsed into idolatry and the Midianites oppressed them for seven years. Israel never lapsed into idolatry but trouble came. Every decline of this nation can be traced to the worship of strange gods, and there was never a return but an exaltation came. This was also true of England from Alfred's day to the present. England is true to her plighted word because she has learned by obedience that "Righteousness Exalteth a Nation."

When Israel cried for deliverance God raised up a deliverer. The champion was a farmer, an only son, his brothers had been slain in forays with maurauders from the desert. He was hidden away in the trees at his daily toil, out of sight of enemies when he was called. He was humbly engaged in every day work not dreaming of a larger field. It seems that characters that are to save nations are nourished and matured in seclusion or toil.

David lived among the sheep; Cincinatus was at his plow. Lord Fisher was in retirement at 72 years of age. Earl Kitchener is no "vain Carpet Knight" but the silent soldier of Egypt. Mr. Asquith the Prime Minister of England is not a prince's son nor the son of a belted earl but a commoner guiding the ship of state through war's turbulent waters. These are the men called. It seems that the way to be prepared for conspicuous work is to be true to the humblest duties. We shall never likely get better things to do until we do better.

Gideon is roused to action by a mad foray of the enemy. He calls to his own village and the call goes out and thirty-two thousand men gather about his standard. Then Gideon is tested. His faith is sorely tried. The promise is so great that he is overwhelmed by it that he, a farm boy, should save Israel. Then he asks for a sign, the homely sign of "the fleece of wool." God grants him the sign because his trembling faith is longing to be strengthened.

Then another test comes. The 32,000 look down on the long encampment of the children of the desert and they are afraid. Gideon says "Take a good look men. There is the enemy." They look, and fear comes over the army. Then he says "Let every one go home who desires," and 22,000 march off the field. Only a remnant of 10,000 are left to meet the teeming bands of the desert. Some one has remarked that minorities always win. This is true anyway in morals.

Matthew Arnold said, "Salvation does not lie in mere numbers, but in the composite body called the remnant, to which remnant we look for the restoration of society, separation from errors and leadership of reform." The Bible is full of that same truth. This "chosen seed," the leaven that accomplishes the most "One half of Europe was reformed by an ore digger's son. It was the son of the Parsonage that brought the great reformation of the 18th Century in Eng. It is not long since men who advocated prohibition of strong drink were termed fanatics, Cecil Baine, J. B. Gough, Father Matthew, were so classed. Now whole states in the American union declare for prohibition suppression of the traffic. Russia prohibits it. France prohibits it to any of her soldiers. Earl Kitchener says it must not be given to British soldiers at the front.

On Salisbury Plain the canteen was closed because the troops are to undertake heavier work in brigade movements. Gen. Sam Hughes, our Minister of Militia, is exerting his strong arm to crush the evil. God and a few earnest men are a majority. A mother said she was willing to give her son to her country but not willing to give him to Alderson's canteen on Salisbury Plain. In great national movements men are not "counted but weighed." Right and not numbers must win.

Ten thousand are too many for the strategy to be carried out and so three hundred are selected. The other thousands are brave men but this is to be a "quality fight." The others would do in some campaigns but could not do steady trench work.

The simple test how they drank, separated the men. They were tested by a trifling thing as a drink of water. The little things of every day life are the tests of character after all. What is the true Marlborough, a great general winning battles for Queen Ann, or the man taking bribes? What is the true Nelson, the hero of Trafalgar or the paramour of Lady Hamilton? The men who "stoop to drink," the ease loving men never win anywhere, in merchants' offices, factory, shops or schools. The 300 picked, tested, hot hearted resolute men win and "side by side with the heroes of Thermopolea stand the 300 of Gilboa.

The world selects competent men. In the Cuban war President McKinley found it necessary to communicate with Gorcia the insurgent leader of Cuba. No one knew where he was. One Rowan was selected out of 90 millions of people, was given the message and in three months emerged on the other side. He found Gorcia and delivered the message.

These men and such are in demand who can deliver the messages and who can deliver the goods.

These 300 men severely tested themselves. They were willing to be used, they were willing enough to volunteer. They were willing enough to go to the front."

When the Midianites saw the rush from all sides and heard the new war cry "The sword of the Lord and of Gideon" they fled in terror.

When the Germans heard the new war cry "For Canada and old England" and saw the khaki clad men of the Patricia's advance they broke and fled.

These are the men needed in church and state, as much as in the army. They are wanted in every city, town and village, in every shop and office and school and in every church. Men who are willing, who will volunteer for service.

In speaking to the boys Mr. Wilson said boys are wanted who could play "the game," who were clean and strong and full of fire. He warned them that life was not a play but a great reality. Some boys were more concerned about hockey, basketball, etc., than anything in life. They go wild over games and neglect school and business or if a young man finds out that he knows the standing of the clubs, the names of the players and the averages of the leagues better than he knows the names of customers of his employer, prices of the goods or discounts of his house or his lessons at school, then his interest in the game is against his good. Such boys are not usually elected for great concerns.

SHOES SPOIL OUR FEET.

That Is Why So Few Persons Have Perfect Pedal Extremities.

A person with normal feet is very difficult to find. In fact, the doctors inform us that foot trouble is endemic in the United States, as well as in every enlightened country on the globe. The cause of this condition and the vast suffering which it entails is the unhygienic shoe.

A thousand Porto Ricans whose feet had never been shod were examined. Not a single diseased or deformed foot was found among them. A San Francisco surgeon, in commenting on this fact, declares that among a thousand shoe wearing Americans there is hardly one with normal feet.

The trouble is that the vast majority of our shoes are improperly constructed. The fashionable shoe seems built to force the foot into shapes which, however slightly, are nevertheless abnormal. That worn by the masses is equally inimical to foot health, for the reason that it is constructed with very little reference to the lines of the foot and without effort to adjust it to the normal movements of that member.

The medical man presents the moccasin as the most wholesome foot covering yet devised, but very few are sanguine enough to hope that fashion will permit its general use. Next to the moccasin, so we are told, is the shoe that not only permits the foot to perform its normal functions unimpeded, but strengthens it when in use. This is the shoe that, instead of pinching the foot or forcing it into abnormal shapes or positions, actually fits it.—Boston Herald.

UNSOLVED MYSTERIES

Alexander Graham Bell was once asked if he understood precisely how a telephone conveyed the sound of a human voice. His answer was: "No, I only know what is done. I do not know how it is accomplished."

One is reminded of Lord Kelvin's remark to some of his professional colleagues near the close of his brilliant career. It will be recalled that Bell gave to Kelvin the instruments used in the first demonstration of telephony at the Philadelphia Centennial in 1876. It was many years later that Kelvin said that he knew no more as to the nature of electricity than he knew when he first began to work with it.

From Franklin to Edison master minds among us have done wonderful things with cells and dynamos, generators and transformers, directing the interplay of dreadful elemental forces as inscrutable as they are majestic. And still we do not know what electricity is.

A woman finds that tons and tons of a certain ore produce a fraction of a gram of radium, and we go to work with it and behold the portentous results it achieves, but we do not know what it is.

A congregation of sapient alienists at a trial gives expert testimony, but no man among them knows what his own brain is nor how it gives instantaneous directions to the foot and the hand. Mystery is at the very root of life and rules it to the end. Whatever way we turn we find the abyss unplumbed, the unfathomed darkness. How ridiculous is our presumption of knowledge before so vast an ignorance!—Philadelphia Ledger.

Superfluous Adornment.

"I am now engaged on a beautiful design for a new coin," said the artist.

"I don't see why we need it," replied Miss Cayenne. "You can't make money so good looking as to render it any more popular than it already is."—Washington Star.

Excessive anger against human stupidity is itself one of the most provoking of all forms of stupidity.—Von Radowitz.

RUSSIANS ANNIHILATED TURKISH ARMY CORPS

All the Artillery of the Enemy Was Also Captured in Fighting in the Caucasus.

PETROGRAD, Jan. 18.—The following report has been received from Tiflis:

"The army of the Caucasus has covered its flags with glory by a fresh heroic exploit, having completely annihilated the 11th Turkish corps with the exception of several insignificant elements, which are fleeing in disorder. We have captured all the artillery of this corps."

The following official communication from the army of the Caucasus was issued last night:

"In the region of Karu-Urgan the fighting is developing with the advantage resting with our troops. By a bayonet attack we annihilated the 52nd Turkish regiment, the survivors of which, including the commander and several officers, were made prisoners.

"In one direction, where we were pursuing the defeated Turkish troops we took more than 5,000 prisoners 14 cannon, an enormous quantity of supplies, and nearly 10,000 head of cattle."

Dissatisfaction in Constantinople.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—According to Constantinople information, dissatisfaction with young Turks, especially with Enver Pasha, has rapidly increased since the recent disasters in the Caucasus. A widespread conspiracy has been discovered, led by a relative of Prince Sabaheddin, who has succeeded in escaping. Numerous arrests have been made.

Treasurer Shot Himself.

UTICA, N.Y., Jan. 18.—William E. Richards, formerly treasurer of this county, and for many years prominent in the counsels and leadership of the county, and for many years prominent in the counsels and leadership of the Republican party, committed suicide by shooting. He was a member of a prosperous insurance agency and prominent in fraternal circles. It is supposed that he was discouraged over some recent speculations.

To Ship Horses at Once.

OTTAWA, Jan. 18.—Owing to the special demand for horses for the British army some of the horses now being purchased for the second Canadian contingent will probably be shipped at once to England, others being purchased to take their places.

In electing Garza, the convention declared itself to be supreme and until a new President is elected, has assumed all the legislative, executive and judicial powers.

British Officers Escape.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—British naval officers interned in Holland formally notified the military authorities some time ago of their desire to be relieved from their parole, according to a Central News despatch from Amsterdam. From that time forward they were strictly confined to camp, but early this week seven of the officers escaped at night. Two of them obtained an automobile and it is understood have reached England. The others were recaptured at Harderwijk.

As a consequence of this attempt all British officers have been transferred to the fortress at Bodegraven.

Gen. Stoessel was condemned to death by a court-martial for surrendering Port Arthur to the Japanese, but the sentence was commuted to a term of imprisonment.

Life and Its Tenacity

In reply to a number of questions regarding life and its tenacity, here are results of biological laboratory experiments made by Dr. Paul Becquerel of Paris university:

Seeds and spores of plants were sealed in glass tubes. All air was removed to the extreme modern vacuum limit, and then the tubes were submerged in liquid air during three weeks at the temperature of 310 degrees below zero F. and under liquid hydrogen at the temperature of 418 degrees during seventy-seven hours. After a year some of the spores, and after two years all of them, germinated and grew.

This is a remarkable fact—that is, some of the spores required two years to awaken from their sleep of apparent death in liquid hydrogen.

Life seems therefore, at least in the case of these seeds and germs, to be a chemical process—the activity of chemism was suspended or stopped by the intense cold.

So put your finger into liquid air. The cold kills the flesh and the dead part must be amputated. But life in seeds and plants, whatever it may be, survived. Humans have no clew to the nature of life. Calling it a phase of chemism does not help, since none knows what that is.

My theory is that chemism is a motion of and readjustment in atomic states of electrons. These are electricity. But what electricity is is unknown.—Edgar Lucien Larkin in New York American.

ALLIES ARE BACK IN POSITIONS EVACUATED BECAUSE OF FIRES

Absolute Quiet in the Vicinity of Soissons

Three Vessels Sunk by Russian Torpedo Boats

Revolutionary Rumors Numerous in Constantinople

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Jan. 19. — The afternoon official announcement says: "Positions evacuated by the Allies at La Boiselle because of fires, on Sunday and early Monday, were re-captured yesterday, and in the forest of Le Pretre the French occupied another field work of the enemy.

"In the vicinity of Soissons there was yesterday absolute quiet.

"There were snowstorms in Belgium and the Vosges.

"At most points the fighting was confined to artillery exchanges."

PETROGRAD, Jan. 19. — Russian torpedo boats have sunk three sailing vessels at Sinope, Asia Minor.

NEWS OF TURKISH DEFEATS SUPPRESSED.

LONDON, Jan. 19. — A despatch from Athens says that news of the Turkish defeats in the Caucasus is being suppressed in Constantinople, where the execution of anybody spreading unauthorized reports has been ordered. Revolutionary rumors are numerous.

HEAVY FIGHTING REPORTED AT YPRES.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 19. — The Sluis correspondent of the Telegraaf says that heavy artillery fighting has been heard since Monday around Ypres, where the Germans have assumed an active offensive. The Telegraaf says inhabitants of the country around Ghent are forbidden to discuss the war, and prisons are filled with citizens who have transgressed German proclamations on this point.

REFUSAL BY BRITAIN IN CASE OF STEAMER DACIA

Vessel Cannot Make Trip to Rotterdam With Cotton Cargo.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Washington, Jan. 19.—The State Department was notified from London today that the British Government will not allow the steamer Dacia, recently transferred from German to American registry, to proceed under safe conduct to Rotterdam with her cargo of cotton.

LONDON, Jan. 19. — The British Government probably will reply today to the request of the United States Government, that the former Hamburg-American Line steamship Dacia, which now flies the American flag, be permitted to make one trip with cotton from the United States for Germany without the voyage being considered a precedent establishing the right of German ships interned in the United States to be transferred to the American flag, and then resume uninterrupted trade with Germany.

The opinion is general in official circles that Great Britain cannot make an exception in this instance. The Dacia case has produced a marked impression in England. It is generally discussed in the streets by men of all classes and the feeling voiced against the position of the United States concerning the Dacia is much more bitter than that aroused by the American note concerning delays to shipping, as the definite case of the Dacia is far better understood than the generalities of the note.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR MILITARY FUNERAL

With full military honors the body of the late John Lightfoot will be interred in Little Lake Cemetery Wednesday afternoon. The body arrived in the city last evening, accompanied east by Corporal O'Connor, a friend of the deceased. The funeral service will be held at the residence of his brother-in-law, W. H. Collier, 405 Walton street, at 2.30, conducted by the Rev. J. P. Wilson, and the cortege will leave for the cemetery at three o'clock, led by the 57th Regiment Band. It was hoped that a gun carriage would be available, but there are none in the city, as far as could be learned. Immediately following th hearse will march the members of No. 6 Company, from which the firing party of fourteen will be chosen. The firing party will be in charge of Col. Sergt. Dodds.

The late Mr. Lightfoot, when in Peterborough, was a member of No. 6 Company, which was commanded by Capt. A. P. McLean. It is also expected that those who have volunteered for active service in the mounted rifles and infantry will accompany the body to its last resting place.

BARN RAISING OUT OF SEASON

An unique event occurred in Smith township last week, when Mr. J. Gordon Mann, of "The Pines," held a barn-raising. The usual time for such events is June or July, but Mr. Mann had all preliminary steps executed in the fall, and, favored by good weather, he held the raising "out of season." The new barn, which is 30 feet by 70 feet in dimensions, was framed and the rafters placed before dark.

Abundance of help was available. In all, over thirty willing workers assisted.

STEAM TURBINE OUTFIT WOULD BE MOST RELIABLE

In Opinion of Consulting Engineer of Utilities Commission

COST ESTIMATES

First Class Gasoline Outfit Would be Found Satisfactory

Wm. Kennedy, consulting engineer to the Utilities Commission, has submitted a report, dealing with the proposed auxiliary plant at the waterworks. Mr. Kennedy gives six different units with cost estimates. The report is as follows:—

An auxiliary pumping plant should be capable of furnishing a sufficient quantity of water for the demands of the domestic supply or about 3,000,000 gallons per day—a little over 2,000 gallons per minute; also sufficient to meet ordinary demands for for fire purposes. 1,000 gallons per minute or four good and effective fire streams, a total of 3,000 gallons per minute at 90 lbs. pressure per square inch at the pump house and this is the capacity contemplated in each of the following suggestions:

1. Turbine pump with electric motor.
2. Turbine pump with steam turbine.
3. Same as No. 2 but with electric motor added.
4. Turbine pump with reciprocating high speed steam engine as motive power.
5. Turbine pump with gas engine.
6. Turbine pump with gasoline engine.

Referring to the foregoing:

No. 1.—This would be the most feasible and inexpensive plant, almost ideal in use but as the necessary electric current for its operation must necessarily be obtained from water power driven plant, subject to the same interruption from troubles as your present pumping plant, I cannot recommend the adoption.

No. 2.—In addition to cost of pumping unit, proper, (steam turbine and turbine pump) the only considerable cost for steam boiler and fittings, boiler house, smoke stack, etc., also banking fire at certain weather conditions, to provide against sudden shut down, at the power plant, I repeat, in short, the cost of such complete outfit is really the only substantial objection to a well equipped steam plant.

I estimate the cost of a really efficient steam turbine, plant ready for use at say $17,750. This includes suction and discharge pipes to and from the pump, stop valves, etc., amounting to say $1,000. This amount is included in all estimates herewith.

No. 3.—Owing to uncertainty of electric current for operating a motor, I cannot recommend the addition of a motor to a steam plant. The additional cost for motor fully equipped would be nearly $4000.

No. 4—Although a very efficient and reliable outfit the cost of a big speed outfit would be too great; say $15,000 to $20,000.

No. 5.—Gas engine outfit: this also is too costly, say $15,000 to over.

No. 6.—Gasoline engine direct connected to turbine pump, this proposal has the advantage of less first cost and always ready for operation. Its greatest objection, probably, is the necessity for more skill in management (starting and operation) than steam power. I think however that a reliable unit can be secured that may be operated by the regular pump house staff.

The estimated cost of a complete gasoline outfit it from $8,500 upward —to say $12,000 or even more, depending principally on the speed of engine, the higher speeds being lower in price.

My opinion is that the steam turbine outfit would be the most reliable auxiliary but that a first class gasoline outfit will be found satisfactory for the purpose required. As between the two I am not prepared to make a definite recommendation until tenders are received, together with plans, and actual cost figures guarantees of operation, etc. I may state however that I have had low cost figures on such a plant from a very reliable contracting company.

Either a gasoline or steam pumping unit may be very conveniently placed in the present pump house; the boiler house would be an entirely separate building but convenient to the pump house.

Partial Settlement of Protest by the Grocers

Thirty grocers turned out last evening in response to an appeal to protest against the action which the bakers took yesterday in raising the price of bread on them. However, it was reported that a partially satisfactory settlement had been reached whereby two bakers had agreed to continue furnishing the grocers with the staff of life at the original price.

The grocers put up a stiff front and positively refused to handle the bread at a profit of only one cent.

Transfer License to New Proprietor

Although the license has not been formally transferred to Mr. James A. Bolger, the new proprietor of the White House, it will be by Saturday night, according to License Inspector Stewart. There was to have been a meeting of the commissioners last evening, but it had to be laid over till Saturday. Meanwhile Mr. Bolger is in charge at the hotel.

Judgment Given in Assessment Appeal

His Honor Judge Huycke yesterday gave judgment in the assessment appeal of A. E. Micks versus the city. Mr. Micks had appealed against being assessed for a lane-way beside his store on the east side, claiming that as it was used by the owners of a garage at the rear, and not by himself, he was not taxable for it. He also appealed against being assessed on the west side, which is over the Hunter street creek. The appeal was allowed as to the westerly 12 feet 6 inches, but failed on the remainder, leaving 22 feet 6 inches assessable for street pavement. There were no costs to eithr party.

DISTURBANCE AT SIMCOE ST. HOME

Cries for Help Were Answered by Police

The sound of a disturbance coming from a Simcoe Street house and the cries of a man and woman for help sent the police last night to the scene where they found Alonzo York, a young man, in an intoxicated state, trying to force his way into the house, by the rear stair way. He was arrested. This morning Sergeant Brown said that York was in the habit of spending part of his time at this house but that his presence at all times was not desirable, especially when he was intoxicated. York was fined $2 which was paid for him by a friend.

MERCHANTS AND MANUFACTURERS

Important Meeting in City Council Chamber Tonight

Every manufacturer and merchant is asked to be at the City Council chambers tonight, when an elaborate memorial of protest against the restricted C. P. R. train service for Peterborough will be laid before the gathering for discussion and approval. There will be an opportunity for the presentation of arguments for and against it. If it goes through and is executed, it is the intention of the committee to carry it to the head office of the C. P. R. Before such a step is made, the committee will endeavor to enlist the support of the City Council in the matter.

The idea is to form a deputation and go direct to Montreal and submit the memorial to the vice-president.

QUAKE IS FELT IN SOUTH WEST ITALY

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

ROME, Jan. 19. — A strong earthquake has occurred in Calabria, south west Italy. The entire population of Cosenza, as well as the inhabitants of Paola, Amantea, Castrovillari, and Rossana, left their houses when the earth shocks occurred. Fortunately there were no victims in these towns. People, however, cannot be induced to return to dwellings, as they fear a repetition of the shocks. Grave news comes from Ortucchio, southeast of Avezzano, where victims are reported to number two thousand. One thousand dead are buried under the ruins of a cathedral.

ALL SAINTS' CONGRATULATED ON THEIR ACCOMPLISHMENT

What proved to be a very interesting program and an occasion of much enjoyment was the rally of All Saints' congregation in the parish hall last night. It was another step towards increasing the interest in church work, and undoubtedly the members of the church were enthused by the encouraging and optimistic remarks of the rector and the other speakers, Rev. J. N. Clarry, Rev. Canon Davidson, M. A., Rev. James Price, Mayor Buller, and Mr. C. E. Sisson.

Rev. Mr. Grobb expressed his personal gratitude, which he felt was shared by the congregation on the completion of the church. They now had a splendid equipment, and he was sure the congregation would rise to their oportunities and successfully carry on the true function of the church. He paid a glowing tribute to the artistic skill of Mr. Arthur Kingdon, a member of St. John's Church, who, to a large extent, gratuitously decorated the interior of the church and brought about the added beauty.

Mayor Buller extended the congratulations of the city and expressed his own gratification and pleasure at the accomplishment of the congregation. He prophesied that at no distant future the attendance at the services would tax accommodation, and that standing room only would remain for those who came late. Chimes would also peal forth from the tower.

The greetings of the Ministerial Association and those of St. James Methodist Church were extended by Rev. J. N. Clarry, vice-president of the Ministerial Association. He made a very happy speech.

Very cordial congratulations were also extended by Rev. Canon Davidson and Rev. James Price, and Mr. C. E. Sisson, representing the building committee, made an appropriate speech.

The speeches were interspersed with the following program:

PETERBOROUGH, TUESDAY, JANUARY 19, 1915

THE APPEALS FROM QUEBEC.

THE AGITATION in Quebec over the bi-lingual school question in Ontario comes at a singularly inopportune time. When the whole British Empire is straining every resource to fight Germany and to maintain its integrity, it is not in the best interests of the British cause, nor is it assisting Canada to do her part, for Quebec to raise a contentious racial and religious question. Why this should be done at this time of trial by men like His Eminence Cardinal Begin or Premier Sir Lomer Gouin passes comprehension, unless it is to take advantage of such a state as war brings upon a nation. But, if these prominent French-Canadians, who, it appears, have been misled by unfounded reports and illogical deductions, have any intention of forcing this question on the Dominion Parliament, or on the Canadian people, and of taking undue advantage of war conditions, they will find, we have no doubt, a most emphatic and outspoken opposition throughout English-speaking Canada. Religion should not be brought into this question, and any claim for recognition of the French language should be considered on its legal or constitutional grounds and on its practicability.

Were the French in Ontario oppressed with any injustice, there would be some cause for complaint. There is no obstacle whatever placed in the way of the relatively few French people in Ontario speaking the French language wherever and whenever they please. The Government of Ontario, at the instance of Bishop Fallon, of London, undertook to insure that each child in the French-Canadian constituencies of Ontario would receive a good education, and that is what they were not receiving before. This action necessitated the instruction in the upper classes being given in English, and this is the basis for the charge that the French in Ontario are being denied the privilege to speak their mother tongue! In Ontario, it is essential that everybody, French included, should have a working knowledge of English. It is in the interest of the French in Ontario that they should have this, and their parents want them to acquire this knowledge. French is taught in these schools, is used, as far as necessary, as a medium of instruction, but in the higher grades instruction is given in English. Anyone who wants more than that is apparently either straining at a gnat, or demanding far more than can be reasonably asked.

A further point, that shows how weak a case is being presented, is the claim to rights—inalienable rights. From a constitutional point of view, the claim of the French language for recognition, outside of Quebec, is without any adequate foundation.

Newspapers throughout Ontario are universally commenting adversely on the unreasonable claims of the French in Quebec. Among many, here is what the Hamilton Herald says:

> "It was to be expected that efforts would be made by Armand Lavergne and others in the Quebec Legislature to represent this school question as a religious one involving the rights of the Roman Catholic minority in Ontario and the bigotry of the Protestant majority. The frequent use of the phrase, "our co-religionists in Ontario," was intended to produce that impression. But it is not a religious question at all. Ontario Protestants are not directly interested in it except in so far as the welfare of the Province as a whole is affected. The dispute is between the English-speaking Roman Catholics of Ontario and their French co-religionists who demand special privileges for the French language in the separate schools of certain districts — privileges which would interfere with the proper education of English-speaking children in these districts. The strongest Ontario opponent of such special privileges is Right Rev. Dr. Fallon, the gifted Roman Catholic bishop of London. Bishop Fallon opposes such bi-lingual education as the French desire because he is convinced that it is bad, both for the French-speaking and English-speaking children who are instructed under that system."

SHALLOW ARGUMENT.

THE FOLLOWING is from La Presse, one of the leading French newspapers of Canada:

> "As a matter of fact, French was planted in Ontario before English was; they had French juries; they were sworn in in French, and they spoke French in the parliamentary chambers. In the first session of 1841 they adopted rule 28 that 'a copy of the journal of the House, of the Speech from the Throne, of the addresses and of the messages, should be laid on the table in French,' and rule 38 'that all motions shall be read in English and in French' either by the Speaker or the Clerk. The House also ordered that the statutes, the bills and other documents should be printed in French. The English Parliament has never abolished or diminished in the slightest degree the privileges granted by the constitutional act of 1791 to the territory later converted into Upper Canada."

Could any argument be shallower or more calculated to mislead the public? This paragraph has been circulated among thousands of French-Canadians, who will regard it as a fair statement of historical fact, when it is not so. It contains just enough truth to be doubly wrong.

The Quebec Act of 1774 was the instrument of government in Canada until 1791, when the Constitutional Act was passed. This act divided the country into two separate provinces or commonwealths, known as Upper and Lower Canada. When the Quebec Act was passed there were really no settlers in the territory later known as Upper Canada, and it was chiefly owing to the influx of loyalists into this territory, as well as into Quebec, that a new constitution was framed for British North America. Thus, the Quebec Act never had any application to Upper Canada until the loyalist settlers arrived, and they continually protested against it. In the Act of 1791 it was stated that the Quebec Act was to remain in force until repealed, so that as far as Upper Canada was concerned, the Act of 1774 ceased to be law.

The Act of 1791 was designed to satisfy both English and French settlers in Canada, and so there were no French rights established in Upper Canada. There were no privileges granted French sections of population because they were a negligible quantity. Upper Canada was the English province, in fact as well as law.

The Act of Union of 1841 established no real French privileges for Upper Canada or Ontario, as La Presse attempts to insinuate. The Parliament of 1841 was a united Parliament, selected from both Upper and Lower Canada, and the historical facts La Presse points to in the above paragraph were never intended to apply to Ontario, or Upper Canada, but to Quebec, or Lower Canada. It was because Lower Canada had representatives in the United Parliament that these rules were adopted, and, at the time of passage, there was no intention that they conveyed any rights, privileges, or precedents for French people who might live in what was later the Province of Ontario.

It is true the statutes were printed in French as well as English, but they were so printed, not for Ontario, but for the benefit of French-Canadians in Quebec. The adoption of the rules referred to and the printing of the statutes in French were solely for the benefit of the French in Lower Canada, and carried no educational privileges nor language rights in the Upper Province. There were no French public schools in Upper Canada, no talk of French language privileges for Upper Canada at that time.

Pass on to 1867, when the present constitution was made the fundamental law of the land. Each province was given the control of its own education. There is nothing in the Act that can be construed as granting the French language recognition outside of Quebec. English is the official language in Parliament and provinces, although French is also an official language in the Dominion Parliament and in the Legislature of Quebec. The statutes in Ontario are only printed in English, and have really never been printed in any other language.

Considering the varied chain of constitutional acts that pertain to Canada, where is the legal basis for what the French claim? If they had any just claim, so far as Ontario is concerned, why was it not advanced in 1791, in 1841, or in 1867? What La Presse virtually says is that because Dominion statutes are printed in French as well as English, French ought to be recognized as an official language in Ontario or in any place else. There is absolutely no connection between the two. As well say that because there are canals in Ontario there ought to be canals in Quebec, or the moon. If the French of Quebec have any just basis for their claims, they should advance them, and not make their whole case one of assertion or of miss-application of isolated and inapplicable historical facts.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

IT IS to be hoped that the council of the township of Smith will take some definite steps to commemorate the first settlement and survey of that township in 1818. The people of today are enjoying the fruits of the pioneers' toil, who came to that locality and first made the forest ring with the settler's axe. People in the business life of this country do not look back enough to their ancestors.

Britain's Peaceful Policy.

(C. A. Magrath in The Canadian War.)

The people of Germnay say the responsibility for this war scourge rests on Great Britain, and a deep hatred is developing towards us. They say that Britain is jealous of their wonderful progress. Is it reasonable to suggest that a nation is jealous of the trade expansions of a neighbour — a nation that preaches and practises "free trade"; that stands for the "open door" throughout the world; that has had command of the seven seas for over a century, and that this generation has not taken any unfair trade advantage of any other nation through that control?

The Risk and the Certainty.

(Westminster Gazette.)

The distinction between insuring against the risk and preparing for the certainty is all-important. The only power which can prepare for war as a certainty is the power which is determined to make war. It alone knows the day and the hour, and can bring its forces up to the required strength at the time decreed. Such a power must always have the advantage which the offensive gives to those who seize it. It can mass its forces behind a screen of peaceful intentions, and prepare for the great rush which is to take its enemy unawares. That advantage Germany took by her practice of the 'preventive war," so called, and one of the things we are fighting for now is to make it impossible for her to take it again.

The Child's Resolve.

(London Sketch.)

Peggy (aged seven), who has strong views on Huns, found a new and beautiful doll in her stocking yesterday morning. A little later in the day she discovered the horrid fact that it was "made in Germany." For a few tense moments the pride of her new possession had a mental wrestle with patriotism. Then she said: "Well, she's very young—and I'll bring her up English."

FINANCIAL STATEMENT BANK OF NOVA SCOTIA

Annual Report Bespeaks or the Strength Shown by This Institution

The Bank of Nova Scotia's eighty-third Annual Report, as at December 31st, 1914, appears in this issue, and shows, as usual, that this institution loses none of its strength in its advancing years. Against its total liabilities to the public, consisting of notes in circulation and deposits, it holds no less than 20 per cent. in specie and Dominion notes, and 64 per cent. in "quick" or readily realizable assets. Total assets reach the large sum of $95,733,670, an increase for the year of $15,581,841. Most of this increase is due to the absorption of the Metropolitan Bank, but the total deposits now shown are $3,944,948 in excess of the combined deposits of both banks a year ago. The Paid-up Capital amounts to $6,500,000, and the Reserve Fund to $12,000,000, giving a total Capital and Reserve of $18,500,000, and providing an unusually large excess of assets over public liabilities, an important point for the consideration of the depositor.

The Bank's profits of $1,196,116, with the balance of $41,124 standing at credit of Profit and Loss Account December 31, 1913, are distributed as follows:

Dividends for year at 14 per cent.	$848,750.00
Contribution to Canadian, Newfoundland & Jamaica (£500) Patriotic Funds	32,433.00
Contribution to Newfoundland Sealers Disaster Fund	5,000.00
Contribution to Officers' Pension Fund	50,000.00
Transferred to Reserve Fund	100,000.00
Bal. carried forward, Dec. 31, 1914	201,057.00

The Statement this year bears the certificate of the well-known chartered accountant's firm, Marwick, Mitchell Peat & Co.

DESERVES SUPPORT.

Editor, Review:

Sir,—May I be allowed to ask for liberal patronage for the splendid program to be given in St. Paul's Church tonight by the Adanac Quartette and Mr. Hesselberg? Initial expenses are always heavy, without artists' fees, and a concert of this class deserves the support of all who can arrange to attend.

Yours truly,

BAIL RENEWED

Gordon McCutcheon Appears in Police Court and is Remanded

TORONTO, Jan 19. — Gordon B. McCutcheon, who was arrested last Friday night on a charge of conspiracy to defraud, was allowed in the police court yesterday morning to reserve his plea and election till Jan. 26, when he will again appear. Bail of $10,000 was renewed.

J. R. Snow, K.C., counsel for the accused, stated that those arrested in Calgary in connection with the same case were allowed out on bail, to appear in Toronto. In a telegram he had received it was stated that the men would appear in Toronto on their own free will.

Four civic actions, in which the McCutcheon Bros. or other members of their real estate firm are implicated, are awaiting trial in the Ontario Supreme Court. The Toronto Alberta Land Co., Ltd., is suing Gordon D. McCutcheon and McCutcheon Bros., Ltd. In the statement of claim it alleged that the defendants formed a syndicate to promote a land deal near Cayuga, Athabasca, and promised to return certain money obtained within one year and with it was to come 300 per cent. profit.

Atomic Attraction.

Hydrogen and oxygen gases separately may be compressed to the liquid form, and then the compression further is exceedingly difficult. But in the chemical union of two atoms of hydrogen with one of oxygen to form a water molecule the immense force of atomic attraction, or chemism, as one may prefer to name the force, is one of the most powerful in nature. It reduces huge volumes of the gases down to a far less volume, and the force is far greater than can be secured in any machine of screws, levers or hydraulic presses. Atomic attraction is perhaps the most powerful in nature. At least it is strong enough to hold atoms of steel and platinum together and diamonds.—New York American.

MOMENTO OF A BRAVE BUGLER

This shrapnel-riddled bugle belonged to the 18-year-old bugler of the 2nd Battalion King's Royal Rifle Corps, who was killed by the full blast of a shrapnel shell at the battle of the Aisne. The lad's body was blown to pieces, but the company quartermaster-sergeant, at great personal risk in the face of a terrible fire, recovered the battered instrument and after carrying it through many weeks of fighting has brought it home as the only tangible momento available for the dead bugler's relatives.

End of the Earth in Two Million Years

Scientists tell us that life on the earth began about 2,000,000 years ago. It has generally been accepted that life will last for 95,000,000 years.

Ninety-five million years is a fairly long time. None of us who are alive today need worry about what will take place 95,000,000 years hence. Even the most altruistic can scarcely be inspired by love for an inconceivably remote posterity.

But the French savants are altogether disturbing. Here comes one, M. Verronet, who says that the earth will permanently freeze within the next 2,000,000 years and that life will vanish. This is bringing the tragedy nearer home. We would glady accept the older reckoning.

Verronet places mankind of today about midway between the beginning and the end. He computes that in the future life will exist as long as it has already existed. He specifies only one forty-eighth as long a life as those who have studied in the past.

There is only one consolation to be derived from the Verronet reckoning. As far as the influence of today is concerned 2,000,000 years is as good as 95,000,000. In either event those who are comfortably laboring today cannot expect to be lovingly remembered when the cataclysm of ice makes the earth a barren wilderness.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

There's a Fine

For selling butter not properly put up and correctly branded.

Government dairy regulations require that when DAIRY BUTTER is put up in blocks, squares or prints and wrapped in parchment paper, the paper shall be printed or branded with the words "Dairy Butter" in letters at least one-quarter inch square.

Imitation Parchment paper (which some sell) is no better than common tissue as soon as it becomes damp; and cheap inks stain the butter, making it unsaleable. We use only PURE PARCHMENT printed with SPECIAL INDELIBLE INK.

The Return of Gypsy

It Made the Foothills Look Natural Again

By ADDISON HOWARD GIBSON

In the amethystine haze of an April morning on the Arizona foothills the cowboys of Circle H wheeled their bronchos into the gray dust of the trail.

There was a wild jangle of spurs, a clatter of restive hoofs, and they were off like one of the brown whirlwinds of their own desert to meet Gypsy and "the boss," who were coming to the ranch to spend a week.

They had derisively hurled "Adios, Layne!" at the bronzed young foreman as he leaned against the corral gate. They could not understand why he had persistently refused to join their reception committee.

It really was not the coming of Herington, "the boss," that was calling forth the unusual demonstration, but the return of Gypsy, their little comrade of the range, whom they had not seen for four years. It never entered their simple heads that two years of school in France, followed by two more of travel and society, might have changed their merry, fun loving little pet.

She was coming back as she had promised—that was the dominant consideration—and off they went, whooping.

Ned Layne, however, knew differently. He had seen her a year ago, and the knowledge had come to him then. She was a young lady, and they—and he—were only cowboys. As he leaned against the gate he thought of the old days. He remembered her eyes and voice on the evening before she departed into the world and remembered how she had said to him:

"Goodby, Ned. Father is going to give you the place of foreman. Make the most of your opportunities and buy out the Bar T. Don't forget me, Ned." and her eyes had been moist when she suddenly dropped them.

"I'll never forget you, Gypsy," he had promised stoutly, pressing the hand that fluttered in his.

"When I come home to the ranch I want you to be here to meet me," she added.

"I'll be sure to meet you," he returned. Then the train had borne her away to the new life, so different from that among the boys on her father's ranch.

Ned Layne and Gypsy Herington had been great comrades in those care free days, and if now he was the only one not riding out to meet her it was because he felt that those old days were gone forever and would best be forgotten. There should be nothing on his part to remind her of old promises and old thoughts that could have no place in her life any more.

Just a year ago Layne had seen her once at a great hotel in New York, where the wealthy ranchman and his daughter were stopping. He had gone all the way to the far eastern city for no other purpose than to see her, but the result had been a sadly discouraging one, and he had said farewell to his dreams. Gypsy, dressed in a bewildering gown and moving with bewildering ease and elegance among the elegant throng that oppressed the ranchman, was on her way to the opera under escort of an immaculately clad young Englishman possessed of a big title, and Layne was left to be entertained by her father.

She had asked him to come back and breakfast with them, but her changed bearing and the cool treatment accorded to him by the condescending nobleman had nettled Layne. He took the very next train back to the land of sunshine, where people were not proud and stuck up and did not forget old friends.

On his return the cowboys of Circle H had besieged him eagerly for news of their little chum of the ranch.

"Yes, I saw her," he answered, veiling the bitterness in his heart, "and she's a great belle in her society togs. She has a beau, Lord Percy Ellington, one of those plug hatted chaps, and she seems to like his attentions all right. The boss says he followed them back from Europe."

Having imparted this information to the news hungry men, Ned had gone off by himself under the starlight and finally abandoned all his old plans and hopes.

Ever since that night the young man had been formulating a plan for his future, which he kept strictly to himself, resolved to execute the first step toward it when the owner of the ranch returned to his own again. Accordingly he mounted Muggins, his own pony, and rode rapidly away across the brown mesa before the party could arrive.

From an eminence his well trained eyes caught the blur of rising dust far up the trail. Nearer approach enabled him to recognize the ranch buckboard driven by Bobcat Nick. Seated by the driver was the trim figure of Gypsy, while the stout form of Herington and a slender man wearing a derby occupied the back seat. Trailing behind or galloping proudly on either side of the vehicle rode the adoring cowboys, chatting merrily with their old friend.

At sight of the derby hat a frown crossed Ned's face, and, putting spur to the unoffending Muggins, the disgruntled young horseman rode off down the gulch.

"Ellington along!" he exclaimed "Yet what right have I to be surprised or care for that? No doubt Herington wants to show his prospective son-in-law what a fine ranch he has for his daughter."

When he had reached the live oak thicket, quite a distance away, he let Muggins rest. Throwing himself upon the ground, he surrendered his mind to a train of miserable thoughts.

He had lain there a long time, when suddenly he was aroused from his bitter reflections by the clatter of hoofs over the rocky trail.

Pushing back his sombrero from his eyes, he looked up into the smiling face of Gypsy, seated upon Slap Dash, her favorite pony.

"And this is the way you keep your promise?" she said reproachfully.

He scrambled to his feet and, throwing one arm across the saddle on his pony's back, leaned there till he could summon self mastery.

"What do you care, Gypsy?" he finally interrogated, his eyes stubbornly refusing to meet hers.

Some of the brightness left the girl's face as she noted the misery on his.

"Tell me what it all means, Ned," she begged. "Why are you not yourself? Why do I find you so changed?"

"Changed? Heavens!" and he could not forbear a gesture of impatience. "You"—

"Here," she interrupted in the scolding tone of her privileged girlhood, "we come all the way from New York to pay you a visit at Circle H, arrive and find this on the table," and she held up a letter. "What do you mean by resigning? Why do you want to leave father's ranch? He is wild over it and sent me to find you."

"I should think Ellington might object to your riding after me," he remarked, his bronze cheeks reddening with scorn.

"Ellington?" Then a light broke over her face. "That funny lord? Why, Lord Percy is in England long ago. Finding me too loyal an American to buy a foreign title, he ended the long siege and departed."

"Who came with you and your father, then?" he inquired.

"Oh, that was Cousin Cyril, who is just out of college and needs the tonic of our mountain ozone."

Slipping lightly from the back of Slap Dash, she came over to Ned and in her old way put both hands on his strong young shoulder.

"Now, Ned," she said, "you won't leave Circle H, will you? Father needs you."

"Why did you treat me as you did in New York?" he moodily demanded, evading the question.

"Before a stranger—and Lord Percy at that?" asked she, laughing roguishly. "If, sir, you had come to breakfast next morning I—I might have treated you otherwise."

He turned, facing her squarely. With one of his strong hands he imprisoned both of hers and held them against his breast.

"What would you have done if—if I had come?" he said breathlessly.

Her lovely face went very crimson under the searchlight of his eyes, but she answered bravely, "Ned, I'd have kissed you right out."

The foothills looked natural again. The sun shone with its old time glint and shimmer upon the gray desert sand. He had no longer the feverish desire to get away to fresh scenes.

"I'll stay at Circle H always, Gypsy, since you wish it," and, taking his written resignation from her, he tore it into fragments. "Say, sweetheart," he added, putting an arm tenderly round her waist, "I'll buy out Bar T tomorrow and we'll run both ranches together."

THE ONLY CURE FOR CONSTIPATION

Is "Fruit-a-tives"—That Wonderful Remedy Made From Fruit Juices.

AVON, ONT., MAY 14th. 1913.

"I have used "Fruit-a-tives" for Indigestion and Constipation with most excellent results, and they continue to be my only medicine. When I first started about six years ago to use them, I took four at a dose but gradually reduced the dose to one tablet at night. Before taking "Fruit-a-tives", I took salts and other pills but the treatment was too harsh. I thought I might as well suffer from the illness as from these treatments. Finally, I saw "Fruit-a-tives" advertised with a letter in which some one recommended them very highly, so I tried them, and I have no hesitation in recommending them." ANNIE E. CORBETT.

The Wedding Ring.

There are several theories as to the origin of the wedding ring. Here is one of them: Before the time of mints and coinage the gold money in Egypt was made in the form of a ring, usually worn on the finger as a convenient method of carrying and safe keeping. The men and women therefore had all their gold or wealth made into rings, and for the majority of people these rings were no larger than the plain gold bands of to-day. Thus when the groom placed the ring on the bride's finger he meant exactly what the modern service makes him say—he did actually endow his bride with all his worldly goods.

The Colorado River.

The Colorado river was named by the Spaniards from a word in their language, meaning ruddy or red, an allusion to the tint of the water. La Salle first named the river Maligne, which means "misfortune," one of two of his party having been drowned in its current.—Exchange.

City of a Thousand Theaters.

Scattered throughout New York city's five boroughs there are between 1,000 and 1,050 theaters and moving picture houses. Early in the summer the number of licensed places for the exhibition of motion pictures was about 750, of which 223 were open air affairs. At the beginning of the year there were more than a thousand moving picture places of one kind or another, but stricter city regulations have caused many concerns to go out of business.—Gas Logic.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Colic.

The word colic is often used to describe any severe pain in the abdomen, but it is, of course, true that pain in that region has many causes. The pain that simple colic causes may be very severe, and it may be attended by vomiting, profuse sweating and the partial collapse of the sufferer. If the pain does not quickly abate call a doctor, for the condition may in that case be serious. Colic of the simple sort will usually yield to home treatment and is quickly relieved by the removal of the cause of offense. There are one or two signs that will help the family to determine whether or not they ought to call a physician. In simple colic the patient usually moves about restlessly and tries first one position and then another in order to gain relief. If, on the other hand, the pain is caused by some grave organic trouble or if there is real intestinal obstruction or peritonitis the patient can hardly keep still enough. The expression of the face is also a guide to diagnosis. The expression in simple colic may be agonized, but it is a very different thing from the pinched and anxious pallor that accompanies serious abdominal trouble.

Cookery Points

Chestnut Dressing.

Chestnuts make a delicious dressing for the turkey. Take one pound Italian chestnuts, one-half cupful shortening, one cupful breadcrumbs, one-half cupful seeded raisins, one and one-half tablespoonfuls poultry seasoning, salt, pepper, celery salt, sugar, cayenne to taste.

Blanch the chestnuts; boil till very tender and put through a ricer. Add the breadcrumbs, shortening, seasoning and raisins and balance of seasonings to taste. Mix thoroughly.

Seeding Grapes.

When preparing grapes for pies get rid of the seeds by following this plan: Wash the grapes, slip off the skins and put them in one pan and the pulp in another. Cook the pulp for a few minutes and rub through a sieve, taking out all the seeds. Now add the skins and sugar to the pulp, cook for a few minutes and can and seal. It is all very quickly done, and the pies made of the grapes without the seeds are delicious.

Washing Fresh Fruit.

Wash fruits before eating. Millions of germs lurking on the outside cause trouble if they reach the stomach and bowels. Intestinal disturbances are also caused by unripe or overripe fruits. The only irritating properties are found in the rind or husk, which is easy to get rid of.

Old Fashioned Recipe.

IN SUCH PAIN WOMAN CRIED

Suffered Everything Until Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Florence, So. Dakota.—"I used to be very sick every month with bearing down pains and backache, and had headache a good deal of the time and very little appetite. The pains were so bad that I used to sit right down on the floor and cry, because it hurt me so and I could not do any work at those times. An old woman advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I got a bottle. I felt better the next month so I took three more bottles of it and got well so I could work all the time. I hope every woman who suffers like I did will try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound." — Mrs. P. W. LANSENG, Route No. 1, Florence, South Dakota.

Why will women continue to suffer day in and day out or drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, etc.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Thought He Was Mad.

The late Count de Lesseps was traveling on one occasion in a French railway train in a compartment with two commercial travelers.

"I beg your pardon, sir," said one of them—"are you not a traveler?"

"Certainly I am," said the count.

"We thought so! What is your line?"

"Isthmuses."

"Wh-wh-what," asked the puzzled commercial—"what are they?"

"I am introducing ship canals," said De Lesseps gravely.

The commercial travelers feared that they had fallen in with a lunatic and were making preparations to escape when the count handed them his card and put them at their ease.

Don't Throw Away Goodwill!

A well-known expert and advertising man, and one who is the head of a large mercantile business, recently made the following statement in regard to the temptation to discontinue advertising:

¶ "Probably more money is wasted in advertising by running consistently in a publication for a long time, and then suddenly dropping it, than in any other way.

¶ "It amounts to deliberately throwing away the goodwill which the readers of that publication have built up for the advertisers' name and product.

¶ "It is better to advertise moderately, but regularly, than to use large copy spasmodically."

The Voice of Successful Experience

Another well-known expert declares that persistent advertising pays, because:

¶ "Advertising is friendly. It persuades.

¶ "Slowly, but inevitably, it creates the attitude of goodwill and confidence.

¶ "It brings customers—who stay.

¶ "A business built up in this way is built on a firm foundation. It's the kind of success that lasts.

¶ "But it cannot be done in a day—or a month. Nothing but persistent advertising will accomplish this sort of success."

A Bit of Advice

It might be well for you, Mr. Merchant—Manufacturer—or whatever your calling—to take the advice of these experts—the experience of every successful business man, and use the columns of The Review moderately and consistently.

ADRIANOPLE EVACUATED

LONDON, Jan. 19. — The Turkish garrison at Adrianople, the partial withdrawal of which was previously reported, has now completely withdrawn, according to an Athens' despatch, which gives no explanation.

The London papers print a forecast appearing in The Paris Figaro, that Italy, Greece, Roumania and Bulgaria, will join the allies, but there is nothing more definite relative to this turn of affairs than there was a fortnight ago.

Germany is said to have 45 of these war machines, and they are reported to be rather active of late, although they have not thus far proven themselves of any great use except for dropping bombs on unfortified towns. Each is provided with a wireless outfit, while the bomb-dropper is suspended in an armored cage 2,000 feet below the balloon. His bombs are attached to the bottom of his car and are released by a pressure of the foot.

WAR IN 1915 WILL COST CANADA $100,000,000

Estimates at Ottawa For Approaching Session of Parliament Are Now Well in Hand and Point to a Record Expenditure—Hundred Million Takes no Account of Pensions.

OTTAWA, Jan. 19.—The estimates of the various departments are now well in hand and they will be ready for the session, which begins in a little over a fortnight. Everything that is not strictly necessary is being eliminated from the estimates. The big public works now under way in different parts of the country will be continued, but no new works of importance will be started. Many important public buildings that has been intended will be left over for the present on account of the heavy demands of the war and the difficulty of obtaining money for any other purposes.

It is understood that the militia estimates will include a war expenditure of $100,000,000 for the period from April 1 to the end of the present calendar year. This does not include pensions, which will also have to be provided for. It represents the cost of mobilizing, equipping, and transporting the second and third contingents and reinforcements and the maintenance of the Canadian force overseas.

Since the opening of the war the staff of the Militia Department has been increased by 500 employes. Several hundred have been taken on at headquarters, where there are now 180 in the accountant's branch alone, and others have been engaged at the headquarters of the various divisional areas and military districts.

No new armories or drill halls will be built while the war is in progress.

PICKED REGIMENTS ARE CALLED UP BY ENEMY

Hard Fighting is in Prospect in District of Soissons.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—The omission from the German official report of any reference to Soissons, the scene of the recent marked German success and the French statement that there had beeen no change in that region leads to the belief that a renewal of the violent struggle there is impending, the temporary quiet being due to the fact that neither side cares to risk an offensive in the present circumstances.

At widely separated points elsewhere on the western front there have been engagements, but the weather is again playing an important part. The storm in Belgium prevents operations except artillery duels, and snow in the Vosges, at the other extremity of the line, makes fighting exceedingly difficult.

In the Argonne, however, the fighting is almost continuous, and each side claims minor successes. For the time being the Germans seem to be more on the offensive than the defensive.

The Morning Post correspondent in the department of the Oise, writes:

"I have left the region of Soissons, where any immediate break through by the Germans appears unlikely in the near future. It is not so much that the Aisne is in flood, but that the most feasible passage for them is in the heart of the town. This, of course, involves considerable preliminary street fighting, always a long and murderous business. I understand that the continued bombardment is working further havoc in the place, but as all entrance is denied to any civilians, I cannot speak of what I cannot be allowed to see. Yet the Germans will probably prefer this street fighting, for they have brought up their picked Prussian regiments. Any attempt to cross the river at any point further east would bring the advancing troops under a heavy artillery fire. While holding parts of the northern suburbs, they may be expected to wait a day or two yet before attempting a coup.

"Journeying eastward along the Aisne, things do not improve, because, in point of fact, we are just as we were last September, and we are not in direct contact with the main German positions at any point. It is mostly a matter of outpost skirmishing with an artillery duel which is going on all the time along the Aisne valley. There is now a series of stone heaps where once there were villages. The havoc wrought has been terrible and is still going on."

An eye-witness with the French army gives a summary of the operations in the west. He says:

"The period from Jan. 5 to 15 has been like the preceding period, marked by wretched weather conditions—rain, snow, wind and fog, and mud. As a consequence the operations have slackened. The events worthy of note are:

"First, the extension and strengthening of our successful operations on the right bank of the Yser between St. Georges and the sea. The German offensive in this region has broken itself on the Yser; we have on the other hand, gained a broad open space beyond the river.

"Second, the fighting near Soissons, where our offensive began brilliantly, has been checked by the flooding of the Aisne, with the consequent destruction of three footbridges, preventing reinforcements from being sent to the right bank to oppose a very strong attack by the enemy; hence, there has been a withdrawal of our forces of less than 1,800 metres (a little over a mile) on a front of less than five kilometres (more than three miles).

"Third, the new advance gained by us in the region of Perthes, and the failure of all the counter-attacks of the enemy.

"Fourth, the failure of the German attacks in the Argonne.

"Fifth, the continuation and maintenance of our success in upper Alsace."

Hungarians Demand Transfer.

ROME, Jan. 19.—A demand that Hungarian soldiers now serving in the Austrian armies of southern Poland and western Galicia be transferred to Transylvania to defend their country from Russian invasion from Bukowina has been voiced by the Hungarian National Union, says a despatch to The Messagero from Bucharest.

The Hungarian Landstrum was called out in October when the Russians entered northern Hungary through the Dukla pass.

SIGNS MAY INDICATE FAILURE OF GERMANS

Russian Aviators' Reports Show That the Wave That Has Threatened Warsaw is Broken and a General Retirement of the Germans to Their Own Boundaries is Now Probable.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—There are indications in despatches from the eastern front of fresh movements of the enemy in southern Poland. The arrival of a German army at Kielce is reported, and is taken here to represent a vigorous offensive in co-operation with the Austrian forces engaged on the banks of the Nida and Dunajec.

Grenville Fortesque, correspondent of The London Telegraph, says: The aviators report much movement in Lowicz, which is interpreted as an evacuation of the town. If this is so the wave that has threatened Warsaw has been broken.

A nice question confronts the Germans now — whether to attempt to maintain themselves in Poland or to retire to their own frontier. If Gen. von Hindenburg's army strives to hold during the rest of the winter the position it occupies at present it will lose, at a minimum, 25 per cent. of its forces before spring. Part of this loss will be due to the Russian guns, but a large portion will come through sickness—and thes sacrifices will bring no results.

Every sign points to the fact that the wonderful German fighting machine is beginning to crack. During the last few weeks it has shown unmistakable signs of weakening at all points of contact. It is still capable of heavy fighting, but I am of the opinion that it has passed the period of its highest power.

Under these casualties the great German Staff might decide upon withdrawal to their own boundaries. Such a movement would be a moral defeat, but in view of their limited lines of communication the present battle area would be a safer experiment than the attempted occupation of seven of the ten governments of Poland.

The operations in East Prussia have a bearing on the situation here. A lieutenant-colonel from that district declares that the Russian army of the north is making slow but sure gains in this almost impossible country. Two of the outer forts of Lotzen have fallen, but the enemy still holds most of the railways. This leaves the north of Poland open to invasion, but should the Germans try to force their way to the south they will find a surprising number of Russian corps awaiting them.

Plock Virtually Occupied.

LONDON, Jan. 19. — The Daily Telegraph's Petrograd correspondent in a despatch dated Sunday says the Russians have not actually occupied Plock, in Russian Poland, but no Germans have been there for a fortnight. A few German troops, according to the correspondent, arrived in Plock two weeks ago, but hearing that Russians were in the vicinity they speedily departed.

AEROPLANES MAKE CHANGE IN WARFARE

Element of Surprise Has Been Almost Entirely Removed

LONDON, Jan. 19. — The British military observer at the front discusses the part aviation is playing in the military operations. In this connection the observer says:

"Aviation has profoundly modified warfare by eliminating the element of surprise, for so long as the weather permits aerial reconnaissance it is impossible to carry out any great concentration or movement of troops by day within a considerable radius without being discovered. Especially in the present form of warfare have the former functions of the cavalry, as regards reconnaissance, been usurped by the flying corps."

The officer then pays a tribute to the remarkable work of the British aviators and mentions as a frequent occurrence reconnaissance in "driving snow with the temperature below zero or in a gale, under fire of the enemy's anti-air craft guns, or traveling with the wind, when the machine rocks and sways and attains a speed of 100 miles an hour."

Ask Five Per Cent. Increase.

OTTAWA, Jan. 19.—An increase of 5 per cent. in eastern freight rates to United States points is asked for by the Canadian Railways in an application to the Dominion Railway Commission. They argue that this is necessitated by the increase granted in the United States. Canadian shippers, if they intend protesting, must do so by Feb. 1, as the new rates are to come into force Feb. 15, according to the application.

HUSBANDING RESOURCES

Britain Forbids Stock Issues Unless Absolntely Necessary

LONDON, Jan. 19.—How carefully Great Britain is guarding her financial resources during the war is indicated by the treasury regulations which have been deemed necessary with the opening of the Stock Exchange. Under these regulations issues of capital or the participation in issues for undertakings in the colonies will be permitted only where it is shown there is urgent necessity for them. Issues for undertakings within the United Kingdom will be permitted only when the treasury is convinced they are advisable in the national interest.

The Government view is that "until further notice all considerations must be subordinated to the paramount necessity of husbanding the financial resources of the country with a view to the successful prosecution of the war."

Invasion of Palestine Likely.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—A despatch to The Daily News from Cairo says on the authority of a missionary who has arrived there that the Turkish military preparations point to apprehension of a British invasion of Palestine. The hills around Nazareth, the correspondent says the missionary told him, have been fortified and that roads suitable for the transport of heavy guns are being constructed from Acre, Syria, to Mount Carmen.

There is a general belief among the natives still, according to the missionary, that Emperor William has been converted to Islam, and will undertake a pilgrimage to Mecca.

TURKISH FORCES DISORGANIZED

German Officers Now Say They do not Want Egypt

CAIRO, Jan. 19. — Fugitives from Syria report that Turkish soldiers there are without sufficient food, and that the army is in a state of disorganization. They are clothed in summer uniforms, which has been reduced to rags.

A force of 25,000 Bedouins, which was recruited at Hebron at the commencement of the war was left foodless, and they have returned to their homes in disgust.

Anatolian troops particularly are dissatisfied. German officers in command of the army now depreciate the importance of a victory over the British in Egypt if such campaign were carried through, and that project has been abandoned.

NOW WITHIN FOUR MARCHES OF ERZERUM

Russians are Inside Territory of the Turks

LONDON, Jan. 19. — The Daily News in a despatch from Frederick Rennett, its correspondent at Petrograd, says:

The Russians are now inside Turkish territory and within four marches of Erzerum. The garrison of Erzerum amounts to 30,000, with ample artillery, but is cut off from ammunition supplies from the coast and still more isolated by the winter conditions of the land route across Anatolia.

The Turkish winter campaign in the Caucasus has now suffered its final collapse. Its chances became very slender when the Goeben and Breslau failed to control communication in the Black Sea between Constantinople and Trebizond. The Turkish army assembled around Erzerum found itself cut off from reinforcements and supplies. With the heavy task of converting Enver Pasha's defeated and retreating corps at Kara Urgan into a force strong enough to continue the war with Russia, the Turkish rank and file fought stubbornly for ten days on frontier positions around Kara Urgan until on Saturday they fell victims to the careless and incompetent management of their German and Turkish leaders. Originally five corps were sent forward by Enver Pasha and Gen. von Sanders into Russian territory, but after the disasters at Ardagan and Sara Kamysh only the remnants of two corps could return, the 11th Turkish Corps, which was the reserve of the invading army. It is this combination which is now retreating hastily on the road to Erzerum with its rear guard annihilated and Enver himself hurrying to Constantinople. The German General Lange has been left to try and extricate the Turks from complete destruction. They have thrown great numbers of their field guns into the deep, snow-covered ravines.

AUSTRO-GERMAN LOSSES

LONDON, Jan. 19.—The Exchange Telegraph's Vienna correspondent, in a despatch sent via Copenhagen, says that 110 Austrian casualty lists, which do not include the losses of the last two months, give the following totals: Officers killed 2,263, officers wounded 8,980, officers captured 628.

Men killed 40,827, men wounded 231,160, men captured 9,502.

The last five Prussian casualty lists, according to the correspondent, gives the names of 36,764 officers and men killed, wounded or missing, making the total Prussian losses, as disclosed in 136 lists, 877,107.

UNION LIFE DIRECTORS BROUGHT BEFORE COURT

Number of Aged Men and Women Tell Stories of Their Losses.

TORONTO, Jan. 19.—After many ineffectual attempts to bring the case to a hearing, and efforts on the part of the defendants to traverse it to the County Court having failed, the trial of Harry K. Symons, K.C., and Dr. F. G. Hughes, two of the directors of the now defunct Union Life Assurance Co., started in the Criminal Assize Court yesterday before Mr. Justice Clute. A formidable array of legal men gathered to contest what was characterised by the crown as one of the most skillful and most scandalous cases of fraud ever perpetrated on a gullible public in Canada.

Symons and Hughes are only two of the four directors indicted on various counts of fraud and conspiracy. Dr. G. E. Millichamp died a fortnight ago, while H. Pollman Evans, the guiding spirit of the bold and complex scheme, has so far evaded the toils of justice.

The crown's case consisted of a long list of persons who had bought stocks and debentures in the National Agency Co. Mrs. J. Aikins of Paris Junction said she bought $3,500 worth of bonds on the recommendation of Pollman Evans. As far as she could recollect representations were made to her to the effect that the Government were behind the scheme.

A number of aged men and women from different parts of rural Ontario then proceeded into the witness-box and told stories of their losses. Mrs Copeland of Aylmer had invested $4,500 in the National Agency. Dr Hughes had told her, she said, that the company was as good as any bank in the Dominion.

Mr. Robert McGregor of Galt had invested to the extent of $10,000 in debentures. He had known Dr. Hughes for a number of years. He had every confidence in him, and was "fool enough to invest." The case was adjourned until to-day.

Stage Marriages Stopped.

KINGSTON, Jan. 19. — Fifty dollars was a great attraction to two young couples who offered to be married on the Grand Opera House stage for that amount, but the weddings were prohibited. A letter was received from an officer, telling the management of the house that the soldiers who had offered to be married on the stage were breaking the militia law and were liable to heavy punishment. In the soldiers' interests the management withdrew its offer, and the couples will be married at some other place without the bonus. The brides broke into tears when they found the knot could not be tied on the stage.

HE PLANNED TO CONQUER AMERICA

LONDON, Jan. 19.—A remarkable book, which has been published anonymously, by a governess who was in the employ of the German prince until last year, attributes to a German officer the statement, made at the beginning of last year, that it was "no secret that plans for an American conquest were already mapped out by the German General Staff."

It discloses the fact that when the German Crown Prince Frederick William visited India, in 1910, his sudden return to Europe was due to a scandal in the harem of one of the Indian potentates.

SOME WOUNDED FROM PATRICIAS

Arrival of Injured Shows Regiment is Under Fire

SALISBURY, Jan. 19. — Some wounded men of the Princess Patricia's Regiment have been brought to England and placed in hospitals.

Eighty-two members of the Nova Scotia Regiment (the 17th Infantry Battalion of the Canadian Expeditionary Force) have been sent to France to reinforce the Princess Patricias. Lee-Enfield rifles have been issued to the 17th Battalion.

Col. W. R. W. James of the Royal Artillery has assumed command of the Fourth Brigade of the Canadians.

Sergt. Roy Johnson, of Grimsby, Ont., has been promoted to be paymaster of the First Battalion.

British ordnance officers say that the Canadian Government is sending unnecessary overshoes, harness and Oliver equipment.

When the Princess Patricia's Regiment went to Winchester to join a British brigade before proceeding to France it was armed with the Lee-Enfield rifle in place of the Canadian Ross rifle. The statement that the Nova Scotian battalion has been so armed, therefore, is apparently significant of an early move toward the firing line.

The Fourth Brigade of the Canadians mentioned in the cable includes the Nova Scotia Regiment, and the 9th, 10th, 11th, and 12th Battalions.

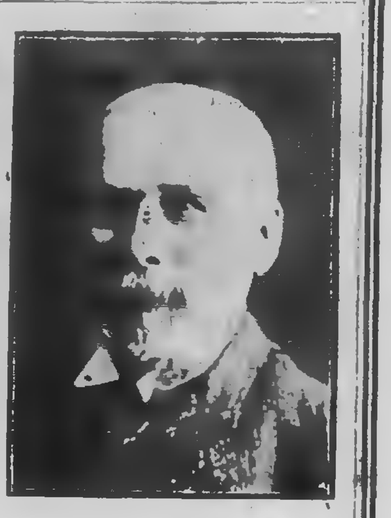
ANNUAL MEETING OF LITTLE LAKE CEMETERY COMPANY

W. H. Moore K.C. is Re-elected President as Are Also the Board of Directors



W. H. MOORE, K.C.

Re-elected President of the Little Lake Cemetery Company.

All the directors of the Little Lake Cemetery Company were re-elected at the annual meeting held in the city council chamber, yesterday afternoon. They are Messrs. T. H. G. Denne, T. A. S. Hay, B. Shortly, W. G. Morrow and the president, W. H. Moore, K.C., who also was re-elected to that office and the subsequent meeting of the board.

Superintendent's Report.

To the president, directors and shareholders of the Little Lake Cemetery Company.

Gentlemen,—

The past year in your cemetery has been a busy one owing to the completion of work undertaken in 1913 in the erection of the new entrance gates. This work consisted of the building of a new fence of iron and concrete extending from the entrance before mentioned to the Grand Trunk tracks at the southern boundary, including gateways at the junction of Ware and Haggart Streets, and also at the south side, in all about 1,200 feet. The cost of this fence, including labor, was about $2,000.

The roadways leading from the gateways mentioned have been graded and coated with cinders, which when mixed with clay and sand is found to make a splendid roadbed. This class of dressing is being adopted for all roads throughout the cemetery.

A quantity of pine trees was removed last winter from section "O" on the east side, and the ground on which they grew graded, seeded and placed in condition for burial purposes. This work is being continued this winter.

About 500 feet of the river bank on the east side of the cemetery has ben protected with large boulders. This has been found necessary owing to the large increase in late years of the small power boat, the wash from which is wearing away the bank. Some more boulders have been secured to complete this work to the boundary.

The sale of lots has fallen below either of the two previous years' sales to the extent of over $2,000 dollars, causing a considerable falling off in receipts. This should not be looked upon as a financial calamity, but more as an extension of life on this earth of those dear to us, as a lot in a cemtery is not generally purchased until the purchaser has cause to use it.

I wish to call the attention of lot owners and consequently shareholders of the necessity of retaining the natural beauty of the landscape of the cemetery, which has in the past been considerably marred by the indescriminate grouping of monuments of one design. One of our slopes which at one time was admired for its natural beauty, has entirely lost its charm by having upon it long rows of stones, which vary very little in shape or design. Some cemeteries have a by-law making it necessary for all monument designs to be submitted to a committee before they are allowed to be placed. This may appear a hardship to the lot owner, but in cemeteries where this is done a pleasing effect has been obtained as well as being satisfactory to all parties concerned. I trust this matter will be taken up by the incoming board so that the beautiful slope at the west side of the grounds may retain some of its natural beauty.

All of which I respectfully submit.

FRANK WISE,

Superintendent.

Directors' Report.

The following is the report of the directors of the company to the shareholders:—

It will be observed from the other reports which will be presented to you, that the sale of lots during the year 1914 has fallen short of former years, yet I believe you will agree with them that this is not altogether a matter of regret. If additional sections had been opened and sold off at the rate of former years, there would soon have been an approach towards the last of our property to dispose of at no very distant period. Besides the unsold lots are the company's actual capital, except the invested portion, and their material increase in value stands in place of, and grows perhaps faster than the interest that would be derived from the money obtained from their disposal.

2. The company's reserve funds, which are in city debentures, now stand at $15,417.31, notwithstanding the large draft that has been made upon the revenues and spent in lasting improvements. Within the past ten years all the wooden buildings have been removed from the grounds and about half an acre which they included, is now in lawn; commodious office and superintendent's residence and modern stables, and two large conservatories built, a new receiving vault provided, new entrance gates and fences on foundations of stone or concrete with superstructure of iron, erected at a total cost approaching $12,000; yet we are pleased to note that the whole cemetery has been kept in an attractive and improved condition, and no part of it has been overlooked. The Board of Directors can give assurance that these betterments are of excellent quality and construction. They will, comparatively, last for all time, and it is believed these necessary improvements will be approved of, so that now the directors will be able to devote their entire efforts to the care of the grounds and growth of the reserve funds for future maintenance.

3. What was planted as a hedge some thirty years ago, along the west side of the cemetery and neglected as such, and allowed to grow in a close line of trees adjoining Haggart Street, were with their foliage excluding the sunlight from the ground and stunting the grass. These trees were removed last fall, with some others, leaving ample of fine, well grown and thrifty maples, elms, birch and black walnut, to give in a measure the appearance of a park, while retaining the distinct features of a well kept and beautiful sepulchre of the dead.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

W. H. MOORE,
President.

INSTITUTE MEETINGS ARE CONTINUED AT LAKEFIELD

Full House in Town Hall to Hear Speakers Who Addressed Evening Session.

Featured by an exceedingly large attendance last evening, a fairly large attendance yesterday afternoon, and very educative and instructive addresses, the annual meetings at Lakefield of the West Peterborough Farmers' Institute were held in the village hall. A sale in the vicinity had a tendency to keep down the attendance in the afternoon, but the town hall was crowded to overflowing for the meeting at night. A particularly pleasing feature was the large number of ladies and young men present. All showed keen interest in the various topics discussed, and judging by the number of questions the speakers were called upon to answer, the farmers in the vicinity of Lakefield are anxious to gain as much knowledge of their vocation as scientific and experimental farming affords.

The principal speakers were Mr. F. C. McCrea, district representative at Norwood of the Ontario Agricultural Department, and Mr. Clark Hamilton, of Iroquois, Ont. Both spoke ably and interestingly. Their subjects were placed before the audiences in a simple yet very convincing manner. Mr. J. H. Burnham, M. P., was present at the evening meeting, and also gave an address.

This meeting was further marked by a musical program, the rendition of the various numbers of which evinced the fact that Lakefield's talent is by no means inferior to that of much larger centres. The numbers were: Violin selection, Miss Baldson; song, Mr. Allan B. Mann; male chorus; piano duet; Misses Braden and Walker; cornet solo, Mr. Jewell; male quartette; piano duet, Mr. and Mrs. Hunter; song, Mr. E. Milburn; solo, Miss Moore.

Two dialogues provided a great deal of amusement, particularly the one entitled "A Society for Doing Good," in which four young men impersonated four "old maids."

The chair at oth meetings was occupied by Mr. Charles E. Moore, president of the Institute. He made reference to the long service rendered the Institute by the former secretary, Mr. William Collins, whose duties are now being ably performed by Mr. Allan B. Mann. He assured the gentlemen present that the speakers were men of genuine and practical experience, and if their advice were taken, the farmers of Peterborough County would be benefitted beyond estimation.

Mr. Moore made special reference to the opportunity now awaiting the Canadian farmers to produce more, and thus assist the countries in need. He hoped the farmers of Peterborough County would be ready to grasp the opportuntiy. To assist in this endeavor it was necessary to bring into play all the up-to-date methods, and these methods were taught and explained at the meetings of the Farmers' Institutes.

Raising Swine.

Mr. Clark Hamilton spoke in the afternoon on "Swine and the Raising of Swine." The farmer of today who is interested in live stock is the man of today who is making money. There is a great diversity of opinion as to whether there is money to be made or not in raising hogs. However, in the speaker's mind, if the matter of hog-raising be gone at in the proper manner, there is money in it. There is always room for a hog on a mixed farm; there is always room for a hog on the dairy farm. Dairy farming and hog-raising go hand in hand.

To make a success in raising swine a farmer must stay at it. The man who sells out completely as soon as the price of pork takes a drop does not attain success. The hog that should be raised is the smoothly developed hog, moderate width and depth and good length. It matters not what breed the farmer has, such style of hog can be secured. Many persons do not think that the eyes play an important part in the hog. A sunken eye or a nervous eye bespeak the fact that the hog is not a good feeder, and a hog that realizes returns must necessarily be a good feeder.

The speaker advised his listeners not to feed swine too much slop feed during the winter time. Bulk feed is better. When a sow is given considerable slop feed she must throw the water off, and this causes considerable energy. He also touched upon the breeding, urging that stock of too tender an age be not bred. That is why some men's stock runs out—they are not mature when bred. The greatest gains are made in a pig's life when in its first six or eight weeks; for that reason, great care should be taken with the young swine. While a sow is nursing her young she must likewise be carefully looked after.

Young pigs should be kept growing; the opportunity to look after them carefully during their first six about eight weeks old. After being weaned, they should be fed ground oats, bran, or skimmed milk. Great care should be exercised so as not to injure the digestive organs. An attack of indigestion goes very hard on a young pig.

Swine should not be fed either too much slop feed or too much dry feed. The pig has to take too much water when slop feed is given, and wastes too much when dry feed is given. Feed should be mixed well with a quantity of salt in it. Where there is an abundance of skimmed milk and whey, it is better to feed a large number of pigs with a small amount of milk or whey for each than to feed a small number of pigs a great amount.

Experiments along that line have shown that to feed skimmed milk most economically it is not best to feed too large quantities, but rather use smaller quantities with more mill feeds, and so feed a greater number with the same amount. For instance, 2 pounds per day gives a value of .54 cents per hundred for skim milk; 3 pounds per day, value of 31 cents; 5.4 pounds per day, value of 18.6 cents, and 15.7 pounds a value of 13 cents a day.

Mr. F. C. McCrea.

Mr. F. C. McCrea gave very interesting addresses on lightning rods at both meetings. His remarks were very helpful and thoroughly understood as he explained the use of the lightning rod by means of a winschurst machine which tended to simplify a very complex subject. He asserted that 95 per cent of the lightning rods in the County of Peterborough are installed in a faulty manner. Should one of the buildings thus equipped be struck with lightning there is very great danger of fire resulting.

The speaker went thoroughly into the subject of roding a house and to assist him he gave demonstrations with miniature barns, houses and rods. Mr. McCrea made special reference to the grounding of the rods, remarking that they should reach to perpetual moisture which is usually some eight or ten feet below the surface.

There are three kinds of cables used, the copper, the iron, and aluminum. A copper cable of a certain thickness is just as efficient as an iron cable six times as heavy. Thus copper is preferred as it is much lighter and is not subject to rusting as is iron. Rust is oftimes the cause of a spark which means fire. The aluminum cable is a steady conductor but its point of melting is about half as high as copper. Theoretically aluminum is a good substance for a lightning rod but thus far it has not been proven so by practical use.

Agricultural Education.

The subject of Mr. Clark Hamilton's evening address was "Agricultural Education." For a man to know his business today he must be educated. A man of one hundred and fifty pounds of bone and muscle does not make a farmer, he must have more. He needs training. It was of the training, farmers of Canada require, Mr. Hamilton, desired to speak. To have any success along that line there must be education. One American writer has said the foundation of every country depends upon the educating of the youth.

One part of the lack of education among the farmers is the lack of system. The farm must be sys-

WHY THE BRITISH ARE NOW AT WAR

(By Gregory)

Why did the British Empire declare war against Germany when that power attacked Belgium?

The first and easy answer is because the British Empire is pledged by treaties to defend the neutrality of Belgium. This needs some explanation. In 1830 and 1831 Belgium was set up as a separate kingdom and the Great Powers of Europe agreed among themselves that Belgium was to be left independent and not to be annexed by any of them. She was not to go to war, and nobody was to make war upon her; this is what is meant by her being neutral. Each of the Great Powers—Great Britain, France, Prussia, Austria and Russia—agreed to two things:

(a That none of them would attack Belgium.

(b) That if Belgium were attacked they would fight the assailant.

This treaty was renewed in 1867. Germany had signed it, but Germany broke her pledged word. The German Chancellor—a statesman in somewhat the same position as our Prime Minister—spoke of the Treaty as "only a piece of paper." It was a piece of paper with his country's written promise upon it. When Germany tried to march her armies across Belgium to attack the French she broke that Treaty. When Germany broke the Treaty, Great Britain had to resist, or break her word.

Fighting Ground of Europe

But why did Great Britain sign those two Treaties? The answer to this lies in the past.

Holland and Belgium are called the Low Countries. They have for hundreds of years been the great fighting ground of Europe. When nations fight repeatedly in the same region there is sure to be a reason. In this case the reason is two-fold. The Low Countries lie at the mouth of the Rhine, the great river which allows boats to carry goods to the foot of the mountains of Switzerland. Before railways were invented river ways such as the Rhine were of enormous value. Goods came in ships over the sea and were transshipped to river boats and sent into the heart of Europe; naturally the great nations on the banks of the river desired to control the mouth, where the ocean and river traffic met. In addition, the French and the German races met about the Rhine. The French wanted the Rhine to be their boundary and long fought for it; the Germans were set upon the Rhine being a German stream. The Low Countries at the mouth of the Rhine were anxious to be separated from both France and Germany. They were the first part of Europe to become a great manufacturing district, and were the richest region in the known world. They wished to govern themselves, and the Great Nations, French or Germanic, wished to control them. The result was constant warfare. In the time of Queen Elizabeth, Holland, after desperate fighting made good her independence. The neighboring district of Belgium, otherwise styled Flanders long remained a dependency of Austria, and whenever the French and the Austrians fought—which was pretty often—the two sides were fairly certain to use Flanders as their battle ground. As a result, nearly every village in Belgium has seen its battle, and one of the nicknames for the country is "The cockpit of Europe." When France, first under the Revolutionary leaders and then under Napoleon, tried to conquer Europe, one of the first things she did was to conquer and annex both Holland and Flanders. When Napoleon was defeated the Powers of Europe separated the Low Countries and set them up as a separate kingdom, consisting of what now are Holland and Belgium. After a few years the Belgians, who did not like the Dutch, rebelled, and in the end, in 1831, Belgium was made into a separate and neutral kingdom.

That, then, is in part the reason why Belgium is important to the people of continental Europe. Now we must see why it is important to Great Britain.

Important to Britain

It already has been said that Great Britain is a small country as compared with the Great Nations of Europe. Until the English people began to understand what policy they must pursue, the islands were repeatedly invaded. The English and Saxons landed and destroyed the Briton or drove them away into Wales. The Danes and Norsemen for many years landed in England and Scotland and wrought enormous damage. The Normans landed and subdued the English. All through the Middle Ages whenever there was civil war in England expeditions would sail from the ports of continental Europe and land in England to stir up fresh strife. Gradually the English people began to understand, as a nation, that if they wanted to live in peace and quiet they must see to it that no more invasions came from the continent. These invasions came by water, on ships. It was important to prevent enemies coming in ships to land on their shores. There were two ways of doing this.

SIR EDWARD GREY
Foreign Secretary

First and most important, they could keep ships of their own at sea, and fight any ships coming with soldiers to invade England. The English have understood this since the time of Henry VIII. Since the time of Queen Elizabeth they further have known that the proper place to keep their ships is not off their own coast, to "defend" it, but close to the enemy's coast, to fight his ships the moment they put to sea.

Secondly, they could try to arrange that the country which desired to invade them should not have very good seaports from which to set sail on missions of invasion. This requires some explanation.

Look at the map and see how the coast of England approaches the coastline of continental Europe at an angle. The point of the angle is Kent, which is only some twenty miles away from the continent. From Kent the island slopes off, the southern coast along the English Channel, the northern along the North Sea.

Coast Conditions

As regards the southern coast two circumstances were of importance. One, which was unfathomable, was that the continental coastline opposite from a very early period, some time in the thirteenth century became solidly French. From this coastline numerous attacks on England were launched; the most successful was the one led by William the Conqueror, and the latest attempt was the one made by Napoleon in 1805, when he camped a great army at Boulogne and tried to get together a fleet strong enough to enable the army to be ferried across. The other circumstance, which was favorable to England, was that the English coast is far better than the French coast for the purpose of sea trade and naval warfare. On the English side of the English Channel are numerous excellent harbors, such as those of Portsmouth, Southampton, Weymouth, and Plymouth, and good anchorages, such as the Downs. On the French side of the English Channel the ports are few in number, are small, and have poor accommodation. Moreover, the prevailing winds are such as to favor sailing ships working from the English harbors against similar ships working from the French shore. Thus during the centuries in which ships moved by sail-power the English seamen in their battles with the French in the Channel had a great advantage.

On the other coast different conditions prevail. North of the mouth of the Thames there are few good harbors on the English coast, while on the continental coast there is a line of great ports beginning with Ostend, and continuing as far as Hamburg. In particular there is the great city and harbor of Antwerp. Looking again at the map, and you will see that once you reach Holland the coast of the continent trends away to the east, while the English and Scotch coast opposite falls away to the west; so that if you draw a line from the mouth of the Zuider Zee to the Wash, you will see that to the south of that line the North Sea is very narrow, and to the north of it the North Sea is much wider. Thus it is nearly 400 miles from Hamburg to the coast of England opposite, but it is not much more than 100 miles from the Belgian seaports such as Antwerp to the coast of Norfolk and Suffolk opposite them. Here the advantages are with the continental enemy who wishes to invade England, and not with the islander who wishes to keep the invader out; the continental seaports are better than the English harbors, excluding London, and the distance is short. The story of the Wars of the Roses gives us an example of how these conditions worked. The Government of Flanders was in the hands of people friendly to the Yorkists, and when the Lancastrians had the upper hand expedition after expedition sailed from the Flemish ports to land in England. One of the last invasions of England, that of Martin Stuart and his German soldiers sailed in the time of King Henry VII., the invading army marching far into England before it was beaten.

All Powers Agreed

But what saved England from more successful invasions from these harbors and cities was the fact that they never fully belonged to any one of the great powers of the continent. The Dutchmen and the Flemings did not themselves wish to attack the English; they preferred to trade with them, and this line of seaports has been used against England only when some great military power has controlled the Low Countries. In the time of Queen Elizabeth the Dutch became independent and while they sometimes fought the English at sea, they never were strong enough to plan an invasion. The Flemish and Belgian ports long were no danger because England generally was friendly with Austria. During the great French Wars, from 1793 to 1815, the Low Countries were under French control, and Great Britain felt the danger keenly. The great English statesman Pitt described Antwerp as a pistol levelled against the breast of England. And so it happened that when the war was over Great Britain was anxious that the Dutch and Belgian ports should not be at the service of a great military power, either French, German or Austrian. The Dutch and Belgians were anxious to be small independent nations. This suited Prussia, who could not get them for herself, and would prefer them to be independent rather than part of France. It suited France since she could not have them, to have them independent rather than part of Germany. It suited Great Britain, who did not dream of acquiring them for herself, and who was anxious that they should be neither French nor German. So all the Powers of Europe agreed that they should be independent and that Belgium in particular should be neutralized and guaranteed.

Thus we see that for hundreds of years Great Britain has had good reasons to desire Belgium in particular to be a separate country, not controlled by a great military nation. Has it become less important for Great Britain?

Belgians Must be Free

On the contrary. It has become more important than ever that the Belgian coast line should be held by a peaceful rather than by a warlike country. In the old days warfare overseas was carried on by sailing ships which could hurt a hostile country in two or three ways; they might carry soldiers across to invade it, they might capture its ships in open sea, and they occasionally could do a little damage to ships in harbor by dashing in, or by discharging into them cannon-shot or bomb-shells of a power greatly inferior to that of the shells to-day. At present the means of annoying an enemy are far greater. Torpedoes can steam across a narrow sea and try to get into the enemy's harbors, to torpedo and sink his warships and merchantmen. Submarines can make torpedo attacks upon hostile ports. Mine-laying ships can steal across, if the distance is not too great, and plant their devil's mines so as to destroy the enemy ships. And besides airships and aeroplanes can fly over to drop the bombs.

Now the coast of Germany is too far from the coast of Great Britain to render it very easy to try all those forms of attack. It is about 400 miles from Hamburg or Emden or Bremerhaven to Hull or Tynemouth and about 500 miles from the German coastline to the Scottish seaports; a German torpedo-boat destroyer would have just enough coal to get across, make an attack and get home again and would not have coal enough to make a long stay off the British coast. So also a German airship would find it a long journey across the 400 miles of sea to make a bomb-dropping expedition. But if German torpedo craft or airships were ensconced in Antwerp or Ostend, they could cover the hundred miles or so in a night and could inflict great losses upon the English towns.

So we see that to the British people of to-day, just as to the Englishmen of the Middle Ages, of Queen Elizabeth's time, and in the days of King George III., it is vitally necessary to keep Belgium a separate and independent country. We must help the Belgiums to keep free.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—Announcement of a decrease of nearly 4,000,000 bushels in the United States visible supply of wheat tended to act as more than an offset today for the bearish effect of federal enquiries and of talk regarding a possible embargo on exports. Prices closed unsettled, but ⅛c to ⅜c above Saturday night.

WINNIPEG GRAIN MARKET.

WINNIPEG, Jan 18.—The wheat market today was very unsettled and nervous, and prices during the early hours were wild, fluctuations in a few minutes ranging as much as 1½c to 2c. Later they steadied to some extent at fractionally higher figures than Saturday's close.

The cash situation has undergone a decided change today. Offerings are much more plentiful for delivery at navigation opening, but there were practically no buyers. There was little doing in spot wheat. Flax made a considerable break, the range for the day being 9½c, a recovery from the low points taking place near the close. Wheat prices stiffened on the close, caused by the decrease of 3,864,000 shown in the United States visible for the week.

Wheat futures closed 1⅜c higher; cash ½c to 1½c higher on contract; graded oats, ½c higher to ½c lower, and flax, 1½c to 1⅞c lower.

MONTREAL GRAIN MARKET.

MONTREAL, Jan. 18.—Business in Manitoba spring wheat over the cable today was very quiet owing to the fact that there was very little demand from overseas buyers for supplies after the sharp break in prices of Saturday. There was some enquiry for oats and bids of 28s 6d were made from Dublin for extra No. 1 feed, which exporters would not accept. The local trade in coarse grains was quiet, but the undertone of the market is firm. Flour was strong, 25c to 50c per barrel higher. Millfeed in good demand. Butter is quiet and firm. Cheese was unchanged, and eggs active.

Ever see a neighbor who was particularly well liked? Sure!

HOCKEY CURLING ATHLETICS

LAST YEAR WAS A RECORD IN AMERICAN SPORTS

Estimates Show 25,000,000 Spectators Witnessed Amateur and Professional Games, Baseball Leads all Sports for Country

New York, Jan. 18.—That 25,000,000 spectators witnessed amateur and professional sports in this country during the last twelve months is sufficient foundation for the oft-repeated statement that 1914 was a record year in American athletic competitions. These astonishing attendance figures, equal to approximately one-quarter of the total population of the United States, are not the result of haphazard guessing. The attendance at all forms of sports contests was recently the subject of discussion among a group of writers and experts in this city, and after much comparison and conference the foregoing figures were fixed upon as being comparatively accurate and conservative.

In the main these 25,000,000 represent paid admissions, but not entirely, since in certain sports the paid attendance forms but a small percentage of the total assemblage of spectators. In some cases the figures are official or semi-official, while in others they are the result of careful tabulations gathered from club secretaries, newspaper reports, and estimates made by those qualified to guage the size and number of large crowds.

Baseball Leads Again.

Baseball leads, as is natural, and while official counts are not available, a total of 9,000,000 was the general estimate as the attendance at all games played under organized baseball control, representing as it does forty-three leagues and almost 300 clubs. Football comes next with 6,292,000. Park Davis, member of the rules committee and expert football statistician, is authority for this estimate together with the additional information that 152,000 players participated in 34,00 games during the season of ten weeks.

Horse Racing.

It was the consensus of opinion that approximately 1,000,000 persons witnessed racing, trotting and pacing throughout the country last year. Tennis and golf proved hard problems, since few accurate records are kept. The official figures showed that close to 150,000 spectators paid admission for the twelve days of Davis cup tennis and the eight days of championship play at Newport. Another 150,000 was fixed upon as the probable attendance at all other sectional, state, and city tennis title championships. Golf galleries being without admission feature were not separately considered.

Auto Events.

Automobile, motor cycle and bicycle races were allotted 500,000 and track and field sports a similar attendance. These figures refer principally to paid admissions, and if they err they minimise rather than exaggerate. The two international polo matches between the United States and English teams drew 75,000 spectators to Meadow Brook last spring. Probably 50,000 more followed the play in other tournaments about the country, giving a total of 125,000. The two big college regattas at Poughkeepsie and New London attracted 100,000 persons, of whom 20,000 paid for observation train or boat seats. Other dual and triangular varsity races together with the national and sectional regattas of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen raised the total to 425,000.

Boxing Also Popular.

Boxing also found a prominent place in the tabulations. Using the reports of the New York and Wisconsin state athletic commissions it was estimated that fully 1,500,000 spectators attended professional and amateur exhibitions and championship bouts during 1914. In New York state alone the gate receipts as reported to the commission were in round figures $640,000 and the attendance 400,000.

No attempt was made to estimate the attendance at golf and trapshooting tournaments, where admission fees are either nominal or entirely dispensed with. Cricket, hockey, lacrosse, and yachting were placed in the same category. No place was alloted to college, schoolboy, or semi-professional baseball, but these sports or classifications or sport were used to bring the total up to 25,000,000.

$12,500,000 Gate Receipts.

It was agreed that 50 cents per person would be a most reasonable admission estimate, but even this gave the startling total of $12,500,000 in gate receipts in the last twelve months. They form impressive testimonials to America's place in the world of sport, but as one man remarked as he viewed the tabulation and estimates for the twentieth time: "I am inclined to think that we could add another 30 per cent. to the total and still be inside the limit."

REISLING MAY BE RE-ENGAGED

London Club Likely to Sign the Big Dentist Again

London, Jan. 19. — The annual meeting of the directors of the London Canadian League club was scheduled for yesterday and was undertaken, but an adjournment was made for a week before anything of consequence was accomplished.

The matter of a change in the presidency, which at present is held by Samuel Stevely, was discussed, and it is said that most of the directors were favorable on the ground that the honors should be passed along. It is possible that "Doc" Reisling, last year's manager, will come back next season, although this arrangement has not as yet been definitely concluded.

During the meeting a discussion arose as to the money-making ability of a club in London, and it was claimed that a $500 deficit was shown last season. Director Thos. Gillean offered to buy the stock held by Fred C. Buzzell, secretary and director. This is being considered.

Napier at the Battle of Meeanee.

When in the fight I held my life as gone, for as to escaping all idea of that vanished when I saw the Twenty-second giving way and was obliged to ride between the fires of two lines not twenty yards apart. I expected death as much from our men as the enemy, and I was much singed by our fire, my whiskers twice or thrice so and my face peppered by fellows who in their fear fired high over all heads but mine and nearly scattered my brains. In agony I rode, holding my reins with a broken hand (he had sprained it a few days before) and quite unequal to a single combat had a Belooche picked me out, as one was about to do when Marston slew him.—Letter of Sir Charles Napier.

VICTORY FOR PETES IN THIRD PERIOD

Blue and White Scored Three Goals in the Final Session at Whitby

While Picton marked time on account of bad ice, the Peterborough Intermediates invalided Whitby last evening, and, despite the heavy going, returned today with a 4 to 1 victory, and incidentally a stronger grip on the district honors. The score was 1-1 at the close of the first period, the same twenty minutes later, and then the Petes ran in three in the last stanza. The ice was a trifle better than the ice at the local rink last Friday night, yet it was soft enough to cause the discarding of team play and combination. The crowd was fairly large and excitement was very high.

The first goal was secured by Peterborough and was the result of an end to end rush by Moinse. It was one of the most spectacular rushes of the evening. Whitby tied it up a few minutes later, and from then till half of the last period was over neither team registered. The Petes then attempted a little more team play, and three goals was the result. Kelly got the first one, Park the second, and Hunter the third.

Both goalers put up good exhibitions, while the defence men of both teams were also strong. Hunter was particularly prominent, and contributed several very speedy rushes. Spratt's place at rover was taken by Halpin, who, with Park, looked after the centre ice interests well. Kelly and Moinse on the wings went at top speed all evening. For Whitby McIntyre, the defence player, and C. Blanchard, on the wing, were the most aggressive.

Jack Moxon of Toronto handled the game in a faultless manner.

The teams—

Peterborough — Goal, Janes; defence, Pethick and Hunter; rover, Halpin; centre, Park; right wing, Moinse; left wing, Kelly.

Whitby — Goal, Brown; defence, Smith and McIntyre; rover, Lavery; centre, A. Blanchard; right wing, Watson; left wing, C. Blanchard.

Referee—Moxon.

HOCKEY PLAYERS SLEPT IN COACH

The Peterborough Intermediates came as far as Port Hope after the game at Whitby last night, and to their sorrow no hotel accommodation could be secured. The squad returned to the G. T. R. depot and captured a coach, lighted lamps, and prepared to spend the remainder of the evening. A trainman happened along and ordered them out, but Grover Halpin bluffed him, and he withdrew. A couple of juniors were with the team, and are very thankful that they have not to perform this evening.

First Catcher's Pad

Charlie Bennett, the noted catcher of the famous Detroit team of 1886-7, often told with delight the story of how he and his wife made the first catcher's breast protector.

It was a constant source of worry to Mrs. Bennett to watch her husband being made a target for the speed merchants of thirty years ago. And she fully realised the pressing necessity of some kind of armor to prevent the hot shot sent through by these speedy slabmen from caving in a rib or two which belonged to her better half.

After much deep thinking and considerable labor the Bennetts shaped out something that had a faint resemblance to the protector worn today.

In a private trial it worked fine, and in the tryout Charlie would let the ball slip through his hands and bang up against his chest without experiencing the slightest jar. After Bennett got used to it he wore it in a regular contest, and, with the eyes of thousands of spectators upon him, he would let a fast one hit him square on the chest. The ball would rebound back almost to the pitcher.—New York World.

It is going to be a long time before the peace palace at The Hague will do a paying business.

HIS TWO TENSE MOMENTS.

One Was a Ninth Inning and the Other at a Dinner Table.

I heard a prominent Cambridge man tell of the two most tense moments of his life yesterday. But the tension in each case was different.

"I doubt if I ever shall forget either occasion," he said reflectively. "They were big moments.

"The first was when I was in college. I was captain of the baseball team that year. We came to the end of the ninth. We needed one run to tie the score and another to win the game. Two men were down and two on the sacks when I came to bat. And for once in my career I did it. I lined out a three bagger, right over the railroad track. When I felt it go—well, that was one occasion.

"And the other." He chuckled, but a slow flush crept over his cheeks. "It was thirty years ago, soon after I left college. I went over to see a girl I thought was pretty nice and to meet her folks for the first time. I went on a Sunday. All the men were away. And they had duck for dinner." He stopped. "Ever carve a duck?" he asked meaningly. "No, neither had I before. Nor have I since." His flush deepened. "I never even went to see that girl again," he added plaintively.—Boston Journal.

BIG CROWD IS EXPECTED

Intermediate Game Here Friday Night With Oshawa

The victory in Whitby last evening has given the Peterborough Intermediates more confidence, and they will step on the ice here Friday evening determined to chalk a loss against Oshawa. The Oshawa seven has not been seen in action this season by Peterborough fans, so a big house is expected. The Petes are in a very good position to land the intermediate championship, but cannot do so unless the fans are behind them. The crowd at the Picton-Peterborough game was large; the attendance at the Oshawa-Peterborough game on Friday night should be even larger.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—"A Budapest despatch just received here," says Reuter's Amsterdam correspondent, "states that the trained landsturm classes of the years 1875 and 1881, inclusive, and the younger landsturm men in Budapest have been summoned to join the colors Jan. 21."

A Vienna despatch says:

On assuming office Baron Stephen von Burian, the new Foreign Minister, sent the following telegram to the German Chancellor, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg:

"Both allied powers now have tried, in serious and historical times, the value of an alliance of friendship, which relies on tried faithfulness, on close intercourse of interests and must form the foundation of their policy. I beg of your excellency to give me the same energetic assistance as my predecessor had."

Beware of Pedlers.

All kinds of pedlers are invading the city these days, and it would be well for the people to consult their own interests when approached by these fellows. Very often they offer what look like real bargains, but they will get their own out of it before they depart for other fields. The latest is a fellow stopping at one of the hotels who is offering engraved stationery at what look like cheap prices—but they are not. Beware of pedlers of all descriptions. They are numerous now, and are likely to increase. Leave your money with local dealers.

Mystery of the Stomach.

"Why does not the stomach digest itself?" is a question often asked. The Journal of the American Medical Association confesses that the reason has not yet been found. There are many theories, but not one of them is entirely satisfactory, and we are still unable to say more than Hunter said more than a century ago, "that these living cells remain intact under such circumstances 'because they are alive.'"—New York World.

Young People Had Trip to Japan

The Old and New of the Flowery Kingdom

Before the young ladies' mission circle of Charlotte Street Methodist Church last evening, Mrs. F. C. Neal, gave an instructive and interesting talk on Japan, illustrated by lantern slides. She related the history of old Japan from the time it was first discovered, before the present race inhabited it. Later these Enus as they were called were driven north where they now live. The Japanese came and occupied the country.

Forty years ago Commodore Perry first opened up Japan for the introduction of western ideas and western civilization. Treaties were made with European countries and the Japanese through association and contact with westerners began to revise their habits and methods of living.

Mrs. Neal pointed out the similarity that existed between the old system of Japanese government and the Feudal system that once existed in Great Britain. The head of the country was the Emperor who gathered round them five leading families. These sub-let the land to the followers who constituted the sinew of the country as did the old English yeomen. The entrance of Commodore Perry, however, banished this system and the people recognizing the superior advantages that followed in the wake of western methods, finally adopted them.

Before this time the workingmen of Japan were despised but now their ideals were elevated and all forms of industry encouraged and highly regarded.

Quite a large number heard the address and Mrs. Neal was tendered a sincere motion of appreciation.

tematized. Youth should be taught this. Farmer boys should be taught all about their business. The talent should be selected out and then co-operation put into force. Farmers should also be endeavoring to get away from old ideas, when new ones have been proven to be more beneficial. Another thing the farmer boy should be taught is to love the grandeur of his work and life. The latter rests with the farmer boys themselves, politicians cannot do it nor educationalists cannot do it.

That education can help the farmer practically is made known by mer, practically, is made known by Guelph whose officials claim that the production of the farms of Ontario can be increased three hundred per cent. Under the care of men educated along the proper lines, cows have been raised to a higher standard, the same can be said about sheep and other livestock, also fruit growing. The methods put into play by these men can be learned by every farmer.

The only way these methods can be brought to the farmers is to educate the farmer boys. Of late the agricultural education is being brought more into general education and the average boy enjoys it and becomes interested. The farmers of today have a beautiful country handed down by their forefathers who battled against nature. It is for the farmers of today to further beautify this grand and noble country. It should be the case that the word Canadian means "brotherhood." All the different nationalities should unite as one great people working for the one end — advancing this great section of the world's greatest empire.

THE FARMER AND THE BUSINESS WORLD.

Mr. Burnham said:—

In thanking you for your invitation to address you this evening on the place of the farm in the business world I may begin by making the general statement that the duty of a member of parliament is to look carefully into the underlying principles as well as the details of all that comes up in parliament. As parliament is the great national clearing-house where the machinery of trade is kept in order, where the laws governing it are made, where the superintendence and encouragment of trade are the first consideration not inferior to the general moral and physical well-being of the people it is plain that it is the duty of a member to devote himself to his duties not as a specialist or in a casual way but with all the energy and penetration at his command in order that he may be able to respond intelligently to the demands of legislation made upon him or to matters suggested to him but also in order that he may be able to talk intelligently to the specialist producer, whether the latter be a farmer or a manufacturer, of other trades and of the general conditions of trade in the general markets of the world as well as of that country in which the specialist producer himself lives and works. An illustration will make still plainer my meaning. The farmer watches his farm and the prices of his products, the manufacturer watches his factory and the prices of the products of it, the professional man watches both and the prices, as does also the merchant. The teacher watches his pupils and the pupils the teacher and the records of examination but the member of the House of Commons has got to watch them all in order that drawing from a great variety of sources and experiences he may so assist in administering the affairs of the people in parliament in providing transportation, looking out for extended markets, adjusting laws, scrutinizing finance, guarding inspection, providing for defence and protection and in geerani, watching the vast business of the country itself whose revenues and public expenditures are so large and of such vast importance, and the conditions of labor.

The Farming Interests Would Not Work Together.

Formerly the farm was regarded not as a business proposition at all but as something that depended wholly on the farm itself, the weather and local conditions. It was not regarded as a business but as something outside all business organization, co-operation or undertaking. It is not so now. Agriculture is a business and the farmer is a producer, a manufacturer and a merchant all in one yet belonging to all the others and keeping his accounts both capital and current and his income and outgo so that at the end of the year he knows whether the farm pays or what part of it does not pay. He then begins to ask "Why?" Formerly he did not do so. He asked no questions but took it out in grumbling. He knows now that poor stock eats as much and costs as much to tend as good stock and yet yields much less. The same with his horses and the same with the people about him. In a word the modern farmer's motto is not "Resignation to fate" but "efficiency." Let us consider for a moment the vast improvement from a business point of view and wholly from a business point of view of mixed farming. A few years ago wheat was almost the sole product of the farm. There were no dairies, little butter for export and no cheese. If the spring was a bad one for the fall wheat it was all up with him. But what has the farmer at present. He aims to keep a well-balanced farm where the by-products from each branch of his production return to the farm what it must have in order to re-produce. The mixed farmer has grain-land and cattle, sheep (not many) and horses. If everything including the market is favourable he draws something from each and all of these sources. If it is not a good all-round year he draws from some of them and pulls along with a fair average. Such is the immense advance in one generation. And here let me emphasize the fact again that the Canadian farmer is like his American brother getting to be more scientific and improving. He hears of the immense improvement in Kansas wheat by the simple means of selecting the best heads from year to year for seed. He discovers the Red Fife or the Marquis. In a word his grains are becoming all that the soil and common sense can produce so far as our knowledge yet goes. This is good business. It is precisely the same with other successful branches of industry. The man who despairs or is indifferent goes down and out in the end. He does not prosper. He does not really want to live. In the end he and all those unfortunate enough to be connected with him go like his despised and neglected fruit trees, down and out. By the way what is the matter with our Peterborough fruit? Collingwood and Prince Edward win the championship of the world in apples which are both a staple food and a luxury. Splendid fruits large and small can be grown at this latitude even at the backdoor or in the lane—in any old place but they have been suffered to die out for what reason it would be hard to say.

Having made it my business to get from Washington, Ottawa and Toronto what they have got to say on the subject of my address I feel more confidence in speaking to you than I otherwise would. The fact is that in Canada we need to put more brains and energy into all our work and the farm is no exception. The Grain-Growers Guide says that farmers have lost one million dollars in western town lots and heaven alone knows how much they have lost in bogus banks and loan companies. Farmers have been a source of wonder to towns people the way they hand out their good money to plausible rascals who flim flam them out of their cash. A stock-seller heard me say that I was surprised at the ready sales of stock for concerns that hadn't even character behind them. He replied that he did not want a good sound business proposition to sell stock for. He wanted something he could lie about. Of course after people have learned the lesson by serious loss they will stop or at least pause to think what they are doing but in the meantime legitimate industries such as farming are discredited and the fault is laid at the door of agriculture when as a matter of fact the farmers of this country have more money in the banks as the returns show than all others combined. The great charm of agriculture is that it is not a flash in the pan. If you are not making money you will at least not starve which is more than can be said of most other callings. A man who can't raise enough to feed his family is not much of a farmer whereas in the city when the industrial market is bad the worker has to walk the streets in despair. At the dairymen's convention I took advantage of the presence of the Minister of Agriculture at Toronto, Mr. Duff, and of the expert from Ottawa, Mr. James, to demand county demonstration farms at any rate for Peterborough. Farmers have been trifled with by governments long enough and it is time that we saw a small experimental and model demonstration farm in operation instead of being supplied with blue books telling about them.

Some time ago a man familiar with the pea industry told me that the average farmer could do well in peas, plain and fancy, if he would fertilize the soil but that was something the average farmer paid altogether insufficient attention to. This question of letting the machinery that is the soil wear out and allowing the whole producing power of the farm to fall away is something which if applied to business in the towns accounts for many a failure. The maker of unnecessaries depends upon good times altogether for his sales. It is not so with the farmer. He always has that great advantage. Whether times are good or bad we must eat so it may be said that the farmer's market is largely firm and steady.

There has been a lurking idea amongst some farmers that if they produced too much they would only cheapen the market and injure themselves. This is no doubt true. Only a certain quantity of food can be consumed or else the world's health would suffer. It is not so with other things since a man's buying power in other things is only limited by his power to buy not by his power to consume. For example if able he could buy half a dozen motors instead of one half a dozen of musical instruments, half a dozen yachts instead of one, etc. It is thus seen that there is no limit to manufacturers but the buying power, while the limit to food is the power to eat. This in my opinion is the fundamental secret of the tendency of people to flock to the centres of industry. It is true the attractions of the city are supposed to be many but you will notice that it is not simply to centres of population and pleasure that people go. It is chiefly to the industrial centres. There is practically no limit to the expansion of mechanical industry while the expansion of food industry is limited. What then must necessarily be the outlook of the farmer. He must hasten to cheapen his means of production and of getting his supplies to market. When that limit has been reached and he produces as cheaply as is possible and as much as is necessary, he must then look to other fields as well. In the last analysis he must make everything he needs or wants for himself. He must be sufficient unto himself. And thus the great cycle of history will have been run. The farmer centuries ago was not a specialist. He worked at whatever he could and produced food on his own land for himself and family. Then in the course of time callings became specialized. Those engaged in mechanics became divorced from the land altogether and depended upon the farmer for food and he upon them for manufacturers. Having reached the limit of his callings he will go back to where he began or nearly so. First the local market will supply him and he it everywhere. There will be no such foreign trade as at present speaking broadly. Then in the last analysis several centuries hence unless the ellipticity of the earth's orbit and the precession of the equinoxes co-join to produce another glacial and interglacial age, he will be like a departmental store having everything within himself. Merchants began with general stores and they have come back to them. So will it be with everybody else. All will get as near to supplying their own needs and desires as they can otherwise and force of circumstances themselves will compel it. All things depend upon nature and nature rules all things. We may think that we break away from her but like the prodigal son we must in the end come back. It is well always to bear in mind that gold is used as a means of payment simply because it can be exchanged for anything else better than anything we know. Silver, copper and paper money are also good but only so far as they represent gold which of all natural or artificial products in the world is most universally acceptable and therefore best to use as a medium in carrying on trade, where it is known as money. Keeping this fact regarding money well in hand, viz., that it represents goods and products we see that the limit to the exchange of manufactured goods and products is the ability to pay for them. Trade in such things may therefore expand indefinitely and give work to labour indefinitely. It is not so however with regard to food which as we have seen is wanted only up to the limit of the powers of human consumption and is never really used for any other purpose than as food. Food therefore while it is the basis of life is not properly speaking an element of trade and should be treated accordingly. Unlimited competition in manufactures if varied make more work and produces more trade (or exchange) whereas competition in food soon reaches its limit and readily produces a glut in the market. The farmer therefore must always look ahead with these facts in view. Success in farming I am told by those who have been successful is independent very largely on system. No business can prosper without system. To expect a business to run itself is unreasonable. At present it will take all the farmer's energies and resources to provide for the coming demands of the food-market. Prices are high and are rising. Are we equal to our opportunities?

QUESTION OF BETTER TRAIN SERVICE WILL BE TAKEN UP WITH OFFICIAL AT TORONTO

Vigorous Objection is Made to Poor Passenger Service on the C.P.R.

At a well attended meeting of the merchants and manufacturers of the city held last night it was decided to have a delegation of two go up to Toronto and interview Superintendent J. T. Arundel of this division of the C.P.R. to whom they will present a lengthy memorial asking for better train service for the citizens of Peterborough.

This decision was reached after a long discussion on the question in which a large number of representative merchants and manufacturers took an active part. Strenuous objections were expressed to the poor passenger service that the C. P. R. was giving since several trains had been removed from this line. Some complaints were also registered about the freight service but this was not regarded as very serious.

Mr. W. G. Morrow, manager of the Toronto Savings and Loan Company was chairman and the city clerk, S. R. Armstrong, secretary of the meeting. The C.P.R. was represented by W. S. Dodd, station agent, L. G. Rogers, assistant superintendent from Trenton and A. E. Steward, road foreman for this division, located at Toronto.

The memorial was first read after which discussion was invited.

E. G. Patterson, superintendent of the Canadian General Electric works, considered that the new schedule only meant two less trains. He didn't think the C.P.R. could be greatly blamed in view of conditions. He wanted to see better freight service as he had instances come to his attention of goods being held up at Havelock until there was enough merchandise collected there to make up a car.

Mr. Breyfogle, general manager of the De Laval, felt that a considerable inconvenience was created by the removal of the trains and quoted personal experiences.

Ald. A. H. Stratton objected to the service and said there were 250 travellers who spent Sunday here and who were unable to get out on that day because of no trains. Better service even with the trains still left on this line would overcome most of the trouble.

Mr. W. S. Dodd, on behalf of the C.P.R., said that after listening to the discussion and learning it was the intention to send a delegation to Montreal, was convinced they would be making a mistake. He suggested that in the interests of Peterborough the wisest course would be to appoint one or two good speakers to visit Toronto and wait upon general superintendent J. T. Arundel, with the memorial. To pass him over and carry the matter to Montreal would be a mistake. There would be little expense. The memorial should be laid before him and his word would go as far as making any possible changes were concerned, and certainly more headway would be made.

After considerable more discussion in which quite a number entered it was agreed on motion of E. N. McWilliams and Robt. Fair, to adopt this plan. The memorial was signed by all those present and the matter of appointing a delegation and the setting of the date to visit the general superintendent left in the hands of the committee who called the meeting.

Mr. J. W. Bennet who helped to draft the memorial was absent through illness. Mr. T. F. Matthews was not present either. When informed of the action that was taken after the meeting, Mr. Bennet expressed his disapproval and contended that the proper course to obtain redress would be to take it direct to Montreal. He claimed that would have been the course urged by Mr. Matthews had he been present.

PRINCE TOOK THIRD FLOOR INSTEAD OF GRAND SUITE

King's Eldest Son Makes Trip to the Front in Upper Alsace

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Belfort, France, Jan. 20. — The Prince of Wales, travelling incognito has just made a trip to the front in Upper Alsace, despite the storm which has been raging. He also inspected military workshops in Belfort. The Prince by his uneffected sympathy, created a most favorable impression among the population who were especially impressed because he insisted upon taking a small room on the third floor of the hotel in place of the grand suite which was reserved for him.

THE PRINCE OF WALES.

STARTED FIRE IN BACK YARD

By-law is Violated and Police Will Ask Why

Action by the police will likely be taken to teach a lesson to the parties who set fire to a pile of rubbish and refuse about 5.30 p.m. yesterday in the yard behind the store lately vacated by J. W. Butcher, George street. An alarm of fire brought the department to the spot, where about two wagon loads of rubbish were discovered merrily blazing. Workmen in the store, which is being renovated, are alleged to be responsible. There is a cluster of sheds around the spot where the fire started, which might have proved splendid combustible material had the fire made sufficient headway. Where the fire started there is an open space used as a yard by about 25 tenants of buildings in the neighborhood.

ASPHODEL MAN DIES SUDDENLY

Was Found Unconscious by Members of Family

Norwood, Jan. 19. — Mr. John Wildman, a lifelong resident of the township of Asphodel and residing about two miles east of Norwood, died very suddenly at his home on Monday afternoon. Mr. Wildman was at the barn, and was discovered in an almost unconscious condition by members of his family. He passed away before medical aid could be procured. Dr. Sutton was summoned, but his efforts were without avail. Dr. Kindred, coroner of Havelock, was notified.

There are some people who are very charming, but somehow are never able to discern the difference between your belongings and theirs—when you chance to be the more desirable.

PROPERTY LOSS IS CONFINED TO A FEW HOUSES

All the Enemy's Aircraft got Away Safely --- Four or Five Persons Killed in Raid

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Jan. 20.—It is still uncertain whether bombs dropped on Norfolk towns last night came from Zeppelins or from aeroplanes, but the belief inclines to the latter theory. Whichever they were, all got away safely.

Four or five lives were lost, and property damage mainly confined to private houses will not exceed a few thousand dollars.

An unexploded bomb found in Yarmouth weighs six pounds and is cone-shaped.

MONTREAL, Jan. 20. — A cable to a Montreal paper says: While airships were over Yarmouth last night, two lights were observed to be flashed from houses near the Aquarium Theatre. Treachery is suspected.

KINGS LYNN (via London), Jan. 20. — The body of a woman, the widow of a soldier recently killed at the front, was removed from her demolished home today. This makes the second death recorded as the result of the raid.

LONDON, Jan. 20. — The approximate times of the visit of hostile airships to the several towns in Norfolk were as follows: Yarmouth, 8.20 p.m.; Cromer, 8.30 p.m.; Sandringham, 8.40 p.m.; Hunstaton, 10.30 p.m.; Kings Lynn, 11.00 p.m.

YARMOUTH, Jan. 20. — Careful inquiries thus far made regarding last night's aerial raid show that public buildings and railways escaped damage, which is almost confined to private houses and shops. So far as is known, only two persons, a man and a woman, were killed here. It happened that most of the inhabitants were indoors when the raid occurred. Fragments of metal, supposed to have been thrown by bombs, are being found in all directions. The whole thing was quickly over, and fortunately there were no fires.

HUNSTATON (via London), Jan. 20. — The police deny the report that one of the raiding Zeppelins was brought down here. The last seen of the raider, which droped bombs on this place, was as she was passing away to the northward over the sea.

GHOST TO WALK FOR VOLUNTEERS

Officers are Busy With the Pay Sheets

Like every other man, a soldier likes to see the ghost walk, and recruits in the third contingent will be glad to know that the officers are busy now on the pay-sheets. Lieut.-Col. Johnston and Sergt. Elliott have charge of this branch of the work.

Recruiting has not been brisk of late. There are 122 men in the mounted rifles, and 12 applicants to come in. As the effects of typhoid innoculation are being manifested in some recruits, only those who feel inclined are expected to attend the military funeral this afternoon of Sergt. John Lightfoot.

Lieut.-Col. Johnston was visited yesterday by Col. Preston, who will command the regiment of which the mounted rifles being recruited here will form a part. It is noteworthy that both officers received their commissions as lieutenants in the 46th Regiment of Port Hope just thirty-two years ago. Now both have attained the colonelcy of regiments.

Captain Deyell of the 46th Regiment, Port Hope, also paid a friendly visit to Lieut.-Col. Johnston and congratulated him upon his promotion.

To Pay Special Attention to the Delivery of Food

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

London, Jan. 20. — An Exchange Telegraph despatch from Copenhagen says Herr Ballin of the Hamburg-American Steamship Co. has been appointed to the supreme charge of German railways with special attention to delivering food to the army.

POLICE ARREST SUSPECT AT HOME

Is Wanted at Tara on Charge of Horse Stealing

John Lasure, wanted for horse stealing in the village of Tara, Ont., was taken in custody in the south end of the city last night by Detectives Newhall, Meagher and P. C. McCarthy. His home is in Peterborough.

Lasure is the man who eluded the constable after his arrest by jumping through a train window and getting clear away about December 1st. He made his escape while being taken to Tara. Since then he has been at large and descriptions of him were circulated. The local authorities knowing his people lived in the city kept a sharp lookout and were rewarded by finding him at his home last night where he submitted quietly to arrest.

Constable Mills of Tara was the man from whom he escaped. He is a married man and travelled under the alias of John Langton.

Officers from Tara are expected in the city tomorrow to take him back to face the charge of horse stealing.

Application is Made for Bail

Application is being made before the department of the Attorney General at Osgoode Hall today by Solicitor G. N. Gordon for bail, for Edgar Grose, who is being held here on the charge of murder. The Deputy Attorney General, J. R. Cartwright, wrote Crown Attorney Hatton asking if he would consider bail advisable, and how much should be demanded. Crown Attorney Hatton replied that bail would be considered owing to the ill-health of Grose, the fact that the prisoner was a life long resident of Peterborough, and came from very respectable parents.

GOVERNMENT IS MOVED TO SYDNEY

No Reason is Given for the Change

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

London, Jan. 19. — A despatch from Melbourne says the seat of the Commonwealth government has been transferred to Sydney temporarily. The reason is not given.

NORWOOD WILL COMPLAIN TO RAILWAY BOARD

Accommodation at the Station is Not Satisfactory

Norwood, Jan. 19. — The council have decided to use their influence with the board of railway commissioners to try and have better accommodation furnished during the arrival of the local trains, as well as the midnight express.

Up until the last month, Norwood station had a night operator. On account of the depression in business he has been transferred. Consequently, when the Toronto and Port McNichol local express trains arrive here in the evening, there is no official on duty to look after baggage or express. Tickets cannot be procured after six o'clock, and it is felt that Norwood is being unjustly dealt with.

The matter will be heard before the railway board, in the hope that the conditions will be improved somewhat.

PTE. NORTHCOTT WRITES HOME

He Spent His Christmas in the Hospital

The following letter has been received by the parents of Pte. Victor Northcott, with the first contingent at Salisbury Plain, England. They reside at 177 Murray Street:

Dear mother and father:—At last I am able to drop you a line. I have been pretty sick in the hospital with the grippe for two weeks and have got worse since I came in. The climatic conditions are the worst I have ever seen, rain, wind and sleet all the time. The wind blew down a couple of hundred tents and marquees. The weather is awful.

I don't think I'm going to die but I was pretty sick for a while. I was all in but am now getting better. I hope you had a good Christmas as usual. I would have liked to have been with you but I had some turkey just the same. If I had been well I don't know where I would have been for I had seven invitations. I had to spend the day in the hospital.

No matter where one goes in England now you can see Canadian soldiers and they are thought a lot of. Some are deserters and some are only over their pass. I had such a big surprise the other day when I got a parcel from Reading. It was two pairs of warm socks sent from Stephen's School. My old teacher's girls made them. There are still lots of rumors about our going away but I do not think it will be before February. Remember me to all my friends. Wishing you a happy New Year I remain

Your soldier son,
VICTOR.

FOE'S DEFENCES AT MOUTH OF YSER ARE DEMOLISHED

French Gave Way Before Violent Attacks in Forest of La Grurie but Later Re-Captured all Positions

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Jan. 20. — The Official statement this afternoon says:

"The Germans delivered a violent attack yesterday in the forest of La Grurie, under which the French at first gave way, but later recaptured all positions.

"Northwest of Pont-a-Mousson, in the forest of La Pretre, the French have established themselves within one hundred yards of German trenches.

"Except on that part of the area of operations lying between the Somme and the Argonne, artillery combats have been general, the French having demolished German defences at the mouth of the Yser, and are achieving results also from their gun fire near St. Georges and in the region of Chalons."

ACTIVITIES OF Y.M.C.A. ARE REPORTED TO DIRECTORS

Good Progress Has Been Made in the Many Departments of the Work

The annual meeting of the Board of Directors of the Y.M.C.A. was held last evening when the directors were appointed to fill the vacancies on the board. The directors retiring were F. J. Might, W. B. Warne, J. T. C. Laing and J. H. Connal. A. McFarlane's term is not up as yet but he tendered his resignation and J. H. Connal was appointed to serve out Mr. McFarlane's term. The new directors appointed for the coming three years were J. J. Turner, Jr., W. B. Warne, W. Richardson and Joseph Wearing.

The general secretary, C. N. Meserve, gave an interesting report of the operations of the institution. After dealing with generalities the report says:—

The completion of the subscription canvass was postponed until the 1st of September, but circumstances that we are all familiar with made the fall canvass impossible so we regret to state that we close the year with about twenty-five hundred dollars ($2,500) unprovided for and an additional one thousand $1,000) in pledges and memberships uncollected.

Mr. Galley, our boys' work secretary, has done excellent work in his department. The boys' camp in June as well as the fall and winter activities being very successful.

C. N. MESERVE

General Secretary at the Young Men's Christian Association.

Our physical director, Mr. Carson, with the co-operation of a strong physical work committee has been very successful in a field day in October and a strong gymnasium program for the winter. Young men and boys have taken a great interest in our gymnasium activities.

ASKS DAMAGES OF $500.

A writ was issued yesterday on behalf of a well-known local lady against Francis Kearns for $500 damages for alleged slander and assault. Gordon and Widdifield are appearing for the plaintiff. The case will come up at a sitting of the County Court.

ESTIMATES FOR FIRE DEPARTMENT

Figures are $10,000 Higher Than Last Year

Fire Chief Howard has submitted his annual estimates and they will be gone over and "cut down" at a meeting of the finance committee to be held sometime this week. The estimates of the Fire Chief this year amount to $33,366.50. Last year his estimates amounted to $23,829 and the appropriation granted was $17,250.

Among other things on the list this year are: a motor chemical engine, $7,850; adding of three men to the force, $1,500; land for a sub-station, $2,000; and two smoke helmets, $250. The axe is almost sure to fall on all of these. His Worship Mayor Buller informed The Review today that it might be possible that a Ford will be purchased and equipped with a couple of chemicals. An outfit of this nature should satisfy the chief till times get a little better. As to the adding of three men to the force Mayor Buller remarked that he did not think the council would sanction the hiring of more men for the present.

CANADIAN SOLDIERS NEAR THE FIRING LINES

According to a special despatch to the Globe, many of the Canadian soldiers are either in France or are on their way to the battle zone. It is pointed out that the probabilities are that official announcement would likely be withheld until all the Canadians were in France.

This does not necessarily mean that the Canadians will proceed at once to the firing line. It is quite probable that the Canadians will be given their baptism of real warfare near the fighting lines, to enable them to prepare themselves for real fighting, in which they will undoubtedly share in the not distant future.

APPOINTMENT FOR COL. E. B. CLEGG.

Another announcement that will be received with interest in Peterborough is the appointment of Col. E. B. Clegg as second in command of the Ninth Battalion of the First Expeditionary Force.

PETERBOROUGH, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 20, 1915

POSSIBLE EFFECTS OF THE WAR.

PROFESSOR WRONG was quite right in the main points of his address, delivered before the Canadian Club of Montreal. His subject was: "Possible Terms of Peace." In his address, Professor Wrong brought out some points that should receive attention, because of the erroneous impressions some people have of one or two phases of the European conflict.

Professor Wrong said that while Germany suffered from illusions, we must try to dispel our own. It was an illusion to think Germany can be starved out; she can be broken only by hard fighting. She could not easily be made a republic, because she was intensely monarchical in spirit. It was an illusion to think of disarmament. Britain would not be willing to give up command of the sea.

Professor Wrong then outlined the terms of peace Britain might exact. They included the rehabilitation of Belgium, the firm establishment of the small nations of Europe, the rectification of the French frontier, and the smashing of Prussian militarism. Russia intended to make her access to the Mediterranean secure, and to improve her position on the Baltic. Germany beaten would still be a powerful State. Professor Wrong suggested that the Allies, if victorious, should take away Germany's colonies in the same way as France's were detached in 1763. Some of them should be given to Italy.

There must be no strife in our domestic politics until the war is over. When it was over, we must make sure that the question of national defence is one on which the Empire is united. Federalism was going to play a great part in the settlement of the new Europe. If the British Empire cannot federate for at least one problem of insuring its own safety, there was little political capacity left in the race.

What is important in Professor Wrong's address is that he says Germany cannot be starved out, that only by hard fighting can she be beaten, that she is intensely monarchical in spirit, and that it was an illusion to assume that disarmament would follow the close of the present war.

To say that Germany cannot be starved out is true, if only that method were taken to bring about her submission. It appears that Professor Wrong meant, however, more than that — that he meant Germany's resources of food were sufficient for her needs for the duration of the war. With Germany's millions of men lining her trenches on two long frontiers, there is bound to be a tremendous decrease in the production of that country for the year 1915. It is known that Germany had huge supplies stored up for emergencies, but the proclamations in that country that flour should be used sparingly, lead to the conclusion that some anxiety is being felt for her food supply. War always exposes points even in the most calculated policy, that have been overlooked or unprovided for, and German war policy, scientific and measured to minute details as it is, has broken down in several points, and one of them may yet be her resources of food.

That there is an intensely monarchical spirit in Germany is true. But to say that this spirit will likely save the country from republicanism is a doubtful conclusion, because war is, perhaps, the most uncertain element in the world to estimate truly before the result is decided. It is no respecter either of persons or established things. France was intensely monarchical in spirit, and is intensely military at the present time, yet monarchy did not survive in France, and it was war that overthrew it. Besides, there is in Germany a strong undercurrent of socialism and democracy that needs possibly only the disasters of a great war to fan them to a flame. The downfall of Prussianmilitarism can hardly mean anything else than the downfall of the German monarchy. The throne may survive, but, if it does, it is more likely to be something vastly different from what it is than to endure with its present power and prestige. No one can tell where this war will end, or what institutions will be changed by its ramifications, and the German throne is no safer than the grey-coated battalions on the firing lines. A well-aimed volley of artillery may smash both. Still, Professor Wrong stated what is a fact when he said Germany could not easily be made a republic. Institutions, like some men, die hard. Monarchy did so in France. However, there was more veneration for monarchical institutions one hundred years ago than now, because republican and democratic forms of government had not then established their stability as they have at the present time. Perhaps all that can be said now is that the war will show whether the German monarchy can come through this war unscathed.

As to disarmament, it is difficult to see how any other conclusion can be accepted now than that advanced by Urofessor Wrong. If the Allies win, it would appear suicidal to dissolve the armies and navies that have been the stay and bulwark of their national safety. Economic conditions, or the cost of the war, will no doubt prevent big expenditures for armaments for some years, but only for a time.

THE TWO WAYS.

THERE ARE some people in the United States who are crying out for huge naval and military expenditures, while some others are for a peace policy. The fundamental creed of the militarists is that no world questions are settled save by force, and that only the strongest nation is safe, and that one safe only so long as she is the strongest. Within each country power must be held by the hard, secret and far-sighted men who can play the conscienceless game of statecraft with the sword. There is no room here for goodwill or for democracy; the earth is divided into hostile camps forever, and nothing else is possible. This creed requires that we keep up armies and navies able to enforce our will whenever and wherever that will may be threatened; in plain words, the armed mastery of two oceans and of two continents.

The opposed doctrine is, says Colliers, that a certain evolution of political institutions is going forward among modern peoples, and that this progress tends more and more to take power out of the hands of the selfish, autocratic, and brutal few, and to place power in the hands of the neighborly, democratic and humane many. The earth is not an iron ball of enmity, but a place of good will, wherein the different races of men can live freely and helpfully. Believers in this creed detest alike the empty and rancorous valour that is based on mistaken history and ignorance of present-day military conditions, and the brutal selfishness which arms one people to rob and slay another. This belief insists that arms are a means of defence: defence planned to meet the facts and possibilities of the present day as viewed by practical men, not as vapored by alarmists and office-hogging politicians. The army and navy are for use in asserting American fundamental rights, not to force their brag and greed on an overawed world. This is the way the nation has come; this is neither pacificism, partizanship, nor passivity, and the United States is going to stick to it. The example may help to turn the scale to make this the last great war.

PLOUGHING MATCHES.

THERE WAS A TIME in Ontario and Quebec when the ploughing match was an event of importance in many localities. Later, interest in the matches decreased greatly, especially among the younger men. As a result, good ploughing and good soil cultivation have fallen back some points since the old days, except in the few districts where the matches have been continued. As the first-class ploughman is likely to be a good cultivator of the soil, agriculture, in general, has suffered. On the other hand, the farmer who regards ploughing merely as a process of turning over land, the sooner done the better, will not, and can not, be a good cultivator of the soil. Unless the soil is well ploughed, it is impossible to give the land the best of preparation for the seed.

It is encouraging to note, however, that the ploughing match is being revived, and that the Prairie Provinces also are taking a keen interest in competitions of this kind. If they are beneficial as an aid to better farming on the virgin prairie, they are of even greater value in the older parts of the country, where the land needs more careful working to maintain soil fertility and increase crop production. Good ploughing is a matter of good ploughmen, as well as of good ploughs, and, as these matches encourage good workmanship, they are worthy of support by all interested in better farming. As they have an educational value and often give the boys the needed encouragement to remain on the farm, ploughing matches might well form one feature of the work of the Farmers' Club, Farmers' Institute, or Agricultural Society.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THE DEATH of the Hon. Thos. Bain, of Dundas, removes another prominent Liberal, who was at one time Speaker of the House of Commons. He retired from active service in 1900. He was a fine example of the farming class, being a cultured man and highly esteemed in his old constituency. The estimate of his character given by Rt. Hon. Sir Charles Tupper was that of an "independent, able, and impartial" man.

Copper, Not Cotton, Is King.

(Toronto Telegram.)

If the Southern States could have exported cotton, the Confederates would have been able to prolong the war and might have destroyed the Union.

If Germany and Austria could import copper, the Teutonic allies might be able to prolong the war and destroy the liberties of the world. The sea power of the United States throttled the Southern Confederacy by preventing the exportation of copper. Why should not the sea power of Britain throttle Austria and Germany by preventing the importation of copper?

Smoke Up!

(Windsor Record.)

The Department of Agriculture reports the total yield of Canadian tobacco this year to be approximately 11,000,000 pounds, as compared with 12,500,000 pounds in 1913. Quebec's yield was 6,000,000 pounds, or two million pounds less than last year. The yield in Ontario totalled 5,000,000 pounds, an increase of 500,000 pounds over last year. The yield in Quebec because of the cool summer and rainy fall was below average, and the leaf was small and of medium quality. Ontario had a normal crop so far as quality and average yield are concerned.

A Word of Explanation.

(Toronto Star.)

Do not get mixed about contraband and trade between neutrals and belligerents. The Germans can buy anything in the United States that they can pay for, and people in the United States can sell anything they like to the Germans. But if a ship carries anything that is contraband it is liable to seizure by the British fleet.

A Wicked King.

(Town and Country.)

"Wasn't King John a wicked man?" said the professor's little daughter the other evening. "He used to run over people with his motor cars." The professor was puzzled. "Haven't you made a mistake?" he inquired, doubtfully. "Surely your teacher didn't tell you that?" "Oh, yes, she did. She told us that King John ground down the people with his taxis."

FRENCH IN ONTARIO

Comments by La Patrie on Letter of Mr. J. H. Burnham M. P.

The following is a translation of a letter to La Patrie of Montreal by Mr. Burnham, M. P. of West Peterborough, and of the editorial comments of that journal on it. It will make interesting reading, as the Federal member has tried to draw forth from the French an expression of the recent extraordinary stand taken by Cardinal Begin, Archbishop Bruchesi, and the Legislature of Quebec. Mr. Burnham's letter is as follows:

"To the Editor of La Patrie:

In my capacity as member for Peterborough West, Ontario, in the House of Commons, I would like to know the true reasons which have roused the French-Canadians to make appeal to the "justice and generosity" of the people of Ontario. I have followed the debate with care, because it is a matter of the sentiments and feeling that appertain to a great historic race who speak the French tongue. Let me say at once, and I believe my word will be taken by my French colleagues of the House of Commons, that there is no dislike, no hatred, of the French-Canadians in Ontario. We have for them only feelings of respect and friendship. As a consequence, we cannot understand the agitation which the French-Canadians are raising with an apparent desire to supplant English in Ontario. Are we to understand that French is to be placed absolutely on the same footing as English? We do not wish to deprive of their right those who desire to learn a language, any more than if they desired to learn mathematics. French-Canadians are free to speak their own tongue, Russian, or Galician, as it pleases them, but why ask that English should be side-tracked? There is the true crux, in my opinion, of the whole situation. Your eminent men have expressed their opinions, but they have not made the situation more clear. We are in the midst of a riot, and I say without knowing what the row is really about. Making an appeal to justice and generosity, as Sir Lomer Gouin and Sir Wilfrid Laurier have done, is to claim an absolute right. An appeal of this sort puts us in a state of complete embarrassment and provokes our curiosity. Linking generosity and justice in the same breath appears to be an artifice of an advocate. Be good enough then to tell us what your demands are founded upon, both in law and justice. Where is the express agreement upon which they are based? We must not be induced to grant generous conditions, only to find that our generosity is to be construed as a legal right. This matter is not so simple as our friends of the French tongue seem to believe. It is not a question of race. We have community of interest, and not of race. Indeed, frequently it will be found that English-Canadians support French-Canadians against English-Canadians. There is positively no racial prejudice in this matter, but where is it going to end?"

La Patrie says editorially with regard to the above letter: "Can one conceive anything more ineffable, more extraordinary, more extremely disconcerting than this letter of M. Burnham? Our correspondent is not the first arrival. Lawyer, [one time] editor of the Peterborough Review, member of the House of Commons, he necessarily has knowledge of this matter and enjoys a certain prestige amongst his own people. How, then, can we explain this ignorance of the griefs of our French-Canadian compatriots of Ontario? Does the spectre of Ne Temere trouble his sleep and upset his mind to the extent of causing him to doubt the domination of the Catholic Church in this country? It is, however, possible that religious fanaticism sometimes overcomes the best minds, but that M. Burnham should be ignorant of the share which the French-Canadian race has taken in the development of Canada, and of the absolute right which it has to speak our tongue everywhere where the English flag floats in this country, appears altogether too much.

If M. Burnham is sincere—and we believe that he is—he need only run through our national history to learn that our fathers were the first inhabitants of the soil from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and that they have everywhere sown the benefits of civilization and progress with the love of God and devotion to the English crown. He would see also that without our brave ancestors, the flag of the United States would have long since waved over this country, and in Ontario, as elsewhere, have replaced the Union Jack. A people which has accomplished such extraordinary exploits can well claim some privilege, and certainly at least that of being put upon the same footing as the racial group which came after them.

The legal right to speak French is inscribed at the the very head of the constitutions of Canada. The French language and the English language are equally official. What is good and necessary for all ought to be good and necessary for each.

Also, why do they proscribe French in Ontario when they speak and teach it in the Maritime Provinces, in Manitoba, in Alberta and Saskatchewan? Why in very truth has not a French-Canadian child the right to learn his language in Ontario just as a little English child has?

M. Burnham says that it is not a question of preventing our French compatriots in Ontario from speaking their language. If the English majority in Ontario recognize that French-Canadians have the right to speak their tongue, on what pretense are their children prevented from learning that tongue in school? If our people are free to speak their language, it is quite plain that their children have the same privilege, and to speak a language, it is necessary to learn it, and it is in the school that this knowledge is acquired. There is no need of going back to treaties or having recourse to the constitution to prove that French has an equal right, both in the city and in the country everywhere. There is no need of arguing this statement. If even the strict right to teach French in Ontario cannot be found in the statute, for what public reason can it be that one should wish to proscribe a language held in honour throughout the entire world? The provinces are supreme in matters of education, but as every individual before the law is equally restrained from inflicting injury, no one has the right to maltreat citizens or to persecute minorities. There is a way out of this difficulty, and that way is to the foot of the throne. We have already gone there with success. The claims of our fellow-citizens of Ontario are clear and simple. Our people ask that in school districts where their children are in the majority, French shall serve as the language of communication between the teacher and the pupil, in order that the latter may acquire more quickly the knowledge of those things which he desires. They ask, in fine, that there be given to their properly qualified bi-lingual teachers, inspectors of the same origin and of the same religion. Is it exorbitant? Is it excessive? Is it contrary to common-sense or national justice or the safety of the country or the entente between the races, to the progress of development of Ontario?

To pretend that the French-Canadians of Ontario wish to supplant the English language, to "side-track" it, in the words of M. Burnham, is to give evidence, both of ignorance and of bad faith. How can we say that our correspondent is sincere when he says it?

Far from side-tracking English, our compatriots desire, from the very moment of going to school, to put themselves in the way of learning perfectly the language of the majority. Knowledge of French is necessary in order to enable them the more quickly to perfect themselves in the English language.

Our compatriots are too intelligent and too practical to make any pretense of standing on one side by themselves. It is their interest to mix with their fellow-citizens of the English tongue, in whose midst they live. To work with them in peace and harmony in the realization of the brilliant destiny reserved for that beautiful and rich province. For that reason, it is important that they should learn English, and speak it from a very early age, but no enlightened man can approve of the means being taken to Anglicize them. Persecutions, coercive measures, never have happy results. They will only cause in Ontario unrest and dangerous irritation, without any good result whatever. The warm appeal of the Legislature of Quebec and of the religious authorities which have just been directed to the Government of Ontario, will be, we hope, duly heard, and in good faith, and when all attempts to suppress the liberty of teaching are themselves suppressed, there will no longer be room amongst our friends of Ontario for those fanatics and agitators who profit by school incidents, both there and here, to exploit religious and national prejudices."

The Czar's Soldiers

Many military experts have a profound admiration for the Russian soldier, whose very lack of imagination and education makes him tenacious and fearless, devoid of class ambitions and sensitiveness. The Slav mind, quick though it be to make plans and estimates, is slow in interpreting them into action and movements, so that the average Russian moujik may be sent to certain death or led to victory with equal lack of interest in the event in which he is but an inanimate pawn. Nevertheless, he is a fine fighting machine, and is well equipped. Properly directed by skilful generals, the Russian army is capable of anything

BETTER TRAIN SERVICE.

Editor Review,

Dear Sir,—At the last meeting of the Board of Trade the question of the curtailment of the train service on the Canadian Pacific Railroad by taking off two of the best trains running through Peterborough each way daily, was discussed and it was decided that an effort would be made to ascertain the full effect of such change. The trains that have been discontinued are the trains going east at 4.34 a.m. and 2.03 a.m. and going west at 3.31 p.m. and 5.24 a.m. These being the only trains on the line of the C.P.R. through Peterborough making direct connection with trains through to Chicago on the west and Boston on the east, the board has ascertained that a very serious inconvenience has been felt by citizens travelling further west than Toronto and further east than Montreal by reason of the cancellation of these trains and moreover that the service to Toronto and Montreal is seriously affected and the board intends to do its utmost towards having the present condition improved. To this end it will be necessary for the board to have full particulars of the inconvenience experienced by the citizens and will require expressions from parties interested in the city of their opinions based upon actual knowledge of the effect of the change and before the next meeting of the board to be held on Tuesday the 9th proximo will require letters expressing these opinions to be given through the press addressed to the editors of the different papers. Unless this information is given over the signature of the writers, the board will be seriously hampered in its efforts and all persons having knowledge of the facts will be giving the city a benefit by giving them publicity.

I would personally be obliged, Mr. Editor, if you would publish this letter in your paper and extend the courtesy of the publication of letters in response to it if signed by the writers.

Yours truly,
BASIL D. HALL,
[illegible] President.
